Only the other day, Warden Marentette, of Essex County returned from the convention of the Good Roads' Association at Regina with news that the delegates there assembled had gone on record as favoring the construction of a trans-continental highway through Canada and that a bill would be introduced in the House of Commons at the next session to provide for the carrying out of this idea. Much of the proposed cross-Canada pavement is, of course, already built. Ontario and Quebec, notably, have constructed hundreds of miles of paved highway in the last few years. There are great gaps that must be filled in, however, mostly in the Prairie Provinces, and it is obvious that Federal aid must be forthcoming in a liberal measure if the trans-continental idea is to be carried out. It may be argued in some quarters, of course, that road-building is distinctly a provincial matter and that the Federal treasury has no responsibility in this connection. In one way, this argument is good. It must not be forgotten, however, that the tourist industry constitutes a national asset and that good roads make the tourist industry possible. There is also this aspect of the situation: One or more trans-continental highways would play an important part in strengthening national unity by bringing the various sections of the country into closer touch with one another. As Sir Thomas White mentioned in his Toronto address, the ties that bound the East and West together were, physically speaking, railroad ties. The Canada that we know to-day was only made possible through the building of railway lines from Halifax to Vancouver. There were those in the past who said that a population that amounted to only a handful of people could not bear the staggering cost of running railways for thousands of miles through unoccupied territory and through and across mountains. But the far-visioned men of that day saw what these railways would eventually produce, and they went ahead with their plans. To-day we know that they were right and that the seemingly "impossible" expenditures, to which they committed the young nation, were justified.

Is it not reasonable, then, that the same argument should hold good in considering the country's highway needs? The motor car has become one of the chief modes of modern transportation in Canada and many other countries. It is not a passing fancy. It is here to stay. This being the case, why should not Canada, as a whole, take steps to provide for the development required to make the automobile 100 per cent. effective in our nation? This can never be until it is possible for a man to drive from coast to coast without going outside our boundaries. And at the same time, in proceeding with this great construction program that Sir Thomas White asks, we shall be affording potential Canadians one more excellent reason why they should transfer their allegiance to this country. As Sir Thomas says, the period of heaviest Canadian immigration was during the days of extensive railway construction in Canada. The bulk of the rail work is completed now, but we still have thousands of miles of highways to build and in them lies a great opportunity for the further peopling of the country, also opportunity for those who may come here.

No chance of this kind should be neglected. Such a scheme, of course, could not be carried out on any narrow basis or through a system in which red tape immigration regulations served as an effectual bar to admittance. At present we are spending a good deal of money, but the new citizens are not arriving in anything like the numbers that the resources and advantages of Canada warrant. What this country needs is a broader outlook on the question of immigration, a policy that will bring people in instead of shutting them out.—Border Cities Star.

GOD'S MINUTE.

Save Thy people, and bless Thine inheritance.—Ps. 28:9.

Our gracious and kind heavenly Father! We lift our hearts to Thee at dawn, though we painfully recognize and feel our unworthiness of Thy uncounted mercies which are new every morning and fresh every evening. We throw ourselves upon Thy clemency. Put Thy protecting hand, with its tender touch, upon our drooping heads, and though we venture not to look up, may we hear Thy reassuring and forgiving voice. Here we are grouped together at the foot of Thy cross, because we know Thou hast room for us all in Thy great yearning heart. We long for Thy tender caress and Thy smile of forgiveness. Put about us Thy everlasting mighty arms, and carry us safely through this day. As we take up life's business afresh and hasten out into the wild hurry of the world, be Thou ever near us. Be Thou our travelling companion. We need Thy presence every passing moment. For the gift of Thy Son, our adorable Christ, we thank Thee, O God. He brought eternal calm to our surging hearts, and made our sin-tattered lives to rejoice. Give us a new vision of Him as we toil this day. May we see the rift in the clouds as we look up to behold Him. Soften our hearts, direct our thoughts, steady our step, and shelter us by Thy care until our travelling days are done, we humbly ask in Jesus' name. Amen.

A Thought

VALUE MUST BE GIVEN

If all men would realize that value is the whole basis of industry; that nothing can be taken unless an equivalent is given, half the ideas that create strikes and disturbances would be killed instantly, and the other half would cease to influence.—W. A. Appleton.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—Thirty-five hundred cattle were unsold Monday. Few butcher sales made yesterday morning. Choice steers and heifers dropped 25c cwt. Medium and common very draggy, and selling 50c to 75c lower than last week.

Choice handyweight steers and heifers sold at $9.25 to $9.75. Medium and common hard to sell and range between $6.50 to $8.50.

Baby beef trading has not been affected by the current weak market and choice are selling at $14.00 to $15.00. An odd fancy brought $15.25.

Choice cows dropped 50c cwt. Monday, and sales made yesterday are steady at that reduction. Choice bring $7.50 to $8.00. A few fancy reached $8.25.

There is an easier market on stockers and feeders. The best steers bring $8.00 to $9.25. Western heifers sell at $7.50 to $8.50.

Calf trade is considerably weaker. The strike of Jewish butchers in the United States is having an adverse effect on buying here.

A few calves reach $15.00, but most of sales are made at $13.00 to $14.50.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain here yesterday continued of a limited character, there being little or no demand from foreign buyers. The local cash grain trade was fair and sales of wheat, barley and oats were made at unchanged prices.

The trade in Spring and Winter wheat flour was moderate and values were well maintained.

The millfeed market was active and the undertone continued firm. Prices for rolled oats were steady under a fair demand.

The demand for butter showed further improvement and prices were well maintained. Receipts were 70 packages.

Further weakness developed in cheese, and prices were marked down another fraction. This was attributed to the continued limited demand. Receipts were 5,585 boxes.

An active trade was again done in all grades of fresh and storage eggs and values were firm. Receipts were 1,226 cases.

Owing to the good demand and the limited supplies available the tone of the market for imported beans was stronger and prices were advanced. Choice white hand-picked grades sold at $5 per bushel.

The potato trade was fair but the undertone was inclined to be easier owing to the heavy stocks on track here. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 90c per bag of 90 lbs, 65c for loose, and 62½c for New Brunswick Cobblers loose, ex-track. Prince Edward Island Cobblers sold at 78c per 90 lb bag.

SOME FACTS ABOUT THE NEW FORD

Production and Demand for New Ford Exceeds All Previous Records

The manufacturing schedules of the Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited, have been steadily built up until a new daily record for Canadian automobile production has been reached.

Despite this peak output, orders for the new Ford keep uniformly ahead of the rising tide of manufacture. It is therefore necessary to continue a high rate of production. To this end a steady flow of material from more than 385 Canadian sources streams into the Ford plants. And here, with more than 10,000 men on the payrolls (almost double the previous employment record) these materials are converted into New Ford cars.

Ford Quality of Manufacture Has Been Strictly Maintained

In the effort to build enough New Ford cars to meet requirements, no deviation from the high standard of Ford precision has been permitted. This standard, unbelievably strict, was set before the car was placed upon the market, and it has since been rigidly adhered to.

In the New Ford Car 40 different steel alloys are used. Each is chosen for the specific use for which it is best adapted. In the transmission gears alone there are seven different kinds of alloys. Likewise, the forged steel spring perches, hardly bigger round than a man's thumb, will withstand a strain of 15,000 pounds. This is 30 times greater than the strain put on them in ordinary use.

The excellence of materials used is matched by the careful precision of its manufacture. For example, the eight valve guides in every engine may deviate from perfection only by 1/30th of the thickness of the average human hair.

The simplicity and soundness of Ford design is unparalleled. Such manufacturing methods ensure a high degree of satisfactory performance over a long period of years.

Ford Performance is the New Standard for Judging Automobiles

The rapidity of get-away and acceleration of the New Ford is a by-word. Its endurance, which permits sustained driving at the higher speeds hour after hour, is little short of marvelous. The ease with which steep hills are climbed in high gear is equally as impressive. Shifting gears, steering and handling the car under the most trying road conditions are exceptionally simple. 25 to 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and remarkably low oil consumption give a worthwhile operating economy.

In city traffic and on country highways, the New Ford performs as well as and often better than considerably heavier and higher priced cars. In the light car field it is absolutely without equal.

By these marks of Ford performance other motor cars are being judged. It simply means that price is no longer the gauge of automobile quality.

Ford Beauty Is More Than Skin Deep

On the surface the New Ford car is all that you want it to be. Beautiful low lines, harmonious color combinations, sparkling nickel, sturdy steel spoked wheels and balloon tires all play their part in making this a car of graceful proportion and handsome appearance.

But its real beauty is invisible. The quality of materials; careful workmanship; correctness of design; the things that really matter—these are the points in which the New Ford is exceptional.

Windshield of shatterproof glass and a six brake system, fully enclosed, safeguard occupants in any emergency. Four efficient shock absorbers in conjunction with the best proven light car spring system, give matchless riding comfort. All models are completely equipped to provide the ultimate in comfort, convenience and safety.

If you have not ridden in the new Ford car, or experienced the thrill of driving it, there awaits you the knowledge that car values have actually changed; that a really fine car has come into the light car field; and that values offered by the new Ford cannot be duplicated anywhere. Your local Ford dealer will prove these statements by demonstration.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

varying from ½ cent decline to an equal advance; oats a shade to ¼ cent up, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 12 cents.

Helping to lift the price of wheat yesterday were reports current that Russia would probably enter the world market as a buyer of wheat owing to crop shortage in the region of the Black Sea.

Advices were also at hand that Germany is buying wheat freely, as native offerings are light. Decided falling off in receipts of domestic wheat northwest tended likewise to strengthen prices, arrivals at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago amounting to but 995 cars, compared with 1,924 cars a week ago. Curailing of the movement northwest was variously ascribed to failure of railroads to supply cars, and also to farmers being occupied with fall work. Besides, Canadian country marketings for one day were only 3,722,000 bushels against 6,680,000 bushels a year ago.

On the other hand, the world's available supply of wheat showed 21,-303,617,000 bushels last year. Meanand is now 335,082,000 bushels against 303,617,000 bushels last year. eMnwhile, export demand yesterday for wheat from North America resulted in business estimated at only 400,000 bushels, but including some United States hard winter wheat as well as durums. Selling of wheat into store here continued yesterday to the extent of 100,000 bushels.

Favorable weather prevailing throughout the corn belt with a forecast of additional improvement in the shape of lower temperatures, gave an advantage at time to corn bears. Moreover, the movement of new corn showed some increase, and the grading was reported high for this time of year. North American supplies of corn at present, however, were figured at less than 2,500,000 bushels compared with nearly 20,000,000 bushels, one year back. Oats trade consisted mostly of buying of December and selling of May.

Provisions acted firmer. Lard shorts were covering, notwithstanding that hog values were 10 cents to 20 cents lower.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—The market for butter was quiet, but steady yesterday. Wholesalers reported trading featureless, and in a jobbing way a fair amount of business was completed on spot for immediate requirements. Finest quality creamery prints are quotable at an extreme range of 39 cents per pound, with undergrades at 38 cents per pound. This appears to be the general market range for the small volume of business passing. The jobbing price of highest quality creamery prints at the close of last week averaged 43.22 cents, compared with 43.33 cents at the close of the previous week.

Yesterday's quotations on No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded cheese ranged from 22 to 22½ cents per pound. The feeling of this market was slightly better at the opening on Monday than at a week ago on a similar day, and prices have advanced approximately ½ cent a pound for the week to date. The market was quiet, but held steady.

With fresh eggs in good demand and increasingly scarce, especially for highest grades, a local market continues firm with a wider range of prices being paid to shippers than at the close of last week. Storage markets are featureless, and, if anything, showing easier tendencies. As high as 50 cents a dozen is being paid by some dealers to country shippers for fresh extras, with fresh firsts quotable at from 42 to 43 cents, and fresh seconds at 33 to 34 cents, with every sign that eggs of current production are difficult to procure at this season of the year.

PROFIT ON LIQUOR SALES.

Peterborough, Oct. 19, 1928.
To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—The present system of Government sale of liquor may be clearly illustrated by the supposed case of a father and son who entered into a business partnership. At the end of the year they were much gratified by the large amount of gross earnings, but they were chagrined when they found that the amount of the administrative expense was even greater, the net result being a loss. But the son was equal to the occasion. He suggested that he would himself pocket the amount of the gross profit, while he asked his father to prove to the world that he was really a kind father by paying all of the expenses.

The young man was doing very well, thank you, but at his father's expense. In like manner our Provincial Treasurer takes the large amount of gross profit on liquor sales, and after deducting the amount of the direct expense, which is comparatively small, and without making any provision whatever for the large amount of indirect expense, but simply leaving the people to play the part of the kind father, he coolly places the whole amount in the Treasury, uses it to balance the budget, and then, like another famous character, he exclaims, "what a good boy am I."

And for all of this he can, of course, claim precedent, for this was precisely what the liquor dealers did for many years under the license system, under which system many liquor dealers made great fortunes, which fortunes I may mention incidentally, are now an irresistible temptation to the politicians, and a menace to the province.

Nevertheless, for any liquor dealers, Governmental or civilian, to appropriate all of the profits, and to heartlessly leave the innocent and helpless victims "to the tiger," is disreputable.

But we ourselves are now the liquor vendors. To us belong the profits, and, of course, we must bear the stigma.

So long as the present system is continued (and may the time be short) there are two things that should be observed, namely:

(a) All expenses incidental to the business, both direct and indirect, should be promptly paid by the Government in cash, leaving no expense to be borne directly by the people. No such expenses to be distributed among the different departmental expense accounts, but all to be segregated as contra to gross profit on liquor sales.

(b) Complete annual financial statements should be issued by the Government showing not simply the gross profit, but the net gain to the people after all expenses, direct and indirect, have been provided for.

Until these two things have been done we will ask in vain, what is the net gain to the people of the Province of this huge liquor business, because nobody knows.

The business principle involved is sound beyond question, namely, as long as all of the ratepayers share pro rata in the gains, then they all should bear pro rata the losses.

An indication of the enormous annual amount of these indirect expenses that are being absorbed by the people is afforded by the fact that in one day recently the press recorded four terrible tragedies, all said to have been directly caused by Government liquor. If the Government were to compensate these unfortunate families the total amount might run into six figures. But if the Government ignores them, then, of course, the people must make up the amount as best they can, and while so doing, they will doubtless be interested in reading about the handsome profits realized by the Government on liquor sales, and the brilliant manner in which the budget is being balanced therewith.

"Tis a merry world, my masters."

Dont Risk the Embarrassment of Perspiration Odour

The one to two pints of perspiration which, according to physicians, come through the pores daily, is natural . . . and healthful . . . but perspiration odour is not only unnecessary but extremely "bad form."

This unpleasant odour is seldom recognized by the offender, but everyone else notices it.

Lifebuoy is sure protection

Besides being a superior toilet soap, Lifebuoy, through its creamy, gentle antiseptic lather cleanses and purifies the millions of tiny pores and keeps the skin sweet, offering safety from perspiration odour from bath to bath.

Don't try to cover up perspiration odour. Prevent it with Lifebuoy Soap for face, hands and bath. It costs no more.

—but the great financial institutions of the world cannot live by reputation alone. They must seek—through day by day performance—the faith and respect of the public. Only thus can they exist.

Each branch of The Canadian Bank of Commerce is managed by a representative chosen because he is actively concerned with the welfare of his fellow-men.

Each branch is a "community bank" linked to a central organization that places every customer in contact with a service national and international in scope.

This Bank is strong in resources, experience, and facilities, but it will never be too large to serve every customer as an individual who is worthy of all we can accomplish for him.

We seek not only new accounts, but the opportunity to prove that this institution has a genuine interest in every customer, whether he be the most famous capitalist, or a wage earner with a few dollars to deposit.

It Costs You No More to Have This Coal

THE purity and uniformity of Old Company's Lehigh Anthracite insures you a thoroughly dependable fuel.

Yet this coal will cost you no more per ton—and cost you somewhat less per winter.

Because Old Company's Lehigh is a quality anthracite, it may be relied upon to provide ample heat at all times, to hold fire well, under diminished draft, and to burn evenly and steadily.

This means a fire that does not have to be overdriven in coldest weather, nor constantly nursed along during mild spells. To a considerable extent, Old Company's Lehigh is a self-adjusting fuel—adapting itself to changing requirements with great facility.

MASONS ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

Members of Warkworth Lodge and Visitors Attend United Church.

YOUNG PEOPLE MEET.

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARKWORTH, Oct. 24.—On Sunday evening a Masonic service was held in the United Church. Rev. F. H. Howard, pastor, preached an excellent sermon to a large number of Masons of the local lodge as well as visiting Masons from Campbellford, Hastings and Colborne.

The anthem rendered by the choir and the quartette by Messrs. Ewing and Darling and Misses McMahon and O'Neil was greatly appreciated. The lesson was read from I Corinthians, thirteenth chapter and the text was taken from Hebrews 13:1: "Let brotherly love continue."

This was based on the problems that confront a Mason and was divided in four parts, knowledge, benevolence, prayer and secrecy.

There are Masons who know God but do not know Jesus and it is the duty of Masons to spread this knowledge to their brothers so that they too may know the Saviour. Benevolence is taught as one of the odes of the order and which is necessary for all Masons. Prayer is a duty and in failing to pray is a great sin for a Christian.

God is the father of secrecy. His secrets are being revealed now in the great inventions of to-day. If God does not work in secret why then did not the men of ages ago work out these inventions. If one cannot say any good about his brother then keep secret and thus let brotherly love continue.

Young People Meet

The regular meeting of the young people of the United Church was held Monday evening in the Sunday school room.

The meeting was largely attended, over sixty being present.

A splendid program was enjoyed. An excellent report of the Young People's Rally of the Cobourg and Oshawa Presbytery which was held a week ago at Newcastle was given by Messrs. Joseph Topping and Orval Kelly.

"Has the child of to-day too many liberties" was the subject of the topic which was carefully prepared and ably given by Mr. Topping. A contest was arranged with Mrs. Will Anderson and Mrs. W. B. Baker as leaders. This contest is for the purpose of getting more people interested in the young peoples' work.

A solo by Miss Lila Allen and the scripture lesson by Miss Hazel Parks with the singing of hymns interspersed and prayer by Rev. F. H. Howard covered the program.

Missionary Meeting.

The young people of St. Andrew's church held their first missionary meeting of the season in the basement of the church on Monday evening. Owing to the stormy night the attendance was not as large as usual. The president, Gordon McCubbin, had charge of the business part after which Miss Allie Mowat, convenor of the missionary committee took the chair. Suitable hymns were sung after which Mrs. Armstrong gave a very interesting paper on the life and work of three great missionaries, Dr. and Mrs. Buchanan, Dr. and Mrs. D. E. McDonald and Dr. Margaret O'Hara.

Miss Annie McCubbin gave a paper on India. A short program of readings and piano solos were given and the meeting brought to a close by all repeating the benediction.

The young people decided to hold a masquerade hallow'een party next Monday evening.

MASONS ENTERTAIN LADIES AT BANQUET

Over Hundred Eat at Festive Board and Hear Fine Program.

OMEMEE, Oct. 24.—(Examiner Correspondence).—On Friday evening the Masonic Brethren of Lorne Lodge (A.F. & A.M. No. 375) entertained their wives or lady friends and visiting brethren in the basement of Christ Church, Omemee, where a sumptuous banquet had been prepared by the Women's Guild of that church.

Upon the arrival of the master of the lodge Wor. Bro. I. R. Moore, of Lindsay, the guests who had gathered in the auditorium of the church, were invited to the basement where an excellent dinner was waiting. Four long tables presented an inviting appearance with their pretty china and best silver, on snowy white linen cloths with dainty candle sticks on each table to match the china, accompanied by numerous bouquets of cut flowers and comports of ripe fruit. The menu was all that could be desired and was served in a very pleasing manner to the one hundred and twenty guests.

Bro. A. Allin, E. Hicks, A McBride and A. T. Claxton, contributed several selections which were heartily appreciated.

Wor. Bro. I. Moore presided over the gathering and after extending a hearty welcome to the ladies and visiting friends proposed the toast to "the King."

The toast to "The Craft" was proposed by Wor. Bro. Porter, of Lindsay, and ably responded to by Wor. Bro. Dr. N. H. Sutton of Peterborough.

The toast to "The visiting brethren and ladies" was given by Reeve L. A. Southworth and pleasingly responded to by Bro. Hornsby of Lindsay and Rev. A. T. Weir, of Omemee. These brief speeches were thoroughly enjoyed, being worded in eloquent and humorous style.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hornsby, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Moore, of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones, Dr. N. H. Sutton, of Peterborough, Mr. Lloyd Clemett of Brampton.

J. J. DUFFUS PAYS TRIBUTE TO PLOW

Gives Address During Provincial Plowing Match at London.

In this season of sharp coulters and shining plowshares, the following tribute to the plow, by J. J. Duffus, of Peterborough, past-president of the Provincial Plowmen's Association, seems particularly appropriate. It is a quotation from his address delivered before a London audience during the provincial match, held at that city recently:

"I am the child of sword and spear. I am the daughter of earth and air. But for me the earth would depopulate faster than from any destructive plague. With the gleaming palm of my hollow hand, I cleave the earth, that nations may live and not forget God. I am the connecting link between the artificial and the natural. I follow power and give that which I follow. They who tread in the path I make shall not be forsaken or beg bread. The hands that guide me are ever stretched to the poor and needy. The eyes that mark my way look forth in the morning and read the history of coming years. I am the omen of plenty, the forerunner of harvest and the sign of prosperity. My furrows encircle the globe and in my train follow my servants—the binder, the thresher and the mill. Yes, even the engines of the factories and all they that grind, do homage to me. I am the builder of cities, and with the aid of them I level them that I build. I am the armor-bearer between life and death, the dividing line between the present and eternity. I am the only implement that has served the ages. I serve. I am the plow."

FINE SEASON IS CONCLUDED

Cricketers Re-elect O icers at Successful Annual Meeting.

GOOD REPORTS READ.

One of the most successful meetings of the Peterborough Cricket Club was held at the secretary's home 590 Harvey street, on Monday evening. There was a large attendance of members.

The president, F. D. M. Hammond opened the meeting with a few comments on the past season, congratulating the club on its fine performances and splendid sportsmanship.

The secretary, C. Thorpe, next gave his report, including the batting and bowling averages of the members.

The captain, Claude Elliot, thanked the club for the support given him. He also spoke of the sportsmanship of the members on and off the field and wished his successor the same support as had been accorded him.

The treasurer, R. M. Stuart, gave a report of the financial standing of the club which, by the way, is most satisfactory and was well received by the members.

The vice-president, G. Monkman, the chairman of the equipment committee, W. E. Massey-Cooke and the groundman W. A. Davis, also read most satisfactory reports. The president thanked the officers for their splendid work during the season.

The election of officers for the 1929 season took place next. The president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, chairman of equipment, transportation, and groundsman were all re-elected, thereoy showing the confidence placed in them by the club. The officers elected were as follows:—

Honorary President—Dr. Hammond.

Hon. Vice-presidents—George A. MacDonald, J. F. Wallace, E. Howson, C. H. Ackerman, Walter Stocker, E. A. Peck.

President—F. D. M. Hammond.

Vice-president—Gordon Monkman.

Captain—J. Dunkerley.

Vice captain—C. Elliot.

Secretary—C. A. Thorpe.

Treasurer—R. N. Stuart.

Equipment—W. E. Massey-Cooke.

Transportation—F. Imming.

Groundsmand—W. A. Davis.

Selection Committee—F. D. M. Hammond, J. Dunkerley, C. Thorpe, F. Jefferson and F. Dyer.

It was decided to hold dances and bridge parties during the winter months, G. Monkman to look after the dances and C. Elliot to take care of the bridge.

After the business for the evening was closed, refreshments were served by Mrs. C. A. Thorpe assisted by Mrs. Claude Elliot and a pleasant hour was spent by all. During the evening the president presented a pair of batting pads to J. Dunkerley for the best batting average, an order to F. Dyer for a pair of cricket boots for the bowler with the best average, a silver cigarette case to the secretary, C. Thorpe for the splendid work done by him during the season.

Young Bugler Rallies Schoolmates At Fire

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—One hundred and seventy-five boys roused by a 15-year-old bugler, marched to safety to-day when fire destroyed the main building and dormitory wings of McDonough Private School, about 5 miles from Baltimore. The building and its equipment were valued at more than $700,000.

ed for P.C. Green to call for reinforcements. Two of the lieutenants are said to have grabbed P.C. Barkwell by the tunic and started to tear it off. He alleges that he was struck on the back and over the shoulder.

All of the men had their drawn swords in their hands. Barkwell was helpless before the sword attack, and drew his gun.

Morrison and O'Reilly were disarmed, but Knowles is alleged to have tried to strike the manager of the club. Reinforcements arrived, but it was only with force that the officers could get the trio into the patrol.

Sergeant McNair also reported the brawl to the Chief, stating that he arrived as the officers and C. Henderson, manager of the club, were trying to get the men out. He reported that the men were drunk, and when they would not leave, they were placed under arrest. Sergeant McNair did not see the swords flourished, nor was he a witness to the common assault.

An official of the club stated this morning that the trio were not known at the club and were not members.

LANGSNER FINDS FACTS ABOUT SMALL

of the next day or so he intended to vanish. "I am so bothered by would-be interviewers and other persons interested in the crime," he said, "that it is becoming increasingly difficult for me to concentrate on my work. I can promise you, though, that you shall hear from me."

Has Much Information

That Dr. Langsner has a most exhaustive file of information in connection with the Small case was proved to-day when certain theories and the names of certain people remotely interested in the case were brought to his attention. As each name was mentioned he would turn to his secretary, who produced notes in connection with the individual or theory in question. These were always exceedingly carefully tabulated and annotated.

Mrs. Langsner is almost as much sought after for interviews by the press as the celebrated criminologist himself. One far-sighted newspaperman had sent Mme. Langsner a bouquet of flowers and an invitation to lunch. Mme. Langsner said laughingly that it would be rather a treat to meet some ladies in a social way after being associated so long with men.

Mme. Langsner is a beautiful slim brunette. "This is the lady who hypnotized me," stated the doctor proudly, introducing her.

BISHOP ASKS FOR HELP OF LAYMEN

ready eight young men have come forward to take part in it. Donations totalling $4,000 of the $7,000 needed for the first year's operations have been received, and the committee is searching for suitable quarters. For the present the library, chapel, and chapter house of St. Alban's Cathedral are being placed at the Army's disposal and the Army in England is being asked to lend Captain Casey for six months to get the work under way.

The National Commission.

The Anglican National Commission was the last project discussed by the reverend speaker This is the idea of George B. Nicholson, of Chapleau. Three "surveyors" have been appointed to survey the church from coast to coast, starting with diocese of Brandon and working first west and then east. Suggestions are being asked from everybody, clergy and laity, as to what they believe is most needed to help the church and give it more life and vigor in diocese, deanery, or parish. His Lordship hoped that his hearers woud forward any suggestions they might have to the committee.

"I want you to think of all these things. Give them a place in your hearts and your prayers and respond with alacrity when you are called upon," said His Lordship in summing up. Translating a Latin motto he had read, "So live that when these things are past you may truly live," the Bishop urged the men to use all their talents in such a way that when He who will come does come you may not be ashamed."

A vote of thanks to His Lordship was tendered by W J. Kent, and heartily endorsed.

Rural Dean Speaks.

Before the Bishop's address short talks were given by the Rural Dean and Mr. Cuttle. The Rural Dean, Rev. Mr. Spence, spoke of his indebtedness to the Laymen's Association and suggested as a subject for its attention the effort to bring up contributions for missionary purposes to the level of the allotment of the Deanery. Mr. Cuttle, who is a familiar figure at meetings of the association, expressed the hope that he would soon see similar associations in every part of the diocese.

On motion of the Rev. J. D. Paterson and Mayor Denne, the greetings of the men present were sent to J. J. Turner, one who has taken a leading part in the association's work, who was unable through illness in the family to be present, and His Lordship was asked to convey the message to him.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XIV.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to London from the United States, to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, meets Julie in Switzerland through his friend, HARRY LOMBARD. He determines to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge his brother. But after accomplishing his purpose—and falling in love with her as well—he finds out that she is a cousin of the JULIE FARROW who broke Rodney's heart. Because he has been married he has to give her up after telling her the truth. He goes on to London to see his mother, MRS. ARDRON, a rather silly woman who wants to enjoy life. He takes her to a night club.

"What on earth—" Chittenham began.

Doris Gardener laughed.

"It's only Julie Farrow. I don't know what's happened to her lately. She was quite drunk here the other night. I wonder they didn't turn her out."

"Julie Farrow!" Chittenham's voice was calm and indifferent, but he felt as if someone had tugged at his heart.

"Yes, do you know her? She used to be rather a friend of mine, but one has to draw the line somewhere, and just lately she seems to have taken leave of her senses."

Chittenham's eyes were straining across the room to the direction from which the noise had arisen, but there was too much of a crowd for him to distinguish any one face.

"You mean the famous Julie Farrow, I suppose?" he submitted laconically.

The band stopped playing at that moment and they stood aside while the crowd dispersed a little.

Chittenham said again:

"I suppose you are speaking of the famous Julie Farrow?"

Doris glanced across the room.

"There she is," she said, "in the green frock. No—over the other side, sitting on the arm of the chair laughing. That's what I call a cocktail laugh. Come along, I'm sure Essen and your mother are bored to death with one another by this time."

But for a moment Chittenham did not move. He was looking at the girl in the green frock—a green frock of which there seemed to be so very little to cover her white neck and arms. Her lips were painted a vivid red and she was laughing noisily—immoderately—laughter which died away suddenly as she met his gaze across the room, and it was his Julie—the woman who had said she loved him, and with whom he had spent that never-to-be-forgotten night on the top of the world.

Doris Gardener tugged at Giles Chittenham's arm.

"Come along! If Julie sees me she'll want to join our party, and I'm not anxious to have her. Oh, damn—I knew it would happen!"

She shrugged her shoulders resignedly as Julie suddenly detached herself from the noisy group she was with and threaded her way across the room.

"Hullo, my lamb!" She took Doris's limp hand and pressed it with a little nervous gesture. "I've been looking out for you all the evening. Where have you been hiding?"

"Nowhere. I've been dancing."

Doris glanced at Chittenham. "Do you know Mr. Chittenham, Julie?"

She made the introduction with obvious reluctance.

"We've got our table in the next room," she added rather pointedly.

Julie had returned Chittenham's formal bow with a careless nod.

"How are you? I've heard of you," she said casually. "Rodney Ardron's half-brother, aren't you? Delighted to meet you."

Chittenham's face hardened beneath its pallor. He could have shaken her for her casual allusion to his brother. He felt as if he were in the presence of a stranger who yet looked at him with well-beloved eyes.

So she did not mean to recognize him. Well, that he would not permit.

"I think we have met before," he said with cool deliberation.

Julie raised her brows.

"Have we? Oh, surely not! I'm so good at remembering faces. Perhaps you are mistaking me for my cousin—the other Julie!" She laughed insolently. "That does happen sometimes, I assure you," she said, turning to Doris. "Julie probably wouldn't be flattered if she knew, but all the same it happens occasionally. You may not believe me, Mr. Chittenham, if you know my cousin that is—but a man once kissed me in the most impassioned manner, thinking I was the other Julie! So very awkward, especially as he was a man whom I very much dislike."

"A disappointment to the man also, perhaps," Chittenham said bitterly, but she only laughed.

"Oh, no, I don't think so! He was not one of those who specialize in their women very much. I think a kiss was just a kiss to him."

She turned a deliberate shoulder to him and addressed Doris again.

"Who's with you? The faithful Essen as usual, I suppose? Oh, yes, I can see him! I must just go and say 'how do.' And who is the very charming looking woman with him?"

"That is my mother," Giles said grimly.

"Really!" Julie was quite unmoved. "Oh, then we must know one another! I have heard so much of her too."

She slipped away, and they saw her join Essen and Mrs. Ardron at the far table.

Doris glanced at Chittenham and made a little gesture.

"Cocktails!" she said eloquently. "Such a pity! It's not like Julie a bit. She used to be such a decent sort, but now you really can hardly tell her from the other Julie. Bred in the bone, I suppose! Well, shall we join them, or shall we dance again?"

"We'll dance."

The band had restarted and Chittenham swept his partner into the rapidly swelling throng.

He felt cold and detached, as if he had looked on from a great distance at something which had affected him unpleasantly even while it had been no direct concern of his.

He was smarting beneath Julie's snub, and yet he felt glad for her sake that she had been capable of administering it.

If that was how she felt already, after one short month, the time could not be far distant when the wound would have healed and he himself be almost forgotten, or at least only remembered with fierce contempt and dislike.

"Are the two Julies really very much alike, Miss Gardener?" he asked with an effort.

Doris hesitated, pursing up her scarlet lips.

"The other Julie is really better looking," she said after a moment. "Most men call her beautiful, but to me—well, I used to prefer this Julie until lately."

"You mean—has she really changed so much?"

Doris laughed.

"It may sound absurd, but she has! Everyone is commenting upon the fact. She used to be quite different—fond of outdoor life and dogs and children—all the rather dull and domesticated things which most modern women detest," she explained half apologetically. "Then, quite suddenly she altered. She began to haunt places like this and she began to drink too much. If I didn't know her as well as I do I should say she had had some rotten love affair, but Julie never liked men. She's different from her cousin in that respect at all events. I screwed up my courage one night and asked Bim Lennox straight out what was the matter with Julie. You know Bim, do you?"

"I know very few people in London now" Chittenham answered evasively.

"Oh, well you'll be sure to meet her! I wonder she is not here tonight. She and Julie generally hunt in couples, especially lately. I don't care for Bim very much—she's unusual! Queer in some ways, but I did ask her if there'd been anything to alter Julie so quickly——"

"And did she tell you?" Chittenham's voice sounded quite disinterested, even a little bored.

"Did she—hell!" Doris said eloquently. "She just looked clean through me as if I wasn't there—and Bim can do that sort of thing better than anyone I know. "I beg your pardon,' she said coolly, and without waiting for me to answer she walked away."

Chittenham could well believe it; he had not forgotten the steady understanding look in Bim Lennox's eyes.

The music stopped once more on the fashionable jarring, questioning note.

"I suppose we must join the others," Doris said. "Hark at Julie! You can hear her voice above all this racket."

It was quite true. Julie was sprawling over the wooden table, a cigarette stuck jauntily into a corner of her mouth, her chin propped in the cup of her slender hands, relating what was supposed to be a funny story to Essen and Chittenham's mother.

Mrs. Ardron's face was a study. She was trying to smile and look as if she thoroughly enjoyed the situation, and yet there was a timid look in her eyes, a last faint echo of her gentility which she had not quite managed to doff when she put on her new frock and silver shoes. Essen was laughing uproariously, his mouth wide open, showing a wonderful set of teeth, and the diamond in his shirt front twinkled wickedly with every movement of his big body. Mrs. Ardron looked intensely relieved when she saw her son: she hurriedly made room for him beside her on the couch.

WHAT A DOCTOR KNOWS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

There is a way of overcoming the tendency to constipation. And here is how you can PROVE it.

The next time your bowels need any assistance, don't take the first laxative that comes to mind. Take one the druggist can assure you is made with CASCARA. Just as effective as using force, and it's good for the system. Indeed, it helps make good blood. For cascara is nothing but the bark of a tree. The Indians chew this bark, and live to an old age without a day's sickness.

What happens when you cascarize the bowels? They will usually function well for SEVERAL DAYS. One more dose—no larger, and perhaps no smaller than the first—and the bowels function of their own accord for a still longer time. Until you don't feel the need of any aid of any sort for weeks-on-end.

So, the only habit you get from cascara is that of natural and normal regularity. How different from things one must usually repeat on the morrow! Cascara is the ideal laxative; and the familiar little candy Cascaret is doubtless its ideal form. Children beg for these tasty tablets, and many men and women wouldn't think of taking ANYTHING else for the purpose.

And EVERY drugstore has them.

ELECT OFFICERS AT O.R.E.C. CONVENTION

Department—Mr. Hector Wood.

County Superintendent of Teacher Training—Mrs. Fred McCauley.

County Superintendent of Missionary—Mrs. H. Rollins.

County Superintendent of Temperance—Mrs. J. McCaffrey.

Secy.-Treas.—Mr. J. F. Baker.

The Resolutions Committee appointed were: Revs. Lovelace, Reid, and Revers.

Certificate Presented.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the presentation of a Life Membership Certificate in the O.R.E.C. to the untiring secretary, Mr. J. F. Baker.

The installation of officers was made a very solemn and interesting ceremony in the hands of Rev. Mr. Priest. Special music was provided by Bethesda Choir, after which the report of the resolution committee was received.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. H. C. Priest stressing the great importance of Sunday school work and of leadership training. Mr. Priest also dwelt on the need of Evangelism in the S.S., and then spoke in glowing terms of the missionary task of the Sunday schools, to give missionary information, dwell on missionary achievements, the needs of the world and the triumphs of the gospel.

W.C.T.U. Meets.

The October meeting of the W.C.T.U. for Madoc and vicinity was held at the home of Mrs. C. N. Whytock on Friday afternoon with an unusually large attendance. The usual routine business was speedily disposed of and the report of Miss A. Sinclair, delegate to the Toronto W.C.T.U. convention, was the chief feature of the afternoon. Miss Sinclair sketched graphically and clearly the different sessions of the convention and told in a most interesting manner of the different addresses given during the convention. The splendid report was much enjoyed by all and a hearty vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Sinclair for her pleasing and interesting report.

mittee of the Regent Street United Church Ladies' Aid entertained about sixty ladies. Mrs. Nathan Payne, convenor of the committee, received the guests and the officers of the Ladies' Aid also assisted on the reception committee, the president, Mrs Albert Darling; vice-presidents, Mrs. R. Nugent and Mrs. T. A. Northey, secretary, Mrs. W. Hamblin and treasurer, Mrs. S. S. Spence.

The afternoon was spent in a social manner with pleasant conversation some of the ladies brought their fancy work with them and worked as diligently as the conversation permitted.

Tea was served by a committee consisting of Mrs. T. Crawford, Mrs. H. R. Wagar, Mrs. (Rev.) S. A. Kemp, Mrs. A. Carveth, Mrs. Sam Grylls and Miss Vera Botterill.

The financial returns amounted to about eighteen dollars which was highly gratifying.

The "Northern Lights" Lodge No. 831 which is the recently organized Ladies' Orange Lodge, will hold a basket social and dance in the Town Hall on Friday evening, October 26th. This is the initial effort of the lodge and will doubtless meet with a generous response. Miss Ruby Nicholls is the Worthy Mistress and Mrs N. S. Higgins is the recording secretary and Mr. Allan Gill is the Guardian.

Badminton Club Re-organized.

The Badminton Club has been reorganized for the winter season with the same officers as last season.

President—Eric M. Grier.

Vice-president—Osgood Stock.

Secretary-treasurer— Russell W. Payne.

Convenor of entertainment committee—Mrs. K. A. Mackenzie.

The enthusiasm was an encouraging sign of a successful season which will be at least as happy as last year.

Mrs. E. S. Kelsey entertained a number of lady friends at her home on Colborne street on Friday afternoon and a very pleasant time was spent.

Fifteen tables of euchre were played on Thursday evening at the A.Y.P.A. weekly card party. The prizes were won by Mrs. M. Abrams and Mr. Bruce Smith and the consolation prizes by Miss Violet Bollin and Mr. Milford Hampton.

OBITUARY

MRS. ADAM BEATTY

(fixaminer Correspondence).

OMEMEE, Oct. 24.—News of the death of Mrs. Beatty, wife of Dr. Adam Beatty, of Bloor street, Toronto, and formerly Miss Ethel Norris, youngest daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. Norris, of Omemee, came as a distinct shock to her many old friends here.

Mrs. Beatty passed away quite suddenly on Thursday, the result of cerebral hemorrhage. Deceased lady was born in Omemee and spent her girlhood days here until her marriage to Dr. Adam Beatty, of Toronto, who with one daughter, Miss Grace, survive.

The funeral service was held at the home, 201 Bloor street east, on Saturday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Cody officiating.

Many beautiful floral tributes graced the casket and the room in which the remains lay, bearing testimany to the love and respect in which Mrs. Beatty was held.

Left to mourn her passing is the sorrowing husband and daughter, two sisters, Mrs. Dr. Cochrane, and Mrs. Rev. Spence; and two brothers, Messrs. George and James, all of Toronto, to whom the sympathy of many old friends is extended.

WEDDING BELLS

McAMMOND—PARSONS

OMEMEE, Oct. 24 (Examiner Correspondence).—In the presence of immediate friends and relatives a quiet wedding took place in the Parsonage of the Carlton Street United Church, when Rylda Wellwood Parsons, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Parsons of Toronto and granddaughter of Mr. T. J. Parsons of Omemee, was united in marriage to Leighton W. McAmmond, of Kenora; Rev. E. Crossley Hunter officiating. The bride looked charming in a dove gray silk crepe frock, with shoes and hose to match and small Alice blue hat. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. Miss Jean Smith attended the bride wearing a robin's egg blue crepe romaine dress, with hat to match and carried Columbia roses. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. James E. McDonald. After a dinner party, the bride and bridegroom left on a short motor trip.

Blanchard, with Dr. T. E. James as passenger, was the first to cross the English Channel by balloon and Colonel Fred Burnaby, a century later (1882) the second.

lives, we shall live also. His followers may be imprisoned, but their souls cannot be."

He pictured the risen, glorified Christ knocking to enter our hearts. "We are all lost if we do not let Him in. There is something from which to escape. We all have possibilities of loving and being loved. Christ will not force Himself," he concluded.

The choir sang, "Working for the Lord"; Misses Velma Payne and Eileen Hamblin sang, "Will There be Any Stars?"; Henry Batten sang, "The Touch of His Hand on Mine."

Sacrament will be observed in Zion, Bethel and Warsaw churches next Sunday, and the following Sunday Carmel will hold anniversary services.

A cordial invitation is extended to Warsaw Presbyterians to attend communion service with the Presbyterians in Lakefield.

FOUR CASES IN COURT

ruled that the third charge would also be heard in the same court.

The first charge was one of breaking and entering by day and under section 458 of the Criminal Code. Constable Seaborne was the first witness. He told of arriving in Campbellford and being told that a house about one and one-half miles south of town having been broken into. He investigated, and found that the Iliffe residence had been entered, and also discovered that there had been a similar offence about a month earlier. It was reported that a strange man had been sleeping in a barn and some clothing was found there. The accused was discovered at home in bed. At first he denied his identity and claimed to be his brother. But when the constable insisted that he dress and come to town to be identified, he admitted that he was the man they wanted. He admitted that the boots beside his bed were stolen property.

Edmund Iliffe, sworn, identified the boots as his own. They were a pair of tan shoes. He also identified exhibits two and three which were a ring and some snapshots along with some stationery. Some Toronto street car tickets which were among the exhibits, the accused claimed, were his own. Iliffe also said that he himself had locked the house on Fair day and that he could not find any trace of where an entrance had been forced. He would not value all three of the exhibits at more than five dollars, he said.

Magistrate Floyd read the customary cautionary section, and Copperthwaite did not wish to make any statement. He was committed for trial at the next session of a court of competent jurisdiction.

The second charge against the unfortunate lad was that he did escape from the lawful custody of a police constable on June 12th. This charge was under Section 169 of the criminal code. As on the previous charge, Copperthwaite elected to be tried by a jury.

Chief Light recalled the event, saying that he had arrested Copperthwaite on a charge of theft, and that while they were in the magistrate's office making out certain papers, the boy escaped. Copperthwaite had nothing to say, and was committed for trial at the next regular sessions of the peace.

The third alleged misdemeanour was the theft of a bicycle on the night of June 12th. The bicycle was valued at forty dollars, a Cleveland make, and was the property of Donald Meyers, Frank Street. Chief Light testified to having recovered the bicycle at the residence of Sergeant Wright in Belmont Township, north of the village of Havelock. He believed that Copperthwaite had spent the night there. Donald Meyers identified his bicycle but was uncertain as to the date that he had missed it. He said that the Chief would know since the theft had been reported to him the next morning. Later Chief Light claimed that the accused had admitted the theft of the bicycle to him. This statement was denied by Copperthwaite. The Magistrate also committed the boy for trial at the next session of the peace on this charge.

Minister Appeals.

The Rev. Dr. J. T. Daly, Port Hope, who had been present in the courtroom during the proceedings, rose to make an appeal on behalf of the boy. He pointed out that it was just more than nine years since he had been arraigned in this very court to answer to some petty charge. Since then the lad had been almost constantly in trouble, and he thought it was too bad. There must be something that could be done for him other than sending him to prison. He advanced the theory that there might be something mental to account for his actions.

Crown Attorney Kerr did not express an opinion either similar or opposed to that of the doctor. He said that it was beyond their power now to have any examination made. The boy had elected to go to a higher court and he would have to go there. There might be an opportunity to have him examined after that.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

This is considered a smart way for the small girl to wear a hair ribbon.

Even the little girls are becoming more feminine in their apparel and barbers have to make a difference now in the way they cut brother's and sister's hair. Hair ribbons are coming back into fashion and it is rather difficult to arrange a hair ribbon on hair cut as short as a boy's. So please, Mr. Barber, let little Peggy's hair grow long enough for the hair ribbon.

Though the present vogue for hair ribbons in this country may not have come direct from France, still hair ribbons have been favored for French children for several years. Even two years ago in Paris I was surprised to see hair ribbons—decidedly large bows often placed on the top of the head and looking very jaunty indeed.

There are two ways of going about this hair ribbon business—they may be used long enough to pass about the head and tie on top or side—or they may be tied to start with and held in place with a little metal hair clasp. Many mothers prefer the latter method because in that way the ribbon does not have to be tied and untied and does not therefore wear out or grow limp and scraggly so soon. For the ready-tied bows five-inch ribbon is usually chosen, and if you like you may have it tied and supplied with a clasp by the girl who ties bows at the ribbon counter.

The ribbon worn should match the frock—or if the frock is white the ribbon should be of a color most becoming to the little girl who is to wear it. I recall that French mothers are partial to rose-colored ribbons which are invariably becoming to the little French brunette. There are pink and white blonde little girls who never look so charming as when crowned with a hair ribbon of leaf green.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

After Jiggs and Timmie, I always turn to your page. Jiggs is endeared by long acquaintance, Timmie is adorable, and your column is in its subject matter, in its attitude, in its style and logic so essentially typical of Peterborough, such a little epitome of Peterborough, that I turn to it time after time with unabated interest.

One wonders whether you are a person, dear Marion, who dislikes to be corrected. The word in Mrs. Glasse's cook book about which you ask is "flay." It is incorrect to speak of the script S—which is still used in modern German, by-the-way, as an F. As a matter of fact, the two letters are not identical in form. The bar of an F crosses the stem; the bar of a script S appears only on the right side of the stem. Modern copies of old print do not, however, always make the distinction.

And I am curious to know, not at all in a contradictory spirit, what is your authority for quoting the lines printed, beginning "Dearest, three months ago" as from Browning's "A Lovers' Quarrel." The only poem of that title by Browning with which I am acquainted is a quite other one, from which the only lines I recall at the moment are the exquisitely intimate ones:

"Must a little weep, Love,
"Foolish me—
"And then fall asleep, Love,
"Held by thee."

Yours truly,
SOMEBODY."

I DO wish, "Somebody," that you had sent your name and address! Because, you know, your letter is "in wrong" all the way, and I just hate having to answer you in the public prints. I do not dislike to be corrected, "Somebody"—she is a very foolish woman, indeed, who resents correction. How else may one learn? And if one does not wish to learn, why bother to live? The great thrill in living is the experiencing of new emotions and the acquiring of new information.

Well, to return to your letter; I certainly appreciate the fact that next to Jiggs and Timmie you like the women's page best. I like it myself; I have really VERY little to do with its composition, you know, because the neighbors send me so nice letters and recipes. I enjoy every one.

On October 12 I wrote a "Whatnot" in defense of woman's sense of humor. I just mention it incidentally now. Did you really think I was sincere in asking whether one should "flay" or "slay" the "large hen" to make certain soup? I admit that my "joke" (I'm almost afraid to refer to it as such, in view of your letter!) was the broadest slapstick; but evidently it was not broad enough. I'll refrain from joking in future!

As a matter of fact, you are in error in saying "the bar of the script S appears only on the right side of the stem." I have a number of old books (I think I told you before that collecting them is a hobby with me), and the bar is on the LEFT side. I took the trouble to go to the house where I saw Mrs. Glasse's book just to satisfy myself on this point, and the bar is on the LEFT throughout.

Then, about the quotation, "Dearest, three months ago;" this is from "A Lovers' Quarrel" by Robert Browning, published in "Selections From the Poetical Works of Robert Browning," issued in 1872 and dedicated by the poet to "Alfred Tennyson, in poetry—illustrious and consummate; in friendship—noble and sincere."

The poem begins:

"Oh, what a dawn of day!
How the March sun feels like May!
All is blue again
After last night's rain,
And the South dries the hawthorn spray,
Only, my Love's away!
I'd as lief that the blue were gray."

I'm sorry, "Somebody," that the poem is too long to print—there are 22 sections to it.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

I intend using this column to-day to answer some of the many letters that have piled up during my busy week at the Fair. There isn't room in the regular column, I'm told, but I'm determined to get the letters in somewhere!

• • • • • • •

There's a letter from "Classicitus" that has been awaiting a reply many days. My correspondent asks whether all the classical education given in the schools is worth while, and suggests that if the fundamentals of education were thoroughly covered the young people would be better qualified to face life.

• • • • • • •

I agree in part with this contention, but it is dangerous to subscribe to any such doctrine without reservations. Stephen Leacock, in his "Humor and Humbug," writes: "The classics are only primitive literature. They belong to the same class as primitive machinery and primitive music and primitive medicine."

• • • • • • •

Now, I admit right away that Stephen Leacock has a reputation as a humorist, though one or two of us may consider it undeserved, but when he makes statements such as that quoted they may be taken seriously by those who know him not so well.

• • • • • • •

The classics, or some of them, may be primitive in their language and pictures; many may appear dull reading to us. At the same time, they contain, in more sedate form, practically all the situations to which we thrill in the novel of to-day, and the diction is much more edifying.

• • • • • • •

There are few magazines, "Classicitus," that you would recommend for your children's daily reading. That is, if you wished them to LEARN. There may be fewer classics with which you would care to sit down for an hour's relaxation, although I like some of them.

• • • • • • •

Surely, for instance, you would not class the Odyssey as uninteresting; or lacking in thrills; or without love interest? I can pick up the story of Ulysses almost any evening and find a half-dozen pages of interest.

• • • • • • •

No, I cannot subscribe to the dictum that classics are all "boresome," as you say; at the same time, I wouldn't like a steady diet from that class of literature.

• • • • • • •

The next letter on my list has a most peculiar inquiry: "Is there any significance to knees?"

• • • • • • •

At any rate, "Wanderer," there's no mystery!

• • • • • • •

I find in my library a book which purports to cover the subject of character analysis by almost every section of the human body, and, surely enough, there is a paragraph about knees.

• • • • • • •

Your contention, however, that because your knee "is not bony, but bends perfectly with the countour" of your leg, therefore there must be some "sign," is not tenable Is it a reasonable contention?

• • • • • • •

The book which I have gives as the indication of character shown by your knee "partially to 'caveman' men"—and there you are. Bony knees, on the other hand, are supposed to indicate spinsterhood.

• • • • • • •

Frankly, I don't believe anyone can tell my character by looking at my knees, or my toes, or the lobes of my ears.

• • • • • • •

And just because I have the book on one of my shelves doesn't mean that I subscribe to its teachings. I have most cosmopolitan tastes. I am very broadminded, as all newspaper people should be, though many, alas, are not.

• • • • • • •

On political subjects I have three books close together: a story of the life of Arthur Meighen; a little red covered book telling about MacKenzie King, and a treatise on the subject of women's suffrage.

• • • • • • •

In the line of religion, "Catholic Doctrine" rubs shoulders with "Calvin's Institutes." In poetry I don't mind putting Mrs. E. B. Browning next door to Milton.

• • • • • • •

Just as, in the newspaper, kings and bank robbers mix in one column, and the exploits of a rum-runner may well find a place alongside a report of a temperance meeting.

• • • • • • •

This is an age of tolerance, and outside my professional interest altogether I find it very easy to get along so long as I am willing to admit that the other party has something right. You will seldom find that anyone is wrong on every point.

• • • • • • •

I hope that everyone who desires the information on Hallowe'en decorations and entertainment has sent in the coupon. This is the most popular help yet, and I do not wish anyone to be disappointed. It is free, of course.

• • • • • • •

Several good ideas have been sent in for home-made Christmas gifts, but I would like to have more. I wish to make this a real big help, and it will have to be sent out soon so that the neighbors can get busy right after Hallowe'en.

• • • • • • •

Haven't YOU ever made a Christmas gift at home? If you have, then tell us how to do it.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE POPPING STONES

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

When the Bob Cat, one frosty morning, knocked at the door of the den where the Fuzzy Fox lived, the short-tailed Bad Chap was laughing so hard that he could hardly speak.

"What's the matter with you?" growled the Fox who was not feeling very gay. "Have you been reading the funny papers?"

"Better than that!" chuckled the Bob Cat. "Oh, it's the best joke! Ha! Ha! Ha!"

He went off in another fit of laughing and some brown things rattled out of his pocket and fell on the doorstep.

"Look here!" snarled the Fox. "If you don't tell me what it is all about, so I can laugh, I'll bite you!"

"Wouldn't you rather bite Uncle Wiggily?" asked the Bob Cat.

"Of course!" said the Fox. "But there isn't much chance of either of us doing that. All our tricks have failed."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Bob Cat again and more brown things came rattling out of his pocket.

"Now look here!" cried the Fox, barking like an angry dog. "If you laugh any more—"

"I'm laughing at the trick we're going to play on Uncle Wiggily and this time we'll surely catch him," said the Bob Cat. "Do you see those?" and he pointed to the brown things, at the same time taking more of them out of his pockets.

"I see them. What are they?" snarled the Fox.

"Brown stones," answered the Bob Cat. "I found a lot of them as I was coming through the woods just now. I filled my pockets with them. Ha! Ha! Ha!" and he laughed again.

"Look here!" howled the Fox. "If you don't tell me—"

"I'll tell you!" the Bob Cat made haste to say. "It's like this. You and I will slip through the woods until we see Uncle Wiggily. We'll trail after him and pop these brown stones at him and there are so many of them that some are sure to hit him and knock him down and then we can easily catch him. How's that for a trick?"

"Not so bad," said the Fox. "But I'm not going to laugh until we catch that rabbit. He has fooled us too many times."

"He won't fool us this time," said the Bob Cat. "Come on!"

Filling his pockets again with the brown things and giving some to the Fox, the Bob Cat and the other Bad Chap set off through the woods. Pretty soon they saw Uncle Wiggily sitting by a fire he had made in the forest to warm his cold toes.

"This is easier than I thought," whispered the Bob Cat. "We'll slip up and pretend to talk to him and while we're doing that we'll take these brown stones out of our pockets, lay them on the ground all ready to throw and all of a sudden we'll pop them at him and stun him."

"Uncle Wiggily was sitting beside his little camp fire, wondering what sort of an adventure he would have when, all of a sudden, he saw the Fox and Wolf coming. It was too late to run.

"I wonder how I can get away from the Bad Chaps?" thought the rabbit. "I must play a trick on them."

Up to the fire came the Fox and the Bob Cat.

"Hello, Uncle Wiggily!" they said.

"Hello," answered Mr. Longears. "Won't you sit down and warm yourselves at my fire?"

"Yes," said the Bob Cat, winking one eye at the Fox, "we will."

So he sat down and from his pcketo he took some of the brown "popping stones," as he called them.

"What are those?" asked the rabbit.

"You'll soon find out," said the Fox, also taking some of the brown things from his pocket and putting them down by the fire.

"This is a lovely day," said the Bob Cat. "Such nice, cool weather as we are having now, Mr. Longears; aren't we?"

Uncle Wiggily didn't answer right away.

"These Bad Chaps didn't come here to talk to me about the weather, I'm sure," thought the bunny uncle. "They are up to some trick. I wonder what those brown things are?"

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as an uncertain day in Planetary government for many conflicting aspects appear in the horoscope.

The morning hours seem most favorable for all lines of business which should be pushed energetically, if progress is to be made.

Judges, capitalists and bankers seem to be especially favored by the stars today which forecast months of tremendous activity.

International law problems will be difficult, but they will bring fame to American legal lights, it is foretold.

Nominees for public office are well directed under this rule of the stars and may expect to win favor. Men and women are easily persuaded while this rule prevails.

All the aspects appear to stimulate co-operation and understanding among persons of widely different points of view.

Newspapers may assume a critical attitude under this government of the stars and cartoonists should benefit.

Workers may be captious and hard to convince of regarding certain national policies until there is a change in the rule of the stars.

Neptune continues in an aspect that seems to presage emphasis on the things supposed to be affected by the planet. These include mineral waters and other drinkables that come in bottles.

Farmers are again subject to a sinister aspect that is read as presaging loss through market conditions as well as severe storms.

According to ancient lore this should be a favorable time for women to take special care of the hair, for they will find it disappearing under the rule of certain stars.

As the pendulum swings backward for women toward oldtime modes there is to be a return to vanished ideals of beauty of face and form.

Persons whose birthdate it is should be careful in the coming year to guard their speech and to avoid uttering any sort of disparaging criticisms. They should be fairly successful if they avoid discontent.

Children born on this day may be inclined to be too aggressive and even arrogant. The subjects of this sign, Scorpio, are usually very gifted, but they know their good points and may be rather vain.

YOUR HEALTH

OKRA.

Okra or gumbo, the fruit of a large herbivorous plant resembling the cotton plant, has a ridged, mucilaginous pod which is excellent in soups, or stewed as a vegetable. This plant was first cultivated by the ancient Egyptians, but it is very popular in Europe around the Mediterranean and in the Southern States. Fresh, canned or dried, it is a wholesome vegetable.

Okra pods contain a mucilaginous substance which forms a jelly in water. The pods vary in length from four to six inches, but some are even longer. They become tough as the pod enlarges in size. As the pods are usually cut into slices for cooking purposes, one can easily test their value, because when they are too old they are hard to cut.

Okra should only be cooked in enameled pots, since metallic vessels are apt to cause it to discolor. An analysis of the okra pod shows that it is alkaline forming, containing fair amounts of sodium and calcium. Many correspondents have written me asking how to prepare okra. Here are some recipes:

Stewed Okra.

Cut off the stems of the okra pods, boil in salt water until soft, then allow the water to evaporate and stir in a lump of butter. In this way okra may be used either as a vegetable or as a garnish for rice or fish.

Tomatoes and Okra.

Cut the okra into small pieces. Boil one part of okra with two parts of tomatoes. Add salt and butter when cooked.

Okra Escallop.

Arrange a layer of Melba toast in the bottom of a baking dish, then place a layer of cooked okra, then another layer of Melba toast and last of all a layer of raw sliced tomatoes. Sprinkle with cheese and celery salt and let bake until the tomatoes are soft.

Okra-Lima Bean Soup.

Cut into small pieces two cups of okra pods. Add to one half cupful of diced carrots, one turnip diced, one half cup of chopped celery, and a tablespoon of chopped parsley. Cook for thirty minutes in enough water to cover, then add a cupful of mashed, cooked lima beans and cook over a slow fire for one hour. When ready to serve, add one fourth of a cupful of cream and salt to taste.

Corn and Okra.

Slice and steam the okra until it does not offer resistance to a fork. Add the okra to equal parts of canned corn, add crushed Melba toast to take up the moisture, and sprinkle with parsley. Place in a baking-pan in a hot oven for about fifteen minutes or until browned on top.

Chicken Gumbo Soup.

Make a soup stock of the left over chicken from a meal, or those portions which are undesirable for baking or broiling, such as the neck, head, feet, etc. Add the desired amount of sliced okra and let cook until tender, then add a small amount of cream, a little chopped parsley and celery salt to taste.

Questions and Answers.

Question: R. H. asks: "Could you advise me what to take when there are phosphates in the urine?"

Answer: The important thing to do is to stop the mental overwork or any other nervous strain which is the cause of the excess of phosphates in the blood or urine. You can probably get rid of the excess by drinking large quantities of water between meals, but the cause is a waste of nervous energy, and this cause must be considered in a real cure.

Question: K. L. asks: "Is water a food?"

Answer: Water must be considered as a food, as three-fourths of the bodily weight is made up of this indispensable element. There would be no form of organic life without water, and although a man can live for many weeks without other foods, he cannot live more than a few days without water. Water is composed of oxygen and hydrogen gases, and when these gaseous elements are so combined as to form water they are able to have a more important effect upon metabolism than when they are extracted from any other kind of food material.

Question: K. H. writes: "I have a mouthful of perfect teeth that are all loose. I can brush them hard three times a day, still they do not bleed or hurt me in any way. Do you know of any way I can tighten them up again?"

Answer: Go to a good dentist and get his opinion about your teeth. You are doubtless having some absorption of the alveolar processes which are the bony structures holding the teeth in place. Proper treatment will sometimes stop such necrosis, or degeneration of bone, but it is best to rely on your dentist's judgment as to whether your condition can be cured, or whether your teeth must be extracted.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THAT'S LIFE

A little bitter with the sweet,
And husks as well as fruits to eat,
No victory without defeat,
That's life.
A little sorrow with the song,
A little trouble all along,
A world not always right, or wrong,
That's life.

A smile, perhaps, and yet a sigh,
And dreams that blossom, dreams that die,
For ev'ry coming a goodbye,
That's life.
A little gain, a little loss,
A little gold a little dross,
And not a crown without a cross,
That's life.

A little faith, a little doubt,
And even when the sun is out
A little rain to fret about
That's life.
A little love, our hearts to bind,
And words in memory enshrined,
But now and then a word unkind,
That's life.

Perhaps a bramble with the rose,
And yet the sunlight on the snows,
The joy that comes, and joy that goes,
That's life.
Ah, yes, perhaps a crown to wear,
Ah, yes, perhaps a cross to bear—
And yet, ah that, why should you care?
That's life.

FLASH!

Comes the sad message from mirrors that never lie!

BEAUTY just can't keep its bloom if your mealtime beverages contain two drug-stimulants: tannin and caffeine. These drugs are like a lash. They whip-up tired nerves. Here starts the mischief. For whipped-up nerves never thoroughly relax—they only quiver in shallow, useless sleep. Inevitably come those tired lines—that sallow skin. Don't have your mirror flash this message.

Tannin and caffeine are harmful. With you these agents may work fast or slow. But sooner or later their poisonous effects are certain, sure!

Drink Postum. This rich, full-bodied drink contains not a single trace of any drug stimulant. An appetizing, satisfying hot drink every member of the family can enjoy ever day of the year. Instantly made in the cup at a cost of about half-a-cent. Or there's Postum Cereal, if you prefer it, made by boiling or percolating twenty minutes. At all grocers', restaurants, or on the train. May Form New Boxing Alliance

CANADIAN BOXING HEADS SEEK ALLIANCE WITH N. Y. STATE BODY

New International Organization Possible As Result of N.B.A. Differences.

UNDER NEW NAME.

Federation Will Include States That Joined Insurgents at Recent Meeting.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.— (A.P.) — The opening wedge a brand new alignment of the power governing boxing throughout the United States and Canada was driven yesterday in the rooms of the New York State Athletic Commission.

As an aftermath of the turmoil and charges of "steam rolling" that followed the election of officers in the recent annual convention of the National Boxing Association at Toronto, Thomas Murphy, deposed vice-president of the N.B.A. and head of the Canadain federation, opened negotiations with the local board for a working agreement with the Dominion organization.

With him were Harry Price, member of the Toronto commission, Allan Trimble, chairman of the New Jersey State Athletic Commission, and Thomas Donohue, Connecticut's lone commissioner who was defeated at Toronto for re-election as president of the N.B.A. Although Trimble and Donohue came to pay a "social" call, their presence indicated that more widespread negotiations were under way.

The possibility of an immediate agreement, which involved the withdrawal of the Canadian federation from the ranks of the N.B.A., controlling body in 26 states and several foreigen countries, was prevented by the absence from the meeting of the local commission chairman, James A. Farley, details of the new alliance will be worked out by mail.

Under New Name.

The object of the Canadian Federation appears to be the formation of a new boxing body to be known as the International Federation, with a line-up including New Jersey, Connecticut, Michigan, Kentucky, Rhode Island, Louisiana and other states that joined the insurgents in the recent N.B.A. meeting.

The controversy there centred around the election of almost a complete mid-western ticket, headed by Paul Prehn, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Association, as President, and the refusal of the body to re-elect Murphy to the vice-presidency because of a clause in the by-laws preventing delegates other than those from the United States from holding office. While the New York state commission so far has refused to join any organization it has entered in several working agreements but none with the N.B.A.

A shake-up in the ranks of the heavyweights brought Johnny Risko and Knute Hansen back into action after indefinite suspensions and relegated Pauline Uzcudun to the inactive list. The Spaniard was suspended indefinitely for fouling Big Boy Peterson in the final outdoor show of the season here Friday night. Risko fouled Roberto Roberti in his last battle here and Hansen was sent down until his tangled managerial affairs were straightened out. Hansen the commission ruled, now can make his own matches while twenty per cent of his earnings will be withheld to pay any verdict that may be awarded by the courts to Walter Friedman, the melancholy Dane's disposed manager. Billy Gibson, pilot of Gene Tunney in the heavyweight wars and Hansen's most recent managerial acquisition, must also wait until the courts rule upon his status.

Notify Association Of Their Withdrawal

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 24.— A.P.) — The Canadian Boxing Federation yesterday notified Latrobe Cogswell, secretary of the National Boxing Association, of its withdrawal from that organization.

Mr. Cogswell yesterday received the formal notification of withdrawal, which had been threatened at the annual meeting of the association held in Toronto last week.

Mr. Cogswell said that the Canadian body became incensed at the failure of the association to elect Thomas Murphy, head of the federation, as a vice-president. Murphy, up to the time of the meeting last week, had been a vice-president of the N. B.A. since the entrance of the Canadian Federation into the National body four years ago.

Cogswell said that Murphy, at the meeting last week, had a good chance for election as president of the N.B.A., but that some of the members of the association opposed naming him because he was not from any boxing organization in the United States. Cogswell said that he had expected the action, and was not in the least surprised, and did not blame the Canadian body for its withdrawal.

Shop League

Machine Shop No. 3 zipped along at a nice rate Monday night taking two games from their fellow-mechanics on Machine No. 2. G. Rightmyer set a fast pace with 237, 202 and 198, while B. Lane displayed nice form also with 236 for a single game. Cliff White on Machine shop No. 2 was next in line rolling 229 single and 607 in three.

* * *

J. Wade led Fitters No. 3 in an attack on the Punch Press sextette with scores of 23 and a total of 654 which gained for them two games out of three, despite the clever performance of Frank Woods who rolled 229, 204 and 167—600.

* * *

Induction Motors had to be content with winning two games when they bumped into the Fitters No. 2 in Group No. 1 of the Shop League. G. Stevens for the Motor Makers carried the team through with scores of 231, 219 and 192—642.

* * *

Machine shop No. 1 staged the closest contest of the night with Armature Assembly, winning the two first games easy enough but losing the third by two pins. Fred Jones was high single for the second time with 282 although the most notable performance of this battle was shown by V. Ridley with 240, 219, 216 making 675.

* * *

Battling closely from start to finish the Induction Motor Winding nosed Fitters No. 1 out of two games, W. Watkins for the Winders rolling 234 and 232 with Jim Fay on the Fitters team right at his heels with 233 pins for a single game. High three in this fixture went to Watkins also—630.

Drafting Room League

The C.G.E. Drafting Room League began it's fourth week of bowling Monday and the players seem to bust the pins better each time.

* * *

The Volts smothered the Hi-pots under an avalanche, of hardwood with a majority of over 400 pins for three games and added eight more points to their total. Dave Grant for the winners is still going great guns, rolling both high single and high three, 312 and 780.

* * *

Short Circuits failed to exhibit any improvement in their style dropping three games to the Ohms and as a result are still parked at the bottom of the ladder. F. Allen collected 266 making him high single for the winners, while G. Morrison's score of 625 went for high three.

* * *

A. McLeish and his battling Ohms succeeded in rolling high pinnage, having a total of 2989.

The Watts surged into the lead by taking six points from High Morton's Cycles in a noisy duel that netted the winners both high single and three. Cuff 258, W. Jackson 641.

* * *

The nicest piece of consistent bowling for the night was done by Dave Grant who made 227, 241, and 312.

NEW STRENGTH ADDED TO TIGER SQUAD

VIEWS ON SPORTS

P.C.I. Seniors meet Cobourg in the first of their home-and-home series here on Saturday.

Practically considered as having the senior group championship within their grasp, Coach C. S. Browne is taking no chances and is having the squad go through a little scrimmage work every night in preparation for their tilt on Saturday.

* * * * * *

Hewitt and Johnson were the stars in last Saturday's game with Lindsay, doing much to increase the point total for the visitors' side.

* * * * * *

Hodgens, the Cobourg half-back, will provide real opposition for the locals. He covered himself with glory at Oshawa on Saturday by making a 57 yard dash down the side-lines to make the Lakeshore crew's only touchdown.

* * * * * *

A note from the Oshawa Daily Times has it that a Central Ontario Hockey League will be formed this year, comprising teams from Peterborough, Belleville, Port Hope, and Oshawa.

* * * * * *

The Canadian Boxing Federation has decided to discontinue all connection with the National Boxing Association, owing to their differences at the N.B.A. meeting held in the Queen City last week.

* * * * * *

A movement is at present on foot which will allow the Dominion organization to enter into a working agreement with the New York Boxing Commission, although no definite agreement has as yet been worked out.

* * * * * *

John Ross Roach, former Toronto Maple Leaf goalkeeper, has a distinction all his own in being the highest paid goalie in the National Hockey League, having signed a contract to play with the New York Rangers.

* * * * * *

Doubt was expressed at first whether the Canadian star and the club owner would come to terms. It was only a few days ago that the Ranger boss announced that he had parted with the equivalent of $25,000 for the goalie, and this was followed by some powerful praise for Mr. Roach's ability as to guarding the nets. No doubt the goalie read the papers, both morning and evening, and he naturally felt that Colonel Hammond should pay well for such skill. The price which he first asked for the use of his prancing feet during the coming hockey campaign was somewhat higher than was expected, and it was thought that no agreement could be reached before the opening of the season.

* * * * * *

The Hamilton Tigers have added new strength to their team in the form of Bruce Inksetter, who has been one of the mainstays of the O.R.F.U. team (Balmy Beach), but who was shifted to the "Big Four" squad for the remaining games of the schedule.

* * * * * *

Mike Rodden has been greatly attracted by the work of the formed Dundas player, and plans to use him as a general relief man.

* * * * * *

According to an opinion obtained at the Parliament Buildings, football, being a noisy game, cannot be played on Sundays. The ruling was given out in connection with the situation in Western Ontario, where Provincial Police took the names of many players who took part in games last Sunday. Prohibitory legislation against noisy games dates back from the time of Charles II. It is not likely that there will be any cause for the authorities to complain hereabouts.

Capablanca Of Cuba Is Ousted From Lead

BERLIN, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Capablanca of Cuba was ousted from the lead in the International Chess Masters' tournament yesterday, when Spielmann of Austria won two of the three adjourned games that were played off. He has an advantage of half a point over Capablanca.. The latter did not play yesterday. The summaries:

Sixth round—Reti, Czecho-Slovakia, lost to Nimzowitsch, Denmark, who won a piece.

Eighth round — Nimzowitsch, Denmark, lost to Spielmann, Austria, who won a pawn.

Ninth round—Reti lost to Rubinstein, Poland, who won a pawn.

Tenth round — Rubinstein, Poland, lost to Spielman, who won a pawn.

SLATTERY SNUBS GRIFFITHS' OFFER

Madison Square Garden Boss Angles For Light Heavyweight Bout.

For twenty-five or thirty years folks have been trying to find out what's wrong with Tom McArdle; but in spite of the concentrated efforts of managers and thousands of boxers, no one has been able to accuse him of anything real serious until yesterday.

Jimmy Slattery, the Buffalo light heavyweight, is the fellow who cleared up the mystery.

McArdle hasn't any manners. He has utterly neglected the social side of life.

A frightful indictment, but it seems to be true. McArdle, not realizing the enormity of his offence, corroborated everything that Slattery said.

How Could You, Tom?

It seems that the Garden matchmaker actually wanted Slattery to fight someone he didn't know. He tried to inveigle Jimmy into signing for a match with "Tuffy" Griffiths, of Chicago. Griffiths became more or less notorious through knocking out Mike McTigue in less than a round some time ago.

It was unthinkable, of course, Slattery would not consider it for a moment. He had never met the man. Still worse, and more to the point, he had never even heard of him.

One doesn't go about in the boxing business meeting nobodies, particularly when one is so highly placed as Jimmy Slattery. After all, he's a leading contender for the light heavyweight championship. It simply isn't being done.

Ask Joe—He Knows!

One must stay in one's proper circle, and, besides, look what happened to Joe Dundee when he started mingling with the common herd. He got knocked quite stiff, and by a nobody, too.

Mr. Slattery was highly indignant, and he begged McArdle not to say any more about it. He probably will cut McArdle the next time he meets him. When a man shows such a complete lack of refinement and delicacy as McArdle exhibited in this case, there is no telling what he will stoop to next.

He might even wish to have Mr. Slattery fight that hard character from Washington, Leo Lomski.

McArdle cheerfully confirmed Slattery's accusations. He said he guesses he'll have to get someone else for Griffiths. He's after Jack Delaney now. He even went so far as to say he didn't care a whoop about etiquette, and he thought it was more of a case of cold feet.

* * *

All chance of a Roberto Roberti-Knute Hansen bout exploded with the announcement that Roberti is going home to Italy. He will leave within a few weeks, and he is not interested in pugilism until after the first of the year.

Hansen is scheduled to be reinstated at the meeting of the State Athletic Commission, and all of those claiming an interest in his management have been requested to apoear. The Commission may have to rent an opera house if they all show up.

* * *

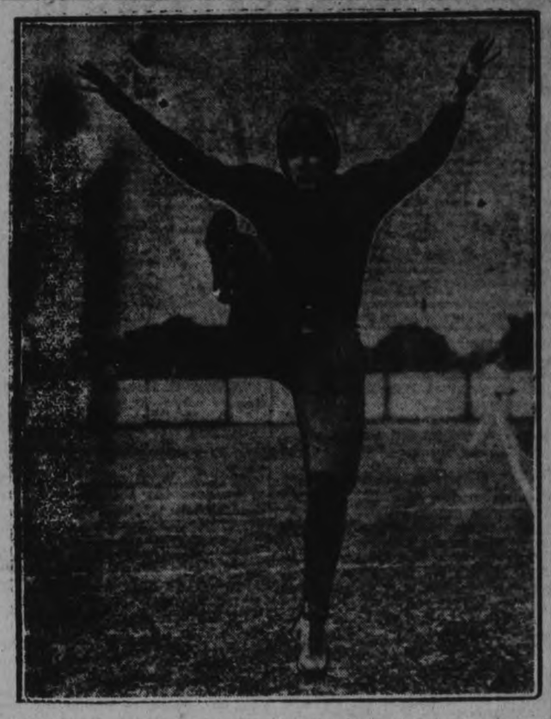
Unless Ace Hudkins consents to meet Rene De Vos here, Lew Burston has determined to let De Vos go through with a match with Joe Anderson. Burston wired Hudkins that he will give him three days to accept terms for a bout at the Garden.

If Hudkins accepts, Burston is willing to sign for two matches, one with Hudkins and another with Anderson three weeks later.

* * *

A match that will go a long way toward clearing up the bantamweight situation is in process of negotiation. Tom McArdle is dickering with Bushy Graham of Utica and Fidel LaBarba, the retired undefeated flyweight champion.

LaBarba is now a 118-pounder, and a real good one. He beat Graham at Los Angeles recently. Graham told McArdle he is willing to meet LaBarba, and he will be here to discuss terms. McArdle wants to stage it on December 21.



Art French, captain and halfback of the Harvard University football team, who is one of the "big guns" of the 1929 gridiron season in the United States. He played a smashing game against West Point on Saturday, when his team lost to the Army, 16-0. Next Saturday Harvard meets Dartmouth, conquerors of Columbia "U."

BEACHMEN WORKOUT WITH JUNGLE CATS

O.R.F.U. Providing Stern Opposition in Nightly Srimmages.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—If the Jungle Kings succeed in winning the big four title again, and it seems entirely likely that they will, no small credit will be due the O. R. F. U. team, which has been giving them such stern opposition in the nightly workouts. Resuming their practice after a rest Monday night, the Striped Cats indulged in a sizzling workout last evening, with every man being on the job. The workout was entirely beneficial and there will be no occasion for a let-down in the speed of the squad when they stack up against Argos here next Saturday.

The Bengals are not over-confident concerning this game. They remember full well that their victory in the opening game of the season at Toronto was not gained without considerable effort, and they also know, from experience, that the Oarsmen are much better towards the end of each season. A defeat last year, in the final game of the season and on the year before, which cost them the title, loom large in the eyes of the team and officials when visions of victory in the return game with the paddlers are formed, and the Yellow and Black coterie is training just as hard, and will fight as hard as they know how, to reach a stage of perfection for Saturday's struggle.

Coach Michael Rodden, who has transferred the Gengals into a merciless machine, is apparently planning another addition to his tank troops, for Bruce Inksetter, who has been one of the mainstays of the O.R.F.U. team this season, seems likely to shift to the Big Four squad for the remaining games. Inksetter, who formerly saw service with Dundas, has demonstrated this season that he can take his place with almost any squad, and it appears that Rodden has been attracted by his highly consistent work and plans to use him as a safety measure for the "sixty minute" men who have plowed through all opposition this season without much relief. Inksetter will be a big aid to the club, it is expected.

Argos will demand strict attention to defensive football here on Saturday, and Tigers are aiming to give it to them. Special attention is being paid to measures along these lines, and the numerous plays devised by the wily son of Erin at the helm are being pushed to perfection.

The O.R.F.U. team, seeking assistance for the remainder of the campaign, is making an effort to secure Johnny Fitzpatrick, sprint star, who, it is understood, is willing to resume his place on the Bengals' back division. Two others, a brother of Bruce Inksetter and a chap named Biggs, both of Dundas, may be in uniform against Camp Borden on Saturday.

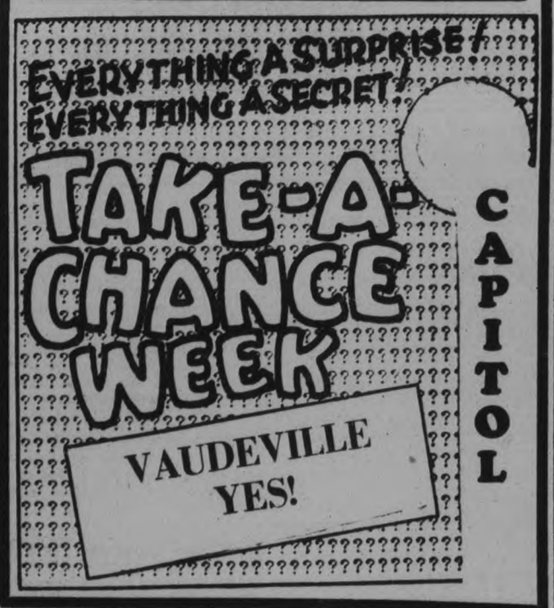
Special Note Due to the unusually large crowds this week, you are urged to come early, thus avoiding standing in line.



O.H.A. ANNUAL TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Instructions Sent Out in Circular Giving Regulations For Year's Play.

With the annual meeting to be held at the Temple Building, Bay and Richmond Streets, Toronto, on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 10 o'clock in the morning, the Ontario Hockey Association has issued the following information for old members and prospective new ones:

New clubs must pay $11 ($5 entrance and $6 annual membership fee) for one team, and $6 addition for each additional team entered. Present members do not require to pay entrance fee. The O.H.A. Executive will pass on the application at its first meeting. New clubs write for application form.

Groups will be arranged after all entries are in, and the districts will be arranged by the O.H.A. Executive to the best advantage of all clubs concerned. Suggestions for grouping are requested.

Get your entry in early, and if your club is admitted, make it a point to have a delegate at the annual meeting. Each club is entitled to one delegate, who must be a club member. No proxies.

No player can play without a certificate. Certificates will be distributed to the clubs on payment of fees.

Junior players must be under 20 years of age Jan. 1, 1929. Official birth certificates will be required from all players before being allowed to play.

Under the required O.H.A. residence rule a player must be a bona fide and continuous resident of the town to which his club belongs since May 15, 1928. The exceptions are students, teachers and sailors. The last-named must, play where they were living last January.

All players who have changed their clubs or place of residence since Jan. 1, 1928, must send in written application through their clubs to the O.H.A. Executive if they desire to play this coming season. Each application must contain complete and definite information and reasons for changing residence. Each application must be accompanied by an affidavit from the player concerned covering the O.H.A. amateur rule. No certificates will be issued after Feb. 10, 1929.

In cities and towns having more than one club a player is not allowed to change clubs without permission of the O.H.A. executive after having first secured written release from his old club.

All players in the senior, intermediate and junior series must hold A.A.U. of C. cards for 1929. Write to A. W. Steel, 205 MacIntyre Building, 92 Adelaide Street West, Toronto 2, Secretary Ontario branch A.A.U. of C., for application forms. No. O.H.A. certificates will be issued without an amateur card.

The O.H.A. is affiliated with the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, and no exhibition games can be played by any hockey club under the jurisdiction of the O.H.A., either in Canada or the United States, without written permission from the O.H.A.

In cities and towns desirous of playing in the senior series no club will be admitted to membership unless it represents what is regarded by the O.H.A. executive as a bona fide permanent and general established amateur club or association, and in all towns and villages represented in the O.H.A. in any series precedence is given to civic amateur organizations representing the whole community.

The O.H.A. intermediate champions will be permitted to play for the Allan Cup through a play-off at Toronto with the senior O.H.A. champions. The junior O.H.A. champions will be eligible to play for the O.H.A. Memorial Cup.

MEN WHO THINK THEY'RE GETTING OLD, READ THIS

Many men who live what is known as "the modern life" often feel symptoms of old age creeping upon them after they have reached 40—sometimes even before then. In many instances, this condition is not true "old age" or senility. It is merely an overworked or nearly depleted nervous system crying out for aid. Such men are not old in years. They have merely been living too fast, working too hard, or in other ways abusing their nervous energy.

It is for just such condition as this that pharmaceutical science has produced ERBAC (remember that name—it may mean much to you), the new nerve tonic in tablet form. Now you can rebuild your nervous energy, get back the old "pep" and fire, and once more taste the real joys of living.

ERBAC is not a cheap medicine. Bond and other reputable druggists are dispensing if for Two Dollars a packet. But a packet contains a full twenty-day treatment, and there is a strong guarantee that, unless you are absolutely satisfied with results, your money will be returned.

Now don't say "Can this be true?" It IS true. Just go to your druggist today. Ask him about ERBAC and the money back guarantee. Start the treatment right away. Don't spend one unnecessary day feeling weak, out-of-sorts and "old-mannish" Give ERBAC a fair chance to demonstrate its worth, then tell your friends about the benefits you derived from it.

NOTE: There is no guesswork about ERBAC. Take the treatment regularly according to the simple directions, and results will MANIFEST THEMELVES to you. ERBAC is perfectly safe and harmless and, while it is not intended for children, many women are taking it and reporting excellent results.

AMENDMENTS BEFORE AMATEUR ATHLETIC UNION OF CANADA

Resolutions To Come Before Ontario Branch On Friday Night.

STUDENT TOURISTS.

A. A. U. of Canada To Be Asked to Define Their Status.

The following resolutions and notices of motion to amend the constitution of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada have been received and will be placed before the delegates to the 19th annual meeting of the Ontario branch which will be held at Central Y.M.C.A. on Friday evening of this week at 8.15.

From the Executive Committee.

That the following be added to the constitution and becomes Clause 2 of Article 12: "That nominations for the various offices of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada must be in the hands of the secretary in writing at least 30 days before the date of the annual meeting and that the secretary be required to forward a list of all nominations received to all branches and allied bodies at least 15 days before the date of the annual meeting."

After Student Tourists

The following resolutions will be submitted: Whereas, it has been reported that several athletes under the jurisdiction of the Ontario branch have received tuition in universities in exchange for their ability as athletes, be it resolved that the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada be requested to define the status of such athletes.

Whereas, each year there is an increasing number of athletes from United States requesting registration under the Ontario branch who have participated in branches of sport not directly under the jurisdiction of the A.A.U. of U.S., be it resolved that the registration committee be empowered to issue amateur cards to all such athletes, providing they submit statutory declarations that they are amateurs as defined by Article III. of the constitution.

Employment of Coaches.

Whereas, in the past there have been clubs who have paid amateur players to act in a coaching capacity; be it resolved that the Ontario branch recommend to the various governing bodies that all clubs hiring coaches file with said governing bodies full information in connection therewith.

Whereas, there is no regulation in the rules of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada which permit amateur athletes to participate in indoor bowling and horseshoe pitching where cash prizes are given, be it resolved that the Ontario branch recommends that the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada define the status of such athletes.

Whereas, it has been reported that trust funds have been created for athletes after outstanding athletic achievements, be it resolved that the Ontario branch recommends that the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada define the status of such athletes.

Four Judges in Boxing.

Whereas the results of the last Olympic boxing and wrestling competitions produced a variety of opinions in handing out decisions, be it resolved that a recommendation be made to the International Federation de Boxe Amateur by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to the effect that in future Olympics decisions be made by four judges and a referee, the four judges to be selected from four different nations competing.

Whereas, owing to the numerous problems prevailing in conection with the game of soccer, be it resolved that the Ontario branch recommends that the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada take steps to make provision for the popularizing and the controlling of this game which would permit athletes under the jurisdiction of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada to participate in same without jeopardizing their amateur status.

Change to Metre System.

Whereas, the changing of yards to metres in championship contests the year of Olympic games often is a disadvantage to those athletes trained in yard distances, be it resolved that section eight of the general rules of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada be amended and in the compulsory list of events for track and field championships the equivalent in metres for the various running events be substituted.

Industrial Sport.

Whereas the Ontario branch has conducted an inquiry into the industrial athletic situation, it passes on to the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada the result of said inquiry and recommends that the special committee on industrial athletics take action at the annual meeting of the A.A.U. of C. of making regulations governing the following: (1) Admitting industrial teams to open competition; 2) Confining such competition to bona fide employees only; (3) The matter of allowing compensation for time lost.

Amateur Boxers Turning Pro.

Whereas, there have been occasions when amateur boxers, to overcome the giving of the prescribed notice of their intention to turn professional to the Ontario Athletic Commission have accepted professional engagements outside the Province of Ontario, be it resolved that the Ontario Athletic Commission withhold professional licenses from such boxers until they have complied with the regulation of the commission.

PENCILS AND PRIZES FOR SCHOOL SOCCER

E. A. Peck Has Donated Gifts To Local Association—Winning Players Get One Each.

In the local school soccer league cup games that have been played, during this fall they have produced good material that could be utilised by a good juvenile league.

King Edward School is waiting the winners of the "Section A" group, which is now about finished, with the King George School boys carrying the honors up to date. They have defeated Queen Alexandra twice and have defeated Central once; so if they again win the decision on Thursday evening from Central they will have the priority right to meet the South-End Boys for the Alex Kay Cup.

Last season the Prince of Wales team carried off the honors and received the trophy and were presented with Eversharp pencils by the local association as a souvenir of the achievement in the soccer code.

Through the kindness of E. A. Peck, M.P., for the city, he has agreed to give the pencils this year, so that the boys may get their usual recompense for their achievement in the scientific code. Vincent Stewart, president of the local association has received a communication from the donor to that effect.

When the final game is played, it is hoped that the public will attend and give the teachers the encouragement that they so deserve, in fact, the game will be worth witnessing. If it was possible, the game could be arranged for a Saturday afternoon so that the public may get the chance to see the boys in action.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

The first two days of "Take-a-Chance Week" at the Regent Theatre have proved a great success, judging by the way the patrons have commented on the program which has been offered by the management.

The feature picture and the presentation by the Regent seven-piece orchestra were thoroughly enjoyed by all.

There will be a complete new program starting on Thursday, and we promise that this will please all.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"TAKE-A-CHANCE-WEEK"

Take-A-Chance-Week, at The Capitol, is certainly pleasing Peterborough theatre goers judging by the remarks heard, on the streets, in the stores, in the offices, in fact everywhere one goes, people are heard remark about the wonderful stage and screen entertainment, and what is more, all for the regular price admission. It is really a 50c show at regular prices. For the last half of the week commencing to-morrow, there will be a complete change of program, new vaudeville, new pictures, and from what we can gather, we understand that the show for the last three days will even surpass the excellent offering being presented the first half of this week. To-night is your last chance to see the bill for the first half of the week.

SUESIN "MOB" DEATH

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23.—John Bednar filed suit here recently for $5000 damages in the death of his son, an innocent bystander, who was killed during a gun battle between police and three bandits. He charged the Cuyahoga County commissioners with responsibility for the young man's death because he was killed "during an unlawful uprising."

The Mersey Tunnel, the ceremony of "holing through" which took place recently, will be the largest sub-aqueous tunnel in the world. Four lines of traffic will run through the tunnel, and the distance of three miles from the street level at Liverpool to Birkenhead will be negotiated under normal conditions in eight minutes.

Two Ways to Avoid Sour Stomach

PAMPERING the stomach as you grow older is one way to keep out of trouble! But it's far more pleasant to eat what you choose, and let Pape's Diapepsin keep the stomach free from excess acid. Plenty of people past "three-score-and-ten" keep stomachs young because they know this one secret.

Because it is so quick, so safe and so sure in ending digestive troubles, millions rely on "Pape's Diapepsin." "Pape's Diapepsin" is unequalled as an indigestion remedy and dietary corrective, yet it costs only 60 cents a package at all druggists.

If your stomach ever torments you get "Pape's Diapepsin" at once and recapture the pleasure of care-free, painless digestion. You may have felt that nothing can help your particular difficulty, but so have others to whom this remedy proved a pleasant surprise. This experiment with diapepsin may do as much for you.

WEALTHY PIONEERS GUESTS AT BANQUET

Leaders of Various Industrial Activities Will Be Honored.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Canadian Press).—Nine pioneers of American industry whose combined wealth is estimated at ten billion dollars will be guests of honor at a banquet tonight.

The banquet, to be held here, will bring to a close the fifth annual national conference of major industries. It will be attended by more than two thousand business, professional and social leaders.

The nine guests of honor are Henry Ford, 65 years old, representative of automobiles; Orville Wright, 57, and Glenn H. Curtiss, 50, aviation; Thomas A. Edison, 81, inventor; Charles M. Schwab, 66, iron and steel; Gullus Rosenwald, 66, merchandising; George Eastman 74, photography; Cyrus S. L. Curtis, 78, publishing; and Harvey S. Firestone, 60, rubber.

IN POLICE COURT

Gerald Higgins pleaded guilty in Police Court this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley to failing to stop before entering Water Street from Hunter and was fined $5.00 and $3.50 costs.

Annie Anderson, alias Annie Levine, pleaded guilty to two charges of theft and was remanded for one week for sentence. One charge was that of stealing on October 13th, one silk dress, one lady's woollen sweater, and one child's sweater coat, property to the value of $25, from Doris Portellier. The other was of stealing a lady's gold wrist watch, chain and gold ring, property to the value of $35, from J. Sennett.

Ralph Davis pleaded guilty to failing to stop before entering Hunter Street from Mark and was fined $5.00 without costs.

A party and a fight on the Second Line of Smith on the night of October 7th resulted in Dennis Sullivan and Martin Sullivan of Lakefield being arraigned in Police Court, charged with vagrancy and being intoxicated in a public place. On that night the two young men, while returning home, got entangled in a brawl which resulted in a 17-year-old boy becoming intoxicated, and in the fight which followed a brother who came to the boy's rescue was used roughly and had his ear chewed. On the disturbance charge each was fined $2.00 and $6.00 costs, and on the other charge each was assessed $20.00 and $4.00 costs.

BRITISH PSYCHIC DEVOTEE TO TELEGRAPH MARS TO-DAY

LONDON, Oct. 24 (A.P.).—A brief mysterious message to Mars is on file with the British telegraph authorities ready for its dispatch early to-day to a big-eared woman in the distant planet.

Mr. Mansfield Robinson, psychic devotee, and author of this ambitious message, retired to his canctum last night in calm confidence, careless of the jeers of a skeptical world. He is unmindful of the scoffers, who point out that the Martians may be ignorant of the Morse code, even if they are English linguists—or rake up sundry technical obstacles concerned with wireless equipment for reception in the Martian world.

Dr. Robinson's little telegram will be sent out by the central office in London via the Rugby wireless station, whence it will be dispatched automatically into space on a wave length of 18,700 meters.

Radio engineers at St. Albans will listen in for half an hour on a 30,000 meter wave length for a reply from the warlike planet. Hoax replies, the officials say, are hardly probable on such a wave length.

Robinson, who professes to have held telepathic communications with a young woman in Mars, had described her graphically. One peculiarity of the Martians, he says, is oversize ears, and jesters declare that the experiment will be a fine test of their quality.

A total of 2976 languages spoken throughout the world is given by an expert from carefully compiled statistics from the various countries.

BIG CROWD AT FOWL SUPPER

St. John's Church, Campbellford, Holds Annual Fall Social.

HELD IN RINK.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 24 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Approximately one thousand people sat down to supper last night when the congregation of St. John's United church catered to all who entered. The meal was a perfect example of both quantity and quality, and anyone who left the table still with a hollow under his belt, must certainly have done so of his own accord. This year something new was exemplified in the line of what was once the old-fashioned tea meeting. The supper was not served in the church, but six long tables were laid in Davidson's Arena and it was there that people were served to their hearts' content.

For the occasion the rink was decorated with strings of colored lights and flowers were used generously to complete the arrangement. Music was furnished during the meal by the five piece orchestra of St. John's church and by a De-Forrest Crossley power speaker kindly loaned and operated by the local dealer, P. C. Denyes. The arrangement afforded continuous music throughout the evening. Another feature of this year's supper by St. John's was the fact that there was neither crowding nor waiting for service, so noticeable as a general rule at many of the annual events during the round of fowl suppers.

SEED REGULATIONS HAVE BEEN REVISED

Standards Raised For Some Seeds and More Weeds Banned.

OTTAWA, Oct. 24.—The Dominion Seed Comissioner, George H. Clark announces some important amendments to the regulations under the Seeds Act as a result of the meeting in Ottawa last week of the Advisory Seed Board. One of the biggest problems confronting the board is the weed seeds allowable in standard grades, and one of the most important actions by the board was the raising of standard No. 1 alsike, white clover, domestic red clover, alfalfa, and brome grass seeds. This grade must now be free from primary noxious weeds. Bladder campion, white cockle, and couch grass are now considered primary noxious and are included in that class. Trade representatives on the board stated they would be prepared to pay a premium for certified seed, relatively free from noxious weeds that would clean to grade No. 1 and suggested that the Seed Branch institute an inspection of alsike fields.

This field inspection of seed is being done in Alberta with Grim alfalfa for registered seed, with variegated alfalfa in Ontario, red clover in Ontario and Quebec, brome grass in Manitoba to certify it free from Couch grass; brown top in Prince Edward Island to certify it free from red top, and Garnet and Reward wheat in the Prairie provinces to certify them true to variety.

Standards were considered for registered seed of wheat, oats, barley, rye, corn, flax, field peas and soy beans. The old standard grades were registered and extra No. 1, and these have been changed by amendent of the Seeds Act to registered 1, 2, and 3. These three grades must show 99.99 per cent purity and be absolutely free from primary noxious weeds. The reason for adopting a third grade was to provide a place for off colored weathered seed, which except for this weathering is equal in purity of variety to the other grades.

Commercial standards for cereals show only one change, the raising of the standard of grade 3 for maximum primary and for secondary weed seeds per pound from 20 to 15. Consideration was given by the Board to the doing away altogether with grade 3, but the decision was reached to make the change already noted and to make further study of the matter for another year.

The standards for turf grasses are raised with respect to noxious weeds and somewhat lower respecting weeds not injurious in lawns.

On the recommendation of the Saskatchewan Provincial Seed Board the weed Darnel (lolium temulentium and vars.) was put into the secondary noxious weed group. Previously it was included in the 'other weeds' group.

British Columbia interests intimated that they would give notice of motion for the next meeting of the board to make compulsory the selling of vegetable and field root seeds under grade and also the marking of the container with percentage germination. Grades do exist but their application at the present time is optional.

The question of checking the distribution of weed seeds resulting from the use of feed grain for seed purposes was brought to the attention of the Board by a representative of seedsmen, and the suggestion made that buyer and seller be required to give an affidavit covering the use to which the grain was to be put. This matter will be the subject of a notice of motion at the next board meeting, if prior action is not taken as a result of the matter being brought to the attention of the Agricultural Committee of the House of Commons.

Trading Is Moderate Prices Are Lower

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—The general trend of prices on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange today was downward. Trading was on a moderate scale but the list was narrower than usual. Hudson Bay, Sherritt Gordon, Sudbury Basin and Lake Shore were all lower. Coast Copper was outstanding exception and after opening strong at 52.25 moved up to 56.25. The price at noon was 55.00, a net gain of 8.00. Pend Oreille followed the other British Columbia issue and advanced 35 to 11.60. Central Manitoba and Big Missouri also advanced, the latter gaining six to 68 in heavy trading and the former gaining four to 91. Hollinger was up five at 9.60. Hudson Bay dropped thirty to 18.80 after opening at 19.50. Sherritt Gordon had active session and dropped 30 to 6.30.

Prices Remain Steady Nickel Down One Point

TORONTO, Oct. 24 (Canadian Press).—Except for a few slight fluctuations prices were steady on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. International Nickel again led all others in activity on the listed section and was down a point at 176½; Massey Harris and Cockshutt were both active, and the former was unchanged at 53, while the latter was up ¼ at 32. Brazilian was up ¾ at 68¾ and Page Hersey a point at 117. Consolidated Smelters on the few sales was up a half at 295, and Steel of Canada dropped a half to 215½. Shredded Wheat advanced a point to 67. Gaining more than a point to 43, International Petroleum was the leader on the unlisted section. Service Stations, up two at 57, was a sluggish second. British Columbia Packers registered a gain of three at 24½. Carlings dropped 1¾ to 32, and Walkers was fractionally lower at 73⅞. British American Oil dropped a half to 46¾ and Imperial a quarter to 83.

Offerings Are Light Wheat Values Strong

CHICAGO, Oct. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—Offerings being light, wheat values quickly rallied to-day from initial declines. Downturns at the start resulted from the fact that the Liverpool quotations were easier than due, with reporting timely rains and with Argentine wheat cheaper. Opening 1-8 to 3-8 off, Chicago wheat sagged a little more and then scored gains. Corn and oats averaged lower, corn starting 1-8 to 7-8 down, but subsequently recovering somewhat.

Wheat, December 113 5-8, March 118 5-8. Corn, December 81 1-8, March 82 3-4. Oats, December 43 1-8, March 44 1-4.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

Vancouver advices are to the effect that important developments are taking place below Nelson as it is thought to be very likely that the Trail smelter will "blow in" the old Northport smelter, on the railway to Spokane. It would not be surprising if Consolidated was looking to the Pend Oreille district to supply the ore for the Northport smelter.

A special meeting of shareholders of the Windfall Rouyn Mines is reported to be called for October 29. This meeting, it is said, will serve as the company's annual meeting. Reports will be presented and consideration given to the position of the company's properties and finances.

It is reported from Winnipeg that directors of the Warner Lake Mines, Limited, have decided to diamond drill their copper-zinc showings in the Central Manitoba field. It is stated that the company is situated in favorable tin locations and that it is probable they will begin prospecting for this metal.

Indifferent results are being secured by Nipissing at the Robb-Montbray property. Underground work was suspended last month and development consists of a diamond drilling campaign. Results from this work have been negligible to date.

Silver-lead-zinc ores are found in commercial quantities in the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia and the Yukon Territory. Ores from the Tetreault mine in Quebec are concentrated and exported for treatment to Belgian and the United States smelters. Galena ore from Galetta, Ontario, is concentrated and smelted at the mine, and high-grade ores and concentrates are exported to United States smelters from the Mayo district of the Yukon.

In British Columbia, where the greater part of this industry is carried on, the Trail smelter handles all concentrates from the Sullivan mine as well as from other mines within reasonable shipping distance. In addition to the smelter a customs concentrator is also operated and thus much assistance is rendered small producers.

Coast Copper Reflects Important Developments at Mine

Persistent buying of Coast Copper has been a feature of trading in the mining list in Toronto lately and yesterday the shares rose to a new high for the movement of 47. In view of the decidedly favorable developments this year at the 1,200 foot level, holders of the stock are not inclined to let go at current prices. One shareholder, who is close to the controlling interests and who visited the property states on his return that he is satisfied to hold on.

At the 1,200 foot level the workings broke into a body of bornit carrying high values in copper. It is understood that this rich showing has held up wonderfully under subsequent development and has put Coast Copper in the list of important copper enterprises at the Coast.

Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada controls Coast Copper, and as a result of the favorable results obtained extensive plans for development for production have been under way. The question of treatment of ores will come up soon and Coast Copper may be involved in a scheme to erect a large smelter at coast of British Columbia.

The Position of McIntyre-Porcupine Mines.

Shareholders of McIntyre Porcupine Mines, who have held their stock through two years of aggressive mine development, have witnessed the shares recede from a high of 29.00 to less than 20.00. It is noteworthy that the decline in this stock has been relatively less than in many other prominent mine stocks. This was due doubtless to the success met with so far in development of the central and eastern portions of the mine at depth from the new No. 11 shaft. According to officials, not one disappointment was met with. The schisted zone, where ore bodies occur has widened at depths below 3,000 feet and is widest at the lowest 3875 foot level, where a long drive is being cut from end to end of the property, some 1½ miles right along the schisted zone, which lies next to the favorable porphyry intrusions. Ore bodies of commercial value have been located in this zone at four levels from 2,875 feet, but short drills and crosscuts will be sent in from both sides of the long drive, so that the favorable area will be probed right across from end to end of the property.

In view of the important ore bodies that have already been opened up south and east of the No. 11 shaft at depths of from 1,875 to 3,875 feet, it is regarded as extraordinary that McIntyre shares have not reflected such development. The reason is that the market has been left entirely alone by the big interests in the company. The attitude of the insiders, evidently, has been that until ore reserves are nearly doubled from their present total of $16,000,000 odd, the building of a large new mill will not be warranted. As soon as a new mill is definitely known to be warranted, the potential earning power will warrant price adjustment of the stock, probably to double its present price.

Meanwhile leading interests in McIntyre have been devoting their attention to Mond Nickel and International Nickel. They are a party to the consolidation plans for the two big companies under British-Canadian control. This was an immense undertaking and involved all the capital resources of those interested. Plans have evidently been successful, and the fruits of their efforts will undoubtedly come soon.

It is believed that after the famous coup in Nickel is completed, conditions at McIntyre-Porcupine will be such as to warrant attention in the market. If sufficient is not known already about conditions at the mine to assure physical assets of $30,000,000, it should be known within a reasonably short time.

Meanwhile McIntyre production and profits have been stepping up steadily, with net profits, before depreciation, running better than forty per cent on the stock in the past three or four years. Much of surplus profits have been put back into huge development and equipment, but in face of this the surplus has mounted steadily towards the $4,000,000 mark, while dividends have been maintained at the rate of twenty per cent per annum. On this basis, the stock yields approximately five per cent.

The management of McIntyre have been playing safe. Extreme conservation has been their policy. Not a chance has been taken, no gambling with the future, and the issued stock of the company remains where it was years ago, at 780,000 shares of $5 par value, or $3,900,000.

Let it be taken for granted that the work of the next few months will reveal physical assets totalling $30,000,000, and the mill capacity is increased from 1,500 to 3,000 tons. This should increase profits to approximately eighty per cent on the present stock, before depreciation.

Extraordinary expenditures will have ended, as the mine development that has been under way for nearly three years provides for this, and it has been almost entirely paid out of the earnings. There will be the mill extension to finance. The company is well shaped financially to do this, as it has been earning right along more than double its dividend requirements of $798,000. The directors may see their way, however, to issue new stocks with rights to shareholders. In any case, there appears no reason why the present dividend rate should not be doubled.

Trading in McIntyre shares in the past year or so has been of meagre proportions. Shareholders have been holding firmly to their stock, because they are convinced that when the proper time comes they will be rewarded amply. That time is now believed to be comparatively near at hand.

TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited for week ending October 20, 1928, is as follows:

Saint John—A slight decrease is reported by the wholesale trade as compared to last week's volume. Retail trade fairly satisfactory. Collections still continuing good.

Quebec City—Wholesale groceries reported good. Dry goods in better demand; boots and shoes satisfactory; lumber good; retail trade is satisfactory, with promise of good fall business.

Montreal—A very satisfactory volume is maintained by wholesale groceries, boots and shoes, clothing and ladies' wear; hardware is very busy and smallware and novelties are moving well. Retail trade, both country and city has been affected somewhat by the continual rains and sales are not quite up to those of last week. Collections, both wholesale and retail are improved.

Toronto—Wholesalers generally report a good volume. Retail trade satisfactory. Collections good.

Winnipeg—All lines of manufacturing continue very active. The wholesale trade may be considered normal and no big improvement is expected until more seasonable weather develops. Retail trade generally quiet for this time of the year; a spell of cold weather with snow falls would greatly assist most merchants. A check-up among the trade would indicate a very nice increase in business in all lines over the same period last year—increases running from 5 percent in staple lines to thirty percent in such lines as radios, auto equipment, etc., which would point to a much easier financial condition throughout the province. The improved condition of the buying public is also reflected in reports received from retailers, the majority of whom reported increases of ten per cent. to fifteen per cent. over the same period last year and a general feeling of optimism is prevalent. While all lines of business reported collections as better this year, the returns to date have not been as large as anticipated which no doubt is brought about by the fact that farmers have delayed hauling to get on with their fall plowing.

Regina—Wholesale groceries and hardware fair; dry goods and boots and shoes good. Retail trade is generally fair to good. Collections are fair to good.

Saskatoon—A steady increase is reported by wholesale groceries, and shows a fair increase over last year. Dry goods dealers also report an increase over last year. Boots and shoes good. Hardware dealers report a continuously increasing volume of business with a very nice increase over last year. Tremendous increases in sales are reported by dealers in farm implements particularly trucks and combines. Oil and grease companies are enjoying a very large turnover as compared with last year. Retail trade in the city is fair to good and reports indicate a slight increase in volume over last year. Country retail good. Collections show a slight improvement but have not picked up as much as anticipated during October. Retail collections good, although still rather slow in the country.

Calgary— Practically all lines of business throughout Southern Alberta, both retail and wholesale continue to show very satisfactory increases over the same period last year. Jobbers and retail merchants reporting very satisfactory business. Crop is being moved rapidly and as this is being realized upon, collections should become easier.

Edmonton—Frost damage to crops is resulting in a slackening up of several wholesale lines and also country retail. Collections which were very good have begun to slacken.

Vancouver — Manufacturing continues satisfactory. Wholesale groceries, dry goods and hardware report a good volume; remainder of trade generally fair. Both city and country retail trade is reported fairly satisfactory. Collections fair. Constuction and building as well as mining continues good.

Wedding Bells

BURKE—FITZGERALD

A quiet but pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized this morning at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, when Marion Frances Fitzgerald, only daughter of Mrs. Catharine Fitzgerald and the late Michael Fitzgerald, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to John Joseph Burke, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Burke of this city. Father O'Sullivan officiating. t
The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, John Fitzgerald, was charmingly attired in a dress of peach georgette with hat, shoes and hose to match, and wearing a corsage bouquet of Ophelia roses.
Miss Kathleen O'Brien, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, wearing a dress of rosewood georgette with velvet trimmings of the same shade and also a corsage bouquet of Columbia roses. Black picturesque hat and fox fur choker.
Mr. Leigh Hunt of this city acted as groomsman.
The groom's gift to the bride was a fox fur neckpiece; to the bridesmaid, a set of rosary; to the groomsman, a pair of cuff links.
After the wedding ceremony the bridal party motored to the home of the bride's mother, where a sumptuous wedding breakfsat was served to immediate friends.
Later the happy couple left amid showers of confetti for a short honeymoon to Toronto and Niagara. On their return they will reside in the city.

ROSS—EDGAR.

A quiet and very pretty wedding was solemnized at one o'clock to-day at St. John's Church, when Kathleen, only daughter of Mr. John Edgar and the late Mrs. Edgar, was united in marriage to Campbell Stronach Ross, only son of Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Ross, of Lindsay. The ceremony was performed by Dr. R. C. Blagrave, and the wedding music was played by F. G. Mann, A.Mus.
The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of rose beige French lace posed over a slip of the same shade in silk crepe. The skirt was pleated and there were tiny pleated ruffles at the cuffs of the long, tight sleeves. A pointed neckline was in collarless effect. A wide girdle of gold beige taffeta was ornamented across the front with sprays of French flowers done in flat silk embroidery.
A tiny, close-fitting hat of beige Soleil felt with self bandings was worn, with brown suede slippers and beige silk hose. The bride's only ornament was an amber necklet, and she carried an arm bouquet of tea roses and lily of the valley.
A sister of the bridegroom, Miss Mary Ross, of Lindsay, acted as bridesmaid. Her gown was of brown Canton crepe with long, pointed lace collar at front and back. Her skirt was composed of tiers of frilling and the dress was made with long sleeves. She wore a small hat of beige and brown felt, brown suede slippers and brown hose, and carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliff roses.
A brother of the bride, Mr. Jack Edgar, acted as best man, and another brother, Mr. Francis Edgar, ushered the guests to their pews.
Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. Ross and his bride left for a motor trip to the United States, after which they will live in Oshawa.
The bride's travelling gown was of Old English green silk crepe, made in tailored style, with box pleating and large green buttons. Her coat was of light brown suedine with Paquin collar and long cuffs of beige and brown fox. Her leather purse and kid gloves were of beige shade, and she wore her bridal hat of beige felt.

LAKEFIELD RESIDENT IS FATALLY HURT

CLERGY REJECT REVISED PRAYER BOOK

LONDON AND LIVERPOOL BISHOPS ARE DENIED PERMISSION TO USE DISCRETION IN USE OF NEW BOOK

Reservation of Sacrament Opposed Except in Special Cases.

DISCIPLINE UPHELD.

Clergy Agree To Support Bishops in Stamping Out Practices Contrary To Book.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Fourteen hundred clergymen of the Diocese of London, meeting in the first Synod called in the Diocese since the Reformation yesterday voted against permanent reservation of the sacrament and against authorizing their Bishop to use his discretion on the employment of the revised Prayer Book, the document which was rejected by the House of Commons.

The Right Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, told the clergyman that he sought "guidance" when he summoned the Synod, in view of the dilemma left by Parliament's rejection of the revised Prayer Book. He submitted to them a number of specific questions for vote.

Negative Is Decisive.

A proposal to give the Bishop discretion to use the revised Prayer Book pending final settlement of the question, was rejected, 472 votes to 523. Another proposal to authorize him to regulate the permanent reservation of the sacrament for the benefit of the sick and in accordance with the provisions of the revised book, was overwhelmingly voted down 392 to 655.

The Synod did, however, empower the Bishop to allow reservation of the sacrament for the sick under exceptional circumstances, but only provisionally in each instance.

The clergy were also asked this question.

Will Support Bishops.

"Are you willing to support the Bishops of the Church in endeavoring, for the sake of peace in the Church, to make sure that practices which are consistent neither with the Prayer Book of 1662, nor with the revised Book, shall cease?"

The answer was in the affirmative, 536 to 494.

Dramatic Protest

There was a dramatic moment at the opening of the Synod when Rev. G. E. Milnes, vicar of St. Chad's Haggerston, an East London parish, read from manuscript a solemn protest declaring that the Synod was illegal on the grounds that it was an attempt to override a decision of Parliament. Mr. Milnes declined to take any further part in the proceedings and stalked out after he had finished his reading.

Bishop Ingram, in his opening address to the Synod, had stated that the clergy were not called to the meeting as law-breakers, but in the interests of peace. Mr. Milnes' opposite view had no supporters, and the discussions continued after he left without further interruption.

Liverpool Synod Follows Suit

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Clergymen of the Diocese of Liverpool yesterday, like the London Synod, voted against the use of the Revised Prayer Book at also declined to give him the right also declined to give him the hight to regulate reservation of the sacrament, as provided for in the Revised Book.

The local synod showed itself a stickler for church discipline when it decided, by 244 to 22, to take part in any act of censure pronounced by the Bishop when, in his judgment, occasion arose for disciplinary measures. This it is understood, is especially applicable to parishes which may try to use the Revised Prayer Book.

THE WEATHER

Still more rain! The shower this morning makes sixteen days this month that rain has fallen. It amounted to .12. The total for the month is now 4.09. October of last year had 2.01, or less than one-half of what has already fallen. Rains have been heavy over a large section of the country, and there should be no complains of dry wells. The temperature this morning was down to the freezing point, and ice was to be seen in places.—W.P.

CLIMBS WETTERHORN

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland, Oct. 25.—Wetterhorn, famous peak of the Bernese Oberland, 12,165 feet high, has been conquered by the Japanese alpinist Samatsu. The ascent was made on the western side, which had been considered impossible to climb.

Snow For Snowballs East Of Indian River

It no doubt is a surprise to residents in the city and close in to the city to know that this morning there was a sufficient fall of snow between Indian River and Norwood to make snowballs.

There was only a slight fall of snow in Peterborough, but in the above territory there was quite a fall.

QUEBEC PARTIES WIN SEAT EACH

Mayor Houde, of Montreal, Conservative, and Oscar Drouin Liberal, Elected.

IN BY-ELECTIONS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—The Conservative representation in the Quebec Legislative assembly was increased by one as the result of the outcome of the two by-elections held in the division of St. Mary's Montreal and Quebec East, Quebec City, yesterday.

The Conservative gain was made in St. Mary's division where Camillion Houde, Mayor of Montreal, and the official Conservative representative retained the seat he lost in 1927 to Joseph Gauthier, Liberal. The latter, however, never sat in the Assembly as his election was contested and annulled by the courts. The division was without a representative until to-day's elections.

The Liberals retained Quebec East when Oscar Drouin defeated the Conservative candidate Pierre Audet. The by-election followed the appointment of the sitting members, Hon. Louis Letourneau, to the Legislative Council.

The standing of the parties in the Legislative Assembly is now as follows: Liberals, 74; Conservatives,11.

Four-Cornered Fight

Yesterday's contest in St. Mary's was a four-cornered fight between Mayor Houde; Ernest Langlois, city Alderman and the official Liberal standardbearer; Napoleon Giroux, Independent Conservative, and Josph Legarde, Independent Liberal.

With one poll to hear from out of a total of 110, Mayor Houde had amassed a majority of over 500 votes. The figures for the 109 polls were: Houde, 3,487; Langlois, 2710; Legarde, 139, and Giroux, 47. The latter two lost their deposits. The total poll was 6,383 votes out of an available aggregate of 12,318, or 49.7 per cent.

In Quebec East the battle was a straight party affair between Oscar Drouin, Liberal, and Pierre Audet, Conservative. The results of the vote in the 44 polls complete were as follows. Drouin, 2,850; Audet, 1,754, a majority of 1,096 for Drouin.

CHIEF DETECTIVE DIES SUDDENLY

Inspector William Wallace Had Headed Toronto Department Only Two Weeks.

ON FORCE 38 YEARS.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Promoted only two weeks ago the head of the Toronto detective department, Inspector William Wallace, veteran police official, died suddenly during the night. The first intimation of the well known criminal investigator's death was received when an official of the department called at his home as the Inspector did not arrive at his office at his accustomed hour.

Inspector Wallace, a member of the police force for 38 years and of the Detective Department for 25 of these, was apparently in good health when he left his office last night.

The Inspector, who was born in Ireland 61 years ago, was recognised as one of the leading criminologists on the continent. He was secretary treasurer of the Chief Constable's Association of Canada. He joined the Toronto force April 1, 1890 and was made a detective in December 1906. Thirteen years later he became Assistant Inspector of Detectives and two weeks ago was appointed to head the department.

ROYAL COFFINS MOVED FROM CHAPEL VAULT

Remains Are Removed From Royal Mortuary Chapel To Frogmore.

DONE IN SECRET.

Sixteen Kings and Queens of England Are Buried in Chapel.

(By Henry Somerville, Special Cable, Copyright).

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Rev. Dr. A. V. Baillie, Dean of Windsor, showed himself a master of secret organization by securing the transfer on Monday night of eight royal coffins from the vault at Windsor to the new cemetery at Frogmore.

It was about ten o'clock on Monday night in a drizzling rain, when a number of trusted workmen who have been for years in royal employment, were assembled in St. George's chapel, which was lighted just sufficiently to guard against accidents. They descended into the crypt and then went along the tunnel which leads to the tomb house.

The coffins were brought first through the long tunnel and raised into St. George's Chapel and then carried through the ground to the cemetery at Frogmore. Not even the policemen at the Castle gates knew what was being done, and nobody is known to have seen the procession from outside the castle grounds. It was the wish of the king that the removal should be made as quietly as possible.

The vault or tomb house under the historic chapel of St. George's is called the royal mortuary chapel, and sixteen kings and queens of England are buried there, the coffins resting on shelves lining the walls. The Marquis of Cambridge, brother of the present Queen, was buried there last year, as was the Queen Mother, Alexandra, in 1925, and King Edward in 1910. The vault had become almost completely full, and, according to a statement of the Dean of Windsor, some members of the royal family preferred burial in the earth to burial in a vault.

For these reasons, the King had a small and beautiful burial ground made behind Queen Victoria's mausoleum at Frogmore. This was consecrated by the Bishop of Oxford in September. All members of the royal family in future, except sovereigns and those in direct line of succession, will be buried at Frogmore. The burial services will all be held in St. George's Chapel, whether interment is to take place in the vault or in the cemetery. For vault interments, the coffin is lowered through the floor of the chapel and is then carried to the vault.

The coffins transferred on Monday night include those of the Marquis of Cambridge, Lord Trematon, a nephew of the Queen, and the Duchess of Connaught. The Duke of Connaught had expressed approval of the new plans regarding royal burials.

Fairbanks Income Subject Of Dispute

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Douglas Fairbanks computes his income in one way; the government adds it up in another. Consequently the famous moving picture star, with his wife, Mary Pickford, were in town to keep an appointment at the Treasury. Something over a million dollars was at stake.

ALL CREW SAFE; 22 MEN ASHORE

Mate's Boat From Cairntorr, Aground in Gulf, Reaches Wolfe Cove.

SALACIA STANDS BY.

MONTREAL, Que., October 25 (Canadian Press). — All the crew of the s.s. Cairntorr, ashore near Cape Whittle, on the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, were accounted for to-day when Furness, Withy & Company, Limited, received a telegram from Wolfe Cove, Quebec, stating that the mate's boat with twenty-two men on board had landed there. These men were unheard of from yesterday, and fears were expressed as to their safety. When the Cairntorr went aground on Tuesday, the crew left her in two boats. The captain's boat was picked up by the Anchor-Donaldson freighter Salacia, which is standing by the Cairntorr, while the mate's boat was unreported until to-day.

Billy Sunday Earned Applause—And An Egg

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 25.—Billy Sunday drew applause and one egg from the audience which heard his denunciation here of "Al Smith, Raskob and the Tammany crowd." The evangelist dodged the egg and shouted to the thrower:

"Come up here and I'll knock your head off." There was no response.

Election of Al Smith would mean the return of the saloon, with its "muttering, spluttering drunkards," Sunday declared, in upholding his opposition to the Democratic nominee on prohibition grounds. Mrs Sunday also spoke.

FOUR TRAINMEN KILLED IN CRASH

Engineers and Firemen of Two Trains Die in Head-on Collision.

ON SCOTTISH LINE.

LOCKERBIE, Dumfries, Scotland, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Four persons were killed and three injured when a London to Aberdeen passenger train collided with a freight train near here early this morning. The engines were derailed and rolled down the embankment, the engineer and fireman in each engine were killed. Three passengers were seriously injured.

Locherbie is 25 miles from Carlisle on the route of the Old Caledonian Railroad, now the London, Midland and Scotish road. This little hamlet has long been the scene of the fastest train run in the British Isles being half way up the long hill to Beattock Summit. Here for a distance of three miles the ground is level after which there is a heavy uphill climb. It has been the custom of the engineers to speed up on the level so that they might go up the 12 mile grade and over the Summit without any assistance.

Before the war when competition was very keen on the three railroads running from London to Scotland it was quite usual to put three engines on the train for the climb. But only in the last 12 months has there been new engines built which would take such crack trains as "The Royal Scot" with 15 steel coaches in which every seat is reserved up this incline at a speed that is never less than 53 miles an hour and quite often they go over the Locherbie level at 80 miles an hour. At Locherbie station it is the rule that on the approach of one of the fliers the wheels of all the baggage trucks are chained and the stationmaster must be on the platform to see the train pass through.

ASSOCIATION TO CARRY ON WORK

N. B. A. Will Not Go On Rocks Because of Threatened Withdrawal.

INTERNAL DISSENSION.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—The National Boxing Association is not going on the rocks because of a threatened withdrawal of two or three Eastern States and Canada, said Paul Prehn, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, and newly-elected president of the N.B.A., yesterday.

The present internal dissension in the organization is "just a controversy between several former office holders," President Prehn said. He added this controversy would not deter the association from pushing its plans to promote the sport.

"We, as an organization, are interested in the welfare of the sport only, and not politics," Prehn said. "Only the Eastern States which have been in control of the N.B.A. and which for the first time have been defeated are dissatisfied and wish to form a new organization. However, we will remain loyal and will cooperate to carry out the plans of advancing the sport."

The present situation was caused, Prehan said, by the failure of Thomas Murphy of Toronto, to become elected to the presidency or a vice presidency. Prehn revealed an effort was made a year ago to have the constitution amended so that Canada could be given equal representation on the question of votes and office, but that Lathrop Cogowell of Maryland, secretary of the N.B.A., took no action on the suggestion.

FREIGHT CARS ARE DERAILED ON C. N. R. LINE

Seven Cars Loaded With Wheat Leave Rails at Campbellford.

TRACK TORN UP.

Passengers On Noon Train East Taken To Destination in Caboose.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25—(Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Seven cars loaded with wheat were derailed about one hundred yards west of Campbellford station at 11:30 to-day, two of them rolling down the fifteen foot embankment.

The accident occurred when the grain train was getting under way after waiting for the way freight to pass. The train had attained a speed of about fifteen miles an hour at the time.

Several yards of the track were torn up and the passage of the afternoon passenger train; eastbound was blocked. The passengers were taken to Belleville in a caboose behind a light engine, while a train was sent from that city for mail and express.

CHILDREN LEARN MUSIC BY RADIO

Receiving Sets Being Installed in U. S. Schools For Educational Concerts.

STARTING TO-MORROW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Radio will supplant textbooks in thousands of schoolrooms of the country tomorrow when the first of a series of educational musical concerts will be broadcast by Walter Damrosch, widely-known musician.

The series is being sponsored by the Radio Corporation of America and will be broadcast over WJZ and twenty-five associated radio stations east of the Rocky Mountains starting at 11 a.m. eastern standard time. In New York City alone 125 public schools have been equipped with radio receiving sets and will listen in on concerts, while at Teachers' College, Columbia University, the faculty and students of the music department will follow the concerts as part of their studies.

The Radio Corporation announces that radio sets for receiving the broadcasts are being installed in schools throughout the country.

LOCAL MASONS VISIT TORONTO

Visit Runnymede Lodge, Where C. E. Sisson is Master.

ENJOYABLE VISIT.

Travelling by special coach attached to the Canadian Pacific train which leaves Peterborough at 3.30 in the afternoon, a goodly number of Peterborough members of the Masonic Order paid a fraternal visit to Runnymede Lodge, Toronto, last evening.

To the Toronto Lodge, they were welcomed by Worshipful Master Chas. Sisson, who formerly resided in Peterborough, and after a very enjoyable few hours, returned to Peterborough at midnight.

Swimmer Found To Be Escaped Prisoner

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 25.—"Ah's a marathon swimmah, Cap, swimmin' fo' eks'acise. Ah's in trainin' fo' wind an' distance."

The explanation, coming from a young negro overtaken in the channel between Welfare Island and Manhattan yesterday, did not entirely satisfy the skipper of the tugboat Phoenix. The swimmer was shed out of the water and turned over to a police launch.

It was soon discovered that prison guards on Welfare Island were hunting for Benjamin Boyd, colored, who has disappeared from a work gang. The swimmer was identified as Boyd

He was sent to the penitentiary by Judge Cohn on August 2 for violation of parole and assaulting a "friend" with a club

Five-Leafed Clover Treasured By Finder

J. Neary, of Hurley street, Peterborough, wouldn't give a plugged nickle for an Aladdin's lamp, even of sufficient candle power to bring him all the luck going. Why? Because he's got it!

To begin with, Mr. Neary is an Irishman, and Irishmen are known to place no ordinary amount of faith in the magic powers of four leaf clovers. But listen to this one:—

This afternoon, he sent to The Examiner for inspection, a genuine five-leaf clover, stem, leaves and all, reposing in a small jeweller's box. He had found the specimen some time ago near the De Laval plant, where he works, and on the same day, 'tis said, he found no less than four four-leaf clovers, as well.

What his luck has been since finding the good omens, he did not say; but it's a safe bet there's one optimistic person in Peterborough.

REPORTS OF PROTESTANT HOME SHOW SPLENDID MANAGEMENT

Mayor Denne Comments On Good Showing at Annual Board Meeting.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

Mrs. R. Neill Again Chosen President—Question of Annex Discussed.

The sixty-seventh annual meeting of the Peterborough Protestant Home was held at the Home yesterday with a large attendance of the members and interested citizens, including Mayor Denne and representatives of the different churches of the city and the Charity Board. Meeting their first appearance for some years at a meeting of the Board were Mrs. G. M. Birdsall and Miss A. M. Nicholls, both senior members of the organization. They were heartily welcomed by the president, Mrs. R. Neill, who occupied the chair and, in the course of a brief address, expressed the wish that a fence similar to that erected at the Filtration Plant be placed across the front of the Home grounds and hoped that friends in the city and district would contribute towards this improvement. Several other members expressed themselves in favor of the idea.

Miss A. M. Nicholls spoke of the pleasure given the members by the satisfactory methods used in the conduct of the Home.

Mayor Denne, who seconded the reports after their reading, spoke in high terms of appreciation of the excellent state of affairs at the Home and congratualted the superintendent, Miss Lancaster, on her very satisfactory management. He said that the City Council always passed, without hesitation, items coming up in connection with the Protestant Home.

The meeting's chief business was the hearing of reports, which were given by the secretary, Mrs. F. M. Dela Fosse, the treasurer, Miss Sara G. Robinson, the superintendent, Miss A. M. Lancaster, and the grounds superintendent, J. C. Hamilton. These wil lappear in full in a later issue. All were heard with a great deal of interest, and E. F. Mason congratulated Mr. Hamilton especially on the great increase in production noted in the Home gardens since 1915, the first year of Mr. Hamilton's superintendency.

Officers Re-elected

The slate of officers was re-elected, as were the retiring directors, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. G. R. Scott, Miss M. Archer, and E. J. H. Vanston.

A discussion took place regarding the building of an annex to erlieve crowded conditions, and it was announced that J. Kennett will engrave and place in a prominent place in the Home a list of bequests made since 1915.

Devotional exercises were taken by Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave. At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served, Mrs. E. E. Harvey presiding, assisted by members of the Board.

Officers re-elected for the coming year are as follows; Honorary president, Mrs. W. Roger of Elora; 1st honorary vice president, Mrs. C. M. Birdsall; 2nd honorary vice president, Miss A. M. Nicholls; president, Mrs. R. Neill; 1st vice president, Mrs. D. Walker; 2nd vice president, Mrs. Robert Hall; treasurer, Miss Sara G. Robinson; secretary, Mrs. F. M. Delafosse. Board members: Mrs. C. I. Suckling, Miss C. Dickson, Mrs. F. L. Robinson, Miss M. Archer, Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. E. E. Harvey, Mrs. G. R. Scott, E. F. Mason, J. A. Aylmer and E. J. H. Vanston.

House committee: Miss M. Archer, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. F. M. Somerville and Mrs. C. I. Suckling. Finance committee: Miss Sara G. Robinson, Miss C. Dickson, Mrs. D. Walker and E. J. H. Vanston. Purchasing committee: Mrs. E. E. Harvey, Mrs. G. R. Scott and Mrs. F. L. Robinson. Grounds committee: Messrs E. F. Mason and J. A. Aylmer.

Smith Has Mysterious Friend in Far Shanghai

SHANGHAI, Oct. 25.—(United Press.) — Governor Alfred E. Smith has a mysterious friend in Shanghai over whom hundreds of foreigners are puzzling. A Chinese band recently marched through the streets of Shanghai for three days, playing one tune —The Sidewalks of New York— and carrying a large likeness of Governor Smith. Americans in Shanghai cannot vote. The leader of the band, when questioned, would not disclose who had hired the musicians.

LINDSAY ROAD IN FAIR SHAPE

Detour West of Fowler's Corners Fairly Good—Construction at Hillhead.

DETOUR ADVISABLE.

The choice of the best motor route to Lindsay at the present time has caused more than one motorist worry, especially during the past couple of weeks, when rumors of completion have caused many of them to go astray. Numerous inquiries have reached the Examiner.

As is generally known by this time, the Chemong highway has been opened with pavement extending to and around the turn at the fourth line of Smith. From there on, the motorist encounters fair travelling until at the foot of the hill beyond the Centre Smith cheese factory, where a cement culvert has been built. The approach to this is now being completed and should be approached with caution.

The regular highway is followed to Fowler's Corners where the first and only detour is encountered. The detour, contrary to custom, is good travelling, and returns the traveller to the main road just east of the Omemee cemetery. Thence to Omemee, the newly completed highway is in excellent condition.

West of Omemee the road is not closed, but since the work of surfacing has not by any means been completed, the going is decidedly rough all the way to Hillhead. From there to Lindsay the original highway has not been touched and affords fair travelling.

Because the Omemee-to-Hillhead stretch is such a poor prospect, much of the travel has continued to divert at Omemee to the Downeyville road, which leads north from the Coronation Hall turn. While the stretch adjacent to the village is quite rough, it is much to be preferred. It leads through and beyond Downeyville for half a mile at which the motorist turns west once more. Some road work is encountered about three miles from Lindsay but so far has not proved a sufficient obstruction to cause the traveller worry.

Robert Allen Killed By Maddened Bull On T. J. Wood Farm

Bull Attacks Workman Who Was Inspecting Field, Inflicting Fatal Wounds in Spite of Its Lack of Horns.

YOUNG ANIMAL HAD NEVER SHOWN ANY PREVIOUS SIGN OF BAD TEMPER

Bull Shot Dead By Owner After Chasing Second Man From Field—Mrs. Allan Died Four Months Ago.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 25 — (Examiner Correspondence). — Robert Allen was fatally infured by a bull this morning on the farm of Thomas J. Wood in the northern part of the village. The fatality occurred about ten o'clock while Mr. Allen was inspecting the field where the bull was, and death occurred a few minutes after.

The bull, which was about eighteen months old, had no horns and had never shown any signs of temper until it turned on Mr. Allen in the field. Mr. Allen has had the care of the animal for over a year, handling it every night.

Animal Shot Dead

Several men who were working in a boathouse nearby heard Mr. Allen's shouts and rushed to his assistance, while Albert Payne, who lives close by, brought a gun with him. He was afraid to shoot for fear of hitting Mr. Allen.

The animal turned on Mr. Payne who climbed the fence and fired at it. Mr. Wood later killed the animal.

Mr. Allen was picked up by the men but died before medical assistance could be obtained.

The late Robert Allen was a man of fifty-seven years old, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen, Douro. He was a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Paul's Church and well and favorably known in the village as a kindly and honest man.

Eight Children Survive

Mrs. Allen died four months ago, and eight children survive. They are Thomas, Edward and Leo of Detroit; Sister Oswald of Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough; and Josephine, Marie, Bernard, and Patrick at home. Two brothers, Michael and Edward, and one sister, Mrs. John Kenniedy, reside in Douro, and another sister, Mrs. Scully, in Peterborough.

FIRE THREATENS WHOLE VILLAGE

Volunteers, Assisted By Gananoque Brigade, Confine Blaze to Lansdowne Barn.

ONE HOUSE SCORCHED.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Good work on the part of volunteer fire-fighters and the brigade summoned from Gananoque early this morning confined an outbreak of fire in the heart of the village of Lansdowne to a large barn owned by William Truesdell, which was totally destroyed. A double dwelling house adjoining the barn and occupied by the families of Mrs. Griffin and Hubert McClary was slightly damaged. It was also owned by Truesdell and was formerly a hotel.

ACTIVE CAMPAIGN MARKS BY-ELECTION

Party Leaders Take Part in Battle For Saskatchewan House.

CRAIK, Sask., October 25 (Canadian Press). — After one of the most active campaigns in the history of the Province, in which Premier James Gardiner and Dr. J. T. M. Anderson, the Conservative leader, played a prominent part, the electors of the constituency of Arm River to-day will go to the polls to elect their representative in the Provincial Legislature

The election was necessitated by the resignation of the sitting member, the Hon. George Scott, who was appointed to a Federal Government post in Saskatchewan.

TENNIS WITH A "STING"

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A wasp has the distinction of having held up a championship tennis tournament at Scarborough. He worried one of the women players until she stopped long enough to chase the insect from the court—to the great delight of spectators.

Toronto Constable Found Not Guilty

Dinnen Is Freed By Jury

Acquits Police Constable On Manslaughter Charge After Lengthy Trial.

SHOT ALBERT SAMSON.

Accused Had Not Shot To Kill, Only To Make Car Stop.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—F. C. William Dinnen was found not guilty by an Assize Jury before Mr. Justice Wright yesterday afternoon on the charge of manslaughter, brought against him as the result of the shooting of Albert Samson on Portland Street on August 19.

Dinnen claimed that he did not shoot at the car "to kill," but merely to make the car stop.

In his charge to the jury Mr. Justice Wright said:

The questions they had to answer were:

Did Samson meet his death at the hands of the prisoner?

Was Samson arrested?

Was the arrest lawful?

Was only such force as was necessary used to prevent Samson's escape?

It was a matter for congratulation, concluded His Lordship, that very seldom in the criminal courts of the province was there a charge against a police officer for having taken the life of a fellow-creature in the supposed execution of his duty.

His Lordship said it was a very proper verdict under the circumstances, but the case would be a warning as to the discriminate use of firearms.

BETHEL CHURCH HOLDS SERVICES

Anniversary Observed By People of the United Church.

(Examiner Correspondence)

THOMASBURG, Oct. 25.—Bethel United Church held its anniversary services on Sunday, October 21st, both morning and evening. The Rev. David Clare of Norham conducted both services.

His subject for the morning service was "The Faith Of Christ" and for the evening service was "The Glorious Church." The Thomasburg choir furnished the music in the morning and the Bethel choir in the evening. The church was nicely decorated with flowers.

Both services were largely attended. The collections for the day amounted to $158.00. Their objective was $150.00.

Campbellford

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25.—Mr. C. Dickson Dawson returned to Niagara Falls, N. Y., yesterday afternoon, where he will resume his position.

Cold weather has not proved ideal for the midway which has been erected and which was opened to the public last night on the market square. Joyland Shows, owned by Ed. Hubble of this town, has contracted to operate his midway for several days under the auspices of the Church of England Men's Club. The business of setting up the merry-go-round, ferris wheel and the various other attractions is now complete and the success of the venture remains largely in the lap of the weather man and the remainder with the general inclination of the public.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD SPRINGVILLE UNITED CHURCH

Rev. Harold Young, of Toronto, in Charge of Morning and Evening Serives.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

SPRINGVILLE, Oct. 25 (Examiner Correspondence). — Anniversary services were held in Springville United Church on Sunday, October 21, with the Rev. Harold Young of Toronto in charge of both sessions. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Mars Westington of Toronto, accompanied by Miss Elcome of Peterborough. The services were well attended, the church being filled to capacity both morning and evening.

Rev. A. H. McConnachie, pastor of the church, assisted in the morning worship.

The text was taken from 1st John 4, 8: "He that loveth not, knoweth not God; for God is love."

The speaker developed his subject and by concrete examples and reasoning provided proof for his text, "God is Love."

"A man has courage who dares to say that God is love," he said.

God is a spirit that moves in and through this life. By illustrations of mother love and the self-sacrificing spirit of great men who for the love of their fellow-man are laying down their lives in Central Africa and other foreign fields, he showed that there is something in the human heart that makes it necessary to believe that "God is love."

Can that glorious divine thing be in the heart of man and not be in God's heart?

The effect cannot be greater than the cause, therefore man cannot be greater than God, hence in the heart of God who made us is love.

The love of God is a challenge. Let us live our lives as if we did believe that "God is love."

Evening Service

The text for evening was taken from St. John 17, 19: "And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth."

Jesus was a dreamer, a man of action. By a study of His life we learn how to live.

In the human soul there is a struggle for supremacy between self-culture and self denial. Our problem is how to balance them. Their paths seem to grow divergent as the years go by, yet Jesus had both. He increased in wisdom and in stature, but also lived a life of service and sacrifice. He gave His life for us. For our sakes He sanctified Himself.

Fowl Supper

A very successful fowl supper was held on Monday evening, October 22, at Springville United Church, in connection with the anniversary services of Sunday, October 21.

Over six hundred persons were accommodated and a bountiful supper was provided for all.

During the waiting interval in the church, while supper was being served in the basement, several musical selections were rendered by Robert Rose, organist of the church, and a number of humorous Scotch stories told by the pastor, Rev. A. H. McConnachie were greatly enjoyed.

Following the supper a good program was provided by the following Peterborough artists:

Misses Jessie Hill and B. Elcome, and Messrs. McCannon, Thompson, Curvin, F. Clark, J. Runnett, J. Smith, and B. Henry.

Misses Elcome and Pollock were the accompanists for the evening.

Proceeds from the thank-offering and supper amounted to a little over six hundred and eighteen dollars.

Personals

Miss Mildred Brown of Campbellcroft was the guest on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cathcart.

Mrs. M. Archer of Smith was the guest on Monday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Young.

CANADIAN BREEDER WINS WORLD CHAMPION HONORS

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press). — "Canary Korndyke Alcartra," Holstein-Freisan cow belonging to the herd of Ben H. Thomson, of Boharm, Sask., has been declared world's champion butter-fat producer. Mr. Thomson received a telegram from the Livestock Commissioner at Ottawa, notifying him that his cow had won the world championship with an enormous margin to spare. The record of Canary Korndyke Alcartra for 305 days was 1,080 pounds of butter-fat, or 106 pounds more than any previous record holder. In the 305-day period the cow produced 26,396 pounds of milk with an average test of 4.04 butter-fat.

PRESENTED WITH LEATHER CLUB BAG

G. W. Sayles Honored By Millbrook Friends at Social Evening.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—An informal event, but one of a very pleasant character, took place on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball, when the members of the Curling Club, and of the municipal council, presented G. W. Sayles, a former citizen, who has moved to Toronto to reside, with a handsome solid leather club bag, as a token of their esteem.

Reeve W. T. Wood, on behalf of the organizations mentioned, made a brief address, expressing appreciation of the assistance given by the guest of the evening with local municipal affairs, and also of the enthusiastic support he has invariably given the curling club of the home town, adding as well a word of genuine regret because of his removal from the village, leaving a vacancy that will not soon be as capably filled.

The presentation of the gift was also made by Reeve Wood, among those who spoke along similar lines with the one who first addressed the gathering, being W. E. Ball, R. H. Edmunds, and A. A. Smith, all of whom have been fellow devotees with Mr. Sayles of the 'roarin' game

Member for Several Years

For several years Mr. Sayles has been a member of the rink of local curlers, skipped by R. H. Edmunds, which has brought honor to the village by carrying off some handsome prizes at various bonspiels in the district, and on one occasion was given enthusiastic public reception when the "lucky four" won the Carew Cup in competition with a rink of the Granite Club, Toronto, the game being played on the latter's home ice.

Reference to the pleasant associations enjoyed, both in the council and the curling club, was made by the recipient of the gift when he made acknowledgment of the courtesy which had been shown him by fellow members of these organizations, and the other speakers of the evening also included mention of them in their remarks.

The gathering was purely of an informal character, and was not prolonged, as Mr. and Mrs. Sayles and their family had motored from Toronto to attend the annual fowl supper being served that evening at the United Church, and as the hour was growing late, and they had a rather long motor trip ahead of them a "Jolly Good Fellow" was sung, good-byes were spoken, and the evening brought to a close with words of gratitude to Mr. and Mrs. Ball for extending the hospitality of their home for the occasion.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

GOOD PLOWING ON CAVAN FARM

Cavan and South Monaghan Association Holds Annual Match.

SILVER SERVICE GIVEN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25.— The annual plowing match, under the auspices of the Cavan and South Monaghan Plowmen's Association, was held on Wednesday, October 24, on the farm of John S. Cathcart, Tenth Line, Cavan, the event being favored with fine, if somewhat cool, weather, and with interest in the various classes well sustained throughout.

Plowing matches in other centres prevented some entrants from outside points, who usually participate in the local competition, from being present, but a good standard of work was maintained in all the classes. There was at least one competitor, Wilfrid Shortt, of Woodville, who took honors both this year and last, at the Provincial Plowing Match, and who entered in the high cut class in sod.

The judge was William Rennie, of Agincourt, and his work was hardly finished before dark, the comparatively short afternoons at this season making it practically impossible to have the competition completed long before dusk.

Hot meals were served at the home of William Nill, opposite the farm where the match was held, and a very interesting feature, following the supper hour, was the presentation of the handsome, four piece, solid silver tea service, donated by A. J. H. Eckhardt, of Toronto, and awarded to the one holding first place in the class open to boys 21 years, and under.

Harold Collins, of Keene, was the winner and the presentation was made by Mr. Eckhardt, who is the Honorary President of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, and who was present as the guest of L. H. Winston and vice?president of the provinton an dvice-president of the provincial organization.

Designed Specially

Mr. Eckhardt was introduced by Mr. Winslow, and in presenting the prize, explained that the design was made especially for him by the International Silver Company, and will not be duplicated for any other purpose. A personal, and very genuine, interest in agriculture had led the donor to give similar prizes in each of the twelve districts into which the province is divided in connection with the fairs and exhibitions; and his generosity extends not alone to the Plowmen's Associations, but also to the Poultry Associations, and to Fairs and Exhibitions organizations.

The award also goes annually to the Canadian National Exhibition, and to the Royal Winter Fair, with the addition of a solid silver waiter for holding the service, as these events are outstanding in size and importance. Mr. Eckhardt likewise honors his native country of York, and his home township of Markham (having been born at Unionville, the sixth generation on the family homestead), by presenting at their annual fairs the same beautiful silver service and tray.

WAR MEMORIAL NEARLY READY

Madoc Monument Will Be Unveiled On Armistice Day.

IN MEMORIAL PARK.

MADOC, Oct. 25.—The Madoc Womens Institute have at last been permitted to see the plans of years brought to the point of fulfillment, and Armistice Day has been chosen for the unveiling of their war memorial.

Plans are under way for the ceremony, which will be military in character.

The monument has been ordered from the McCallum Company of Kingston, who have promised its completion at an early date

The monument is to be erected on the Thompson Memorial Park, directly east of the armouries, where the base has already been placed.

The Parks committee have been busy for some months with tree planting, levelling, cleaning up, and general preparation, and the appearance of the park is much improved, and next year's plans are already being made for extended improvements and a commodious band stand with improved lighting facilities are being considered.

DENIES CHARGES WHEAT POOL HOLDING UP GRAIN SHIPMENTS

Dealers Not Satisfied With Present Price of Canadian Wheat.

SOME STORING GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—E. B. Ramsay, secretary of the Manitoba Wheat Pool, yesterday denied charges that the Canadian Wheat Pool is holding up shipments of wheat and thus increasing the cost of bread and flour in England.

"Nobody in Canada is satisfied with the present level of wheat," declared Mr. Ramsay. "However, we are not retarding shipments, but on the other hand are not free sellers on the present price levels," he added.

Mr. Ramsay revealed that wheat is 18 cents lower than it was last year, "notwithstanding the fact that the Canadian crop is of exceptional quality, even if it does grade slightly lower than last year."

From the point of view of the Canadian farmer, Mr. Ramsay continued, the prices are considered too low at present and "we find that the non-pool members are also of the same opinion."

The non-pool members, he added, are storing their grain awaiting acceptable prices.

89TH ANNIVERSARY OF UNITED CHURCH

Norwood Congregation Observes Occasion in Fitting Manner.

(Examiner Correspondence).

NORWOOD, Oct. 25.—On Sunday, Oct. 22, the eighty-ninth anniversary of the United Church, which was the former Methodist Church of this village, was very fittingly observed. The church was beautifully decorated about the altar with all the fruits of the harvest season. Large congregations attended both services.

In the morning Rev. A. M. Irwin, B.A., B.D., of Oshawa, a former pastor, was the special speaker, choosing his text from the 14th chapter of 1st Corinthians: "Desire that ye may prophecy." Dr. James L. Hughes, a leading educationist, of Toronto, was the special speaker at the evening service, his subject being 'Better Child Training.'

On Monday evening the ladies of the congregation held their usual fowl dinner, when a bountiful feast was provided for an exceedingly large crowd.

Following the dinner Dr. Hughes gave an address on "Basic Principles of Modern Education."

At all three services special music was, provided by the choir under the leadership of Prof. J. Edwards. Following were the numbers:

Morning service—

Anthem—"Lord of the Harvest." Solo parts taken by Mrs. Scott Wildman, soprano, and Mr. W. Stares, bass.

Tenor solo—"If With All Your Hearts," Prof. J. Edwards.

Evening service—

Anthem — "Praise Ye Jehovah." Solo, Miss Una Duffield (soprano). Duet, Miss U. Duffield (soprano) and Mr. Jack Duffield (tenor).

Male quartette—"I Know Whom I Have Believeth," Messrs. J. Edwards, J. A. Finlay, E. C. Squire and W. Stares.

Monday evening—

Anthem—"Rejoice With Thanksgiving." Bass solo, Mr. W. Stares.

Chorus—"O Lord How Manifold Are Thy Works."

ROME, Oct. 24.—Canon Saponari appeared before the Bar Tribunal here charged with murdering his father with a scythe. Police testified that he cut off his father's head when the 80-year-old man refused to grant demands or money. T he accused was about to enter his church when the arrest was made.

CORN IS ROTTING IN WARSAW FIELDS

Rain Dashes Hopes Raised By Two Day Dry Spell.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARSAW, Oct. 25.—Hopes were raised when Sunday and Monday were fine; corn and buckwheat dried, as well as land. Before midnight the rain came and soaked everything. Corn which has been cut is dirty handling and some of it partially rotted, what is standing is washed out. David Drain, Gordon Payne and Fred Morgan each have splendid fields of corn down, or partly in. Much of the corn that is stacked for winter use is blackened badly.

There is still splendid pasture, and roots are growing; there has not been frost enough to wilt the tops.

The anniversary entertainment at Bethel netted about forty-four dollars. The entertainment was excellent, given by members of the Salvation Army. There were solos, recitations and instrumental quartettes. Ensign Green, Commandant at Peterborough gave an interesting address on anniversaries, showing the good of looking back, and then looking forward.

Miss Wiggins, one of the members of Rev. Mr. Herrington's Cordova Mines circuit and Mrs. George Wiggins of Peterborough, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Herrington.

Norwood

NORWOOD, Oct. 25 (Examiner Correspondence).—Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Mills have returned to their home in Galt.

Mrs. William Finlay, who has spent the past month renewing acquaintances in the village, has returned to her home in Toronto.

Mrs. Kirkness, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. Marks, has returned to her home in Toronto.

Mr. Ralph Elliott of Kingston spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Elliott.

Mrs. Walker of Perth has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. H. Carleton.

Mr. David Brown of Toronto spent Sunday with his parents, Mr and Mrs. J. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rogers and Master Donald of Flint, Mich., visited the former's father, Mr. William Rogers, for a few days recently.

Mr. Keefe McLaughlin of Peterborough spent the week-end at his home here.

Mrs. N. A. McColl and baby of Campbellford are visiting her mother, Mrs. McCleary.

Miss Evelyn Scott of Peterborough spent the week-end at her home here.

Rev. A. M. and Mrs. Irwin of Oshawa spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Squire.

Mrs. Gordon Girven has returned from visiting in Oshawa.

COLD RELIEVED INSTANTLY WAY DOCTORS NOW ADVISE

Tempting Taste! Instant Relief —Then Cold Just Disappears When Treated This Way

Neglecting autumn colds is sure to cause needless misery and may risk pneumonia. So doctors are now recommending a method that is giving quick, sure relief—not only in extreme hospital cases but in vast numbers of homes in Peterborough and vicinity.

Miss Edith Dennis, for example, neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so bad she called her doctor who advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, tepin hydrate, etc.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting healing warmth. Relief began instantly and in an hour or so the medication was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion in her nose passages and chest. When she awoke next morning there was practically no sign of the cold—and in another day or so congestion had disappeared entirely.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

This hospital certified medicine quickly penetrates and heals inflamed linings of the air passages. Absorbed by the system it helps get rid of congestion, reduce fever and drives out the cold from the nose passages, throat and chest.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person to-morrow. At all druggists—50c and twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

CUTICURA HEALS SKIN TROUBLE

Sore Eruptions Broke Out Over Face. Itched and Burned.

"My trouble began with little sore eruptions which broke out all over my face. They itched and burned so that I always wanted to be scratching, and when I scratched them they got larger and then dried up. Some nights I could not sleep very well.

"I tried other remedies but they did not help me. I had the trouble over five weeks when I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in two weeks I was healed." (Signed) George W. Hasknut, Box 55, Chipman, Alta., Oct. 8, 1927.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as required, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum is an ideal toilet powder.

DOING WONDERFUL WORK.

In depending upon a Rose Day to raise much-needed funds for the carrying on of its many activities, the Peterborough Health Association doubtless feels that Peterborough citizens are in full sympathy with the work the organization is doing.

There is every reason for such confidence.

The splendid service rendered by the Health Association is known to everybody and there is probably no social service organization in the community that has so many warm friends or so few critics.

Helping the Health Association is looked upon as an investment that is certain to yield large dividends.

A donation to this cause means nursing help and attention in homes where such service is urgently needed, it means nourishment and care for tubercular patients whose lack of means makes it impossible to provide these things for themselves, it means a new hope for children of sub-normal health.

The response on Saturday should be large enough to show the community's appreciation of the wonderful record of achievement established by the Health Association in this city.

RECORD MINERAL PRODUCTION.

The important part played by Ontario's mineral resources in adding to the national wealth is shown by the fact that the province's mineral production this year will reach the $100,000,000 mark.

This figure is an increase of some $10,000,000 over the production of last year and represents an all-round development in the mining industry that is most encouraging, not only in the results attained this year, but in the promise it gives of even greater achievements in the mining field in the future.

A material factor in this year's record production has been, of course, the great growth experienced by the copper-nickle industry, notably in the Sudbury area, but gold will also show an increase over last year's total and the activity experienced in construction materials has been of material assistance in building up the huge production recorded for 1928.

"The land of the stunted pine" as Northern Ontario was dubbed by a well known politician not so many years ago has come into its own as one of Canada's greatest wealth-producers.

And there is no reason to believe that the peak has yet been reached.

JUVENILE IMMIGRATION.

The recommendation that is to be made to Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration, as a result of the conference held at Ottawa by representatives of various societies and Federal and Provincial immigration officials seems to be based on a sound appreciation of the type of immigrant most likely to be successful in this country.

Briefly it is proposed to establish in Great Britain training schools in which young Britishers wishing to make their homes on Canadian farms will be trained in farm work and similar institutions in which young girls will be taught to do household tasks.

Such a program would ensure a supply of young immigrants well acquainted with the work to which they are coming and ready to be assimilated into Canadian life smoothly and successfully.

The fact that the proposal has been unanimously endorsed by all Canadian bodies interested in juvenile immigration will undoubtedly carry much weight with the Minister of Immigration and it is expected that the scheme will be approved by Hon. Mr. Forke.

It is felt that immigrants of this type, having received the benefit of sound training in Canadian methods before leaving home, would have every chance to make good in this country.

WILL NOT SATISFY THE PUBLIC.

Attorney-General Price, according to press reports has washed his hands of the Brien case, and he is quoted as declaring that if the ex-provincial constable "seeks further redress he can take up the matter with his Liberal friends in the House."

Col. Price is very much mistaken if he thinks that public opinion will be satisfied with that kind of stuff.

Here is a former member of the Provincial Police who flatly declares that there has been political interference with the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act in Waterloo County.

He quotes chapter and verse in regard to several cases and has repeated his charges on several occasions.

And the only answer to his indictment is that he owed some bills and the further caustic comment from the Attorney-General that the former constable can go to his Liberal friends for redress.

Either Brien is telling the truth or he is not.

The people of Ontario, whether they favor the Liquor Control method or not, want the law fairly and impartially enforced.

They want to know just how much there is in these charges of political interference and they believe the only way to find out is by means of a proper inquiry.

The Attorney-General's treatment of the case may satisfy him—and possibly some of the Waterloo politicians—but it is far from being acceptable to the public.

HOSPITAL COST.

President R. H. Cameron of the Ontario Hospital Association, speaking at the annual meeting last week in Toronto, made a defence of the high costs of private and semi-private wards in the public hospitals. The defence is needed. The cost of such accomadation in most hospitals in this province is out of seeming proportion to the service given, and is a severe tax on people of not large means whose cases will benefit by it. Mr. Cameron made a number of points. All of them depended on the idea that public hospitals are only in part a public responsibility. We thing that that is a bad idea. Public general hospitals should be wholly a public charge, except that there should be a reasonable charge—not a high charge—for accomodation of any class.

The Ottawa Civic Hospital, one of the best hospitals in Canada, if not absolutely the best, is a public charge. Estimate of cost is made by the City Council at the beginning of each year, over and above what may be expected from receipts from the private wards, and the Council fixes a proportionate tax. This year the tax is 1.88 mills. This will povide a sum of $256,916. Two-thirds of this, namely $175,282, is required to pay interest and sinking fund on the cost of construction and equipment of the hospital. The balance, $81,634, goes for maintenance.

These figures are based on the cost of the hospital last year less what was received from patients.

The good work in Ottawa began twenty-five years ago, when this city pioneered the way to civic support of hospitals by getting authority from the Ontario Legislature to impose a tax up to one mill on the dollar of assessment, for aid to hospitals. Prior to that, the large city hospitals had very hard scratching. They depended a great deal upon subscriptions from private citizens. These subscriptions fell upon a limited class, always the same class, and upon a class whose members used the hospitals very little. It was not a good condition. Big hospitals cannot on such a basis be as efficiently maintained as they should be. And they are a great public necessity and a great public benefit, and should be liberally supported by public funds.

The present tax of 1.88 mills for the splendid civic hospitals means a trifle over $2 per head to the people of Ottawa. As the tax is based on assessment, well-to-do people pay most of the cost. It is not a high price to pay. Every city and town in Ontario, or in Canada, could well afford a tax like that. President Cameron of the Ontario Hospital Association should try to hammer this point into the public.—Ottawa Journal.

LENGTHENING THE SPAN OF LIFE.

For years the medical profession has been urging the people to conserve their health and prevent premature physical decline or death by subjecting themselves to an annual health audit—a thoroughgoing examination at the hands of competent physicians.

The increase in the average span of human life is a fact now widely recognized. In 1920, according to Dr. Franklin Martin, of Chicago, president of the American College of Surgeons, the average span in this country was 58 years, but it is likely to reach, or even pass, 65 by 1930. This advance, however, is due chiefly to the successful campaign for the reduction of infant mortality. So far as the period called middle age is concerned, much remains to be done in the way of preventing or arresting the degenerative diseases whose toll of life and well-being is too heavy to be tolerated in an age of science. Dr. Martin points out that the degenerative diseases attack men and women at the most useful and interesting period of life—about the age of 45. To neglect symptoms of such diseases is to invite ill-health, physical decay and perhaps death.

Middle age should be a period of abundant life, of activity, happiness and helpfulness. Moreover, this period is capable of extension. The upper limit of middle age, as well as that of old age, has been extended considerably, but there is no reason, in the opinion of the medical profession, why men and women should not attain the age of 110 years, if they learn how to live sanely and prudently, in the first place, and, in the second place, if they take full advantage of medical science and its facilities for diagnosis, treatment and prevention of disease.

Dr. Martin reports noteworthy progress of the medical health audit campaign. This year the number of such individual audits or examinations will reach 20,000,000, as against but 5,000,000 in 1920. If the cost of the annual audit can be reduced—as it can—by attention to clinical efficiency, by group medicine and by other forms of co-operation, millions of men and women who cannot, or think they cannot, afford to pay the fee now exacted will undergo the annual examination and reap its benefits.—Chicago Daily News.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Remember to buy a rose on Saturday and help finance that splendid organization, the Peterborough Health Association.

This ex-provincial constable may owe a little money but it looks as if the public may owe him a debt of gratitude for letting in the light on the enforcement of the Liquor Control Act.

The Question Box

W. K. L.—The owner of land also owns the mineral resources thereof unless the crown has reserved the mining rights in the location, sale, patent or lease of the land. In the latter case, anyone prospecting the said land would have to receive authority to do so from the crown, through proper application. In other words, anyone holding a miner's license may prospect for minerals and stake out a mining claim on crown land, surveyed or unsurveyed, or on lands the mines, minerals or mining rights whereof have been reserved by the crown in the location, sale, patent or lease of such lands.

GOD'S MINUTE.

He hath showed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God.—Micah 6:8.

* * *

Almighty God, Whom truly to know is everlasting life, we draw near to Thee at the beginning of this day, desiring to know Thee as the Father of our spirits, and to refresh our spirits in Thy eternal goodness. As we draw near to Thee in worship, we pray that Thou wilt draw near to us in blessing and in inspiration. Grant us, we beseech Thee, the things of which Thou seest our need. We ask for health, for opportunity, and for a willing mind that finds delight in fruitful labor. Grant us the consciousness of sin forgiven, that in our labors and undertakings there may be no sad friction of remorse and shame.

Grant us the blessing of friendship greatly widened. We would not think of ourselves as too good to mingle with the humblest. We would not live apart from others in hope and sympathy. Rather do we seek from Thee the gladness of the common life of all Thy children, and the sweetness of its universal hope. Thou Who hast made us of one blood, help us to toil and hope and suffer and rejoice as brethren, that in our common life Thy purpose may be glorified, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

A Thought

LET IT REST!

Let it rest! Ah! how many hearts on the brink of anxiety and disquietude, by this simple sentence, have been made calm and happy! Some proceeding has wounded us, by its want of tact; let it rest, no one will think of it again. A harsh or unjust sentence irritates us; let it rest; whosoever may have given vent to it, will be pleased to see it is forgotten. A painful scandal is about to estrange us from an old friend; let it rest, and thus preserve our charity and peace of mind. A suspicious look is on the point of cooling our affection; let it rest; and our look of trust will restore confidence.

CHALLENGE OF THE WILD

At this time when deer roam through the forest and the tracks of moose and bear are found along the streams, there is aroused in every hunter an urge, a desire to invade the great North Woods, and there in their natural habitat, match his hunter's skill against the instinct and cunning of these prized forest denizens.

The seasons for big game in Ontario this year are as follows: North of the Mattawa river and the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway to Huron Bay on Lake Superior and south of main line of Canadian National Railway—Oct. 20 to No. 25 inclusive; north of Lake Nipissing and the French River and south of Canadian Pacific Railway main line to Huron Bay—Nov. 1 to Nov. 25 inclusive except that on St. Joseph's Island in District of Algoma, season is Nov. 10 to Nov. 25 inclusive. South of French and Mattawa rivers, Nov. 5 to Nov. 20 inclusive.

NICKEL CHAIRMAN ANNOUNCES UNION

Attorneys of Companies Arranging For Community of Interests.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Charles Hayden, chairman of the International Nickel Company, announced yesterday that officials of the company had taken up with its operating heads and attorneys the matter of arranging a closer community of interests with the Mond Nickel Company, Limited, of London.

Mr. Hayden confirmed the reports that Canadian interests had acquired "a very substantial interest" in International Nickel. He said plans of close affiliation with Mond Nickel had been under discussion between himself and Lord Melchett (Sir Alfred Mond), chairman of the British concern, who has been visiting New York, following his annual inspection of the company's property which is contiguous to that of International, in the Province of Ontario.

The two companies control about ninety per cent of the world's nickel supply.

Mr. Hayden explained that the working agreement between them would prove highly economical, as the Mond Company is contemplating substantial additions and improvements to its smelting and refining plants which would merely constitute a duplication of the International Company's facilities.

The Canadian interests, he continued, have expressed a desire to see the International Nickel Company of New Jersey, which owns all the common stock of the International Nickel Company of Canada with the operating subsidiary, distribute the common shares of the Canadian company on a pro rata basis to the shareholders of the American company.

"Consideration is accordingly being given," he said, "to recapitalizing the Canadian company, so as to permit of giving six no par value common shares for each common share of the New Jersey Company.

Your Tires are just as Important as your Engine

. . . and that means the care of them!

CARE of your tires repays you just as well as care of your engine. It means thousands of extra miles—hundreds of dollars saved in a few seasons.

And that is exactly the reason for Dominion Tire Depots—not just to repair your tires when trouble occurs, but to inspect them regularly — to remove every cause of trouble and to correct every injury at its beginning.

Drive with confidence.

There are Dominion Tire Depots everywhere.

The shops whose names appear at the bottom of this advertisement operate Dominion Tire Depots in this locality. When you go on a motor trip you will find similar Depots in practically every town in Ontario and Quebec.

Make a habit of calling at your nearest depot every week whether you are at home or on a motor trip. Have pressures checked and tires inspected for cuts, bruises, and embedded stones or nails. Twice a season have the tire expert remove the tires and examine them thoroughly. There are so many little injuries which can be detected — and corrected — at the start.

A small repair job now is cheaper than a new tire later on.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, October 25. — The fresh run of cattle was very light, but large holdovers make up for it. Buyers of all classes are very inactive, and slow in placing bids.

A few choice butcher steers went over the scales at $9.25. Full 25c lower is current on sales of choice steers and heifers. Medium and common are 50c cwt. lower.

Heavy bulls sell lower at $7.00 to $7.50. Choice light butcher bulls are off at $7.50 to $8.00.

Bolognas have decreased to $5.00 and $5.75.

Only an odd fancy cow will sell over $8.00. Medium are slow at $6.75 to $7.25. Cutters bring $4.75 to $5.25. Very few canners touch more than $4.00.

The buyers of springers seem to fill their requirements on Monday and Tuesday. This leaves a lessening of demand on Wednesday, making a dull trading for this class. Choice springers are $100 to $125. Choice milkers sell at $70 to $90.

Choice calves are steady at $14.00 to $15.00. Heavy and grassers are slow.

The best lambs are turned over at $11.75. Some poorer lambs sell for $11.50.

Hogs are $10.00 f.o.b. selects, holding steady at Tuesday's close. Road hogs sell $10.75 for selects.

Receipts: Cattle 403, calves 298, hogs 1,307, sheep 1,548.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., October 25 (Canadian Press). — The foreign demand for Canadian grain here yesterday was again of a limited character and the volume of business transacted was small.

A feature of the domestic cash grain trade was the stronger feeling that developed in the market for Canadian Western oats and values were marked up one cent per bushel. The demand was good.

Prices for all grades of spring and winter wheat flour were well maintained under a fair inquiry.

The millfeed market continued active and firm. A good trade was done in standard grades of rolled oats at unchanged prices.

An active trade was done in butter and the tone of the market was firmer. Receipts were 118 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade and values were again easier. Receipts were 3,975 boxes.

A moderate amount of business was done with English buyers in storage eggs and the local demand for fresh grades continued good. The prices were firm. Receipts were 802 cases.

Imported beans were in good demand at $5.00 per bushel for choice white hand-picked grades.

A fair trade was done in potatoes New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 65c ni bulk, ex-track Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at 85c per 90 pounds bag, and Cobblers dropped three cents to 75c per 90 pounds bag.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, October 25 (Associated Press). — Oncoming of the 1928 corn crop in greater volumes at terminal markets yesterday put all grain prices under a handicap. Nearly half of yesterday's arrivals of corn in Chicago were new corn with excellent weather prevailing over the corn belt the rural offerings of corn soon to be shipped were much more plentiful than heretofore.

Closing quotations on future deliveries of corn were unsettled, ½c to 1c a bushel net lower. Wheat finished nervous, ¾c to 1c down, oats ⅛c to ¼c to ⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 45 cents.

As a result of yesterday's drop in values, corn delivered in Chicago fell in some cases fully 3c a bushel under what wheat could have been obtained 24 hours previous. It was contended by bear traders that because of favorable weather a rush of corn from the hands of producers appeared likely, the incentive being desired to take advantage of relatively high premiums paid for cash corn as compared with December delivery. Under such circumstances, prices of future deliveries gave way, and many holdings of futures were sold out on the standing orders to let go at various fixed limits and thus stop losses.

Word that 250,000 bushels of corn had been taken yesterday for export was practically ignored during the downward swing of values.

Little or no attention was given to advices that 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels of Milo maize and Kaffir corn had been sold to Europe so far this season. Meanwhile, too, in contrast with evidence of increasing movement of new corn to market, primary arrivals of all corn new and old yesterday were reported as only 402,000 bushels against 562,000 bushels a week ago and 1,234,000 bushels one year back. On the other hand, all reports agreed that husking of new corn is now progressing rapidly, with general conditions greatly more auspicious than of late for facilitating the movement of new corn.

Wheat prices displayed considerable strength at times yesterday, but finally went downgrade owing to the sympathy with corn weakness. Announcement that wheat export business yesterday from North America totalled 1,000,000 bushels, largely Canadian, failed to act as an offset. Wheat bulls made much of Winnipeg messages asserting that the forthcoming official crop report for Saskatchewan province would show but 277,000,000 bushels yield this season, and that the official report for Canada as a whole would be under 500,000,000 bushels, the latest previous figures for Saskatchewan estimated the wheat crop for that province at 301,000,000 bushels. Oats declined with corn.

Provisions advanced on account of lard buying for Europeans who were said to have recently been on the selling side of the market.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—The local butter market remains quiet and steady. At mid-week, while there was no actual depression in market sentiment, buying was confined pretty much to the filling of orders for immediate requirements, with occasional speculative demand. Production of butter is low for the season of the year, and incoming receipts are therefore not as heavy as a year ago at this time. Wholesalers and jobbers adhered to previous quotations of from 38¾c to 39c per lb., for No. 1 pasteurized creamery solids, with 38c the market top for undergrades.

The cheese market is dull, with no active response to cables. There is a small demand locally to meet immediate wants, but trading in a general way is slow. Quotations for No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government graded are ruling between 21½c to 22c per lb., delivered Toronto. Business passing at mid-week was small.

An active trade is being done in all grades of fresh eggs and prices were firm. Dealers still complain of a shortage in current production. Demand is good from all sources. Storage markets are dull and fairly steady in price, with an easy undertone for some grades. Weekly prices revision for future egg deliveries will be made to-day, and it is expected that a firmer tone for strictly fresh extra grades will be revealed, owing to growing scarcity in receipts.

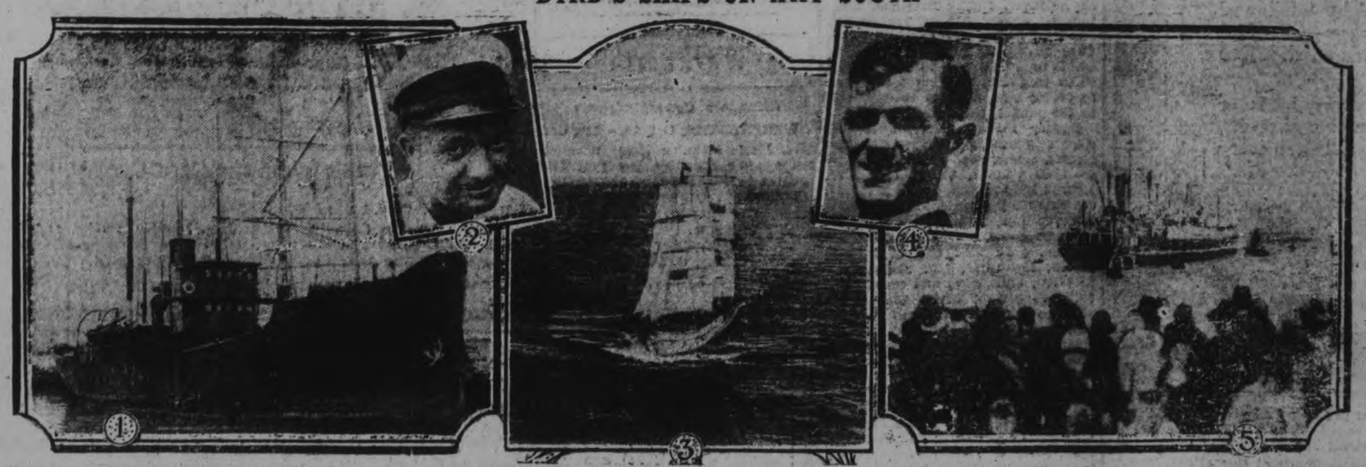
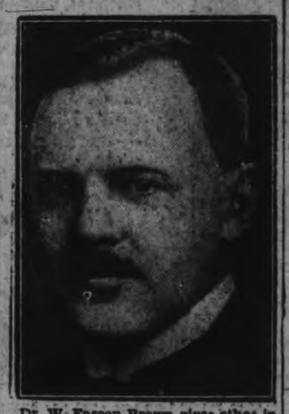
BYRD'S SHIPS ON WAY SOUTH



By diverse routes Commander Richard Byrd's antarctic boats are now furrowing their way by sail and steam across the Pacific on their way to Dunedin, New Zealand, where they will assemble to complete final preparations for the assault upon the ice fields at the bottom of the world, which will culminate in an attempted aeroplane flight to the south pole. The Eleanor Bolling (1) a little 600-ton supply ship that has seen previous service in the North Sea as trawler and war-time "mystery boat", reached the equator on October 18, her skiper, Capt. Gustav L. Brown (2) stopping the boat long enough to allow King Neptune to receive the homage of fifteen landlubbers who were crossing "the line" for the first time. Meanwhile the expedition's mothership, City of New York (3) was plugging along under full sail, being 1,300 miles east of the Marquesas Islands, while Capt. Oscar Nilsen (4), veteran antarctic whaler and skipper of Byrd's flagship, the C. A. Larsen (5), was just a few days out from San Pedro, Calif., but making a speed that will enable her to overhaul the slower vessels of the flotilla. Aboard the Larsen, which is a former Norwegian whale factory ship and the largest vessel of its type in the world, are Commander Byrd himself, his three plane pilots and eleven others of the expedition's 82 members.

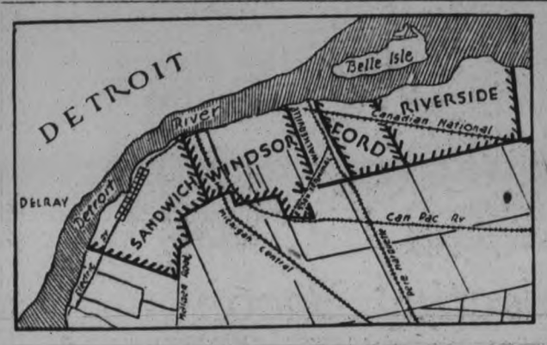
FLYING PHYSICIAN.



Dr. W. Easson Brown gives ether in his business but takes air for his pleasure. He is said to be the only doctor in Canada to hold a private flying license. "It is much safer to fly in an aeroplane than to drive a car in the streets," declares Dr. Brown, who is a staff anaesthetist of the Toronto General hospital.

COMMISSIONER PORTRAYED

This photographic portrait of Sir William Clark, first high commissioner from Great Britain to Canada, who arrived recently at Ottawa, was made this summer in London by Minna Keene, Fellow of the Royal Photographic Society. Mrs. Keene, who lives in Oakville, has done photographic portraits of many distinguished people in America, Europe and Africa and has also made photographic studies of national types in many parts of the world.

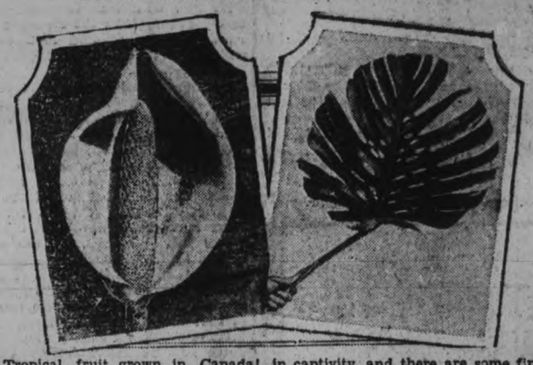


Another step in Canadian municipal history is illustrated here—the proposed amalgamation of five Ontario Border Cities municipalities, the City of Windsor and the Towns of Ford City, Walkerville, Sandwich and Riverside, into a brand-new city, to be incorporated from Jan. 1, 1930. It is also suggested that the choice of a name be left to the governor-general. Windsor's name was chosen by Queen Victoria and the royal crest is that city's coat of arms.

RETURNS TO HUSBAND.

Ties of home and family have brought back Mme. Gladys Bell Owen to Canada following a successful career on the musical stage of New York, where she was the leading soprano in Morris Gest's mammoth production of "The Miracle" with Lady Diana Manners. Mme. Owen is to join her husband, Francis Beverley Owen, in Regina. Mr. Owen is a newspaperman. He served with distinction in France during the war, following which he won his bride after a whirlwind courtship in Boston. Both are natives of Prince Edward Island. Mme. Owen is shown in her nun's costume of "The Miracle."

TROPICAL FRUIT GROWS HERE



Tropical fruit grown in Canada! The tropical tree, the "monsters deliciosa," known as the "Cerlman," and sometimes "The Bread Plant," grown in the warmhouse of J. H. Fleming, Toronto. The fruit shown on the left has a taste between a pineapple and a banana. It is green in color until it ripens and then is slightly yellow. It came originally from the West Indies, but is now found in Mexico and the American tropics. The tree, a climber, grows to great heights even in captivity, and there are some fine specimens in American and Canadian horticultural conservatories. The outer rind is very tender and falls off. It grows naturally by attaching itself to trees and sending down aerial roots, but grows very well when allowed to remain on the ground. The plant requires a very warm and moist earth. The fruit is from 6 to 8 inches in length. On the right is a picture of the plant leaf.

LOOKING FOR FORTUNE.

Mrs. Mary C. Robillard who believes that "somewhere in the United States" there is a lawyer who has charge of a large legacy left her by her grandmother who was murdered sixty years ago in Illinois. She is searching for the whereabouts of the missing fortune. Mrs. Robillard is a native of the village of Ashedrown, Quebec.

MANY HUSKIES WITH BYRD

Here is shown Commander Byrd and Chinook "king" of his polar expedition's 95 huskies and malamutes. The dog's grandsire was leader of Peary's team in the successful north pole trip and Chinook will likely fly to the south pole with Byrd by plane.

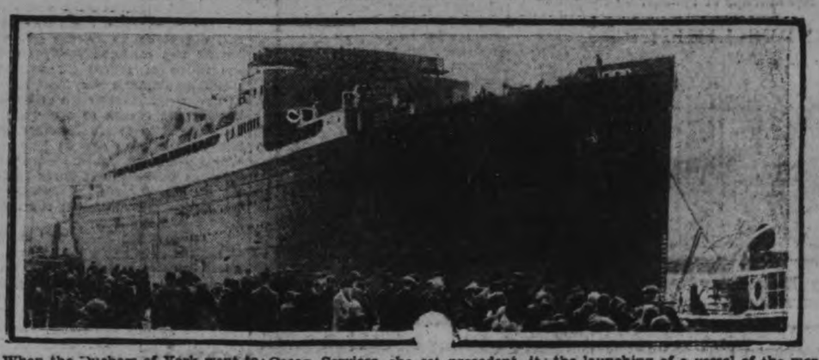
CHICAGO MODEL FOR IRISH COLLEEN

Lady Lavery, wife of Sir John Lavery, artist, is reported to have been the model who posed for the Irish Colleen appearing on the new Irish Free State currency notes. She is shown here with her husband. The likeness between the two is striking. Sir John was the artist who painted the symbolic figure for the new note Lady Lavery is a former Chicago society girl.

A TOUGH PROPOSITION

Miss Elsie Peake experienced more than she had bargained for when she accepted the position of school teacher at Frederick House, 20 miles out of Jochrane, in the Northern Ontario belt. The saw-mill cookhouse served as a school, and a broken saw, dangling by the doorway was used as a bell. Miss Peake, shown before her "school" on the left, became a Sunday school teacher also, as well as nurse and barber for the community. The school and pupils are shown on the right. The school closed for lack of funds, but undaunted Miss Peake is accepting another northern post at Coppell near Hearst, another mining town.

FIRST SHIP CHRISTENED BY ROYALTY



When the Duchess of York went to Clydebank, Scotland, to christen the new liner of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, she set precedent, it being the first time that a member of the royal family ever officiated at the launching of a vessel of the mercantile marine. The big boat is seen just after it had slid off the ways.

EVERY sack of Quaker Flour carries our guarantee that if it does not give you entire satisfaction, the dealer is authorized to return your money. Nothing could be more fair.

Such a sweeping guarantee bespeaks the absolute confidence we have in Quaker Flour. The wheat must pass the most rigorous tests for milling qualities and food value. During the milling further tests are made every hour to make sure that the flour always is up to the rigid Quaker standard.

For all-round household use, Quaker Flour is unsurpassed. Thousands of Canadian women never have a baking failure because they always use Quaker Flour.

Packed in machine-sewn sacks, Quaker Flour is not touched by human hands.

"CLOWN" FAILS TO WIN PARIS VOTES

By NEA Service.

PARIS, Oct. 25.—The humorous side of political campaigning is fully appreciated by the voter of France, but when it comes to casting his ballot it takes more than silly promises to win support.

Jacques Duconnaud will testify to the truth of that statement. He tried to "clown" his way into the Chamber of Deputies as representative of the student district of Saint Michel and Jardin des Plantes here. He received the grand total of two votes, and the Latin Quarter is wondering who cast the other one.

Here are some of the "planks" in Duconnaud's platform, which voters booted aside on election day:

Prolongation of the Boulevard Champollion to the sea in both directions.

Construction of a large canal to permit trans-Atlantic liners to sail to Paris.

Fireworks twice a month for the district.

Permission to hunt in the zoo once a week.

In Birmingham, England, a postal sorter must be familiar with the names of 2344 streets and in the southeastern area of London the names of no fewer than 6700 streets must be memorized.

The per capita consumption of beef in Canada fell in 1927, while that of pork and mutton and lamb increased.

NEW OAKLAND ON SALE TO-DAY

Many Improvements Made in Mechanical Features and Appearance.

SEVEN MODELS.

Completely new and original in appearance, with a number of interesting engineering features, the new Olympic Series Oakland Six went on display to-day in Peterborough at the showrooms of J. K. Hughes Limited.

Smarter, roomier than a year ago, with bodies of distinctive design, and a chassis said to be the last word in mechanical refinement, the latest Oakland model bears only a passing resemblance to its predecessor – the new Canadian Oakland Six brought out a year ago. The name of the new Olympic series commemorates the performance of Canada's representatives at the Olympic Games and its beauty of line is said to be reminiscent of the lithe grace of a trained and perfectly conditioned athlete.

Briefly, the new line offers a bigger, faster, more powerful engine; new Oakland type internal expanding 4-wheel brakes, masterful body creations by Fisher, new Duco color combinations, higher, larger cross-flow radiator with grill front, adjustable driver's seat, chrome-plated lamps of new design, sturdy ten-spoke wheels, Lovejoy shock absorbers and spring covers as standard equipment, new steering gears, sturdier frame, and a host of other improvements that are destined to make the car a distinguished addition to the aristocratic motor car family of the Dominion.

Seven-passenger types comprise the line, sport roadster, sport phaeton, coupe, 2-door sedan, 4-door sedan, and a new landaulet sedan and convertible cabriolet.

Artisans of the Fisher organization with Oakland engineers have achieved a new grace of body lines and a symmetry and proportion exclusive in the Oakland field.

A strikingly new outside appearance is provided by the head-on view of the car. The chrome-plated radiator has been raised so that the line from the base of the cowl to the new flat radiator cap appears practically level. A new grill, or radiator front louver effect, is of chevron design, with a vertical chrome-plated bar extending the full height of the front in the centre of the grill.

The Canadian Oakland emblem has been redesigned this year in the form of a shield, red, white and blue enamelling giving a touch of color to it. The famous Oakland-pioneered cross-flow radiator is retained with the cooling capacity increased.

A powerful new engine, offering flashing performance at every speed range, has been achieved by stepping up the cylinder displacement to 328 cubic inches as against 212 in the earlier model. This, in conjunction with other engine changes, results in a top speed of well over seventy miles an hour and quick acceleration of from ten to twenty-five miles an hour in high gear in six seconds. A new and exclusive Oakland feature is the four-point rubber engine mounting adopted on this model. By means of special rubber "biscuits" which insulate the engine from the frame, there is no metal-to-metal contact, a feature which eliminates noise and engine vibration.

Increased braking power with a minimum of pedal pressure is achieved by new Oakland-designed brakes, of the mechanical four-wheel type, self-energizing, with internal expanding shoes on all four wheels. Individual adjustments are located at each wheel, and equalization has been entirely eliminated. The brakes operate on large twelve-inch drums, and provide 290 square inches of braking surface. The parking brake on the transmission also has been redesigned for increased safety.

Spring squeaks have been largely eliminated by the inclusion of fitted spring covers as standard equipment on all models. By the retention of spring grease, and the protection of springs from outside dirt and grit, the covers eliminate the necessity of oiling the leaves except at extremely long intervals.

Special sport equipment, consisting of six wire wheels is available for all models. Spares are carried in front fender walls and are provided with tire locks and chrome-plated caps bearing the Canadian Oakland emblem in colors.

"Instead of feeling 64— he's like a 2-year-old!"

"My wife and children are now taking Kruschen and they are feeling first-rate, thanks to your Salts. I always do my utmost to recommend such a good Salts.

"My brother-in-law, before taking Kruschen, suffered great misery from rheumatism, but is now feeling much benefited, and often feels like the old chap advertised—Grandpa Kruschen—fit as a fiddle. The rheumatism has vanished and he feels a different being.

"Instead of feeling 64, he says he's more like a two-year-old. We all feel alert, full of vigour and energy, and happy, thanks to good old Kruschen Salts. 'It is marvellous and has no equal' is our opinion."

Original letter on file for inspection.

Kruschen is a perfect blend of those six natural salts which are vital to your bodily well being. The analysis is on the bottle. There are sodium and magnesium to clear away the waste matter that clogs your system and poisons your blood. To feed your tissues, there's the tonic potassium. The daily dose of Kruschen will keep you in constant good health. Buy a bottle to-day and start a new life to-morrow.

EXCITING GAMES AT LAKEFIELD

Bridgenorth Beats Cooney's and Harrison's Beats Cubs.

PLAYERS RULED OUT.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 25.—When the season is over and the games in the league are revived the two games played on Tuesday night will be called "the ginger group." It was expected that the teams would be well matched and a record crowd was in attendance enjoying hugely (if one could judge from the noise) the more heated portions of the play. Probably the partisan spirit ran too high but the first game was the hottest played in the village for the past two seasons. Bridgenorth won by a good lead, but Cooney's pitcher was suspended from the game and the umpires were changed in the seventh inning, two circumstances unusual in the league. A little more of British sportsmanship and less display of win at any price tactics would have made both games better worth seeing. The game is the chief consideration and the best sport is the one who can lose best.

One home run by Shearer was a feature of the first innings. Forsythe had nine strikeouts and walked nine men. Delahaye had two strikeouts and walked one and his successor Nicholls had three strikeouts and walked two.

The line-up was as follows:—

Bridgenorth—Pitcher, L. Forsyth; catcher, Connors; 1st base, H. Dormer; 2nd base, W. Shearer; 3rd base, H. Bradshaw; short stops, right, M. Wilson, left George Dormer; field, Baker and J. Gillespie; subs, Jopling and Griffin.

Messrs. R. C. Chittick and W. Elliott officiated at the plate and B. Blewitt at the bases.

The score by innings was:

Cooneys ..... 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 —4
Bridgenorth .. 4 1 0 0 0 1 0 3 3 —12

The second game was keenly contested also and though at times feeling ran high, it ended with a surprise as it looked till the seventh innings like a dead certainty for the Cubs. Whether it was that the Cubs became over confident or Harrisons' got into their stride, the score had a turn over and by one run the game was declared Harrisons'. The interest kept up till the end, although it was well after eleven o'clock before the finale.

Harrisons, who are new comers in the league, are a snappy team and when they became used to the lights and rafters they showed the stuff that won them the city league championship. The Cubs had their full line up and played a keen game and so close was it that the scoring group who were beginning to suffer from cold feet in the literal sense, feared an extra innings would be necessary to break a tie but the last run was scored by Smith for the visitors. Dorrington of Harrisons' team was ruled out and R. Green took his place and played a splendid game at bat and in the field. Elliott struck out five men and walked one; Dundas struck out three and walked one. Reg. Green scored the only home run.

Cub—Pitcher W. Elliott; catcher, R. Payne; 1st base H. Stabler; 2nd base, D. Fitzgerald; 3rd base, T. Webster; right short stop, H. Oliver; field, E. H. Northey and G. Nicholls; sub., H. Hamblin.

The score by innings was as follows:

Cubs ..... 3 0 3 5 0 3 0 0 0—14
Harrisons .... 0 0 0 2 2 4 3 3 1—15

Umpires—plate, R. C. Chittick. Bases, W. G. Morrison.

The games on Friday night are DeLaval vs. Canada Cement and Bridgenorth vs. High School.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS MEET

Provincial Conventions Will Be Held in Ottawa and Galt.

OPEN NEXT WEEK.

The Sixty-third Annual Provincial Sunday School Convention will this year be held in two sections—the Western Section in Knox Presbyterian Church, Galt, October 30 and 31, and the Eastern in Chalmers Church, Ottawa, November 1 and 2. The Convention is held under the direction of the Ontario Religious Education Council formerly known as the Ontario Sunday School Association, the organization through which the Sunday School forces of the various evangelical denominations of the Province co-operate.

These conventions are open to all interested in Sunday School work. To Ministers, Superintendents and Teachers they present a rare opportunity. Leading Sunday School workers of the various denominations will participate in the programme. Among the outstanding speakers will be Dr. Robert M. Hopkins, of New York, who has recently been appointed General Secretary of the World's Sunday School Association; Miss Wilhelmina Stooker, professor of Religious Education, Auburn College, Auburn, N.Y.; Canon Allan P. Shatford of Montreal; Miss Marjorie Trotter, Montreal, Girls' Work Secretary for the Quebec Religious Education Association, and other leaders in the field of Religious Education.

At the afternoon sessions each day there will be Departmental Conferences when discussions will be conducted on the various phases of the work of Religious Education: Children's work, Girls' work; Boys' Work; Adult, Home Department and leadership Training. The whole programme is planned to meet in the most effective way possible the requirements of the Sunday Schools of the Province. The cities entertaining these conventions are manifesting their interest by opening their homes to delegates registering in advance.

Information regarding the Conventions can be secured from any of the denominational Sunday School offices, or from the Ontario Religious Education Council, 299 Queen Street West, Toronto.

Do we not know they remember us yet?"

and in the wistful stanzas of the little poem "My Mother Used to Say——" the harking back of a loving heart that "likes to look back and remember the words, My mother used to say."

And there is the touch of nature that has its way in all poems by Canadians. As a visiting writer once said, "Canadians love to write of their own land and how much they have to write about." What an appropriate thought, this of the "sudden, startled, scarlet bough" that forms one of the lines of "September":

"Blue waters, smiling skies,
Serene and tender—
Blue mists that veil the hills
With tranquil splendor—
The fields, reaped down and bare
Their glories past remember.
A sudden, startled, scarlet bough proclaims,
'This is September'!"

MADAME SAMSON

LONDON, Oct. 25.—A summons was granted at Marlybone recently for assault against a "woman of a peculiarly violent nature." The petition charged that she had struck her landlady on the head with a door, while her tenants were in such fear that they locked themselves in their rooms. She had failed, the petition said, to heed warnings of police made on 15 different occasions.

WHITCROFT HEADS HOCKEY LEAGUE

Former Peterborough Star Is President of Vancouver Organization.

Fred Whitcroft, famous Peterborough hockey star of yester year, is still identified with Canada's national winter game, as his election to the presidency of the Vancouver Hockey Association shows. The Daily Province of Vancouver says:

"Best known as a star with the old Peterborough team in the O.H.A., and formerly prominent in racing affairs in Vancouver, Fred Whitcroft last night entered a new role when he was elected president of the Vancouver Amateur Ice Hockey Association. Fred knows the game thoroughly, and under his direction the league should prosper this season."

NEED HUMAN RESEARCH

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—Dr. Angelo Louis Soresi, eminent student of cancer, claims that the research on the disease is at a standstill, and that to further the research, human beings instead of animals must be studied. Soresi declares that at present there is no cure for cancer and that this generation will not see a cure.

RARE ANIMAL TRAPPED

A white procupine, uncommon enough in the animal world, 'tis said. It was caught by Frank Gaffney, a prospector, of Kenora, Ont. Animals of this nature, born without pigmentation of any kind, are called "albinos" and have white fur, pink eyes, and in the case of albino cats are usually deaf.

NERVOUS DYSPEPSIA TORTURED HER FOR 7 YEARS

"I wouldn't take $10,000 to feel as I did before I got Tanlac," writes Mrs. Gertrude Lupson, 33 Becker St., London, Ont. "I don't believe any woman ever suffered more than I did from Nervous Dypepsia. I would go all day without nourishment and suffered so with chest pains and dizzy spells that I could not sleep. Many days, I was so weak I could not get out of bed.

A druggist advised me to try Tanlac and all the money in London could not buy the good it has done me. I gained 37 pounds; the chest pains disappeared. I eat three hearty meals a day and never have a dizzy spell. My nerves are strong and the care of my eight children and my house is a pleasure since Tanlac gave me back my strength. I would advise every mother to use Tanlac."

Roots, berries and barks—these are the ingredients of Tanlac—nature's own medicine for the sick. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

(By Jeanette)

"Do You Remember?" is the title of a very sweet little poem which appeared in the Toronto Globe this week, from the pen of Miss A. M. Lancaster of this city. It is also the title of a charming booklet of verses which forms the second contribution of Miss Lancaster to the poetical wealth of Peterborough.

Speaking of the "Happy city, out of sight—the city of Our Lost Delight—where skies are ever blue," the poem goes on to the final verse:

"To each his treasure lies therein concealed,
And though icebound, snow-hindered, in December,
This key unlocks for him a flowery field,
This magic password, "Oh, do you remember?"

Some years ago, Miss Lancaster gave us her first booklet of verse, entitled "Pansies and Rosemary" (pansies for thoughts and rosemary for remembrance) and in the second venture one notices the same atmosphere of quiet, refined sentiment and the smooth, rhythmical flow of graceful words that clothe beautiful thoughts.

"Things" is a fine example of this thoughtful metier. It commences:

"Here's her embroidery, and here her knitting;
Here her housewifely mending basket stands;
Beside this table we can think she's sitting,
That held the books, in reach of her dear hands."

And closes with:

"We wonder why, when Life and Love departed,
When the freed soul stretched forth its eager wings,
Why there remained, perplexing the sad-hearted,
The undesired permanence of things!"

"The Sidewalk" speaks of the humanness of common things of everyday. The old wooden sidewalk was not as aristocratic as the granolithic walk that replaced it,

"But it carried many busy feet,
And merry feet and toddling feet
And we rather liked our old Main Street
In our old home town."

There is pathos of a sweetly resigned character in "The Old Home":

"And the lives in this house that went on
Came in this house to an end.
Father, Mother and Son,
Daughter and well-loved friend.
Can we believe that they ever forget?

Maher & Wesley Announce Sale With Prices at and Below Cost.

Messrs. Maher & Wesley, after five progressive years in the men's clothing business on Charlotte street, are announcing elsewhere in this issue a change in their business policy to embrace more fully made-to-measure suits and overcoats in the distinctive class. They will also at an early date lay in complete lines of boys' and youths' clothes with an appeal both in quality, favored styles and price.

To prepare for this change of policy these popular clothiers, whose aim is "Please the customer," first, last and always, must substantially reduce their present stock of all brand new ready-to-wear and bought for Fall and Winter merchandising. So to this end they are putting on a store-wide sale, with prices cut away down to and below wholesale costs. In fact, to use their own words, "We are taking our medicine in price reductions to achieve our objective. Unload we must without thought of profit at this genuine unloading sale, starting tomorrow, Friday, October 26th."

Unquestionably, very attractive values in men's wear, including hats, caps and furnishings, are being offered at this sale, which comes at a time when wise men will prepare for the cold weather just around the corner now.

SAYS—NOW STIFF JOINTS MUST GO!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes: it's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze a half inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute or until it soaks through the skin and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspapers and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose its "creak" while you are dreaming about the high fences you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "You'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease! They call this wonder working substance, for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling, Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

GIFTED SPEAKER COMING TO CITY

Rev. L. F. Dimmitt, of Hamilton, Will Be Here Week of Nov. 4.

A SON OF THE PARSONAGE.

Probably never again will those who attend the services of the United Churches have an opportunity to hear such eloquent and earnest speakers as will be presented to them on the week of November 4-11. Among the foremost of the speakers is the Rev. L. F. Dimmitt, B.A., D.D. The work of the church runs in his blood, his father being a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Illinois, of which state Dr. Dimmitt is a native. After completing his education he was ordained in 1897 and became a member of the Indiana Conference of the Methodist Church.

Among his pastorates were the important ones of the Broadway Church of Indianapolis, First Church, Shelbyville, and the First Church at Bloomington. Further, he was also District Superintendent for several years and was twice a delegate to the General Conference. He was transferred to his native State of Illinois in 1913, and became pastor of the First Methodist Church at Galesburg; and from there in January 1921, he went to Winnipeg to assume the pastorate of the Broadway Methodist Church.

Upon the consummation of church union efforts were made to secure his services in the East and he was prevailed upon to become minister of the Centenary United Church, Hamilton, and was transferred to the Hamilton Conference in 1925. Dr. Dimmitt has a real message for the people of Peterborough and it is hoped that no one will miss the opportunity of hearing this gifted speaker.

AIR MAIL PILOTS ARE RANSOMED

Two Frenchmen Who Fell In Rio de Oro Released By Natives.

HELD FOR THREE MONTHS.

PARIS, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Two French airmail pilots, named Serre and Reine, who were captured by wild tribesmen three months ago when they made a forced landing in the wild Rio De Oro region of Spanish Africa, were safe to-day, after many adventures. A ransom was paid for the men but the figure was not announced.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE CALLED OFF

Nationalist Government Announces Deadlock Over Tsinan Disorders.

TREATY TO BE REVISED.

NANKING, China, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—The Nationalist government announced to-day that the negotiations with Japan concerning the outstanding problems between two countries have ended. Only partial success was stated to have been achieved.

The announcement declared that a deadlock resulted over the Tsinan incident, neither side being willing to accept the responsibility for disorders which took place after the capture of Tsinan from the Northerners by the Nationalist army.

The Japanese are reported to have conceded China's demand for treaty revision, but the date of opening negotiations to this end had not been determined.

FOUR CONVICTS LEAVE BURWASH

Guard Forced To Walk Three Miles To Give Alarm of Escape.

MEN DAMAGE FARM CARS.

TORONTO, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Police are scouring the province to-day in search of four convicts who escaped from Burwash Prison Farm yesterday by one of the most clever jail-breaking schemes ever tried so far. They cut the telephone wires and put two automobiles out of commission so that they could not be pursued immediately.

They got out of the jail by ripping the screen from a lavatory window and dropping to the ground below. The men were said to be drug addicts.

One of the guards had to walk some three miles to the nearest telephone before news of the escape could be made known.

N.Y. COMMISSION IS INDEPENDENT

Muldoon Says Sole Duty Is To Regulate Boxing in That State.

CAN'T FORM ALLIANCES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—The New York State Athletic Commission will not join the proposed new international boxing association or any other nation-wide governing body if William Muldoon has anything to say about it. Working agreements with separate States are all right, but a definite alliance with the national body is out of the question, the veteran commissioner said yesterday.

"We have no affiliation with any boxing body of national scope nor, so long as I can prevent it, will we undertake such an alliance," Muldoon said. "Our situation to-day is what it always has been. We are ready to help other boxing bodies throughout the country when and if the need arises and we welcome reciprocal arrangements with our commission.

"Our State law imposes on us the responsibility for administering the statute under which boxing is conducted in this state. It does not give the authority to assume alliances with organizations or institutions whose object is to control or supervise boxing throughout the country."

NEW REVELATIONS PROMISED IN CASE

Agent For Small's Sisters Says Rosedale Dump Must Be Excavated.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Coincident with developments in the Ambrose Small mystery, brought about by investigation of the International criminologist, Dr. A. M. Langsner, Pat Sullivan, who has been investigating the case for the sisters of the missing theatre magnate, declared this morning that the Rosedale dump must be excavated and that if the government does not do it the Small sisters will.

For some years the belief has been expressed that the body of the missing man is buried in the dump. Some excavating work was done but the ground has never been thoroughly searched.

Revelations that will amaze Ontario are promised by Sullivan.

He says that he will show cheques issued in connection with the disappearance of Small that will startle the whole province.

"It's Better!" Says a Yeo St. Woman

"My grocer praised it so, so I thought I'd try a package and see if it was as good as he said. It's better! Rinso makes such rich, safe suds that when I take the clothes out of the washer they're whiter and newer-looking than ever. Even the most soiled pieces become spotless with only a tiny bit of rubbing. No wonder I have the clothes on the line so early now. Rinso is great for cleaning dishes, floors, sinks, too! No wonder I'm getting all my friends to use it!"

Mrs. ——, Yeo Street, Peterborough.

Science gives you a whiter wash— and saves you hours of hard work as well

WHEN Science said, "Here, in Rinso, is a way to make clothes white with no boiling and little or no rubbing," women were skeptical. It seemed too good to be true. But once they tried Rinso they joyfully agreed that science was right. Rinso brought them a glad freedom from wash day toiling and and gave them clean, white, fragrantly-fresh clothes such as every woman loves.

Rinso makes rich suds which soak out the dirt and grime. No boiling, just a gentle rub here and there and clothes are whiter than scrubbing can make them. Hours are saved, clothes last longer, work is made lighter.

Science is waiting in every package of Rinso to give you the surest wash day help the world has ever known.

with a trust company whereby this prize will be awarded annually in perpetuity at the events mentioned, and to the organizations listed, the generosity of the donor, and his personal desire to aid agriculture, finding practical expression in this manner, which invloves, indeed, a very considerable expenditure of money. Rules and regulations governing the awarding of the prize are made by the Department of Agriculture, one of these being that the winner shall have it suitably engraved, "so that when it is passed on to your children, and your children's children, they will always be informed how it first came into the family."

Mr. Eckhardt specially urged Mr. Collins, on Wednesday evening, to use the service daily "because it will improve by use, and was never intended to be wrapped up in paper and put away in a cupboard, or a box."

Urges Annual Banquet

He complimented the association on the good class of plowing done, and in closing his remarks, urged a community banquet as a fitting finish to the annual match, when all prizes would be presented and speeches made. "Thus you will gain the added interest of business men and of agriculturists, and all will work together for the common good, since agriculture is the basis of all prosperity in every country worth the living in."

Mr. Collins made suitable acknowledgement of prize presented to him, and the president promised to see that he is furnished with the proper wording for the inscription to be put upon the silver. The entire prize list is as follows:

Class 1, in sod, open to all single plows; Committee: I. W. Larmer, L. Fallis.—1, David Sharpe, crown land and finish; 2, Wilfrid Shortt, Woodville.

Class 2, stubble, open to those who never won a prize in any recognized plowing match; Committee: H. A. Fallis, G. Armstrong.—1, Robert Balletine, Ida, crown, land and finish; 2, Lloyd Sutton; 3, H. Pacey, Frazerville.

Class 3, (stubble, single plows, open to boys 18 years and under; Committee: John Greer, G. A. Fair.—1, Wilfrid Ferguson, Stouffville, crown, land and finish; 2, Fred Webster.

Class 4, jointers in sod; Committee, B. Sharpe, A. J. Henderson, L. W. Smith.—1, Tom McCamus, crown, land and finish; 2, Emery Windrim, Omemee.

Class 5, jointers in sod, open to single plows, narrow to medium; Committee: B. Sharpe, L. W. Smith—1, John O'Brian, Indian River, land and finish; 2, Charles McLean, Woodville, first on crown; 3, John Graham.

Class 6, in sod, open to boys 21 years and under; Committee: R. O. Larmer, H. Tate.—1, Harold Collins, Keene, land and finish; 2, Claire Winslow, first on crown; 3, Harry McCanuis.

Class 7, two-furrow plows, open to all; not less than three horses to be used except for opening and finishing; Committee: R. J. McKnight, J. L. McCamus.—1, V. R. Hunter, land and crown; 2, L. C. McNeil, first for finish.

Class 8, tractors, open to all; Committee: J. A. Vance, George Berry, Jr.—1, Garnet Burns, Peterborough, crown, land and finish; 2, Harry McBain; 3, Ross Carr, Frazerville.

Class 9, professional and business men only; Committee: W. R. N. Sharpe; A. J. Fallis.—1, E. Lillico, Peterborough; 2, Stewart Hall; 3, Thomas Harkness.

LAKEFIELD BOY ON O.A.C. TEAM

Frank Dench One of Judging Team Which Visited National Dairy Show.

FINISHED FIFTH.

Frank Dench, a Lakefield boy attending the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, was one of the team of four from that institution which captured fifth place in the National Dairy Judging Competition held at Memphis, Tennessee, last week. He is believed to be the first Peterborough boy ever to make the O.A.C. judging team and the record made by this team this year is remarkable in view of the fact that it competed against the chief Agricultural College teams in United States and Canada.

Premier honors were won by Illinois, while Wisconsin was second, Iowa third and Cornell, N.Y., fourth. The members of the team were G. D. Graham, Ottawa; Ian McLeod, Dunvegan; F. L. Ford, Armstrong, B.C.; and F. L. Dench of Lakefield. Professor J. E. Sieckley was the coach.

In addition to having finished well up in the competition the boys won the Holstein Cup, having excelled all others in judging this breed of cattle. Ian McLeod also captured fifth place in the individual competition.

WEDDING BELLS

McADAM—HALL.

The marriage was solemnized yesterday afternoon at Knox manse, by Rev. William McDonald, of Thomas Anderson McAdam, of Otonabee, to Emma Myrtle Hall, of Apsley.

Witnesses were Mrs. William McDonald and Mrs. E. Thoms, Rubidge Street, sister of the groom. The couple will reside in Otonabee.

FOX—SPRY.

(Examiner Correspondence)

STIRLING, Oct. 25.—A very pretty house wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Spry at noon on Tuesday wheen their second daughter, Edna May, became the bride of Mr. Earl Fox, son of Mr. John Fox of Campbellford. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. N. Reid of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties. The bride, dressed in powder blue georgette and carrying a bouquet of roses, was given away by her father and was unattended. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Wynne of Campbellford.

After congratulations were received a buffet lunch was served.

The happy couple motored to Belleville, where they entrained for Ottawa and points east, where the honeymoon will be spent. Many beautiful presents testified to the popularity of the bride.

YOU POOR KID, WHY ARE YOU SO SKINNY

Don't your Mother know how to put pounds of good healthy flesh on your bones in just a few weeks.

Tell her every druggist has McCoy's in sugar-coated tablets now so that in just a few weeks she can help you get back your appetite—make your body stronger—your feet nimble and your mind keener.

Tell her if they don't help greatly in 30 days she can get her money back.

Tell her that McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets are full of weight increasing and energy creating substances and are the most successful flesh producers and health builders she can find.

One sickly thin kid age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

She must ask McDermid & Jury, Bond's, Lynch's and Giles' Drug Stores or any good druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—60 tablets—60 cents—economy size $1.00—as pleasant to take as candy.

Mr. J. Simpson of Lakefield motored to Windsor this morning to attend the Dominion Conference there of the Anglican Young People's Associtaion.

• • •

A very pretty and well-attended tea was held on Tuesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. Frank Pakenham, 300 Boswell avenue, under the auspices of the W. A. of All Saints' Church. A spirit of cheerful good fellowship animated the gathering, which was attended by members of various organizations of the church and was extremely successful, the ladies clearing the sum of forty dollars for their efforts. The guests were received by Mrs. Pakenham, Mrs. J. D. Paterson and Mrs. J. M. McCulloch, president of the society, and were ushered into the tea room by Mrs. J. W. LeBarr. Tea was poured by Mrs. W. G. Harris, assisted by Mrs. Frank Dawson and Mrs. E. Beatty. A sale of home-made cooking was in charge of Mrs. W. Thorne and Mrs. J. Edgar and a sale of candy was supervised by Mrs. H. E. Connolly and her daughter, Miss Isabel Connolly. A 'white elephant' sale was looked after by Mrs. Dummitt and Miss E. Brown. Mrs. R. Wolstenholme was convenor of the tea room and Mrs. I. Boddison acted as treasurer. A very enjoyable program consisted of readings given by Mrs. H. E. Connolly, Miss Irene Breckenridge and little Ruthie McNeely; instrumental numbers by Miss M. Benor and Miss A. Williams, and vocal solos by the Misses H. Burns, E. Jackson, A. Batten and I. Connolly, with accompaniments played by Mrs. W. A. Greenslade and the Misses Connolly, Batten and M. McCabe. Decorations of the rooms were very attractive in the seasonal colors, the black cats and the pumpkins of the Hallowe'en month and a profusion of marigolds, which also centered the lace-draped table, arranged with four silver candlesticks holding black and yellow candles.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Silver-finished necklace and bracelet of wood and gilt metal from Lelong. The ring is of metal and ivory.

When in contemplating the needs of your new wardrobe it suddenly occurs to you that what you need to complete this afternoon costume or to add distinction to that evening ensemble is a large colorful ring—you may be quite sure that the same thing is occuring and has already occurred to other women. The very fact that you feel ready for the return of a certain fashion shows that the stage is set for the return of precisely that fashion.

Fashionably speaking, rings haven't been especially important lately. Chokers, necklaces, bracelets and earrings have been depended upon to provide the necessary touch of jewelry and there have been all sorts of ornaments for hats and frocks besides. But rings have assuredly come into their own again and many of them are very striking. The ring shown in the sketch is of metal and ivory cleverly contrived to accentuate the graceful curving of the finger. The necklace above bears the unmistakable impress of the house of Lanvin and the bracelet is of wood, gilt and metal.

There is a new way for working out color harmonies between frocks and colored gems. It is rather simple when you know how it is done. Consider your frock in terms of primary colors or combinations of primary colors and then choose a gem stone of the color or colors left out in the frock. Thus a frock of violet—composed of red and blue—would best set off the beauties of yellow topaz. Emeralds—consisting of blue and yellow mixed into green—call for a background of some of the red shades. Sapphires of pure blue call for a background of orange containing red and yellow.

Following this rule, gems should always be worn on contrasting backgrounds or on an off-white back-ground that is tinged with just a suspicion of the contrasting shade. Thus for evening, rubies look best on off-white of a slightly greenish tone, and amethysts on a soft maise.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

FOLLOWING up our recent series on "After Five Years" it is interesting to note the full page feature in a United States paper on "Why Women Fail in Marriage."

• • •

The reasons given in the full page article are very like those mentioned by our correspondents of the Examiner's women's page—showing that after all, highly paid feature writers are not so far ahead of the ordinary woman.

• • •

I have a letter from "K.T." in which she writes: "I bake very well and like to do the work. But I have not the money to open a shop, and it seems hard to get anything started in this neighborhood. What do you think sells best, and what is the best way to market it?"

• • •

Since you are living in the city, I think your biggest trade would come from people who want individual pies, tarts, etc. There are many potential customers living in apartments and rooming houses. You might send notes around to the neighbors suggesting that they let you bake cakes for their parties. Give your prices.

• • •

Talking about letters, I must really endeavour to remember the "quotes" around signatures. I should have quoted the signature on the letter and poem printed in last Saturday's Whatnot.

• • •

While visiting the other day I mentioned a question asked by a reader as to how she could keep kid gloves in good shape. One of the guests told about the use of ordinary round curling irons. You open and close the iron gently in each finger of the glove in turn, thus softening as well as stretching the fingers.

• • •

From my own experience I have found that kid gloves should never be allowed to lie crumpled from one wearing to another.

• • •

The recipes for citron have called to my mind a system I saw worked in a farm house once. In order to make easier the cutting of citron, the housewife placed it in boiling water for a few minutes.

• • •

Here's a salad combination, new to me, which I enjoyed last week: Drained canned peas, mixed with a little grated yellow cheese, a very little chopped onion, and mayonnaise, and garnished with slices of sweet pickle.

• • •

With the approach of The Examiner's Hallowe'en Party, you should be thinking up costumes for yourself and the children. It's SO much more fun when you are dressed up!

• • •

Then you will doubtless have a Hallowe'en Party of your own—if you are not used to it, try it just this once—and I am offering a help of directions for games and decorations. This help is free for the asking.

• • •

It seems to me that Hallowe'en should offer the opportunity for mothers to give those little parties for their children which all youngsters want. The occasion is far enough away from other holidays to give a breathing spell, and it is just at the season when children's thoughts first turn to parties.

• • •

With the list of games I am offering, even the older members of the party may be entertained. It is easy to keep the children going if the boy of the family has one of the lanterns which throws views (postcards and snapshots) on a screen.

• • •

And please don't forget that I am seeking hints for making Christmas gifts at home.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

As I am desirous of some of your home helps, I am enclosing this note at the same time to tell you how much I enjoy your page. It surely is a bright one in The Examiner.

I have cut out a number of recipes which are very welcome. The ones I have tried were good.

Hoping you can oblige me with the helps I ask for, also that your good work may continue. The best of luck to you.

Yours sincerely,
E. S. N."

Thanks, "E. S. N." for your good wishes.

• • •

"Dear Marion:

I saw in a recent edition of The Examiner two "Women's Pages." I thought perhaps you would like a few hints to help fill up space. I am sending also a help coupon.

I certainly think your page is lovely. One thing I enjoy about it is your mail. I am quite young yet I hope you do not think too young to pass on a few hints. I am only in the early teens. Hoping I am not taking up too much of your very valuable time, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
SALLY."

Bonarlaw.

Add a little salt to the gasoline with which you clean your clothes and there will be no circular spots left on the material.

For tired feet put a handful of baking soda in hot water. This will also relieve blistered feet.

Burn dried orange peel to take odor from a sick room.

To help plant slips to take root put a kernel of wheat or oats into the end of slip and plant in earth. When the wheat sprouts it will feed the slip so it will surely grow.

A strong solution of baking soda is a good application for an insect sting.

Turpentine applied to fever blisters cause them to heal quickly.

Indeed, "Sally," I appreciate your hints very much. Please write soon again.

EYE EXERCISES

Like all other vital organs of the body, the eyes can be taxed far beyond the limit of safety before any discomfort may be experienced. Eyestrain and eye fatigue go hand in hand. When your eyes tire easily, begin to smart, perhaps slightly blur, or the lids feel heavy, nature is signaling you to give your eyes more rest. Do not wait for the second signal, but heed the first warning. Remember, poor vision is not the only cause of eyestrain. If rest is all that is required to again give you perfect eye comfort, your problem is comparatively easy. But if the annoyance continues after ample rest has been given, then it is time to consult your Optometrist.

Within a comparatively recent time, science has opened new ways of taking care of eyes that are not functioning properly, due to faulty innervation to the eye and its muscles. Formerly, only two courses were available; one to put on glasses immediately, the other not to do anything in the hope that the trouble would soon disappear. In a case of purely muscular weakness due to overworked eyes, both the above courses would be wrong as the proper procedure is along entirely different lines. Suppose you have a cramp in your arm, what is the first thing you do? Of course you massage it to create better circulation which, after a time alleviates your trouble. After this, proper exercises will develop the arm muscles so evenly that the cramping will not return. The eye muscles are no different in construction than your arm or leg muscles. Each is composed of bundles of fibers, stimulated by similar nerves, and nourished by the same blood supply the rest of the body receives. One of the main benefits drived from having muscle treatments is increasing the circulation to and from the muscles so that the accumulated toxic materials are more readily carried away. Of equal importance also is the ipcreasing of innervation to the weaker muscles with the consequent inhibition of the stronger ones. The science of Optometry has contributed greatly to man's eye comfort by perfecting a technique for building up weak eye muscles. At the present time, splendid equipment is available which enables the Optometrist to direct innervation to any set of muscles which need attention. These orthoptic or muscle treatments in many cases remove the necessity of wearing glasses by establishing a normal balance between the two eyes. Even those who are wearing glasses find that their eyes are more rested after a course of treatments. Their beneficial effect canno be overestimated. Lawyers, accountants, book-keepers, stenographers, and others who use their eyes at close work constantly, are greatly relieved by these systematic exercises which give them greater flexibility of the eye muscles and therefore greater ease when using their eyes. This type of muscle training is also employed in all types of strabismus or crosseyes, a subject that will be discussed later.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Encephalitis.

Question: Mother writes: "My son is thirty-seven years old and has been sick for four months. His leg is getting numb and he is unable to walk. We have had three nerve doctors examine him, and they all claim he is suffering from encepalitis. Kindly tell me what is best to do."

Answer: You probably misspelled the name of your son's disorder, meaning "encephalitis" which is a disorder caused by inflammation of the brain. This can affect any part of the body according to the section of the brain irritated. I am sure your son would improve through a fruit fast and would also get along better afterwards on a carefully planned diet, but it would be unwise for me to attempt to give you any specific advice about his case through this column, as his trouble is too serious and requires the care of a competent physician who can watch his case carefully.

Lazy Liver.

Question: Mrs. J. S. writes: "My husband has brown patches on his chest on the right side. Some tell me he has a lazy liver. Has he liver trouble? Some days he is terribly yellow."

Answer: A skin that is intermittently yellow is an indication of some liver derangement. The brown spots on his chest, although not definitely diagnostic of liver disorders, nevertheless are seldom found with those in good health, and it seems that those having these spots are always toxic and consequently have overworked livers.

Red Face.

Question: Mrs. R. writes: "When I become nervous, excited, or am in a warm room my face always turns red. Is this due to high blood pressure? What can I do to overcome it?"

Answer: The symptoms you describe may be due to high blood pressure, but I should not guess at this cause, for you can find out very quickly by going to your physician and having a blood pressure test made. If you find you have high blood pressure, I will be glad to send you a special treatise on this subject, telling you how to bring your blood pressure to normal.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE SHUN TRUTH

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action.)

The story is told of a burglar who stole a Bible to get it out of the way so that he might continue to take the silverware in the house he was looting. He couldn't go on with his stealing while the Bible stared him in the face.

We all do at least lip service to truth. We recognize its worth and value. In our better moments we are the champions of truth. But there are times when we shun truth. Truth is not always welcome any more than a Bible is to a man who is robbing a house.

We shun truth when our desire is evil, when we would benefit at the expense of another. We shun truth when it hurts. Truth hurts because it is uncompromising. It demands rigid discipline and self-sacrifice which we are not always ready or willing to make. It costs too much, we think. Our hearts and minds are so completely set on the things we crave that for the time being we crave truth less than these things, and so sacrifice truth or rather shun it the best we can.

In shunning truth two major motives stand out. One is the motive of avoiding something and the other is the motive of gaining something. The first is negative, the second is positive. Both have to do with selfishness. They are identical with the pleasure pain theory of life which seeks to avoid pain and to secure the greatest amount of pleasure.

We shun truth when we believe it will injure ourselves or someone we love. A part of this is justifiable. We rightly shun truth when the person demanding it is not entitled to the truth, when his motive is obviously malicious and he has no legitimate right to ask for the truth. We rightly deny truth to a murderer who may be pursuing his victim and asks us to point him out or to disclose his hiding place.

Society will "o give a lie for the benefit of another person, but it will not tolerate an untruth told for the sake of saving our own hide. When a woman's honor is involved a man is expected "to lie like a gentleman."

We are also tempted to shun truth to secure benefits for ourselves, making a sale, landing a job, winning a mate.

Why do you do what you do. Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

BROKEN

CHAPTER XV.

"Miss Farrow has been making us laugh so dreadfully," Mrs. Ardron said as if she were not quite sure if it were the right thing to laugh or not, and then in an undertone: "Giles, do you think I could have a cup of strong coffee? My head does ache rather badly."

"Of course. Would you like to go home?"

Chittenham hoped with all his heart that she would say yes, but Mrs. Ardron was out to enjoy herself, and enjoy herself she would, headache or no headache.

"Miss Farrow has been telling us that she has a cousin so like her that they are very often mistaken for one another," she said, anxious to change the subject, and at the same time to enter into the general conversation.

"Yes, so I understand," Giles said rather shortly.

"It must be very awkward," Mrs. Ardron murmured.

"I find it rather amusing," Julie said flippantly. "You don't know my cousin, do you, Mr. Chittenham?"

"I have not that pleasure."

"Oh, you'll love her!" Julie rattled on. "All the men do. She's got the biggest scalp collection in London, hasn't she, Marco?" she demanded of Essen, who was showing signs of sleepiness and who roused himself with a start when spoken to.

"Yes, yes, oh, by Jove, yes!" he agreed.

Julie pinched his arm.

"Here, wake up!" she admonished him. "People don't come to the Faun to go to sleep. Doris, can't you manage him better than that?"

Doris shrugged her shoulders.

"I've never tried to manage him. He can sleep if he wants to. I don't care—" She looked at Chittenham. "Isn't anyone going to dance any more?"

Giles made a little movement to rise, but Julie was too quick for him.

"Dance with me, Mr. Chittenham!" she commanded; she seized his hand and tugged at it. "I'm a better dancer than Doris, I assure you. Come along——"

Before he was aware of it, Giles found himself back again in the whirling throng, his arm round Julie's slim body, her hand resting lightly on his shoulder.

He looked down at her and felt that it must be a dream.

Her eyes were looking past him over his shoulder with a curiously fixed expression, and he could see the quick movement of a little pulse in her throat.

The same, and yet such an utterly different Julie from the girl he had held in his arms a few weeks ago! She had worn a little rough tweed frock then, and her lips had been cool and fresh. He wondered what it would be like now to kiss her—to fold her close into his arms and feel her arms about his neck. His heart was beating fast and his face burned.

The same Julie, and yet so different——"

He tried to think of something to say, but no words would come, and it was Julie who broke the silence.

"Isn't this a filthy band?" she said disgustedly.

Chittenham felt as if someone had shaken him out of a dream—out of the memory of snows and fresh air and the wonderful sense of freedom which had been his that night on the top of the world, dropping him down to this hot, stifling room with its half-dressed, painted women and noise and blare, and the mocking sound of Julie's voice.

"Isn't this a filthy band?"

For the life of him he could not answer, and she frowned and looked up into his face.

"Perhaps you don't think so?" she twitted him.

He avoided her eyes as he answered.

"My thoughts were so far away—I'm afraid I was hardly listening to it."

"Not very complimentary to me," she said quickly.

"Most complimentary to you if you only knew it," Chittenham answered quietly. "I was thinking of a wonderful night you and I spent together on the top of the world."

"Oh, that!" She laughed carelessly. "Fancy remembering it." I've forgotten all about it ages ago. Fearfully uncomfortable, wasn't it? And cold. Ugh!" She shivered. "And so boring, wasn't it?"

"I was not bored."

"Really!" She shrugged her white shoulders. "Queer man! Let's talk of something pleasant, shall we?"

"Very well. How is Miss Lennox?"

"She's got a cold, or she would have been here tonight."

"I am sorry."

She met his eyes squarely, and laughed.

"What a fearful liar you are!"

Chittenham's face flamed.

"Isn't all this rather—cheap, Julie?" he asked quietly.

"Cheap!" The band crashed again into silence, and she fell away from him, a little flushed and breathless. "I don't know what you mean!" she accused him rather shrilly.

"I think you do." He stood squarely in front of her so that she could not pass him without making too much of an effort.

"I admit that it's unfortunate we have met tonight—if I had known you were to be here I should not have come—but——"

"Wouldn't you? How unkind! If I'd known you were to be here I should have come much earlier, and have bought a new frock for the occasion! I think it's perfectly delightful meeting people unexpectedly."

"And yet you denied that we had met before."

She made a little grimace.

"I thought you might not like to acknowledge me." She laughed as if something amused her. "I'm earning quite a reputation, you know."

"What do you mean?"

Her feverish eyes laughed up at him.

"As the bad girl of the family. I believe even Bim—dear Bim—is shocked sometimes! I believe even Julie—the other Julie—would not be too pleased with me if she knew some of the things I do."

"What things, Julie?"

They were practically alone for the moment; the other dancers had gone into the second room and were crowding round the bar.

"Oh, just things! Men and things like that."

Chittenham caught her slender wrist in iron fingers.

"I should like to thrash you," he said savagely.

For a moment she struggled to free her arm, then suddenly she stood very still, looking up at him.

"You did thrash me—once," she said. "And, hadn't you better let go of my arm? Doris is looking as black as thunder."

Chittenham released her abruptly.

"Is Doris a special friend of yours?" Julie demanded casually as they walked across to Mrs. Ardron's table.

"I never met her in my life until this evening."

"Really! You seem to be rather an adept at making quick and violent friendships."

Chittenham could not answer, but his hands were clenched as he sat down beside his mother.

"Did you have a nice dance, dear?" she asked.

Julie answered for him.

"Perfectly splendid! Mr. Chittenham made violent love to me all the time," she said coolly.

Giles's mother flushed angrily, but she checked the hurried words that rose to her lips. Perhaps after all Julie meant nothing, she told herself; no doubt it was just the way people in places like this talked of one another. It was she who was old-fashioned and not used to it.

"I didn't know violent love-making was one of your accomplishments, Giles," she said, lightly patting Chittenham's arm.

"I didn't know it myself," he answered grimly. "But if Miss Farrow is satisfied with my poor attempt I have nothing more to say."

"More than satisfied!" Julie declared airily. "What do you say, Doris? Has Mr. Chittenham tried his powers of fascination on you, too, or am I the only honored member of this illustrious company?"

"Mr. Chittenham and I met this evening for the first time," Doris said rather shortly, "and a violent flirtation at such short notice would be rather swift, even for me!"

"Nonsense! There's no time like the present," Julie declared. "A short life and a gay one, that's my motto! Take time by the forelock, and sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof, and so on! I daresay there are a heap more quotations of that kind to bring to bear upon the subject, only for the moment I can't think of them. Mr. Chittenham, defend me! Why shouldn't we flirt if we want to?"

Mrs. Ardron moved uneasily. She was vaguely conscious of something set and tragic in her son's face, vaguely conscious too of a tense feeling in the air as if trouble lurked close at hand. She was not enjoying herself as much as she had expected to do, and she did not like Julie Farrow. It seemed to her as if the girl were talking merely in order to draw attention to herself; she was not sufficiently clever to penetrate the shrill dominant artificiality of Julies' voice.

"I'm afraid I'm not experienced enough to give an opinion on the subject, Miss Farrow," Giles said in his level tones. "My experience of women has been very limited."

Julie burst into loud laughter.

"You don't seriously expect us to believe that!" she jeered. "Your reputation has gone before you, Mr. Chittenham—a long way before you. My cousin—the other Julie, told me about you months and months ago, and what a woman-hater you were, and of course we all know that a man is merely a woman-hater because he has once had his fingers badly burnt."

Giles laughe dcoolly.

"I don't know that I have ever had mine burnt," he answered evenly. "I was once fool enough to put them uninvited into the fire, and the memory is not pleasant, but apart from that I have no particular grudge against your sex."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1928.

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as rather a lucky day for a benefic aspect dominates it. Uranus is in sinister mood, however.

Under this sway music should benefit greatly and the stars are read as presaging a rarely successful opera season.

It is an auspicious sway for women and their artistic ambitions. Actresses should benefit and new stars are foretold.

Love affairs again come under a sway making for serious wooings in contrast to the summer's flirtations. This is a favorable rule under which to enter into engagements to marry.

Under this rule entertainments of every sort are likely to be successful, for the vibrations are supposed to impart gayety and high spirits.

There is a sinister sign supposed to indicate much muddled thinking and distorted logic regarding many things, including education and public affairs.

There is a good sign for the young in which are forecast many playgrounds and other sources of right training for boys and girls.

As the younger generation matures it will be apparent that super men and super women have been preparing for the work of the world, the seers prophesy.

This is not an especially favorable day for aviation and it may be wise to defer hazardous starts.

Once more food is to be much discussed, for the stars presage a decided rise in prices.

The women who use their varied knowledge in managing home affairs will benefit greatly at this time when great events are near.

Astrologers foretell a new world spasm that will be of moment to dwellers everywhere on the globe, but they are vague in outlining it.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a happy year that brings many pleasant surprises. They should beware of intrigues or flirtations.

Children born on this day are likely to be successful all through life. The subjects of this sign often have wonderful persuasive powers and are able to become leaders in big enterprises. These subjects of Scorpio often are exceedingly fickle.

"Leave your dog in the cloakroom" reads a sign in a Paris cinem atheater. Lapdogs and wolfhounds can howl their loudest in the kennel in which the management has arranged to keep them from annoying the audience.

There is more in coffee than in any other beverage. It contains water, sugar, caseine, gum, fat, oil, mineral water, wood and caffeine—a drug composed of nitrogen, carbon, hydrogen and water.

ST. JOHN'S A.Y.P.A. HEARS R. L. DOBBIN

Speaker Gives Interesting Talk on British Columbia Mine Area.

The weekly meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association of St. John's Church, held in the Parish Hall last evening, took the form of an educational evening. The speaker was R. L. Dobbin, who gave a very interesting and informative talk on the northern mining country of British Columbia. Mr. Dobbin described, in his usual humorous and interesting manner, the conditions, the life of the people, and the industries in this section.

There was a very good attendance of members, who greatly appreciated the talk and at the conclusion, a very hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Dobbin on behalf of the members.

At a previous meeting, Miss F. Hutchinson was appointed delegate to the Dominion Conference, to be held in Windsor, October 25 to 28.

A wood substitute, containing sawdust mixed with chalk and chemicals is said to be combustible only at high temperature.

One of the oldest of European superstitions is that animals assume the power of speech at Christmas time.

YOU'VE just finished a long summer's driving. Soon will come ice and snow and mud and rain. Rough roads to injure weakened tires. S-l-i-p-p-e-r-y roads to endanger life. Icy winds to make tire-changing a bitter experience.

New Goodyear Tires will protect you.

Built of SUPERTWIST Cords, they stand up to the road shocks of winter driving because SUPERTWIST Cords stretch and recover far more than old-style cords. They give longer mileage. They are protected against blowouts.

With the All-Weather Tread they protect against skidding. Press the palm of your hand on this tread. Feel how it grips. And note how thick and tough it is—protection against punctures.

With to-day's low prices it is hardly worth while to drive in winter with old tires. See the Goodyear Selected Dealer now. In every town in Canada large enough to support a good tire dealer there is a Goodyear Selected Dealer.

All Goodyear Tires are built of SUPERTWIST Cords—more stretch and life than old-style cords

GOODRICH PLANS BIG EXTENSION

Will Spend Quarter Million On Additions To Plant At Kitchener.

Construction work, involving an expenditure of approximately $250,000 will be begun within 30 days by the Canadian Goodrich Company. The company will construct a two story addition to its main building, and a one story addition to the wing completed last January. This will make the entire plant a uniform height of four stories.

This step has been under consideration by the company for 60 days, said J. W. Jordan, manager of the Canadian Company. The actual decision to build was made only this week. So far, no contracts have been let and will not be awarded until the architects, B. H. and Fred Prack, of Hamilton, have completed the plans.

The cost, set by officials at one-quarter million dollars, will include the actual construction work as well as development work and incidental expenses. No effort is being spared to make the additions to the buildings of equally as good quality as the present plant. They will be constructed of similar materials and in the same architectural design as the present buildings.

Questioned as to the effect the increased capacity will have on the number of hands the concern will employ, Mr. Jordan stated that neither he nor other officials of the company could say at present how many more men will be needed. "We will increase our number of employes in the next four or five months," he said, "but we are not yet prepared to cite actual figures."

In connection with the erection of the additions there will be several other changes, important in themselves, but more or less minor in comparison to the large building program which they will accompany. The present office building will be razed in a few months. This building stands directly in front of the main plant section and has done service since the Canadian company started operation. The general offices are expected to be moved to the top floor of the "wing" building. Another feature in connection with the building is that the entrance to the grounds will be enlarged. A centralized and fully organized employment department will also be an innovation.

Better Fire Protection.

With the increased factory space, precautions will also be taken to insure the maximum of fire protection. "In the past," Mr. Jordan said, "we have been able to get along satisfactorily with a water tower on the main building. With the expansion of the plant, however, it will be necessary to instal a reservoir with a capacity of 100,000 gallons in the form of a tank on a tower structure."

The larger buildings have been needed and will be rushed to completion as soon as possible. "It is necessary to provide more facilities both for the manufacture of tires and rubber footwear," Mr. Jordan said. In addition to providing this much needed extra manufacturing room, the additional stories to be added will do service as a warehouse for finished goods. They will be particularly useful inasmuch as they will make access easier to the railroad spur at the rear of the plant and will facilitate the handling of shipments. It will also result in the more effective laying out of departments.

"Our business has grown so fast that we are pressed with the need for expansion," Mr. Jordan explained. This end will be realized, it is expected, since the additional accommodation will make an increase of 35 percent of the present output possible.

On Ruling the Tongue.

(Velma Runnells. Campbellford.)

The tongue is a member of the body that gives a person either success or failure. If used properly, there is nothing more valuable. But, oh, how many times those tiny poison spots creep and spread over the tongue! Then the tongue commences to wag. The germs of sin gush out never to return to the dormant stage again. Words once said can never be recalled. Whether they sting or soothe, it is all the same.

The tongue depends upon the brain. You have to think in order to speak. How many of us have ever stopped to think twice before we speak? If more of the "Think twice before you speak or act" motto were carried out among the younger generation, the habit would do them and the world a great deal of good.

Those little lies that steal forth every once and a while! I wonder if we ever stop to think that they are harming us as well as the person whom we are lying about? What about that character of ours? If we want our character to be strong and bright, we must first learn to conquer the tongue.

God did not place our tongue in our mouths to see how much we could say about the other person. If another person has a fault, see that you are not the person who tells your neighbor about it. There has always got to be the first person who starts a story going. Don't be this first person. then the story will never grow.

I have heard two in conversation speaking about another person. One said: "I think Mrs. So-and-So had a party last night because I saw some cars standing in front of the house." The other lady met another friend and said: "Did you know Mrs. So-and-So had a party last night. There were at least fifty cars in front of her house." The truth was: Mrs. So-and-So didn't have a party. There were so many cars at the Masonic rooms that some were obliged to park in front of her house. This story spread so that Mrs. So-and-So had quite a few enemies because she hadn't invited them to her party.

Gossip is one of the hindrances for friendly peace. It all spreads from that red tongue that wags at the wrong time. Instead of talking about the next person and seeing all of their faults, find their good points and repair your own bad faults.

A few kind words may save many a life, but one evil word will often burn holes in your own character and destroy some one else's. When your brain is not working clear, keep the tongue inside the mouth and close your lips tight.

We want a sunshine world and peaceful nations. Give the best words you have to your people and the best will come back to you.

AFRAID SHE WOULD NEVER BE WELL

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" Completely Relieved Dyspepsia.

Mrs. Omer Monette had tried so many remedies in her efforts to get rid of serious Stomach Troubles that she was almost afraid to try "Fruit-a-tives," fearing that this famous medicine would not help her. But, as she writes from Montreal, "I finally decided to do so. The first few tablets helped me and after taking three boxes I noticed a great change for the better. Now, I enjoy and digest everything I eat, and am happy to recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to all my friends."

"Fruit-a-tives" is a combination of concentrated and transformed fruit juices and the most scientific medicinal ingredients. It acts directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and skin; and brings these vital organs back to normal, healthy action.

If your stomach bothers you, try "Fruit-a-tives." 25c. and 50c. a box—at dealers everywhere.

TO VISIT CITY.

On Friday, November 9, at George Street Church, the audience will have the pleasure of listening to Rev. William T. Gunn, D.D., recently elected Moderator of the United Church of Canada. This is only one of the noted speakers who will be here during United Church Week November 4-11. Mr. Gunn was born at Keene, Ontario, in 1867, and educated at McGill University and the Congregational College, Montreal. The new Moderator of the United Church of Canada, Rev. William Thomas Gunn, M.A., D.D., is of Scottish descent—his family hail from Caithness—but has spent his whole life in Canada. He was pastor at Cowansville, Que., and Embro, Ont., before being called to be Secretary of Missions for the Congregational Union. For many years he was a leader in the movement leading up to the union of 1925.

His Moderatorial duties are in addition to his work as secretary of literature, general publicity, and missionary education for the United Church. He also edits The United Church Record and Missionary Review.

In his message to the United Church after being elected Moderator he uses the following stirring words: "We cannot organise a revival—but, by the grace of God, we can begin one. Wherever one earnest heart turns to God for purity of life and power, there a flame is kindled and a revival is begun."

To those who may have heard Mr. Gunn an opportunity is offered to again renew their acquaintance, and for those who have never heard him a great treat is in store.

DEATHS ACCIDENTAL.

Verdict Returned On Fall of Two Children From Hotel Roof.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press)—Investigation into the thirteen storey fall from a hotel roof of two young grandsons of the late Benjamin Guggenheim was closed to-day with the deaths officially pronounced "entirely accidental."

The children, Terrence, four and a half years old, and Benjamin, fourteen months old, fell from the roof of the Hotel Surrey last Friday while their mother, Mrs. Milton S. Waldman, was waiting for a friend who occupies the Pent house there.

9 CENT GASOLINE FOR PETERBOROUGH

A startling announcement that will be welcomed by the readers of this paper is the perfection of an invention that practically cuts gasoline cost in half. In actual test one gallon of gas has been made to run a car 50 miles. Thousands of cars have been equipped and the owners report amazing gasoline savings, more power, instant starting, quicker pick-up and disappearance of carbon. So that this invention can be installed on every car, E. Oliver, 999-2187 W. Third St., Milwaukee, Wis., is seeking men in different localities to handle exclusive territory for him. To those interested he will explain his $5,000 a year offer. Write him for his proposition and free sample offer at once.—Adv.

INQUEST OPENS.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Although five of the surviving injured men taken to hospital are still confined there with injuries, Coroner Herod to-day opened an inquiry into the landslide which occurred in the Welland Ship Canal at Thorold on Saturday afternoon, taking two lives.

DOZENS OF EGGS ARE DISTRIBUTED

Health Association Assists Nursing With Nourishment.

If you go to the market, or go into a grocery and provision store you are liable to be confronted by the fact that although eggs are eggs, there are many grades, sizes and varieties. There are storage eggs and strictly fresh eggs. The dozens upon dozens of eggs that are distributed throughout the season by the Health Association come under the latter grade of strictly fresh.

There are many huge hotels which do not begin to use as many eggs in the course of a year, as the Health Association distributes without charge in homes where sickness and suffering is prevalent, and there is no money to spend for extra nourishments.

Nursing and nourishment go hand in hand. One is of no avail without the other, and the efforts of the district nurse would be of little use if they could not be supplemented by nourishing foods to build up bodies which are worn and wasted. At certain times of the year you buy roses and flowers for their fragrance and beauty, but next Saturday when you are asked to buy a rose for the Health Association do so generously and willingly, having in your mind the little face of some ill-nourished youngster who is looking up at you with pleading eyes.

Campana's Italian Balm

Modernist Vegetables.

(By Jeannette)

We knew it. We realized that sooner or later the infection would spread. We have had cubist pictures for many years. Well do we remember the furore created in artistic circles some years back when they first burst into being, in what might be termed their pristine bloom. Forever engraved upon our memory is the likeness of that charming and extremely modest picture which was entitled "The Nude Descending the Staircase" and which resembled nothing so much in all the world as a bunch of shingles falling through the air.

Then we had cubist ladies who plucked their eyebrows and bobbed their hair in peaks and triangles and wore weird and strange garments. We had cubistic furniture that startled and amazed its onlookers and cubistic wallpaper that appalled.

Now we have futuristic or modernistic vegetables. Not content with their ordinary shapes, peaceful and quiet, just as they were intended to be, potatoes and carrots are blossoming forth in weird and strange shapes. For the delectation of The Examiner staff, two late examples have been brought into this office within the week.

Nothing that ever emanated from the chisel of a Metrovite could equal the outlines of this potato or series of potatoes, for there are excrescences of strange shapes branching out from the parent spud. We are sure that a modernist painter or sculptor would instantly christen this effort of Nature "A Mother and Her Children," because that is what it looks like. The lady herself has a very pug nose and one huge cauliflower ear, but her eyes are in the right position and placed intelligently far apart. The little potatoes attached to the main branch look like tiny duplicates of the mother.

Then there is a carrot that is just like a catcher's mitt, with six, instead of five, fingers. Instead of being long and slender, as a proper carrot should be, it is squat and broad and has a mottled complexion of orange and yellow.

The only explanation of these oddities lies in the theory that the hand that planted them in the first place was imbued with ideas from the brain of its owner. Therefore, could it be traced to its origin, the potato probably was planted by a man who would like to be a futuristic sculptor and the carrot is the brain child of a boy who longs to be a famous ball player.

Such vagaries should be discouraged by the feminine portion of the district's households. Imagine having to peel either of these examples of eccentric roots.

RONNOCO PROPERTY IS NOW READY FOR DIAMOND DRILLS

Upwards of $30,000 has been spent on the Ronnoco Gold Mines Ltd. property, situated some 12 miles northeast from the Dome in the Porcupine camp, according to D. O'Connor, president, who is visiting Toronto. It is interesting to note that this property has the name of the president spelt backwards.

The property is now all in shape for diamond drilling. It is said to have good average ore around $7 with some samples having run as high as $13. A transmission power line runs through the Ronnoco property; there is cheap transportation and a good government road. The company has a 3,000,000 share capitalization of which the vendor holds 1,000,000 shares, and the treasury has 2,000,000 shares, Harry W. Darling, consulting engineer, has made a very favorable report on the possibilities of Ronnoco.

Bank Stock Gain Market Remains Firm

TORONTO, Oct. 25. — (Canadian Press.) — Advances in bank stocks were the feature of the trading on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Gains of from one to five cents were registered by the five bank issues in somewhat heavy trading. The Bank of Montreal led the list with an advance of five to 387, while Standard and Toronto gained three each to 290 and 283 respectively. Dominion and Imperial each advanced a point, the former to 266 and the latter to 268. Commerce was the only one to decline, dropping three to 297. The list showed almost uniform firmness, though International Nickel dropped three to 173. Massey Harris was the heaviest trader on the listed section and was up a point at 54. Brazilian also gained a point to 69¼. Cockshutt was fractionally lower at 31¾, and Shredded Wheat dropped a point to 86. International Petroleum with a turnover of more than 13,000 shares was the most active issue of the session and gained a point to 44 5-8.

British American was up a quarter at 46¼. Hiram Walkers advanced to 75.

Liverpool Quotations Strengthen Wheat Market

CHICAGO, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Helped by comparative firmness of the Liverpool wheat quotation, wheat market here advanced little higher early to-day. Corn also displayed an upward tendency owing to the predicted showers making the outlook less favorable for the prompt movement of corn. Opening unchanged to ¼ higher. Chicago wheat reacted a bit and then scored slight general upturns. Corn started at ⅛ to ¼ off to ⅜ advance and subsequently showed some rise all around. Oats held steady.

Opening prices were: Wheat, December 113¼, March 118. Corn, December 80¾, March 82⅞. Oats, December 43¼, March 43⅞.

Mine Market Unsettled With Declines Numerous

TORONTO, October 25 (Canadian Press). — Heavy selling of Jackson-Manion brought about unsettlement on the Standard Stock Exchange this morning, and declines were freely scattered throughout the list. Transactions in Woman Lake issues totalled more than 150,000 shares, the price dropping from the opening quotation at 80 down to 69 before supporting orders sent it back to 70 at noon for a net loss of ten cents. Noranda was again active, reaching a high mark of 56.25, where it sold off to 55.75 for a net appreciation of 25.

Mond Nickel moved up a similar amount to 32.75. The higher priced gold stocks were among the firm issues, Lake Shore being up 15 at 20.90, Hollinger ten at 9.40, and Teck Hughes five at 8.80. Coast Copper, with few transactions recorded, was up $2.00 at 57. Hudson Bay suffered the greatest recession, being off 80 cents at 18.00, while Sudbury Basin in active trading dropped to 6.5b for a loss of 40.

Gifts that Bring Yuletide Joy

Personal Greeting Cards

selected from the wide range and exclusive lines
now ready for inspection at

The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd.

"The Complete Printing Plant."

We also invite your inspection of our moderately priced lines of Gift Stationery in white and colors. Some of it is ribbon tied and boxed in very pleasing styles.

Then there are the lines of Correspondence Cards which make nice gifts, especially if the name or initial or monogram is embossed thereon in either Gold or Silver. This can be had at a slight additional cost.

You might like to have the stationery printed or embossed. We can do this for you in almost any color desired, and at a reasonable charge. It makes the gift more personal.

We also make up boxes of personal stationery for men, with envelopes to match. These boxes usually have the name and address embossed in blue or black on the legal size notepaper and envelopes.

Our stock of plain die sunk cards permits of you having a purely individual greeting card made up with your own verse and ornament to suit. These are reasonably priced and have envelopes to match. See our sample book of these.

Perhaps you would rather have a folder made up with verses of your own composition or those of a dear friend on. We will be glad to make any number of these up for you on short notice.

We would suggest that all orders for special greeting cards, personal stationery, etc., be placed without delay in order that we may serve you well and with complete satisfaction.

You will find "WELCOME" on the mat at The Examiner, where Examiner Greeting Card Girls will be glad to serve you.

SENATORS REORGANIZE BACKFIELD LINE

OTTAWA PLAY AT MONTREAL

Meet the Winged Wheelers in Scheduled Big Four Rugby Fixture.

NEW LNE-UP.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Youth will carry the Ottawa colors into battle when the Senators engage the Montreal A.A.A. twelve in their scheduled Big Four rugby fixture at the Westmount grounds on Saturday. In place of the familiar faces of Eddie Emerson, Joe Tubman, Jim Humphrey, Jess Ketchum and other battle-scarred veterans on the Ottawa line-up, youth and speed will be presented in abundance and the locals are confident of making a good showing against the Red and Blue machine.

A brand new backfield array will be on view before Montreal fans. Two fleet and good catching youngsters in Bill Brassington and "Pop" Irvin will form the rearguard, while Charlie Connell aided by a "rookie," Stan Stanyar, will form the secondary defence. Charlie Lynch will, as usual, be at quarter and will likely take on the kicking burden, as well while a revamped wing-line built on youth and speed will endeavor to halt the Red and Blue line thrusts and break through for gains when holding the ball.

The substitute list will include Joe Tubman, who will be pressed into action at some stage of the game to relieve Lynch in the kicking duties.

Ottawas are in the process of reorganization and of the twelve men who composed the regular team last year, Bruce, Lynch, Connell and Starr are the only ones left.

The team is working hard in practice and one outstanding feature is the additional speed and pep being shown as the players rush through their training manoeuvres.

VIEWS ON SPORT

The "Y" Harriers Club are holding road running workouts on Tuesday and Thursday nights. (Weather permitting).

Sprinting enthusiasts should be reminded of the gala sports program that is to be held here on Thanksgiving Day under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. officials. Valuable prizes are offered for each event. Practice races are being held by members of the Harriers club two nights every week and all those who are desirous of taking part are asked to get in touch with Doug. Loomis at the local "Y".

Toronto is to be the scene of the biggest game of the season in the inter-collegiate group on Saturday when Queens invade the Varsity stadium. Right now, these two teams along with McGill are in a three-cornered deadlock for first place. Varsity beat the Tricolor on their home field and are quite confident of taking them back into the fold again over the week-end.

At that the Kingstonians are unfortunate in having "Bubs" Britton, their captain laid up with a sore knee which may keep him out of the game for the remainder of the season.

ATHLETIC CLUB IS FORMED AT LAKEFIELD CEMENT COMPANY

Organized To Sponsor Recreations For All Employees and Their Families.

ELECT FAMILIES.

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 26.—(Examiner Correspondence).—At a representative meeting of the employees of plant 7, Canada Cement Co., held on October 20th, a social and Athletic Club was organized to sponsor recreation for all employees, both old and young, and their respective families. Previous to the meeting a petition was circulated throughout the plant and over one hundred employees signified their intention of becoming charter members, and agreed also, to contribute ten cents a month to the general fund to help finance the club.

The following officers were elected:—

Honorary President—Mr. W. G. Morrison.
President—Mr. E. W. Bailey.
Vice President—Mr. G. A. Charlton.
Treasurer—Mr. H. R. Wagar.
Secretary—Mr. J. R. Hill.

The following representatives were selected as convenors to look after the various sports:

Softball—Mr. John E. Charlton.
Quoits—Mr. M. S. Abrams.
Hockey—Mr. J. P. Sabatino.
Tennis—Mr. N. S. Osborne.
Curling—Mr. E. S. Kelsey.
Broomaboo—Mr. D. D. Hill.
Social and dramatic committee — Messrs. Keith Wannamaker, R. L. Mason and G. J. Elmsley.

Inter-departmental competitions will be staged in the various sports for the plant championship and plant teams will be entered in the Lakefield and district league.

BASKETBALL ANNUAL ON NOVEMBER 3RD

Messrs. McKinnon and Eagleson To Retire From Office.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association has been called for Saturday night, November 3, at Central Y.M.C.A., commencing at 7.30 o'clock. Walter L. McKinnon, the president of the association for the past two years, will not likely stand for that office again this year. It is expected that both he and Frank Eagleson, the secretary-treasurer, will withdraw from office.

There are three amendments to the Ontario constitution of which notice has been received. The first is to provide that the president and secretary treasurer shall be a committee to determine protests with a right to any team affected to appeal to the full executive. This will facilitate decisions in the majority of cases.

The second clears up the interpretation of the constitution made last year by the executive to the effect that a player is entitled to play only for one recognized team in any recognized league, either in Canada or outside of Canada.

The third amendment is to increase the fees payable to referees in senior and intermediate games from the present scale of $5 for senior and $4 for intermediate, to $10 for senior and $5 for intermediate games.

O'NEILL APPOINTED PLAYING MANAGER FOR LEAFS IN 1929

Former Catcher Guarantees To Participate In At Least 100 Games.

IS POPULAR CHOICE.

Succeeds Bill O'Hara, Who May Remain As Business Manager.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Steve O'Neill, former Toronto catcher, who has been with the St. Louis American league team the past two years will return to the Toronto club as first string catcher for next season and will also succeed "Bill" O'Hara as manager.

This announcement was made yesterday afternoon by Vice-President Dunn of the Toronto baseball club, following h meeting to decide on the managership.

O'Neill is to be playing manager of the Leafs and guarantees to catch at least one hundred games.

It had been announced early in the day by a Toronto paper that O'Neill would return as catcher, but it was said then that he would not succeed O'Hara. This decision was made later yesterday.

It is anticipated that O'Hara will manage Newark next season, succeeding Walter Johnson, who has gone to Washington. O'Neill was one of the most popular catchers on the Leaf staff, Dan Howley taking him to St. Louis two years ago when Dan went there to manage the Browns.

It is also suggested that O'Hara might remain with the Leafs as business manager next year, as he has been given the opportunity to do so unless he should decide to manage another International League team.

By Pin Boy

K. OF C. ALLEYS

The boys down at the K. of C. Club are beginning to ride the pins something awful these days and scores over 200 during the last few nights are almost common.

* * *

We are wondering which of the K. of C. bowlers started the controversy as to whether they's play their games a la golf with the lowest score taking the raspberries or to oppose the wishes of the majority in their midst and play in the regular manner with the higher scores being eligible to carry off the fur lined shoelaces.

* * *

If it had not been for the husky biffing administered to the five pins by Clancy his team would probably have received a dab of whitewash from the MacPherson Crew who captured six points in the league fixture. Wolff for the winners piled up 282 pins in one game and G. Rutherford had high three with 680.

* * *

In a peppy battle that ran the pin boys ragged the Ryan team divided honors evenly with McCabe's quintette of bowlers. Dorris was the only player to climb over the 300 mark with a single score of 319 which also was high single for the night. Honors for high score in three games went to J. McCabe who made 668.

* * *

The spheres certainly slid down the aisles at a merry clip during the Bogye vs. Duffus fracas the latter being handed the small end of a 6-2 score due to the marksmanship of Martin whose score sheet showed both high single and high three 262 and 697.

* * *

Jim Fay and his All-stars again completed a league fixture with a comfortable margin over LeBarr's gang in this week's bowling. Bill Thomas was high with 246 while Dave Ahern was well up with 243 on the winning team. Demster and McFadden on the LeBarr quintette turned in nice games with 268 and 261 respectively.

C.G.E. SHOP LEAGUE

Brass No. 2 failed to stop the winning streak of the Meter Makers in the shop fixture last night and lost three games. Battle turned in a nice card having high single 239 and high three 627 while Mann of the Brass Department was almost as good making 234 and 580.

* * *

The bowlers from the Insulation Department were treated to a shut out at the hands of the lightning Arrester squad who marched home with three more games tucked away. Selkirk was the "big gun" with high single 222 while his teammate Russel chalked up a total of 599.

* * *

The competition waxed very keen between Switchboard and Bass 1 the former losing two games out of three although this team was credited with high single 238 by Jack Hope and high three B. Watts 527.

* * *

The Meter Gang in the Men's section of the Shop league are rolling along in fine style, having high total pinnage for one game with a total of 1020 pins.

PLANS UNCERTAIN FOR BELLEVILLE

Prospects For Hockey Poor in Bay of Quinte City.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 25.—Prospects for hockey in this city appear to be extremely poor, and from present indications the city may not be represented by a team this year. All of last year's players are still located here, but the fact that the old rink is not likely to be re-opened leaves room for doubt as to whether the Maroons will be reorganized as no steps have been taken in that direction as yet.

The rink, an old wooden structure, is an antiquated affair, and at the close of last season the home games were transferred to the Trenton rink. A movement was started for a new arena last Spring, but the necessary support was lacking and the project was abandoned. It is hinted that the Belleville and Trenton junior O.H.A. teams may be amalgamated, with the games being played in Trenton.

The Belleville juniors presented a fast team last year, but were beaten out by St. Michael's College of Toronto in the semi-finals. Seven of the players on that team are still eligible for junior hockey. The intermediates have some promising material, with Whaler, Goyer, Hagerman, Rooney, Hibbard and Bowen available.

NO MORE PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Specialist Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the internal treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named this prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere with money back guarantee. It is easy to take, and McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

SEEK GOLF ASSOCIATION WITHOUT MEN DICTATORS

Western Association Heads Ask For "Suffrage" in Conducting Tournaments.

INDEPENDENT CONTROL.

CHICAGO, Oct. 25 (A.P.).—A National Women's Golf Association, with independent control of all golfing affairs of the fair sex in America, is the goal toward which feminine golfdom is headed, according to expressions of leaders at yesterday's annual meeting of the Women's Western Golf Association.

This body is successfully independent of men and always has been, but the national championship is under the direction of the United States Golf Association—a golf contest for the women of the country held by the men.

Among those who favored such a plan was Mrs. Robert M. Cutting, retiring president of the Women's Western and member of the women's advisory committee of the U.S.G.A.

Mrs. Cutting, who gave way to Mrs. Paul Walker, of Chicago, as president of the W.W.G.A., said after adjournment that she spoke only personally, but that it appealed to her as a splendid idea to have the women in full control of their own affairs, even down to city contests.

Under such an arrangement, golf would be controlled under a system similar to the National Government. The national body would control in a general way and conduct the national championship tourneys.

State organizations would handle regional affairs, while, under State control, there would be city and district association, all free of the oversight of men, except to rules of the game.

There was no official consideration of the subject, and, aside from elections, a few minor amendments to the constitution and reports, the meeting was given over to awarding of prizes.

Those included the Western championship to Mrs. Harry Pressler of Los Angeles, who won this summer for the second consecutive time by defeating Virginia Wilson, of Chicago, Canadian champion, in the finals at Indian Hills Club; individual medal score honors to Mrs. Lee Mida, of Chicago; the Chicago championship to Virginia Van Wie for the third time, and a special award to Mrs. Melvin Jones, of Olympic Fields, who won the gold medal in the Chicago title event at her home club with a world record score of 73 on the No. 1 course, one above men's par.

Invitations for the 1929 championship were received from Mayfield Club, Cleveland, and Oakland Hills Club, Detroit.

It is likely that the committee will select one of these cities for the event and a tentative plan is afoot to hold it within a week of the national women's championship, which may be played in one of those two cities also.

Glenna Collet, of Providence, won the national title for the third time this year by defeating Virginia Van Wie in the finals at Hot Springs, Va., and the event is due to come to the Midwest next Summer.

DAVE TROTTIER STILL UNDECIDED

Does Not Recognize "Gentlemen's Agreement" Between N. H. L. Clubs.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 25.—Dave Trottier has finally made an exclusive statement concerning himself and his plans to try and stop all the unsought publicity he has been getting.

"I have not definitely decided to turn professional. I like hockey, but I have a business career ahead of me that for the future is more important than the game. If I find that I can combine the two things, I may turn professional, but I will do so with the team that I feel would be the one I like, or not at all.

"I do not recognize any 'gentlemen's agreement' that they have in the National Hockey League. I do not even think about it. As an amateur I'm not up for sale to the highest bidder.

"Perhaps nobody can see my position. Here I am an amateur and have my rights. I am not to be dictated to by a league before I join them. All the things that have been published have been very distasteful to me and if someone would put themselves in my position they could readily understand that."

"If you did turn pro., it would be with a Montreal team, would it not?" he was asked. "Well, I might play with Victorias," he answered evasively.

But when pressed Trottier admitted that as he was in a business way located here it would be quite logical that he would play with one of the local N.H.L. clubs. And of course the natural deduction is that the team would be the Montreal Maroons, among whom he has many friends.

ALL NEW SHOW AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY — "TAKE-A-CHANCE WEEK" — NEW VAUDEVILLE, NEW PICTURES, NEW MUSICAL TREATS.

For the last half of Take-a-Chance Week, at the Capitol, commencing to-day, a complete change of program will be offered—new vaudeville, new feature and short subjects, new musical treats, new surprises. If you witnessed the program the first three days of the week, come to-night and be prepared to see something even better. It will be a great show, folks. Be a First Nighter, and don't wait until some one else tells you how wonderful it is.

AT THE REGENT.

"Take-a-Chance-Week" has proved a real attraction in the way of something different at the Regent Theatre judging by the crowds who attended the performances on the first three nights of this week. Many comments have been heard praising the management for the pictures and surprises which have offered at this popular playhouse.

For Thursday, there will be a complete change of program which will even eclipse the splendid offering of the first part of the week. The Regent Seven Piece Orchestra have prepared an entirely new musical presentation and the management have already a list of surprises that will convince the most skeptical person that the Regent Theatre can be rightly called Peterborough's most popular playhouse.

Show Increase In Golf Playing

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 25 (Canadian Press).—Mounting enthusiasm for golf reveals itself in the prosaic figures of the Bureau of Statistics. Although the season is drawing to a close, golf balls to the total of 1,155 dozen were imported into Canada during September, a slight increase over August's total which was 1,104 dozen and 965 dozen over the total of 190 dozen for September last year. Of the imports during September last, 316 dozen came from the United Kingdom and 839 dozen from the United States.

FOOD FOR THE RAIL BIRDS

It won't be long now before the rail birds start to pick the gridiron winners or at least make brave attempts at it. The Eastern Rugby Union is one hard nut to crack in trying to pick the good thing, but this year there is a wide preference, for apparently the Bengals of Hamilton is the team to beat for the Dominion honors this season.

Mike Rodden, the go-getter coach of the jungletown pets, has kept his team together and wisely made a few changes for the better. Although the loss of "Pep" Langley was greatly felt, Mike has secured the services of the Delta Collegiate star, "Huck" Welch, whose booting has been a sensation this year.

Tigers on the whole look to be a powerful machine.

In the Intercollegiate Union there was an upset at the start of the season, when the Varsity twelve handed the Tri-color a trimming in their own back yard at Kingston. This has made the Blue and White look like a championship outfit. However, the old McGill boys upset that by trimming the Blue and White right in their home grounds 16-7.

Les Blackwell, the new coach of the University of Toronto this year, was up against a tough proposition as far as material was concerned as the university apparently hadn't a star to build a team around. But as the season passes on the Blue and White looms up as having a good chance to be in the finals and the credit should certainly be put down to Les Blackwell's efforts.

Again this coming Saturday Queen's will meet the Varsity students in their own grounds and no doubt there will be a battle royal before a crowd of eighteen or twenty thousand fans.

CONTEST WINNER TO ENTER MOVIES

Esme Willmott, Who Won Goblin Contest, Guaranteed Part in Picture.

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Blonde and petite, the adorably winsome Esme Willmott of Toronto so captivated the hearts of Goblin Readers that she triumphed in this magazine's recent Movie Opportunity Contest and will soon be on her way, accompanied by her mother, to fame and fortune in this glamorous and most highly paid of professions.

Through winning this contest over the original several thousand entries, little Esme, who is only twelve years old, goes to California with all travelling and hotel expenses paid for both hers and mother by Goblin Magazine, with a salary of one hundred dolla a week for herself and fifty dollars week for her mother.

Upon her arrival at Universal City she is guaranteed a part in a feature film to be made by the Universal Film Company, producers of The Hunchback of Notre Dame, The Phantom of the Opera, Uncle Tom's Cabin and many others of the greatest film spectacles. Clair Hague, the general manager of the Canadian Universal Film Company, is now in touch with Universal City arranging that as soon as this company's casting directors require a character of the type represented by Esme, she and her mother will leave for their great adventure in the land of palms, movie stars and sunshine.

This blue-eyed, pink cheeked, sturdily built little lass is already something of a trouper as she has appeared professionally upon the stage in the capacity of a dancer in a numberof theatres in Toronto and other Ontario cities.

Perhaps due to the initiative of Goblin Magazine this attractive youngster will in a few months belong to that famous galaxy of Canadian movie stars who have already achieved world-wide fame, notably, Mary Pickford, Norma Shearer, Pauline Garon and Marie Prevost.

ORNAMENTAL STONE MAY BE MOULDED

Time was when the creation of architectural ornament was wholly a matter of the mason's trusty chisel and stubborn stone. But scientific development in cement and concrete has produced a stone which may be given any shape, texture or color without reference to a chisel until the final dressing.

This new architectural material, called "cast stone," or "cut, cast stone," is, at one time in its career, as easily molded to any form or space as plaster of Paris; but there its resemblance ends, for when this artificial stone has set, it grows stronger and stronger, increasingly impervious to ravages of time and the elements.

In its final form, writes Wyatt Brummitt in the October issue of Popular Science Monthly, cast stone may be anything from a massive, classic column to a delicate bit of tracery, from stone facing for a great office building to a simple window sill for a bungalow. But it always has its beginnings in the scientific mixture of Portland cement, water, sand and some sort of coarse aggregate—clean marble chips, granite, or other stone, chosen for particular color or texture.

Cast stone ornaments are first conceived in the mind of the architect. Then trained artists employed by the cast stone manufactories make complete drawings and prepare patterns from which clay models or wooden patterns are made. From these, molds are made in plaster, glue or sand, glue being used when several reproductions are desired.

Now the concrete mixture is definitely determined, the mixture depending on whether the finished ornament will have to carry load or stress, whether its lines are to be flat or bold, and whether it is to occupy an exposed or sheltered position.

After a casting has been made and has set, every care is taken to insure its curing under ideal condition, insuring a dense, strong cast stone. When the casting is ready for finishing it may be handled exactly as natural cut stone. It may be rubbed, honed or machine grooved by mechanical means. Or it may be bush-hammered, crandalled, axed, pointed, or otherwise treated by hand.

UNCLE WIGGILY

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SQUIRREL PUDDING

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

The Fox and the Bob Cat sat on one side of the campfire and Uncle Wiggily sat on the other. Near the Fox and Bob Cat were some things which the silly-tailed Bad Chaps called his "popping stones." He had found them in the woods that day and, giving some to the Fox, the two had followed Uncle Wiggily to where the rabbit gentleman had built himself a fire to warm his toes for the day was cold.

Uncle Wiggily looked at the two piles of brown things, as I have told you in the story before this, and he wondered what they were. He could not see them very well because they were on the other side of the fire.

The Fox and the Bob Cat had spoken about the weather, but well did Uncle Wiggily know they had not come where he was sitting just for that kind of talk.

"They're up to some trick," thought the rabbit. "I wonder what it is and I wonder if I can't play a better trick?"

Then Uncle Wiggily leaned forward to take a closer look and saw what the brown things really were. "Stones to pop at that rabbit," the Bob Cat had called them.

"Well," silently laughed Mr. Longears, "they are going to pop all right, but they aren't stones. The Bob Cat thinks they are, and so does the Fox. But those brown things—well, they'll soon find out what they are."

The Fox and Bob Cat were talking between themselves as to who should have the first nibble off Uncle Wiggily's ears.

"I ought to bite first," mewed the Bob Cat.

"Why should you?" asked the Fox.

"Because I found the brown, popping stones and gave you some and soon we'll throw them at Uncle Wiggily and knock him out so we can easily nibble him. I should bite first."

"No," said the Fox. "I am your company and company should always be treated first."

"Well, all right, let it go that way," mewed the Bob Cat.

And while the Bad Chaps were talking, Uncle Wiggily reached around the edge of the fire with a curved stick and poked closer to the blaze some of the brown "popping stones," as the Bob Cat had called them.

All of a sudden there was a loud "pop!" and something hit the Fox on his soft and tender nose.

"Hi! Who's throwing things at me?" howled the Fox. Stop it, Mr. Longears."

"I didn't throw anything," said the rabbit.

All of a sudden, again there was another loud "pop!" and something hit the Bob Cat on his nose.

"Now you quit that fooling, Uncle Wiggily!" snarled the Bob Cat.

"I didn't hit you," said the rabbit.

Then all of a quickness there were a lot of loud pops and the brown things near the fire began bursting and pieces of them hit the two Bad Chaps all over, so hard and fast that the Fox and Bob Cat ran away howling, for some of the bursting pieces were hot.

"What happened?" asked the Fox when he and the Bob Cat were far off in the woods leaving Uncle Wiggily by the fire. "How did that rabbit play such a trick on us?"

"I don't know," howled the Bob Cat, "but he did!"

And Uncle Wiggily, back at the fire, raked away from the coals all the brown chestnuts that had not burst with the heat and, so popping, had struck the bad chaps.

"I'll take these chestnuts to Mrs. Bushytail and she can make a squirrel pudding," said Mr. Longears. "Squirrels love nut pudding."

For it was chestnuts, and not popping stones, that the stupid and silly Bob Cat had picked up in the woods to throw at the rabbit. And when the chestnuts were put too near the fire they exploded and the pieces hit the Bad Chaps on their noses. But none of the chestnuts hit Uncle Wiggily, for he was on the other side of the fire.

"Oh, what fine chestnuts!" chattered Mr. Bushytail when Uncle Wiggily brought her those that hadn't popped. "I shall make a lovely pudding," and she did and Johnnie and Billie had some that night.

So this teaches us that though we may be so poor that we have no money to buy gold wash rags still we can be happy by going barefooted in the grass.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE CHILD OF FAME

He who is the child of fame
Has the strangest mother:
All his ardour she will claim—
There must be no other.
He must follow her afar
Where the bleakest mountains are,
He must serve her all his hours,
Though her gift is fading flow'rs.

He who lives for fame, alas,
Lives for fame for certain,
Lives within a house of glass
Without lock or curtain.
Lesser men may dwell apart,
Have their secrets of the heart;
Greatness also dwells alone,
Not a moment quite its own

He who is a child of fame
Yet will weary of her,
Though he serves her still the same,
Soon will cease to love her.
If the child of fame could choose
Which to keep and which to lose,
He would say, "Oh, give me then
Not a sword, but peace again."

TO-DAY!

IT is not so easy to be passed for the Army in peace time. Out of every five recruits in 1924, four were rejected as unfit—yet Cyril Colston, who at the age of 5 was in the extreme state of emaciation shown above, passed this severe medical examination, thanks to Virol. "Once a hopeless case," his life was saved by Virol, and his health and strength built up by taking Virol regularly during childhood and adolescence. Read medical evidence below.

VIROL builds up for LIFE

Extract from Doctor's Report, 3rd January, 1923.

"... I am fully satisfied that Virol was the factor which enabled him as a child, not only to turn the corner successfully in a very serious illness, but, in subsequent years of development (during which he never ceased to take Virol), enabled him to build up a healthy body and gave him reserves of power and energy. His parents describe the result as nothing less than a miracle."

News From the Mines

Through
Solloway, Mills & Company

Buffalo Rouyn.

The shaft is down now to a depth of 45 feet. It is intended to sink to a depth of 100 feet where drifting along the vein will be carried out as well as a crosscut to tap two paralleling veins which exist to the north. These veins are composed of silicious rhyolite, banded with stringer of chalcopyrite. The rhyolite is also heavily mineralized.

Three channel assays were run on the main vein, the average of which is stated to be 3 feet 6 per cent. copper, 3.75 gold, and the remaining 4 feet 2 per cent copper and 1.75 gold.

All three veins are contained within a width of 130 feet. They have been opened up by surface trenching for a length of 600 feet.

Some distance to the west of this there is a large mineralised area with much disseminated chalcopyrite to be seen. Very little work has been done on this zone as yet. It is intended to sample this carefully to see if it warrants any further work.

The plant is now operating. It is a portable gasoline outfit and they are making about three feet per day in the sinking.

Noranda.

The concentrator mill is now operating and putting through about 60 tons per day, one shift being worked. The ore being run through at the present time is Waite ore. The ore is ground to 200 mesh. While the capacity of the concentrator is rated to be 500 tons a day, the mill will not be able to handle more than 250 tons per day while treating a complex ore like the Waite ore. The reason for this is that it is necessary to run off the copper first and float of the zinc in a second operation. Noranda's low grade ore, of course, having no zinc, would be concentrated during one operation.

The second recerberatory furnace is practically ready for operation. After it has been tried out, they will close down the first for repairs, just using the second. It is expected that both will be in operation when the new converters coming from the Murray Mine are installed.

The collar of the new shaft is being poured. The shaft is down about 45 feet.

Pend Oreille.

Our Vancouver office reports that Pend Oreille has every appearance of being a strong trader this winter. Geology is considered favorable, and sufficient diamond drilling has been done to determine the orebodies to some extent, and if results had not been satisfactory, it is hardly likely that the big interests would still be interested. It is anticipated in Vancouver that Professor O'Neill of McGill report will be at least favorable. The acquisition of Reeves-McDonald should also materially help Pend Oreille. The large holders of the stock are said to have retained their holdings intact, believing that ultimately Pend Oreille will develop into a large mining enterprise.

Mining Briefs

A Special Service to The Examiner

Selective mining is said to have been recently resumed on the Porcupine Paymaster in place of a large tonnage o. low grade material which latter experiment was not satisfactory. It is rumored that this company will shortly close down, failing to find successful the methods used by other Porcupine producers. A report states that the average grade lately has been very low, just a little better than $2.00 per ton recovery, while mining and milling costs have been in the neighborhood of $6.00. No mine can stand this indefinitely an unless some new ore of better grade is discovered no other course of continuance would be open to the management. It is understood that the company is looking around for a new property and that it has examined a number of prospects already.

• • •

It is stated that Amulet's new diamond drill only started Tuesday and that it is now down around 40 feet. The location is said to have been changed and a probable reason was that the previous location was rendered swampy owing to the wet weather. The present set-up is said to be about 15 feet north of the shaft and north of the "B" ore body.

• • •

Surface work has started on a group of 18 claims in the Red Lake sector, owned by Tyrell Red Lake Mines Ltd. Prospecting is in charge of W. H. Grier. This group is said to have been staked over 30 years ago and that in former years a prospect shaft was sunk to a depth of 30 feet. Present work, however, is being centred on another section of the property.

• • •

A report from Kirkland Lake is to the effect that the Tough Oakes Burnside has ceased mining and milling operations. The report also contains some information regarding the Pawnee Kirkland. It is stated that this company is in high grade ore on the 250-foot level, running $20 across a width of 5 feet.

• • •

Work of sinking the new shaft at the Bidgood is reported to have commenced this morning.

• • •

It is reported that drifting on the 125-foot level of the Jackson Manion is showing $12 ore and that lateral operations on the 250-foot level is showing $20 ore over a width of 8 feet. Diamond drilling from the 250-foot level is said to have cut and proved the main vein to a depth of 375 feet. Shaft sinking from the 250-foot level to a depth of 500 feet is to be resumed immediately.

• • •

A despatch from Kirkland Lake summarizes recent development at the Lake Shore. It is stated that the north vein in the west drift on the 1,000-foot level is still showing considerable high grade, averaging $200 per ton over a width of 5 feet. The new parallel vein is said to show ore for a length of 120 feet on the 400-foot level. This new vein is also being opened up on the 800-foot horizon where it is said to be of the same high grade character. Thesouth vein of the 1600-foot level is said to have the immense width of 60 feet and drifting, nearly completed, is reported to show an average value of around $15 per ton in gold. The mill is said to be running 1100 tons per day with average millheads at $14 per ton.

• • •

A wire from Timmins states that mill production at the Dome is being maintained around $315,000 per month —with thirteen large stopes being worked throughout the mine. The north ore body opened on the 10th, 11th, and 12 th levels alone is said to contain about one year's supply of ore. A long crosscut is stated to be underway on the 13th level to the old Dome Extension claims and this is said to show favorable geological conditions with good chances for the finding of new ore bodies.

• • •

Shaft sinking on the property of Lake Geneva Mines, controlled by Towagmac, is reported to have commenced. The shaft will be sunk to an immediate objective of 250 feet.

• • •

A despatch from Rouyn states that Noranda has cut 300 feet of high grade ore on the 500-foot level. This is thought to be the "H" ore body, to the south of the shaft.

• • •

Good progress is being made in preparing the La Bellevue Mine, Oregon, recently acquired by East Sudbury Deep Mines, for production. All tunnels are now open, four new ore cars and three additional air drills have been added while underground operations, re-timbering, repairing, etc., are also being carried out. Work of completing the mill is being carried on simultaneously with the work in the mine.

A good deal of news "broke" yesterday morning, as a consequence of which readers will find an additional "Mining Briefs" issued immediately following the publication of this bulletin.

Republic of Peru

Peruvian National Loan, 6% External Sinking Fund Gold Bonds, Second Series.

Dated October 1, 1928 Due October 1, 1961

Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Redeemable in whole or in part at the option of the Republic, on any interest date, on 60 days' published notice, at principal amount and accrued interest. Principal and interest payable in United States gold coin of the standard of weight and fineness existing October 1, 1928, in New York City, at the principal office of either of the Fiscal Agents, J. & W. Seligman & Co. and The National City Bank of New York, without deduction for any Peruvian taxes present or future; also payable at the option of the holder in London, England; Amsterdam, Zurich or Basle. Bonds in coupon bearer form in denominations of $1,000 and $500.

The Republic of Peru is the third largest country in South America, with an area of approximately 550,000 square miles. Construction of the Panama Canal reduced the steaming distance from New York to Callao, its chief port and one of the most important in South America, from 9,000 to less than 3,500 nautical miles.

Mining and agriculture are the principal activities of Peru. Peru is the world's third largest producer of silver, and for many years has exported large quantities of low-cost copper. Eighty per cent. of the world's production of vanadium comes from Peru. The principal United States mining companies operating in Peru are the American Smelting and Refining Company and the Cerro de Pasco Copper Corporation. The petroleum reserves, considered of great potential value, are being rapidly developed by capital from the United States and other foreign countries. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, through its subsidiaries, is active in this field. A wide range of climatic conditions result in diversified agricultural production. Most of the world's supply of alpaca wool comes from Peru.

It is estimated that more than $400,000,000 of foreign capital is invested in Peru, of which about $250,000,000 is capital from the United States.

The revenue applicable to the bonds of the Peruvian National Loan amounted in 1927 to $19,413,666, or 3.26 times the annual service charges on the outstanding bonds of the Peruvian National Loan.

PRICE: 91 and accrued interest.

Wedding Bells

ROBERTSON—FOSTER

All Saints' Anglican Church was the scene of a pretty little Autumn wedding yesterday afternoon at 4.00 o'clock, when the marriage of Florence Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Foster, London street, and George Frederick, son of the late George Robertson and Mrs. James H. Justin, 267 Hunter street, was solemnized. Rev. J. Douglas Paterson conducted the ceremony. The bride was charming in her gown of brown georgette, velvet trimmed, and a hat of brown velvet. She wore shoes and hose to match. Her corsage bouquet was of roses and lily of the valley.

The bride and bridegroom were attended by Miss Doris Justin, a sister of the bridegroom, dressed in a pretty dress of glazed taffeta and a little wine-colored hat to match, and Walter Davidson. A wedding breakfast was afterwards served at the home of the bridegroom's mother, where Mrs. T. E. Curvin sang sweetly, with M. Yokome playing the piano. After the breakfast the bride and bridegroom left for a motor trip through Western Ontario, the bride travelling in a brown coat trimmed with fur. When they return they will reside at 709 Water street.

Obituary

W. L. VELIE.

MOLINE, Ill., Oct. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—W. L. Velie, president of the Velie Motor Corporation, died last night after two days' illness. He was 62 years old.

MRS. GEORGE RUTH

Mary Ruth, wife of George Ruth, of Suite 6, Rosemount Apartments, Toronto, died at her residence Tuesday, October 16, at the age of 57 years. Mrs. Ruth was a native of Peterborough, Ont., but had resided in Winnipeg for the past nine years. She was an active member of Young United Church and was deeply interested in the work of the Ladies' Aid Society.

Besides her husband she is survived by one daughter, Mrs. E. Walker of Winnipeg; a sister, Mrs. A. Mills of Peterborough, Ont., and four brothers, John Mahood of Elmira, Ont., and Alex and Edward of Peterborough, and Robert of Vancouver.

The funeral was held at 3.30 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the family residence to Elmwood cemetery. The service was conducted by Dr. R. H. Bell.

WILLIAM RICHARD FOULGER.

The death occurred at 164½ Simcoe Street to-day, October 25, of a well-known resident of Peterborough in the person of William Richard Foulger. Left to mourn his loss is one son Charles William, three daughters, Lillian Marie, Rose Marion, and Violet Annie, and also three brothers and one sister.

The funeral will take place from the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. F. James, 48 Lafayette Avenue. The time and day will be announced later.

IN MEMORIAM.

HAMLIN.—In loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. J. E. Hamlin, who died Oct. 25, 1923:

Five years have passed and gone
Since one we loved so well
Was taken from our home on earth
With Jesus Christ to dwell.
The flowers we place upon her grave
May wither and decay,
But the love of her who sleeps beneath
Shall never fade away.

YOUNG NEVILLE AGAIN LANDS IN COURT

POWER PROJECT MENACES HABITANTS' HOMES

Fighting Lievre Dam

Residents of Five Villages Oppose Plans For High Falls.

LED BY CLERGY.

Dam There Would Develop 100,000 Horse Power But Flood Homes.

VALDES BOIS, Que., Oct. 26 (Special to The Examiner).—The homes of this part of Quebec are sad these days and the habitants live in a world of bewilderment and fear.

This is a story of five villages on the Lievre river menaced by a flood of waters, and a simple people, aided by the clergy, fighting a great company. They cannot understand the industrial complications of a colossal power scheme which is being promoted by the James MacLaren Company of Buckingham, and which will affect the entire course of the river for 108 miles.

The project rivals that of the Gatineau Power Company at Paugan Falls, and is estimated in engineering circles to cost anywhere from $12,500,000 to $50,000,000. A power plant will be built at the foot of the High Falls, 45 miles north of Ottawa, which will permit of from 100,000 to 300,000 horse power development and will make the site even larger than the present construction on the Lievre's twin river, the Gatineau, at Paugan Falls, which cost in the neighborhood of $80,000,000, and is considered one of the largest power houses in North America.

Will Flood Large Area.

It is estimated that this will partially flood the surrounding country to Cedar Rapids, a distance of twenty miles, where a huge dam will be built for the creation of a storage reservoir, which will regulate the river and provide a water storage of 25,000,000 cubic feet for the power plant.

The company prophesies that the entire district will expand and prosper as a result of the scheme.

But the villagers and farmers on the Upper Lievre understand nothing of this. They only know that their homes are threatened, and, fired with love of their lands, they seek to stem, by legal proceedings, the roar of waters and prevent their hearthstones from being covered with the slime of sea bottom.

So houses stand unfinished and the crops unharvested.

Picturesque District.

"Expropriation" is a dreaded word to these simple folk, and may mean the loss of one of the most picturesque districts of Quebec.

Loss of church and parochial school is the fear of the Protestant community at High Falls, which will disappear completely. It is estimated by Rev. R. W. Moehring of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church that many hundreds of Protestants will be affected by the power project and the efforts of many years to keep alive the Protestant faith brought to nought.

"We would have celebrated our fiftieth anniversary on Armistice Day," he said, "but now we will lose everything."

English Language Would Go.

"Once we are driven out our church goes and with it the English language which we and our children speak, and where can we go? The English speaking districts are already crowded. If we are ejected we will be scattered to the four winds and suffer poverty and loneliness."

Of German extraction, his people are zealous in their religious and home life. Thrifty and happy, they know only farms and the work of farms.

Life in the great cities is the main fear of their minister and spokesmen.

"Once they are away from their farms, they will become the prey of every sharper who meets them," he emphasized. "For they are as illiterate as they are sincere, and it is so easy to take advantage of them for the majority can neither read nor write."

Will Fight To End.

Although options for sale have been signed, the villagers declare they will fight to the last cent for their homes and prominent Quebec barristers state that they already represent more than one thousand interested parties in the legal battle with the company which is impending.

Under the law of the province, the company will have to replace roads schools and cemeteries.

"But of what use will this be if there are no available farms and no children to fill the schools?" the minister asked.

One Chance In Billions Comes True; Farmer Ships Successive Loads In Same Car

WINNIPEG, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press).—There is one chance in thirty six billion of it happening again at the town of Arque, Manitoba. On Sept. 20 a farmer named C. R. Somerville loaded part of his crop of number 2 Durum into Canadian National car number 423871. On October 1, eleven days later, it left the same station, Arque, loaded with grain from the field of the same farmer, C. R. Somerville. This time the wheat was number four Durum, but the car was the same and the farmer was the same.

T. P. White, Canadian National Railways Superintendent of car service thinks the incident is a reflection on the smoothness with which the great machine of grain transportation handling millions of bushels is running. But he realizes that it will never happen again in his life.

From statistics as to the number of box cars and shipping stations in the west and taking an average 75 farmers who might possibly load at a point like Arque it has been calculated that there is one chance in thirty six billion of a car going back to the same shipper at the same point.

ECKNER CANCELS FLIGHT PLANS; WILL RETURN TO EUROPE AT ONCE

Unfavorable Weather Has Caused Many Delays in Plans.

MUST GO HOME.

Thinks Purpose of Flight Will Best Be Served By Immediate Return.

LAKEHURST, N.J., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin, to-day abandoned his plans for a flight to the Middle West before returning to Germany. Cancellation of the trip was announced after numerous postponements caused by unfavorable weather either at Lakehurst or along the proposed route of the flight.

Dr. Eckener issued a statement saying he would "look forward to making the Western flight after our ship has been proven by another round trip over the Atlantic."

"The primary object of the flight of the Graf Zeppelin to America," he said, "has been to give a demonstration that modern rigid airships can be operated across the North Atlantic and on other oceanic passages with safety and reliability.

"To accomplish that object I consider it essential that the return to Europe be made without unreasonable delay."

Liquor Is Found In Lunch Boxes

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.) — Ordering a general search of lunch boxes carrie across the river by workmen from the Border Cities, United States' customs officers threw consternation into the ranks of hundreds of commutors yesterday. Twenty quarts and several pints of liquor were confiscated and four of the commuters fined $6. They were warned that a repetition of the offense would result in their commuting privileges being cancelled.

FIVE WORKMEN BLOWN TO BITS

Premature Explosion of Dynamite in Qurray Causes Deaths.

NEAR MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Five men were blown to bits to-day in a premature dynamite explosion in the Cote St. Michel quarry on the Island of Montreal. The dead are Joseph Gagnon, Ernest Lepage, Eugene Fortin, D. Gagne, and A. Simard. The cause of the explosion is unknown as only the five men were at work at the time. The men were placing dynamite in a crevice of rock. The switch controlling the fuse was not due to be closed for an hour later.

Windows within two miles radius were shattered and small buildings in the vicinity wrecked. For hours after the explosion, morgue officials patrolled the vicinity looking for bits of the doomed laborers. Parts of the bodies were found hundreds of yards from the scene of the explosion.

10,000-MILE TALK HELD OVER RADIO

Conversation Between Sydney and Schenectady Maintained For Half Hour.

SCHENECTADY, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The United States talked with Australia for more than half an hour to-day and early rising radio fans listened to the conversation. Through the medium of two short wave broadcasting stations, conversation was maintained over the ten thousand miles of space between this city and Sydney on the other side of the world.

Mistook Lad For Deer Held For Manslaughter

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Charged with manslaughter in connection with the shooting of Peter Chief, 12-year-old Indian Boy, near Beaconia, Man., Steve Oglodnuk was remanded in Police Court here yesterday. Police claim they are satisfied that the killing was purely accidental, but complain that Oglodnuk did not inform the authorities of the unfortunate happening. The man admitted firing the fatal shot, but explained that he was too scared to tell anyone. He mistook the lad for a deer.

CLERGY FAVOR BISHOP'S PLANS

Portsmouth Synod Votes For Use of 1928 Revision of Prayer Book.

THIRD TO APPROVE.

PORTSMOUTH, England, Oct. 26. —(Canadian Press Cable)—Diocesan Synod of Portsmouth to-day by big majorities approved certain proposals of House of Bishops regarding revised prayer book. The synod agreed that the Bishops, until full order is restored, should be guided by deposited book in 1928. No deviations from the book of common prayer should be permitted except when people are in agreement with the incumbent, it was voted.

Moreover it was recommended that the Bishops should regulate reservation of the Sacrament for the sick according to the rules of the revised book and that practices inconsistent with both books should cease. Portsmouth is the third diocese to approve the Bishops' suggestions, while two have disapproved.

COUNT ADMITS DROWNING SON

Feeling Runs High Against French Noble Who Slew Child.

HEAVILY GUARDED.

TOULOUSE, France, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Count Pierre Marie Raymond de Crouzet Rayssac, 32, has admitted throwing his 17-months-old illegitimate son into a canal on January 12. The Count is now on trial here in the court room, heavily guarded, since feeling against him is strong.

WATER SEEPING THROUGH CLAY CAUSE OF SLIDE

Evidence Presented Shows That Disaster Could Not Have Been Avoided.

RETURN OPEN VERDICT.

Coroner's Jury Investigates Circumstances Surrounding Welland Canal Landslide.

ST. CATHARINES, Ont., October 26 (Canadian Press). — An open verdict was returned by a coroner's jury at Thorold last evening at the inquest upon Joseph Demorilin, one of the two men killed by the landslide on the Welland Ship Canal on Saturday last when six others were injured, five still being in the hospital. Evidence was presented to the effect that the action of water seeping through the hard blue clay or gumbo caused the slide, and that it could not have been prevented.

James L. Christie, the engineer in charge of the work for the Peter Lyell Construction Company, indicated that an examination of the bank where the slide occurred showed that water had seeped through from the surface after the recent heavy rains, and had turned the gumbo into an oily mass with the result that it seethed from the bottom of the excavation. The particular excavation where the slide occurred is 600 feet in length and about 160 feet from the centre of the canal and is for a dock which is to be constructed for the Ontario Paper Mill on the ship canal. The upper part of the excavation, he said, has an 8 to 1 slope, while the lower part is almost plumb.

Shoring Impossible.

To Crown Attorney Cowper, Mr. Christie stated that shoring would be impossible, as they had to get the steam shovel in and out.

Patrolling was the only way to protect the bank, and this had been done. We never expected gumbo to slide," said the witness. "It had never been known to slide before."

He declared the slide came without warning, describing it as a "wave." A solid mass came out and pushed the men up and threw them out in front and up against the train of dump cars. Dr. Lowd, of Fenwick, testified that the cause of Demorlin's death was suffocation.

Give Evidence.

Edward Chonc, foreman of the labor gang, hobbled into the room on crutches, his left foot having been injured. Neither he nor George Doherty, steam shovel engineer, could suggest any way the slide could have been avoided. "I did not think there would be a slide or I would not have been there," said Doherty. "I never thought it possible for gumbo to slide. We gouged out the bottom on the opposite side and it is still standing. There was no indication of quicksand. Quicksand is not found in gumbo."

A. Liddiard, brakeman, Frank Cheney, engineer, and Louis Chavelle, railroad track foreman, were called, but could throw no new light on the accident.

HOOVER LEADS IN STRAW VOTE

Sixty-three Per Cent. of Ballots Received By Paper Favor Republican.

CARRIES "SOLID" SOUTH.

NEW YORK, October 26 (Canadian Press). — With more than 2,700,000 votes in the postcard poll of a New York periodical tabluated and only one more instalment of returns to be published, Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee, continues to maintain his lead over Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate for President. The total vote is: Hoover, 1,717,041, or about 63 per cent. of the vote polled; Smith, 971,356, or 36 per cent.

Indications of a break in the "solid South" are seen as the poll enters its final phase. The table shows Hoover leading in all the States except four in the South, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, and South Carolina. Mr. Hoover continues to lead in New York State, but Mr. Smith is ahead in New York City.

Hoover leads in Chicago and Philadelphia.

William Henry Grieves, gold medalist in the Lyric Soprano Class, at the Peterborough Kiwanis Club Musical Festival, will sing the test piece, "It Was a Lover and his Lass," at the concert, Monday, October 19th.

DECLARES U.S.A. SEEK TO SEIZE SEA SUPREMACY

Rear Admiral E. A. Taylor Ridicules Proposition For Freedom of Seas.

NOT PEACE MEASURE.

Non-Interference With Ocean Traffic Would Concentrate Warfare On Land.

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Rear Admiral Ernest A. Taylor, retired, believes that the United States is endeavoring to wrest command of the seas from Great Britain and that the proposition of the freedom of the seas is ridiculous. Rear Admiral Taylor said in a speech to Conservative party workers at Westminster:—

"Since the seventeenth century, when the British wrested command of the seas from the Dutch there have been endeavors by continental nations and later by the United States to wrest this power from us. Not being able to do that, there has come this suggestion of the freedom of the seas, meaning that all seaborne traffic, whether beligerent or neutral, should be permitted to carry on in war as in time of peace."

He said that this policy would not abolish warfare altogether, but would concentrate attention on armies and air forces.

Britain Opposes Subs.

BLACKPOOL, England, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press Cable)—Britain proposed the total abolition of submarines in consulting with France regarding further naval limitation proposals, but as France would only agree to the limitation of larger ocean-going underwater craft, this was accepted by Britain, Lord Cushenden, acting Foreign Minister, said in an address here last night.

CHIEF ISSUES FIRE WARNING

Penalty Provided For Failure To Keep Chimneys Clean, Thereby Endangering Property.

HAS MADE SURVEY.

Two chimney fires claimed the attention of the fire department this morning, the first call coming from 304 Stewart Street at 8.33 o'clock, and the second from 317 Maitland Avenue at 9.37 o'clock. Chemicals were used in both cases.

In discussing the chimney fire menace in Peterborough, Chief Gimblett this morning sounded his final warning to citizens to have their chimneys cleaned and repaired. He pointed out that under Section 107 of the fire prevention by-law, "all chimneys and smoke stacks shall be kept clean and free from soot. All such chimneys, smoke stacks or similar devices for conveying smoke or hot gases to the outer air and the stoves, furnaces, fire boxes or boilers to which they are connected shall be constructed and maintained in such a manner as not to endanger adjacent property and shall be repaired or placed in safe condition upon notice from the Fire Chief. Such notice shall contain a specific statement of the danger or hazard and a recommendation of the change or changes required to be made."

The penalty for failure to comply with the above requirements is a fine not exceeding $50.00, exclusive of costs, or a jail sentence of 30 days. Preferring to co-operate, and to receive, in return, the co-operation of the citizens, rather than prosecute, Chief Gimblett, through The Examiner, desires to enlist their support.

During the past season, the City Enngineer and the Chief have been carrying on a thorough inspection of properties throughout the city, as a result of which more than six hundred chimneys have been torn down, replaced or repaired, besides innumerable cleanings. Some old buildings that constituted fire menaces have also been removed and as a result, Peterborough has been cleared to a large extent of the dangers of serious fires.

NEGROES PROTEST AGAINST PREJUDICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press).—A protest signed by thirty three leading negroes against the way race prejudice is being exploited in the election campaign by both parties was made public to-day.

Woman Commits Suicide Clasping Gown She Was To Wear At Wedding That Night

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Clasping the bridal gown she was to wear at the altar a few hours later, Miss Tola Swain, 35, a saleswoman, shot herself through the head in the bedroom of her home.

A maid who came to dress her for the wedding found her lying amidst the clothing, dead. Beside her lay a 32-calibre pistol, and this brief note. "I have nothing to live for, please forgive me."

Police to-day were looking for the man she was to have married, said to be Paul C. Beard, of Pittsburgh. He did not arrive for the wedding, which was to have taken place at eight o'clock last night.

TEMPERATURE ON PLANET MARS SAME AS ORDINARY FALL DAY

W. Gore Gives Illustrated Address to Local Branch of Engineers.

ON ASTRONOMY.

Lines Seen On the Surface of Mars Claimed To Be Canals.

W. Gore gave a startling and revealing talk before the Peterborough branch of Engineering Institute of Canada in the Chamber of Commerce rooms yesterday evening. "Astronomy in the Life of an Engineer," was the subject of Mr. Gore's talk, but the wealth of scientific knowledge he disclosed would make his talk of interest to anyone desiring further learning in the history of the universe.

In beginning his talk, the speaker pointed out that there was no money made in the study of astronomy and therefore many people considered it as useless. But everyone is interested in some stages of astronomy, he continued. The speaker clearly illustrated his points by the aid of lantern slides.

The Great Pyramid was built by the association of engineering and astronomical knowledge. The purpose of the pyramid has long been the cause of discussion, said the speaker. There were seven million tons of rock used in the construction, and all indications point to the fact that there was formerly a limestone covering which reflected the sun's rays and made it act in some form of a sun dial.

The Egyptians had great difficulty with their seasons and calendar, explained the speaker, but the Pyramid gave them a means of correcting their calendar. Some believe the Pyramid has some prophetic significance especially the Anglo-Israel cult, who figure these prophecies out by all sorts of measurements. The age of the Pyramid can be definitely set at about five thousand years, by calculating the movement of Alpho Draco, a star at which one of the passages formerly pointed. Another means of measuring time by the ancients is at Stonehenge; and in the Tower of the Winds where the time was measured by the falling of water at a fixed rate, which raised a float at a fixed rate. The speaker went on to mention many ancient methods of measuring time, and the importance of the knowledge of telling the time and season to mankind. The astronomer gives the exact time, and the engineer by biulding clocks gives it a working basis, said the speaker.

Tides Another Factor

Tides form another means of telling the time and the speaker explained the interesting phenomenon of the tidal bore, where the incoming rush of water makes a stream flow uphill. The bore or crest is formed because the water coming up behind travels faster than the water in front. At some stages the water on top will flow up, while the water beneath will be flowing down stream, said the speaker.

On the subject of tides, the speaker said, many would be surprised to learn that Lake Ontario had a tidal rise and fall, although difficult to find. The neap tide at Toronto is three-eights of an inch and the Spring tide about an inch. Even in a well a sure indication of tide or the drew of the sun and moon can be found.

Shooting Stars

Going on to the movements of the Universe, the speaker spoke of the meteorites, those small pieces of metal which reach the earth and are called shooting stars by many people and he explained that because the Romans discovered the meteorites con-

Madoc Firemen Have 7-Mile Run

MADOC, Oct. 26.—Soon after one o'clock yesterday the fire alarm was rung in and the local firemen called out on what proved to be a seven mile run to the village of Queensboro, where the house belonging to Mrs. Allen was destroyed by fire.

Wild Geese Arrive At Bird Sanctuary

KINGSVILLE, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—Geese are starting to arrive at the Jack Miner bird sanctuary. Out of the first one hundred that have arrived, twenty-five bear Jack Miner's tag, which proves they have been there before. Hon. Hugh Guthrie paid the sanctuary a visit yesterday, and owing to Jack Miner being in Ohio he was welcomed by Jack Miner's son, who showed him over the sanctuary.

SEVEN SKATERS DROWN IN LAKE

Three Other Children Pulled Out By Spectators at Norse Town.

ICE GIVES WAY.

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Seven children were drowned when a party of ten skating on a lake at Ballagen crashed through the ice, says a message received to-day from Narvik. Spectators manager to save three of the skaters.

DRUG ADDICTS RECAPTURED

Four Men Who Escaped From Burwash On Tuesday Caught To-day.

YIELD WHEN GUARDS FIRE.

SUDBURY, Ont., Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The four prisoners of Burwash Industrial Farm who last Tuesday escaped from the drug addicts' camp were recaptured yesterday afternoon after guards had frightened them into submission by firing shots over their heads.

The fugitives were sighted at noon near Wanup Diamond, about 16 miles north of Burwash on the C.N.R. by guards Berson and Tomie, but at first refused to surrender and threatened to offer resistance. The two young guards, however, drew their revolvers, firing high, and the men gave in.

Other guards were sent to help return the prisoners and they were brought back here on a freight train. The four men are John O'Brien, Joseph Leni, William Hanwell, and William Henderson.

Cutten To Head Sinclair Interests

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—(A.P.)—Arthur W. Cutten of Chicago and associates, including the Fisher Brothers of Detroit, yesterday acquired a substantial interest in the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation through the purchase of treasury common stock, and the corporation announced that Mr. Cutten would be elected to the board of directors at the next meeting.

The Cutten-Fisher interests are also reported to have bought heavily into the stock on the New York Exchange. Nearly 1,000,000 shares of it changed hands on the Exchange in the past two days, and it rose in price from $32 to $37.25 per share, and closed to-day at $36.75.

Of 5,500,000 authorized shares Sinclair has 4,259,481 shares outstanding. The Cutten-Fisher group is understood to have purchased the balance of the authorized stock, amounting to 1,240,519 shares.

Posed As English Lord

Chicago Women Say Young Canadian Duped Them On Stock Market.

PROMISED BIG PROFITS.

Former Resident of Bobcaygeon Extradited From California On Confidence Charge.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—(Special to The Examiner).—John Neville, the frenzied financer of Bobcaygeon fame and who several months ago was "Lord Herbert John Gerald Wells Neville" to Chicago women who declare that they gave him money for investment in the stock market, to-day had a seat in the court room of Judge Denis J. Normoyle in the Cook County Criminal Court and listened to these same women charge him with being the operator of a confidence game.

Neville was indicted for operating a confidence game several weeks ago after having been arrested in California and extradited to Illinois. According to witnesses Neville said he had found a way of manipulating the stock market to make fabulous profits over night.

Never Got Certificate

Mrs. Irene Glycart, the principal witness called by the state, testified that Neville, claiming to be a scion of the English nobility, broached his plan to her and that she gave him three thousand dollars to invest for her in a stock poal, for which she never received even a stock certificate.

Neville's plan, she said, was to purchase Dupont and other well-known stocks, and by methods which she did not understand but which "His Lordship" apparently had carefully planned, to manipulate them to boom their price on the exchanges. Mrs. Glycart testified that Neville told her of one deal in which she had made a profit of three hundred dollars. Other women expected to testify against Neville are Mrs. Carrie Robinson, Gladys Allsop, and Mrs. Gladys Cobble, all of whom declare they gave him funds for investment on the market.

Lost Legitimately

Neville's defence, it is understood, is that he lost the money entrusted to him in legitimate stock market operations and that the funds given to him were wiped out on the market recently.

Herbert John Wells Neville is the son of A. Prosper H. Neville, formerly a Methodist minister but now a grocer in Georgetown, Ontario.

Neville at one time owned a home on Whitney Avenue, Toronto, and a 350 acre farm near Bobcaygeon. These were sold after he became a bankrup, and several froud charges were laid against him, culminating in his being arrested in Edmonton.

PARENTS OF CHILD APPEAL FOR DRIVER

Seek To Have Manslaughter Charge Dropped, Offering New Evidence.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 26.—Parents of Stewart Tolmie, 3-year-old lad killed in a motor accident on October 11, yesterday appealed to Magistrate Maxwell to drop the manslaughter charge pending against Bruce Claypole, driver of the truck said to have killed the child.

The father of the lad claimed that new evidence raised doubt as to whether the truck driven by Claypole had actually struck the lad. Another car had been seen at the moment of the accident by William Hoges, the father told the court in his plea that proceedings be halted.

Magistrate Maxwell insisted that the law must take its course. Claypole faces trial before Mr. Justice Logie at the assizes next week. He is now out on bail of $10,000.

Hoges, called to the witness stand, told of seeing the second car disappear just as the child was struck. No mention of the second car was made at the inquest.

Police are now searching for the driver of the second car in an attempt to have new evidence ready before the trial opens.

Langsner To Leave For West On Tour

ASSISTANTS TO CARRY ON INVESTIGATION

Crime Expert Promises To Make Denouncement at Later Date.

PRICE DENIES RUMOR.

Attorney-General Believes Authorities Might Be Inclined To Come To Terms.

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—While the public has been rendered goofy over the antics of Dr. Maximillian Langsner, crime expert investigating the Ambrose Small mystery, his presence in Toronto has produced a clue that may indicate that the millionaire was in Winnipeg after his disappearance.

Madame Lublinska, a chiropractor, has come forward with the statement that she treated a man resembling Small when she resided in Winnipeg. The madame says she later recognized him from a picture in a Winnipeg paper.

Leaving on Lecture Tour

She says her patient told her he was going to Australia. Langsner stated yesterday he was leaving the city to start a lecture tour in Edmonton on Monday, but would return to supply his promised sensational denouncement, leaving behind in his absence several "assistants" who would carry on the investigation.

According to advertisements in the Edmonton papers yesterday, Langsner is billed there as "the world's greatest mental telepathist."

Denies Report

Attorney General Price yesterday denied that Langsner had been offered $1,000 to aid his investigation, but it is believed the authorities might be inclined to come to terms.

"The guilty are weakening," he declared again yesterday. "A just retribution has overtaken them in the agony of mind which they suffer, and strange though it may seem peace can only come to them when they have disclosed to the world the knowledge which is theirs," he added.

Mrs. Theresa Small, widow of Ambrose Small, is reported confined to her bed at her Rosedale home, Glen road. Relatives of John Doughty former secretary, declare they are determined to make him inaccessible to the press.

THREE MEN HURT IN NORANDA MINE

Fire Caused By Explosion Yesterday Afternoon Still Raging.

THREE RIVERS, Que., Oct. 25. —(Canadian Press).—A despatch received by Le Nouvelliste from Rouyn to-day stated that three men had been seriously injured when an explosion occurred at the Noranda Mines on Wednesday afternoon. The men, a French-Canadian and two Swedes, were hurled fifty feet from the spot where they were working by the force of the blast. Lavergne's clothes caught fire and he was seriously burned before his companions came to his aid. The despatch added that "the fire in the mine was still raging late last night," but failed to state the extent of the damage already wrought by the flames.

LAUREL REBEKAHS HOSTS TO OFFICIAL

Miss Sayer, Vice-President of Rebekah Assembly, a Visitor.

(Examiner Correspondence)

STIRLING, Oct. 26.—Laurel Rebekah Lodge I.O.O.F. had as their guest at their regular meeting on Tuesday night, Miss Willa Sayder of Ottawa who is First Vice-President of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario and is on an official visit throughout her jurisdiction. Mrs. Connor of Madoc, District Deputy President, accompanied her superior officer. Degree work was exemplified by the degree team of the local lodge under the supervision of Brother Henry Farrell, which pleased the visitors. A feature of the program of the evening was the presentation of a silver tray to Miss Sayder as a souvenir of her visit to the Rebekahs of Laurel Lodge. A delicious lunch was served and a pleasant time for the remainder of the evening was enjoyed in talks and songs.

The regular weekly meeting of the Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Tuesday night with a good attendance. Miss Freda Matthews had charge of the program. Mrs. Alex Fargey gave an account of the work being done by the Presbyterian Church for the Jews, Persians and Ruthenians, who have become residents of Canada. Following this was an appropriate reading by Miss F. Matthews and Miss Lilian Smith dressed as a gypsy girl gave a solo. An interesting part of the program was the reading of an address to Mrs. A. G. Mackenzie, voicing the appreciation of the ladies of the different organizations of the church for her assistance and interest in the work of the church. Mrs. Sine, treasurer of the W.M.S. read the address and Mrs. Henry Reid then presented Mrs. Mackenzie with cut glass goblets. The recipient replied in a few well chosen words, thanking them for their many kind acts during her residence here and would always have pleasant memories of St. Andrew's, Stirling.

ADVISES PARENTS TO SET EXAMPLE

Rev. Battersby Delivers Interesting Address in St. James' Anglican Church.

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 26.—Sunday at St. James' Anglican Church was reserved as children's day when Rev. Battersby delivered an excellent address to the children and parents He advised the parents to set an example to their children and to teach them obedience which is the most important lesson. A child that is taught obedience will profit greatly when they grow to be young men or women. Rev. Battersby urged parents to become companions to their children. "Parents take your children with you and have their friends visit your homes, by so doing it will bring more love into the home and leave deceit out."

The baptism of little baby Brown (Gene Irma) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, was solemnized. Its grandmother, Mrs. John White, acted as Godmother.

ANNIVERSARY HELD BY STIRLING CHURCH

People of St. Paul's Have Special Services and Fowl Supper.

STIRLING, Oct. 26.—The anniversary services of St. Paul's United Church were held on Sunday with Rev. Mr. Bishop of Albert College as the preacher at both morning and evening services. The attendance was large and the objective of $1,200 was more than obtained in the collection for the day.

On Monday night the services were continued by the holding of the usual supper in the basement of the church when people of all creeds came from far and near to partake of the good things provided by the ladies of the church and they certainly excelled themselves in the "provision" of this part of the program. Three times were the tables filled, seating nearly 200 each time, and when all were satisfied there still being pies, cakes and other food aplenty in the pantry an invitation was extended to those present to come for supper on Tuesday night.

During the serving of the supper in the basement of the church, Mr. Joe Sarles Orchestra of Trenton, entertained those in waiting in the auditorium of the church by rendering several selections. At 8.30 o'clock Mr Rowland, pastor of the church, ascended the platform and asked the following clergymen to follow him, Rev. L. S. Wright of Holloway Street Church, Belleville; Rev. B. F. Byers, St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling; Rev. A. N. Reid, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling; Rev. Mr. Doggitt, United Church, Frankford, and the Rev. Mr. Gardner, United Church, Springbrook.

Mr. Rowland, in his opening remarks, said the audiences would need sympathy as he was to act as chairman for the evening but the reverend gentleman had evidently performed those duties before, as he did his part well on this occasion.

The choir of the church, consisting of 24 persons, under the leadership of Gerald Clute, with Alex Gordon of the Tabernacle Church, Belleville, at the organ, gave an excellent rendering of the anthem "Daughter of Zion Awake From Thy Sadness." A violin solo by one of the orchestra followed and Gerald Clute sang "The Publican". Rev. Wright gave a three minute speech, as he was fearful of the dire punishment promised by the chairman if any speaker exceeded that limit. A splendid chorus by the choir, "An Old Fashioned House In An Old Fashioned Street," Rev. B. F. Byers, who has seen the coming and going of a great many ministers since he became a resident of Stirling, was very happy in his short address. An organ solo was given by Mr. Gordon. Rev. A. N. Reid congratulated St. Paul's on the success of their services and Miss Bronson sang a solo. Rev. Mr. Gardiner gave some of his experiences in the far north where he was on a mission field.

Rev. Mr. Duggitt spoke and Miss Bessie Couley sang "The Carnival" and she was encored repeatedly. With the singing of the National Anthem closed a most successful anniversary occasion. The gross receipts amounted to $1,500.00. Mr. Rowland thanked all those who had helped make the program a success.

LINE CLEARED OF WRECKAGE

Train Service Resumed Through Campbellford Early This Morning.

DEBRIS BEING REMOVED.

(Examiner tSaff Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26.— Midnight was a thing of the past when the wrecking crew called it a day after having cleared the main line for through traffic. At about eleven-thirty yesterday morning an eastbound drain deposited seven cars at various angles across the right of way, and two of them were well down a ten foot embankment at the south side of the yard. The cause of the wreck is given as faulty brake apparatus.

There was little delay in the eastbound passenger service. Passengers due out of Campbellford at onethirty-three found themselves safely seated in the caboose of a special freight train and on their way once more by two o'clock. The accommodations may have been less luxurious, but the added motive power no doubt offset this condition. In place of the usual single engine and a long string of cars there were two locomotives and a single caboose. Into this conveyance the passengers went with numerous smiles. Mail, express and baggage were carried, east by a later train which arrived about an hour later.

Fortunately the wreck did not seriously interfere with the tracks to the north of the main line and the passenger trains were able to get as close to the station as the freight shed and the walk was only a matter of about one hundred yards over a good road. The same operation was necessady in the evening.

Efficiency and speed featured the work of the wrecking auxiliary. The men and machinery were from Lindsay and there were many old hands noticed in the ranks of the workmen. The first car offered the simplest proposition of the seven that were derailed and wrecked. Approximately twenty minutes from the time the crew arrived, the car was back on the rails and was being shunted well back in the yard out of the way.

Local section men had worked from the time the wreck occurred doing whatever was possible to speed up the work of the auxiliary when it would arrive. A supply of new ties was on hand and also all the rails that would be necessary with the required frogs for switches. The north rail of the main line had been entirely replaced and connected before the extra gang arrived. There only remained to line and spike it as soon as the wreckage was sufficiently cleared.

By the end of the regular working day to-day all traces of the incident will have disappeared. Through train servic was resumed about midnight, when the line was cleared.

APPOINTMENT IS CANCELLED

Alnwick Township Council Repeals By-law Appointing Road Superintendent.

AT SPECIAL MEETING.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 26—The Alnwick township council held a special meeting in the town hall on Thursday, October 18. All the members were present and Reeve Parker presided.

It was moved by Herman Blodgett, seconded by Erwin Brown, that by-law No. 507, appointing a road superintendent be repealed and this resolution be signed by the Reeve and clerk and the corporate seal attached.

Moved by Albert Halstead, seconded by Herman Blodgett, that the clerk post up notices for applications for road superintendent for the Township of Alnwick. Applications to be in the clerk's office by Tuesday, October 23, 1928, by 6 p.m.

Lowest or any application not necessarily accepted.

ASKS GRANT.

Apsley Council Reach No Decision Towards Grant For Agricultural Society.

(Examiner Correspondence)

APSLEY, Oct. 26.—Rev. C. A. G. Spenced waited on the council at their meeting on Monday night to ask for a grant for the Apsley Agricultural Society, and although he presented an array of facts and figures to support his application, the council adjourned, it is learned, without deciding on any action for or against.

Cow Has Leg Broken.

Simon Windsor had the misfortune to lose a milch cow on Tuesday. It was discovered lying in an open shed by George Stephens' store in the morning with a broken leg and had to be shot. The supposition is that a car collided with the animal the night before causing the injury.

CROWD ENJOYS FOWL SUPPER

Over 600 Attend Big Supper of the Ladies' Aid Society.

GOOD PROGRAM.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26—The annual fowl supper held on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church, was an outstanding success being attended by approximately six hundred people, not including the small 'army' of helpers, both men and women, who were assisting with serving the supper from 5.30 until nearly 9 p.m.

The basement was beautifully decorated with fall flowers, flags, yellow pumpkins and trailing vines, orange and black streamers overhead, twining the pillars, and centring the three long tables, the near approach of Hallowe'en being featured in the color scheme, and in it the silhouettes of witches, black cats, etc., on the light shades. Small vases of marigolds, and candles burning in brass holders, added to the attractiveness of the supper tables.

The entertainment following was held in the church auditorium, the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, being the chairman. Rev. Joseph Wilks led in the opening prayer, and after the introductory devotional period and some words of welcome by the chairman, as a feature of peculiar interest, Mr. Jones requested that some intimation of the number of towns in the district represented in the big gathering might be arrived at by having a spokesman from each centre announce his home community. As a result the names mentioned included: Campbellford, Hastings, Bowmanville, Newcastle, Port Hope, Orono, Peterborough, and a number of small centres at intervening points. There was one carload from Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sayles and family, former members of the church and residents recently moved from the community; evidently there was visitors from a wide distance among the audience for New York, Colorado, VanKleek Hill, Montreal, were among the places mentioned, and topping the list was one gentleman who announced his home town as Belfast, Ireland.

Owing to illness, Mr. Joseph Nasimok, violinist, of Peterborough, was unable to take his part in the program, the items on which included: Song, "Keep Sunny Inside", by the male quartette, Messrs. H. W. Johnston, W. H. Coombe, M. McDowell, and V. C. Lambert; encore, "A Song of the Sea". Piano trio by Mrs. W. W. Jones, and her daughters, the Misses Francis and Beatrice Jones. Reading, "The Bridal Wine Cup" (by request), by Miss Dowson, of Bowmanville; encore, "I'se Dot Daddy to Sleep." Duet, "'Tis the Dawn of Day", by Messrs. Johnston and McDowell. Reading, "How We Kept Mother's Birthday", by Miss Jean L. Burnham; encore, "Things Have Changed." Solo, "Land of Hope and Glory", by Mr. Errol Hansman, of Port Hope. Quintette, "What a Comforter is Jesus" (request), by Mrs. H W. Johnston, and Messrs. Coombe, Johnston, McDowell, and Lambert. Piano duet, "Il Trovatore", by Mrs. and Miss Francis Jones. Reading, "A Hotel in Maine", by Miss Dowson; encore, "Joe Kissed Sue". Quartette, "Take the Road Together" by Messrs. Johnston, Coombe, McDowell and Lambert. The accompanists of the evening were Misses Ella Elson and Estelle Hetherington.

Previous to the singing of the National Anthem, the chairman asked the audience to express its appreciation of the "splendid organization which made possible the fine supper with which we were served this evening, and the work, particularly on the part of the ladies of the congregation, which was involved", the hearty handclap in response showing the general approval.

Financially receipts were in the neighborhood of $350.00 and there is yet some money to come in.

The president of the Aid, Miss M E. Needham, had a general oversight of the proceedings on Tuesday evening, the other officers, and members, giving loyal support in all the planning and arrangements, and working with a unanimous purpose to bring the undertaking to a successful issue.

OPEN SEASON FOR MUSKRAT

Trapping Will Be Allowed For Five Weeks Next Spring.

IMPORTANT INDUSTRY.

The open season for the trapping of muskrat is being restored by the Department of Game and Fisheries, according to a statement made public yesterday by the Hon. Charles McCrea. The order is of especial interest to the trappers in this district who have frequently made representations to the department. Early in the year the department prohibited muskrat trapping and since then it has gone into the matter thoroughly and has been advised that the muskrats have not been depleted to the extent the Fish and Game Committee of the Legislature was led to believe. An open season from March 15 to April 21 has therefore been decided on. The former season was from March 1st to 21st.

Muskrat pelts marketed in Ontario run 50 per cent. greater in total value than any other single fur. The aggregate is in the neighborhood of $1.-000,000 a year. Mink comes second and beaver next, but these are taken mainly in the far northern part of the province, whereas muskrat has been a staple article of the trapper's livelihood in many parts of older Ontario.

Many persons wrote direct to the department, but chief consideration has been given to the report of Game Wardens R. Emmerton, London; F. Stevenson, Orillia; and J. W. Coffey, Ottawa. These officers interviewed 1,000 trappers who were practically unanimous for the open season and reports were that rats were plentiful.

Campbellford

(Examiner Staff Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 26.—Mr. A. D. Dickson returned to Toronto last night, where he will spend a few days before returning to Northern Ontario.

Complete arrangements have not yet been made, but it is understood that the Armistice Day service which will be held at the Memorial on November 11th will be one of the most impressive that Campbellford has yet witnessed. The day marks the tenth anniversary of the cessation of hostilities.

Enough snow for snowballs was reported from nearby places recently, but the first snow of the season fell here yesterday morning, and it was just enough to remind people that winter is not far distant.

As a final touch for the season, Ranney Street north of Bridge is receiving a coat of gravel. This street has undergone considerable changes this summer. The open ditch has been tiled and filled to make a level roadway and the Bell telephone poles have been set back close to the sidewalk. The steam roller and road gang have spent considerable time there this season, and the gravel is being applied as a finishing touch for the year.

The Committee Meets to Decide Mother's Fate

"WE would be glad, of course, to have mother come and live with us," says one of the sons. "But the trouble is our house is so small."

"We haven't a spare room," adds the daughter-in-law regretfully.

And so it goes. One after the other makes excuse. Each has his or her own problems, and responsibilities.

Widowed at 65, Mother's fate would have been vastly different had father left any estate, or adequate life insurance. Mother could have had a nice little monthly income of her own if father had planned aright—an income guaranteed by the Mutual Life of Canada, and payable as long as she lived.

This Mutual Monthly Income policy is one every man with family responsibilities should seriously consider. Any Mutual Agent will be glad to tell you the advantages of this policy. Let us send you our folder "The Greatest Thing in the World of Insurance."

CANADIANS SPEND WELL ACROSS LINE

Tourists Travelling South Spent $51,000,000 in 1927.

Though the summer tourist season is all over for 1928 the following interesting comparison of American and Canadian expenditure incidental to visits on either side of the border, may be of interest to those who like to speculate regarding the value of tourist traffic to and from Canada.

Last year, the United States Department of Commerce calculated that, in 1927, citizens of the republic left in Canada $206,000,000, while Canadians, visiting the United States expended $51,000,000. Placing the poulation of the Dominion at 9,000,000 and that of the United States at 115,000,000, it is readily seen that Canadians expended in the neighborhood of $6.00 per capita while Americans spent approximately $1.80 per capita Thus, it appears that the Canadian tourist is a better spender than his cousin from across the line, and while the migration to the south annually may not be as extensive as in the opposite direction, there is every justification for any appeal to American organizations to publicize Canadian attractions. They derive benefits from the Canadian tourist trade and those benefits warrant their co-operation in boosting Canada.

"I remember her when she was beautiful"

"IT WASN'T so long ago either. Her complexion was the envy of every girl and woman. Her radiant manner was felt the instant she entered the room. . . . But now you'd hardly know she was the same person. Her animation is gone—her clear skin is sallow. She's always tired—often irritable. . . ."

Here's what has been said about countless women all over the country. Yet, all this could have been prevented. The cause, often constipation, is so easily removed by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Happily, thousands of women have made this discovery. By regular eating of ALL-BRAN they have regained all that they lost in beauty and health.

But you need ALL-BRAN—not "part-bran"

It is the "bulk" in bran that relieves constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has a large amount of bulk. This bulk absorbs moisture and carries it throughout the digestive system. In a part-bran product there is seldom enough bulk to do this work. That is why doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. Because it is 100% bran— and brings 100% results.

How different from dangerous pills

How much better than habit-forming drugs and laxatives! Which become useless unless the dose is constantly increased—and sometimes injure the system. How much pleasanter than sickening medicines! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a delicious cereal. Serve it with milk or cream —and add fruits or honey if desired. Use it in cooking too. Mix it with other cereals—for health! Just eat two tablespoonfuls in some form daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Keep ALL-BRAN always on hand—a package of health. But be sure it is genuine Kellogg's — the original ALL-BRAN. Don't risk part-bran substitutes. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Served at all hotels and restaurants. On dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in London, Canada.

Guaranteed! Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold with this definite guarantee: Eat it according to directions. If it does not relieve constipation safely, we will refund the purchase price.

COMMUNICATIONS READ AT CAVAN COUNCIL MEETING

Deputation of Ratepayers Complain of High Rate of School Tax.

ACCOUNTS PASSED.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 26, Council Chamber, October 18th, 1928.—Cavan Council met in regular session at 1.30 p.m. All the members being present but Councillor Ball.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and on motion of Coun. McGill and Dep.Reeve McKnight were adopted.

Communications

From John Bothwell complaining of the condition of the road on No. 6 East.

From the Clerk of North Monaghan in respect to repairs on a bridge on the boundary.

From the Accountant of the Department of Public Highways, drawing the attention of the Council to the change in the Act exempting stone, gravel etc., from sales tax.

Also a statement from the Accountant of the result of the audit of Township road accounts.

From J. Y. Kellough, District Representative, asking for a grant to help pay prizes for the Junior Farmers' Judging competition.

A deputation of a dozen ratepayers of the Township from S.S. No. 11 Cavan and Millbrook waited on the Council complaining of the very high rate of school tax they had had to pay and asked the Council if they could suggest any remedy that might help to reduce their school tax. The council sympathized with them, but pointed out that the handling of the affairs of the school was entirely in the hands of the school board, over which which the Council had no control.

Mr. L. W. Smith waited on the Council asking for the usual grant for the Agricultural Society.

McKnight-McGill—That the usual grant of $200.00 be given to the Agricultural Society.—(Carried).

Thorne-McGill—That a balance of $11.22 due Manvers Township on the 1927 boundary account be paid.—(Carried).

—Thorne-McKnight —That the Reeve sign the following orders.—(Carried).

THREE CHILDREN BURN TO DEATH

Two Other Little Ones Are Rescued By Older Sisters.

AT HARROW.

HARROW, October 26 (Canadian Press). — Three small children perished last night when flames destroyed the house of William Talbot in the centre of the village. So quickly did the flames spread that the three little lads were dead before the volunteer fire brigade arrived.

The dead are Paul, aged 5, Darwin, aged 3, and Francis, age 15 months.

The mother in the frame house with eight of her nine children when the blaze was discovered worked frantically to rescue her little ones. Two older daughters succeeded in saving two of the smaller children.

Roaring Mass of Flames.

The cause of the blaze remained a complete mystery last night. Beryl Talbot, one of the older daughters, just before 9 p.m., noticed smoke between the partitions in the lower down out of the reach of the roaring flames.

Minister Attempts Rescue.

Rev. Luther Johnson, a neighbor, ran to the rescue when the fire broke out. With an iron bar in hand he crashed in the glass of the front door in an attempt to get to the baby, whom he knew was trapped. Flames rushed out and burned his face as he leaped back. His entry was effectually blocked.

The father, William Talbot, was sitting in a garage uptown when he saw the fire engine, in charge of John Cousins, go rushing by. Mr. Talbot sat reading a few moments longer and then proceeded leisurely home. When a block away he realized his house was on fire, and on reaching he scene was informed three of his children were dead.

The house was almost completely demolished before water was turned on the flames. Within an hour and a half all the bodies had been recovered. They were burned beyond tained a good deal of iron, they had a theory that the heavens was a roof of iron.

TEMPERATURE ON PLANET MARS

Dealing with the sun and its radiant energy, the speaker said it has been a question of how and where did the sun get all the radiant energy. The earth receives two thousand million horse-power per second from the sun, and yet we receive only a small particle of the energy the sun sends off. Many geologists claimed that the sun would burn itself out in ten million years (a comparatively short time in speaking of time in relation to the universe).

But now, according to the Enstein Theory and greater knowledge gained, astronomers believe that the sun is getting hotter and not colder. This theory explains that the mass of the sun is breaking up into radiant energy in the form of electrons. The mass of the sun is getting smaller, but it is sending out as great or greater heat than it did formerly. Some scientists further advance the theory that the radiant energy forms back again somewhere else into mass and therefore is not lost. This disproves the old idea that the universe was slowly running down and we are in a fair way to believe that the universe will go on forever, said Mr. Gore.

Craters on Moon

The interesting feature of the moon is its craters, said the speaker, and went on to deal with some of the theories in regard to their formation. It is claimed by some that the craters are those of extinct volcanoes, but it is now believed that they were formed when pieces thrown off by the earth struck the moon and punctured it. On the earth's surface in the Arizona desert there is a good example of this, which substantiates this new view.

Mars Inhabited

The planet Mars is interesting, because the lines seen on its surface are claimed to be canals, said Mr Gore. These seemed to have been made by intelligent beings because of their straightness and their intersections, not haphazard but purposeful. Due to the age of Mars it is thought to be short of water and these canals carrying the water from the ice caps at the poles are just what intelligent people would devise. Those are irrigation areas and not ditches It is not the canals that the observers sees, but the vegetation growing along the canals, he continued. Their distinctness varies, showing the seasonal growth from winter to summer. The temperature on Mars would be about the same as an ordinary fall day, such as to-day has been, said the speaker. They have done what the people on the earth would do and as they may have to do millions of years hence, if Professor Lowell's claim that the earth is throwing off moisture is true. The surface of Mars is very flat and canals are more feasible there than they would be on the earth.

"It is something unthinkable that our earth is the only place on the Universe where there are intelligent beings," said Mr. Gore earnestly.

TO-MORROW'S ROSE DAY.

When you are asked to buy a rose down-town to-morrow, remember that your donation will help to finance one of the most deserving social service organizations in the community—the Peterborough Health Association.

The activities of the association have done much for many citizens of Peterborough; so much, in fact, that it would be regarded as a calamity if for lack of funds or any cause indeed it should be found necessary to abandon any of the present services.

The sale of roses to-morrow is expected to place a substantial sum in the association's treasury, and make it possible for the work to be carried on in all departments as usual.

The canvassers on duty to-morrow should meet with few refusals in view of the widespread appreciation of what the association has done and is doing in Peterborough.

THE VOLSTEAD ACT.

Enforcing the Volstead Act in the United States, according to a summary issued by the Department of Justice and covering operations for the fiscal year ending June 30th, is a Herculanean task.

The figures given are impressive.

58,429 charges of violation of the dry laws were disposed of during the year and there are 18,259 cases pending.

The convictions numbered 48,820 and the aggregate of fines, forfeitures and penalties amounted to $7,303,563 Jail and prison sentences imposed reached a total of more than 7,700 years, an increase of 48 per cent., and the highest aggregate of sentences since the prohibition law went into effect.

When it is realized that only a small percentage of dry law evaders are caught, these statistics are amazing.

It is apparent that anything like a complete enforcement of the Volstead Act would clog the court machinery.

As it is the number of cases disposed of indicates that prohibition has given the United States courts no reason whatever to complain of lack of employment.

OPENING THE NEW SCHOOL.

If the following from the Belleville Intelligencer's editorial columns is correct, Premier Ferguson is going to hear something decidedly to his disadvantage from Peterborough.

> "The beginning of a new stage in educational development in the city of Belleville," says the Intelligencer, "will be marked by ceremonies in keeping with the historical importance of the occasion when the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson officially opens the new Collegiate."

The Premier was approached some weeks ago by the Peterborough Board of Education and invited to officiate at the formal opening of the new Vocational School.

He declined the invitation on the ground that he had already refused several other similar requests, and under the circumstances could not see his way clear to appear at the Peterborough function.

And now, according to our Belleville contemporary, he is billed to open a new school in that city.

If he carries out that program and fails to come to Peterborough the local Board of Education will want to know the reason why Belleville is to be favored and this city neglected.

VISITORS MORE CAREFUL.

In connection with a recent bulletin from the Board of Railway Commissioners calling attention to the many incidents of dangerous practices at railway crossings, to which reference was made in these columns the other day, a condition may be mentioned that should cause some thought on the part of Canadian car owners.

The records of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics show that 3,153,800 United States automobiles entered Canada last year.

In the list of motor accidents sent out by the Board of Railway Commissioners, it is shown that notwithstanding the large number of American cars on Canadian roads during the tourist season, these cars bear a relatively small percentage to the total number of motor cars involved in level crossing accidents.

Out of a total of 362 such accidents in 1927, only 15 accidents occurred in which there were United States licenses involved; that is to say, foreign motor cars, the drivers of which presumably had no local knowledge of the road, accounted for only 5 per cent. of the total number of accidents.

The visiting drivers were apparently much more careful at grade crossings than were our own motorists, whose knowledge of the conditions should have warned them to exercise due caution.

A PROSPEROUS COUNTRY.

During the current week the Dominion of Canada Refunding Loan of 1923 has matured and is now being paid off in cash. As the intentions of the Government in this respect had been known for some time past the event attracted little attention, although $53,000,000, the amount of the loan, is a sizeable sum to be paid back into the bank accounts of investors and made available, by the way, for reinvestment. The fact that the Government was in a position to meet this payment without any difficulty is evidence of the prosperity which is now prevailing in the country, and the interest charges on the sum being paid off amount to $2,650,000, which will ease the burden of debt to some extent. Of the total amount due, some $22,000,000 was retired in advance owing to the fact that some of the bondholders turned their bonds in before maturity. For the others the path was made as easy as possible, the places at which payment would be made having been previously announced.

That the same course will be carried out in future years is evident from the words of the Minister of Finance, Hon. James A. Robb, when he said that "if Providence continues kind to us and gives us good crops and business keeps just as good as it is just now without even getting better, loans maturing between now and 1933 would also be met in cash." These loans total over $200,000,000, there being approximately $180,000,000 in bonds and $45,000,000 in treasury notes. On these securities interest charges are $11,000,000. When it is considered that since March 1, 1927, the interest charges has been reduced by cash payments and refunding by the amount of $3,607,800, it will be seen that the saving to the public in the six years from March, 1927, till 1933 will be in the neighborhood of $15,000,000.

An impressive feature of the situation is that taxation has been reduced concurrently with the reductions in the national debt. The fact that the latter is being reduced is somewhat different from the ordinary practice, but when the debt is reduced on the head of lower taxation the situation is one that calls for comment. In the revenue which has made this possible the income tax has played quite an important part. Unpopular though it has been, it has had the advantage that it is not concealed, its incidence being readily traceable.

The whole position of the country now is far different from that of ten years ago. At that time some took the gloomy point of view, although they might not have admitted it themselves, and good times in Canada were a thing of the past which would never come again, that the country was tottering on the verge of bankruptcy and ruin, that the soil was played out in many large areas, while the climate was unsuited for any large population. To-day these ideas are rarely voiced. The stock markets, which are often regarded as a trustworthy barometer of business conditions, has discounted prosperity some distance ahead. Nobody knows, of course, what the future will bring forth, but the outlook to say the least is encouraging. In agricultural development the Dominion is further ahead than ever. Improved varieties of wheat are steadily pushing the frost line northward. Improved machinery and implements are speeding the sowing and harvesting of the crop as far as the human effort is concerned. Mineral developments point to greater achievements than ever before, while all the evidence of construction and manufacturing is most encouraging. Immigration has been somewhat discouraged perhaps owing partly, however, to factors which can be overcome. In the end the properity and happiness of the Canadian people will be the best advertisement that Canada can have to bring new citizens to our shores.—Financial Post.

CAN THE MOTH BE KEPT FROM THE CANDLE OF SPECULATION?

(From the Toronto Mail and Empire)

Legislators in this country have done something to protect thrifty and trustful people from heartless pushers of worthless stock issues. They have put on the statute book laws well designed to hold fiduciary corporations, and joint stock companies generally that are operating on subscribed capital, to sound practice. Their work is never finished. The Federal Parliament and Provincial Legislatures must continue attentive to the interests of the investor and watchful of working of existing laws in that behalf. On their part, corporations that count for most in financial business study not only to strengthen their own position, but also to give the public a square deal. They seek to deserve an increasing degree of the people's confidence and our well-established investment houses and credit institutions are flourishing because they have earned the confidence of people who have funds to place. They are served by men of brains who know that honest dealing is the surest way of building up the prosperity of their business.

Notwithstanding all that the law has done to guard the lesser and greater investors, notwithstanding the scrupulous care of the administrators of most financial trusts, the great mass of the people are still like sheep without a shepherd. The country has had prosperity. Many sources of wealth have been opened up here in recent years and hundreds of millions of dollars have been distributed in interest payments and in dividends to a considerable percentage of the population. The workers go on increasing their deposits in the savings banks. So there is a large flock to be shorn. How are the accumulations of thrifty and industrious citizens to be conserved for their own benefit and applied as additional financial energy to the productive activities of the country? How, in short, is the average Canadian, unschooled in financial affairs, often tempted by the success of neighbor fortune-hunters, and beset by promoters of this or that new venture, to be kept out of the hands of the fleecers or saved from their folly? The stock market heats up and starts a draught from all quarters of the compass, pulling the money of the grasping and the improvident alike into its flue, and soon thousands of ordinarily tranquil people are in the whirlwind of speculation. Some make money. Most come to grief. The unfortunate part of it is that people who, listening to sober counsel, do not plunge in, are seldom grateful to the mentor whose advice they followed. They are not unlikely to reproach him afterwards for preventing their making a great haul as did someone else they can point to.

Can any effectual means be devised for quarantining the rank and file against the infection of an outbreak of stock gambling? Not, it would seem, in a democratic country. Every man is a free agent and would resent any statutory interference with his liberty, even to save him from himself. But the evolution of system for the conserving of capital is bound to go on. If great abilities have been successfully applied for the smoother, more economical and safer methods of administering great trust funds, why should not talents of the same order and bent in time take hold of the task of educating and organizing the people for the better management of their financial affairs, small or great? For some such self-guidance it ought to be possible to prepare them. Men honorable enough and wise enough to render great service to the masses have sprung up in politics, in philanthropy and in public crises of various kinds and have won grateful remembrance. May not a group of such men come forward to give the people leadership that will steady them in times of wild speculation?

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Buy a rose to-morrow and help a most worthy cause.

Even Premier Ferguson seems to have nothing to say in regard to L.C.A. enforcement in Waterloo County.

By the way, is that Complaint Bureau inaugurated by the Department of Highways still at work, or did it ever work?

American citizens residing in Toronto apparently are not very anxious to vote in the presidential election, as only one has taken advantage of the opportunity so far.

GOD'S MINUTE.

And make confession unto Him.—Josh. 7:19.

* * *

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for keeping guard over us during the night. We laid us down and slept; we awakened because Thou didst sustain us. Thou hast opened to us the gateway of this new day and set before us open doors of fresh opportunity and privilege. As we go forth to new duties and responsibilities, we pray for Thy presence to go with us. Strengthen us in our weakness, guide us in our ignorance, and inspire us both to will and to do according to Thy good pleasure. Enable us to present our bodies a living sacrifice, wholly acceptable unto Thee, which is our reasonable service. We commit to Thee all our loved ones, and beseech Thee that Thy Spirit may so control their hearts and guide their lives as to save them from forgetfulness of Thee, and from neglect of Thy claims. Remember those in authority over us. Put Thy fear in their hearts, that they may faithfully discharge their responsible duties. May Thy Spirit rest on all our people, causing us to lead peaceable, quiet and orderly lives. Hasten the triumphs of Thy Kingdom, until all hearts shall be brought under the rule of Christ, and the whole family of man shall constitute a brotherhood bound together by the bond of Christian love. These blessings we ask, with the forgiveness of our sins, in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

A Thought

FEAR

Fear is an enemy—a more powerful enemy and more far-reaching than anything that could happen to us. "Don't fear anything," says some anonymous philosopher. "Remember, there is no devil but Fear. Let Fear and Hatred go out of your life, and put in their place Courage and Love. There is no tragedy like that of trying to 'get square' with somebody. Forget all real or fancied wrongs. Forget everything that has pained or angered or worried you in the past. Smile over it all and start anew to-day."

CHEMICAL IN PLANTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Recent experiments by Department of Agriculture workers indicate that the chemical element manganese is essential in the production of green color in plants. At the same time the tests showed that very little is required to produce satisfactory results.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, Oct. 26.—With a holdover of 1,500 cattle, a period of inactivity has set in. These cattle are mostly poor quality stuff.

The very best finished type of butcher steers are scarce, but will bring $10 to $1.50. Steers that are common sell for $8 to $9. Finished heifers bring $9 to $10.

Choice cows sell steady at the drop, with prices ranging from $7.50 to $8.25. Good cows are $6.75 to $7.25. Very few cutters bring over $5.

Sales of baby beeves until Wednesday were holding steady, but a weaker feeling has developed. It has to be extra choice to touch $14. Most are $11 to $13.

Receipts—Calves, 1; hogs, 63.

Easier feeling is current on stockers and feeders. Stocker steers are selling at $8.50 to $9. Yearling heifers, on through billing, bring $7.75 to $8.25.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—The demand from foreign buyers for Canadian grain here yesterday was quiet and little business wa stransacted. The domestic cash grain trade was also dull, but prices were unchanged.

Owing to the limited demand of late for Spring wheat flour an easier feeling deevloped in the market yesterday and values were reduced ten cents per barrel. The winter wheat situation was unchanged.

The tone of the market for all lines of millfeed was firm under a good demand. A fair trade was done in standard grades of rolled oats at steady prices.

Prices for all grades of fresh and storage eggs were firmly maintained and a large volume of business was done. Receipts were 4,518 cases.

Imported beans were firm at $5.00 per bushel or 8½c per pound for choice white hand-picked grades.

Little business was done in potatoes and prices were about steady. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold in bulk at 65c, and Prince Edward Island Green mountains at 85c per 90 pound bag, and Cobblers at 75c.

The trade in butter continued good and values were firm. Receipts were 252 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the local and export trade in cheese but values were maintained. Receipts were 9,428 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26, (Canadian Press)—Europe appeared yesterday to be reaching out in earnest for corn from the United States. Trans-Atlantic buying yesterday of December and March deliveries of corn here was estimated at about 2,000,000 bushels. Meanwhile, seaboard purchases of corn, presumably for nearby export shipment, were said to have aggregated more than 1,000,000 bushels in the last 48 hours. Wheat prices were responsive to corn strength.

Closing quotations on corn future deliveries were unsettled, at the same as Wednesday's finish to ⅝c higher. Wheat finished ¼ to ⅝c up; oats varying from a shade decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions at 15c setback to a rise of 5c.

Predicted showers last night for parts of the corn belt, and consequent fears of rainy weather interfering with prompt movement of new corn, did much yesterday to stimulate speculative demand for corn. Stocks of corn actually on hand at terminal markets are so small that the trade is unusually dependent upon day-to-day receipts, and for this reason the character of weather prevailing is of more importance at present than would otherwise be the case. In this connection, it was pointed out that primary arrivals of corn yesterday, both new and old corn, totalled only 481,000 bushels compared with 913,000 bushels a year ago.

Advances in price for corn in Argentina were given considerable

Voice of the People

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner Office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

GOD'S MINUTE.

Sir:

For many years I have been a constant reader of The Examiner, and I certainly think it's improving. With letters from "Marion," Neighborly Notes" and etc. there is something to interest all the family.

But this last week I have been sorry to find "God's Minute" has been crowded out. I think in these days of rush and hurry a few more minutes with God's word would help us all.

Wishing the paper every success,

From a well wisher,

M. A. I. B.

PRAISE FOR DR. CRAIG

Ediotr of Examiner:

Dear sir:

I would like, through your columns, to give a few words of praise to Dr. J. J. Craig and the Kiwanis in general for the success they attained in the big Produced-in-Canada Fair. My family and I look forward to it every year, not only because of the amusement it gives, but also for its educational value.

The wonderful talent brought here for the concerts was a treat to every one attending. I also want to thank the Kiwanis for their generosity in supplying all school children with free admission tickets to the Fair. I feel sure that if our local Fair Board had done the same the parents would have patronized the fair better than they did. When you give children a treat it is appreciated by the parents and they spend more to show their appreciation.

Hoping you will continue to put on the Produced-in-Canada Fair every fall and wishing you every success in the good work you are doing in our community, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

A MOTHER.

weight by some authorities yesterday as helping to explain increased demand for corn from the United States. On the other hand, country offerings yesterday of corn to arrive here were liberal, and yesterday's arrivals of corn in Chicago, 111 cars, were the heaviest witnessed on a single day for some time past. Furthermore, the increased rural offerings of new crop corn led to notable weakness in the cash corn trading basis, and cash prices here for corn were 2 cents to 6 cents a bushel lower.

Upturns in the price of wheat here, largely a result of action of the corn market, were also aided by relative firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool. Reports at hand indicated that Liverpool stocks of wheat are diminishing, and that in the last few days considerable United States hard winter wheat for December shipment has been disposed of to continental Europe. Oats trade was light, and prices were governed chiefly by other grain.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by the fact that hog values are down to more than $4 a hundredweight in the last month.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Oct. 26. — Owing to fresh eggs of current production being difficult to procure from nearby producing centres, local dealers yesterday advanced their prices to shippers on eggs of extra and first-grade. Quotations for ungraded eggs to be delivered next week range from 44c. to 50c. per dozen for fresh extras, 40c. to 43c. for fresh firsts, and 31c. to 33c. for seconds, delivered, cases returned. Brokers this week have reported sales of graded eggs at extras, 51c.; firsts, 45c., and seconds, 35c, delivered. The storage market at Toronto is quiet and easier in price tone. More sales for export have been recorded. American storage withdrawals are better now than at the commencement of this week.

LIBRARY NOTES

PHILOSOPHY.

In its literal meaning Philosophy, of course, means love of wisdom, but in order to make an easier interpretation for us the dictionary translates this term into "the knowledge of phenomena as explained by and resolved into causes and reasons, powers and laws." Most of us are apt to fight shy of Philosophy as embodying dry-as-dust details and abstruse reasonings hard to solve and harder still to be interested in. Yet, if we take the trouble to study the matter at all we shall find that in almost every aspect Philosophy forms an entrancing form of reading.

Most of us know by name the great philosophers of ancient and modern times. We have been taught to reverence them for their learning and the systems they have created but few of us have gone any further. We take their findings as read and never take the trouble to glance at their arguments. We cannot expect to get very far on the road to knowledge at that rate. Man is put in this world to think, but the one great branch of philosophy in which he takes interest is that of an inverted utilitarianism, in which he works, not for the greatest good of the greatest number but for the greatest good for himself. If we read more of the right sort of literature and thought more of what we read there would be more altruists and fewer egotists in the world.

In the Peterborough Library there is a fair array of books touching on many and diverse philosophies. Metaphysics, the science of mind and body, Occultism, Magic, Spiritism, Personality, Cosmology, Teleology, these are only a few of the topics coming under the head of Philosophy. Outside of these are the great philosophic systems dealing with ethical questions of all sorts. If we consider for a moment we shall realize that as sentient beings it is quite as important for us to devote some study to the spiritual part of our nature as to the material elements of which it is composed, and on our shelves there is much to interest the student and the thinker.

BROKEN

CHAPTER XVI.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to London from the United States, to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, meets Julie in Switzerland through his friend HARRY LOMBARD. He determines to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge his brother. But after accomplishing his purpose—and falling in love with her as well—he finds out that she is a cousin of the JULIE FARROW who broke Rodney's heart. Because he has been married he has to give her up, after telling her the truth. He goes on to London to see his mother. MRS. ARDRON, a rather silly woman who wants to enjoy life. He takes her to a night club. There he sees Julie, who, much made-up, is acting wild and boisterous.

Julie rose from her chair and swept Chittenham a mock curtesy.

"For this relief much thanks!" she said dramatically. "Mrs. Chittenham, what do you think of your son?"

"I just adore him!" Giles' mother answered eagerly. "But you know my name is not Chittenham. I have been married twice, Miss Farrow." She was always anxious to communicate this fact to other women. "Giles's father was my first husband, and my second husband was Ralph Ardron—such dears, both of them—the strong, silent type! I often wondered why they were attracted to such a little woman as I am, but as Ralph said—or was it your father, Giles?—I really almost forget—the oak always attracts the clinging ivy. Anyway, I know one of them said it."

There was a little silence after this ingenuous speech, which was broken by Marco Essen heavily dragging himself to his feet.

"Well, what about some drinks?" he said. He winked openly at Doris. He was not used to women of Mrs. Ardron's type, and as he afterwards explained it, they "un-nerved him."

He beckoned one of the melancholy-looking Apache waiters and ordered champagne.

"Splendid!" Julie said. She had been quiet for a moment, her face almost sad as she sat looking rather wistfully at Mrs. Ardron. She took a cigarette from an open case on the table and asked Chittenham for a light.

"Cross with me?" she inquired flippantly.

"No, why should I be?"

"Don't frown, then."

He looked at her steadily. In this new flippant mood she reminded him in some unaccountable way of Sadie.

"I beg your pardon. I did not know I was frowning."

"Perhaps it's the nature of the animal!" Julie said lightly. She leant back in her chair. "Don't you dance Mrs. Ardron?"

"I do yes—I love it, but——"

She looked appealingly at her son, and Giles rose immediately.

"Dance with me, then. I should have asked you before, only you seemed so interested."

"I am, dear. I'm enjoying every moment of it." Mrs. Ardron declared as they went away together. "I think it's a perfectly wonderful place and all the people are so interesting, aren't they?"

"I am glad you like them."

"I don't care for that Miss Farrow very much," his mother said presently. She discreetly lowered her voice. "Is she really a cousin of that Julie—you know, the one darling Rodney——"

"So I understand."

"Do you like her, Giles?"

"I? I hardly know her!"

"I know, and yet she speaks to you in such a—well, in almost a familiar way doesn't she? Of course, I know I'm old-fashioned and all that, but all the same——"

"She doesn't mean any harm, mother" Chittenham spoke with an effort It hurt intolerably to hear his mother say she did not like Julie.

"I'm sure she doesn't," Mrs. Ardron agreed kindly. "But I'm not quite used to it, that's all. Giles, isn't this a perfectly lovely band?"

"Is it? Only a moment ago I heard someone call it 'filthy,'" Giles said bitterly.

She gave a little scream of protest.

"Filthy! Oh they must have been joking!"

"Perhaps," he agreed heavily.

They circled the room several times. Mrs. Ardron danced well.

"How people do stare, don't they?" she whispered excitedly. "I suppose it's you they are admiring, or perhaps it is my frock. It's a very pretty frock, don't you think so, Giles?"

"Very," he answered absently, not saying the obvious thing that it must be at her and not at the frock the people were looking.

"I wish your father could see me tonight," Mrs. Ardron said after a moment, rather wistfully. "He always liked me in silver. Or was it darling Rodney's father who liked me in silver? I forget, but it was one of them. Giles, do you think I dance nicely?"

"Like a fairy, my dear."

She smiled and dimpled, casting a swift glance over her shoulder into a mirror on the wall they were passing.

"Nobody would ever think I was your mother, at all events," she said happily. "Giles, what do you think of Marco?"

"Who the devil is Marco?"

Mrs. Ardron laughed, then tapped his arm reprovingly. "Marco Essen, of course! He's very rich, Giles."

"Is he? He needs to be something as compensation."

"You don't like him?" She sounded vaguely disappointed.

"Frankly, no. Is he a great friend of yours?"

"N-no."

"Which means that he is. Anyway, I thought you said he was going to marry Miss Gardener."

"I believe she thinks so," his mother answered. "But somehow—this evening——"

She did not finish what she had been going to say, and Giles was not sufficiently interested to inquire further. He would have been merely amused, and faintly disgusted had he known that Mrs. Ardron had been flattering herself all the evening that she was proving quite a dangerous rival to Doris. She was a vain woman, and Essen had quickly discovered the fact and had pandered to her vanity. He had also known her son Rodney, and anyone who had known Rodney and had approved of him—or even pretended to so—held the golden key that unlocked the door of Mrs Ardron's friendship.

"Marco and Rodney were great friends, Giles," she said tentatively after a moment.

"Were they?" Giles looked down at her with unsmiling eyes. "Does that mean that Rodney borrowed money from him?" he asked.

"How can you be so unkind?"

For a moment her radiant face clouded, and Giles said hurriedly: "I'm sorry. I was only teasing." He had come to the conclusion that he a thousand times preferred his mother in the role of a silly little butterfly than that of a melancholy mourner who could only weep and wail.

"What time would you like to leave?" he asked her as they went back to their table. He glanced at his watch. "It's past twelve——"

"Quite early yet, dear!" she said brightly. "There's lots of time. No, I don't think I really can drink any more champagne!" She protested as Essen offered her a brimming glass. "You see, I'm not used to it—not——"

"It will make your eyes sparkle," Essen said fatuously.

"Do you think so? Oh, very well then—just this once," and Mrs. Ardron feebly capitulated.

"Why do you drink it if you hate it?" Julie asked bluntly. For the moment she and Giles's mother were practically alone. Doris had drawn the two men into a discussion as to the merits of a new mode of hair-dressing worn by a woman who had just come in.

Mrs. Ardron flushed and put down her glass.

"I don't hate it," she faltered. "I like it—I——"

"I heard you tell Giles that it made your head ache," Julie said ruthlessly.

"Calling him by his Christian name already!" Giles's mother thought indignantly, but all she said was:

"Well, I started out with a little headache tonight, and I suppose the heat and the excitement have made it worse. But——"

"It's a vile place to come to," Julie said. She leant her elbow on the table and her chin in her hand. For the moment she let her features relax into tired, unhappy lines.

Mrs. Ardron stared at her silently as she sipped her champagne, then she asked:

"If you think that, why do you come?"

"Why?" Julie laughed, shrugging her shoulders. "One must go somewhere, and it's no worse than any other place."

"But, is there any need to come to any of them?" Mrs. Ardron asked in perplexity.

"No need at all," Julie agreed cynically. "Except that as I said just now, one must go somewhere."

"When I was your age I used to adore the country."

"Did you?" A little flicker of sympathy flashed into Julie's eyes. "I adore the country too. I love fresh air and trees—and the sea, and mountains——" She broke off, realizing where she was dangerously drifting. "But you're soon bored to extinction in the country," she said, stifling a pretended yawn. "It's all right when it's fine, but on wet days—ugh!"

"I used to put on thick boots and a short skirt, and go for long walks with Giles's father," Mrs. Ardron said, drawing freely upon her imagination, for she had never worn thick boots, or gone for a long walk in her life. "Both my husbands disliked London, and only ever came to it to please me."

Her voice faltered emotionally. It was probably the effects of the champagne, but she thought it was the memory of happy days gone by.

"I had another darling son besides Giles, you know," she said.

She leant a little closer to Julie.

Julie nodded.

"I know. I met him several times."

"Oh, did you?" Mrs. Ardron drew her chair nearer. "Wasn't he a darling boy? So handsome! Everyone said he was just like me——" She stopped abruptly, remembering that Giles had admitted that this girl was a cousin of that other unspeakable Julie.

"I shall never get over his death, never!" she asserted faintly, feeling in her vanity bag for a handkerchief. "It was nothing more or less than murder, and I pray that some day I shall have the opportunity to avenge it."

The champagne was making her feel very brave and reckless and there was a faint smile in Julie's eyes as she answered gently:

"We all feel like that sometimes. We all go through life feeling up against things, and hoping that some day we shall get what we want and be happy. The trouble is that we never really know what we do want! And even if we did, and we got it, I doubt if we should be happy. And then we die—and I expect part of the joke is that after we are dead we still go on hoping for something we shall never get to the end of time and eternity." Mrs. Ardron was slightly out of her depth, and anyway she did not like jokes about death; she thought it extremely bad taste. To her mind death was an unpleasant thing like false teeth and dyed hair and disease. One knew they existed, of course, but they were subjects tactfully ignored by the best people.

LYRICS OF LIFE

DISTANCE

Absence is absence, near or far;
Distance has never much to do
With comrades who asunder are,
With comrades such as I and you.
It may be but a mile or two
That separates me from your smile,
Only a little bit of blue,
And yet it seems a thousand miles.

Yet if it were a thousand, yea,
A thousand miles of land or sea,
If hills or vales or oceans lay
Tonight between my love and me,
I would remember presently
Your voice, your gesture and your smile
Although a thousand it might be,
A thousand miles would seem a mile.

Absence is absence, far or near,
Calamitous, if near or far,
And yet in memory the dear
Are here, no matter where they are.
You cannot measure love, nor mar
A dream with distance; love but smiles
And leaps the sea or vaults the bar—
For what has love to do with miles?

The Personal Greeting Card

is now recognized as like unto a personal visit because it carries that indefinable something that is not expressed by any other kind of a gift.

The exclusive lines of Examiner Greeting Cards are now ready for inspection at your home, office, or at our store. If you would like to make your selection at home, please telephone 1600 and ask for the Examiner Greeting Card Girl, and she will be glad to take care of your request.

There is a very wide range of Cards, Folders, Etchings, etc. They are all beautiful, with and without lined envelopes, and all very moderately priced.

The greetings were all personally selected, and carry a strong personal appeal that is sure to please the recipient. Many of these lines cannot be duplicated; therefore, we suggest an early selection to avoid disappointment.

We thank all those who purchased Greeting Cards from us in the past and trust that they, and many others, will come to The Examiner this year.

We take a personal pride and pleasure in printing Greeting Cards, and it is an excellent boost for our fair city if you are able to tell your friends that you had this year's Personal Greeting Cards printed in YOUR home city.

Awaiting an opportunity to serve you.

EVEREADY Layerbilt

There's been a revolution in the science of battery building — Eveready has found a way to give you more battery for your money than you ever bought before!

The new Layerbilt principle can be understood by anyone. It simply gives you more current-making elements by packing flat cells like crackers in a box, instead of using many round cells with waste space between.

You actually get the equivalent of a much bigger battery and, of course, it takes much longer to use it up. That's why you should buy Eveready Layerbilts and save money. Now selling at new low prices. Ask your dealer.

1 cupful of wholewheat flour
2 level teaspoonfuls of baking powder
Pinch of salt
½ cupful of cream

Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, and fold in with as little stirring as possible, the wholewheat flour, into which has been sifted the baking powder and salt. Add the cream, and drop the batter in small spoonfuls on an ungreased aluminum baking sheet and bake in a hot oven until brown.

Questions and Answers.

Question: Mother asks: "Will you please tell me what to give my children as a tonic after whooping cough? Also, is it a bad sign when a child's finger and toe nails grow very slowly?"

Answer: Tonics are only stimulants and should not be given to children. In recovering from whooping cough it is necessary to take a carefully balanced diet and to increase exercises each day in order to regainlost strength. The slow growing of finger and toe nails is because of a lack of organic minerals which go to make up the composition of the nails, bone, hair and teeth.

Question: D.U. asks: "Is dried beef a wholesome food to be substituted when fresh meat is not available?"

Answer: Yes, dried beef is a good food if prepared properly. It shou'd be boiled in two or more waters, and seasoned only with a little butter as eaten. Never combine it with a flour sauce, which is the customary way of "spoiling" it as a wholesome food.

Question: Marcia asks: "Will massaging the legs every night with hot olive oil tend to fatten them? Would the oil increase the growth of hair on the legs?"

Answer: Very little can be done to correct the shape of the body through massage. The thighs can be developed to some extent through exercise, but the calves of the legs do not respond as readily and usually become thinner and the muscles more bunchy through exercise. Very little oil is absorbed through the skin, and even when it is absorbed it does not remain in that part but is taken up by the blood or lymphatics. If the skin becomes healthier by massage there is more liability that the hair will grow longer. The oil has nothing to do with this.

Stories For Little People

DAVID, OR THE JAVELIN

1 Sam. xviii, 5 to end. xix, 1-10.
"(By M. B.)"

Saul was very glad that David had killed the giant Goliath. David was brought to Saul, that Saul might speak to him. He came in with the giant's head in his hand. Then Saul said to David, 'Whose son are you, young man?' And David answered, 'I am the son of Jesse, who lives at Bethlehem.'

While Saul was talking to David, there was a person standing near, whom you have not heard of before; it was the son of Saul. He was a grown-up man, very brave, and very good; his name was Jonathan; he was a prince, because he was a king's son, and the king's son is called a prince.

Jonathan began to love David very much indeed. What could make Jonathan love David so much? I think he loved David because David was so brave and so good. David had also a very sweet look. Still it was God made Jonathan love David so much. Jonathan told David that he loved him, and they both promised always to be kind to each other. Jonathan gave his own clothes to David, and wore other clothes, and he also gave him his sword, and his bow.

Saul told David that he must not go back to live with his father, again, but that he must stay with him. So David and Jonathan saw each other very often. How much that must have pleased them, for friends like to be together.

Perhaps you think that David now was very happy. But there was one thing that soon happened to make him sad. I will tell you what it was.

After the giant had been killed in the battle, the Israelites went back to their homes, and did not live in tents any more, and Saul, and Jonathan, and David, went to the place where the king lived. As they were going along they saw a great many women with harps in their hands, and these women played as they went, and sang, and danced. They were singing about David, and how he had killed the Philistines, and they said in their song that David had killed a great many more men than Saul. These are the words they sang, 'Saul has slain his thousands, and David his ten thousands.'

Do you think that David liked to hear these songs? No. David did not wish to be praised. He wished God to be praised. He would have liked to hear the women say that God had helped a poor shepherd to kill the giant.

But when Saul heard these songs he was very angry, for he wished to be praised, and he could not bear to hear David praised more than himself. 'What,' thought Saul, 'do they say that David has killed more Philistines than I have, and that he is braver than I am?' How wicked Saul was! He was envious; he was like Joseph's brothers, and he was like Cain!

Then Saul thought, 'Perhaps David is the man who is to be king instead of me?' Saul remembered that Samuel had told him that God had chosen a better man than he was—to be king.

Did Saul guess right? Yes.

Then Saul hated David, and wished to kill David. Saul had these wicked thoughts in his mind when he came back to his own house. Instead of thanking God for his kindness in having helped the Israelites to conquer the Philistines, he was thinking how he could kill David.

The next day after he was come home, God let the evil spirit come into him again. David saw that Saul was ill and unhappy. How did David try to make him well?

He took his harp, as he used to do, and began to play sweet music. Now Saul had a sharp thing in his hand, called a javelin: and Saul thought to himself, 'I will throw this at David, and it shall go through his body.' But David saw the javelin coming, and he slipped out of the way; so that Saul did not hurt him. Then Saul threw it at him again, but he could not hurt David. God took care of David.

Every one but Saul loved David, and this made Saul hate him still more.

David behaved so well, that Saul could not find any fault in him, for which he could punish him. Then Saul told David to take some men, and to go and fight against the Philistines. Why did Saul send David to fight? Saul hoped that the Philistines would kill David in battle. David went and killed a great many Philistines, but no one hurt him. Everybody praised him more, and called him brave. Saul grew more angry. At last Saul told all his servants to kill him, but they loved David, and would not kill him. Still Jonathan was afraid lest some wicked person should mind Saul, and kill David; so Jonathan told David to hide himself, while he begged his father to forgive him. So Jonathan said to his father, 'Why do you wish to kill David? What has he done? Did he not once kill the giant? Then you were glad; why are you angry with him now?'

It was kind of Jonathan to beg for David. It is kind of children to beg for each other when they are in disgrace. Saul promised that he would not have David killed. Then Jonathan called David and brought him to Saul, and David was with him as he used to be.

But soon Saul began to hate David again, and the evil spirit was on him still. Then David played on his harp to make him well. Saul had a javelin in his hand, and threw it at David, but David slipped out of the way, and the javelin stuck in the wall.

Now David was afraid of staying any more with Saul, and he ran away that night.

He did not go back to his father, for Saul would have looked for him ther, and would have found him; but he hid himself in a great many places. You will hear of many sad things that will happen to poor David.

But God loved him and took care of him.

But Saul was miserable, for he was proud and envious.

I wish you, my dear children, to love one another, and not to want people to notice you. I hope you will not envy one another, but be glad when other children are praised.

Boy Wants To "Kill Something," So Kidnaps Baby Aged Two Months

ALLIANCE, Nebraska, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press).—A twelve year old boy with a mania to "kill something," who kidnapped a two months old baby and when caught, was hunting for an axe to behead the infant, presented a problem to county officials today. The baby was kidnapped from the automobile of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Colerick, the parents, who had parked the car while they visited relatives. In the weeds of a nearby vacant lot the boy had concealed the child. The baby's cries attracted a neighbor's attention.

The boy was discovered by Sheriff Jones as he was searching for an axe. The boy told the sheriff he intended to kill the baby, but refused to give a motive, other than the desire to "kill something."

For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh: That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.—Rom. viii, 3, 4.

COMMUNION WITH GOD

(By Robert C. Chapman.)

God, in His dealings with His froward children, shows the forbearance of His love; but it is with the obedient that He walks in the fellowship of His love. In both cases He gets glory to himself. Happy are they who live under His smile of approbation.

Fellowship with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ, and the communion of the Spirit, should be the daily household bread to our souls.

Unless the great truths of God's eternal purposes of grace, and His electing love, occupy their due place in our hearts, we must of necessity more or less, misapprehend all truth: we can neither fulfill our obligations to God nor even duly discern them.

If we come forth from the closet of communion, the atmosphere of evil speaking will be to us as the tainted air of some great city to one that has been breathing the pure air of a mountain-top or the fresh breezes of the seashore.

Unless our souls are living in communion with God, the Scriptures will not yield us their strength and nourishment. There is nothing so teaching as walking with God; nothing so sifting to the heart and conscience as seeking in all things to walk before Him; to hear, to speak, and to act for one great end, namely to please God, and to do His will from the heart.

The Lord guides us with His eye; that is, He will so guide us, as to assure us of His guidance. He will deal with us as a tender mother with her little ones, who suffers them not out of her sight.

There is no fellowship with God, but through the blood of His dear Son. It is by this He speaks to us, and calls us children; and by it we cry, "Abba, Father," pouring out our hearts into His bosom. And we can speak to Him as we cannot speak to human ear, because the heart of man is not as the heart of God.

We can never thrive except we seek God in secret; and if we begin in our closets we shall not end there, we shall also seek and find Him in the assemblies of the saints.

It is one of the blessed fruits of the habit of walking with God, that the soul knows what to do when it has displeased God. "A wounded spirit who can bear?" Yet, even that burden God can enable us to cast upon Him.

When Abraham first set foot on his pilgrimage, he knew not what meetings with God were laid up for him; he ventured on the bidding and promise of God, and his mercies multiplied on him as he advanced.

Whenever we are living before man instead of walking before God, there will be restlessness and disquietude.

It is impossible for God to meet His saints in the way of fellowship, except in the path of obedience. When they are out of that path, He meets them with correction, in order to bring them into fellowship with Himself.

If we see the least trace of the mind of Christ in any one, we should remember that in such the heart of God delights.

Carelessness about the friendship of Christ is the crying sin of the church.

When we say, "Lord bring us near to Thyself," we pray for many things, which, when they come, will be bitter to our taste. At such times it is well to remember our Forerunner: He asked to be glorified; but before heaven was opened to Him and He received therein, He had to pass through the garden of Gethsemane, and on the cross to cry, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"

It ought to be a grievous thing to us to have a wish, however slight, contrary to the mind of Christ.

As soon as it is our settled purpose to please Christ, He takes us for His bosom friends.

The more we have of Christ in our hearts, the less room for self.

How sweetly, how pleasantly, may a Christian beguile his way to glory, by casting all his burden of sin and care upon Jesus, and walking in love and fellowship with Him all the day long! He who casts his burdens upon the Lord walks lightly and happily, as one who had no burden at all.

Communion with Christ can only be kept up by constant watchfulness. Where there is much love between friends, a cold look is matter of complaint. Let us be very jealous over ourselves for the Lord; watching against the least shyness between the soul and Christ. Keep up constant intercourse with Him; be quick and dexterous in taking small matters to Him; and the fruit will be growth of communion.

Though in a season of temptation we may see nothing in ourselves but what is vile and hateful, our very struggles of love after Christ betoken His Spirit dwelling within us.

If we would have experience of the sympathy of the Lord Jesus we must be much at His cross, and be much occupied with the sorrows of others.

There is a short road to comfort in affliction that few of God's people tread; it is to be thinking much more of Christ's blessedness than of our own sorrow; but alas! sympathy is for the most part all on one side. Christ has perfect sympathy with us. Oh that we had fellowship with Him in His joy at the right hand of God!

Though Christ can be grieved at a thousand things in us that no eye thousand things in us that no eye but His can see, yet none so easily pleased as He by our little endeavours of love.

Our joy in Christ speaks a language that all hearts can understand and is a testimony for Him, such as mere knowledge and utterance can never give.

It is but a small proof of love to visit a friend who lives next door, but to go to a distance over hill and dale bespeaks love indeed. Let us show our love to Christ, by sparing no pains, no labour, in order to seek Him in prayer, in reading the word, and in meditation thereon. Let us joyfully surmount all difficulties, and joyful communion will be our recompense.

If we do anything without taking counsel of God, we—to speak of Him after the manner of men—hide the matter from Him our Father, and so grieve His Spirit. We do Him wrong, and ourselves also, if in anything we have no fellowship with Him.

When it is whispered by the Spirit of God, that He who is at God's right hand would be honored if we do such a thing, or if we do it not—if we disregard the still small voice, although we may not be put to open shame, we shall miss the smile of approval so precious to the obedient child.

The cause of lack of communion with God is summed up in this—disobedience. Another may take away my substance, or my life, but cannot spoil me of my communion with God; if I lack this, I am myself the thief and the robber.

We ought to be always happy in God, and in His ways; if we are not, we mar the quality of our obedience.

We are never so well prepared for effectual service to man, as when we are holding fellowship with God.

Let us be skilful to make God's matters ours; then we shall see that He makes our matters His.

Those who know what it is to deal much with God, know that their hopes and desires must, as it were, be buried, and that they must leave it with Him to bring about a resurrection in His own time and way.

God measures out His communion of love according to diligence in seeking Him.

It is well for us to shut up our desires within the compass of trusting and pleasing God.

CHRIST

"(By Robert C. Chapman.)"

Christ twice passed the angels by. He sank far below them in His humiliation; He rose far above them in His exaltation.

If Christ be the life and beauty of our days of sunshine, so is He the brother born for our adversity; and His love shall gild and strike through the darkest cloud. Having been once a sufferer, He communes with His suffering members, and instructs us to put our trials into a just balance; to cal our affliction light and momentary (2 Cor. iv. 17, 18.)

Resting wholly on Christ; ceasing wholly from the works of the flesh—is the secret of abiding in Him.

Growing acquaintance with Christ makes Him more and more precious to our souls. If Christ were anything less than unsearchable, He could not satisfy us—could neither fill the heart, not give peace to the conscience.

The strength of love is shown in great things; the tenderness of love in little things. Christ showed the strength of His love on the cross by dying and bearing the curse for us; the tenderness of His love when He said, "Behold My mother!" "Children, have ye any meat?" "Woman, why weepest thou?"

There was an immeasurable difference between the state of Christ on the cross when He said, under the terrors of the Judge, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken Me?" and when He said, "Father, into Thy hands I commend My Spirit."

"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus" (Phil. ii, 5). He could not sink lower than His cross; we can no more fathom the depths of His humiliation than comprehend the glory of His Godhead. His exaltation answers to His cross. He cannot rise higher than the right hand of God, nor find sweeter resting-place from His sufferings and His toil than the bosom of the Father. His rest and exaltation we must share, being joint-heirs with Christ; nor will He be satisfied until His members he seated with Him on His throne. Then let this mind rule and reign in us which reigned in Christ Jesus (see Phil. ii, 5-15); and since the humble mind, so hard of attainment, must needs go before honour from God, let us be thankful for al God's discipline, however bitter, without which pride will not stoop, nor vain man come to knowledge of himself.

May the fulness of Christ replenish our enlarged hearts day by day. By communion with Him the soul grows more and more capacious, and yet acquaintance with Him makes us feel more and more our own littleness.

Let it be our habit to feed daily upon Christ in secret; thus shall we eat and drink, discerning the Lord's body, in the assembly for the supper of the Lord.

Would we be filled with love towards Christ—let us consider Christ's love towards us in the death of the cross.

He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might he increaseth strength. Even th youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall: but they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint. Is. xl, 29-31.

The Fall Mode

Unfolds Another Chapter of Smartness Saturday in This Interesting Group of Finer Coats

Who would not be attune with the spirit of these crisp Fall days, when the sharp tang of the air, the swish of falling leaves, and Nature bedecking herself in glowing colors, bespeak the swift approach of Winter? Everything suggests new clothes, and warm ones, particularly a smart Coat of irresistible charm and dependable quality, attributes which lend special appeal to the group of better Coats featured here to-morrow.

Feminity makes the Autumn Coat mode—feminity accentuated by the increased movement in the new silhouette, by the long graceful flares below the hipline, by the softly draped front fastenings. Long shawl collars roll high and away from the head on these new creations in the manner of Paquin and voluminous muff-like cuffs of fur wander far up on the sleeve toward the elbow.

Modernism inspires intriguing diagonal inserts of fabric and petal-like incrustations set in an interesting variety of positions. You will find such materials as suedine, duvetyne, broadcloth, velours and swagger tweeds, in rich deep tones that vie with Autumn colorings.

Browns, shading all the way from subtle beige to deep leaf tones, are favorites, while the new slate blues, Madeline blue and midnight, are featured strongly. There is much showing of grey for street wear; also a few English greens, deep wine tones, and plenty of black. Sumptuously soft long-haired furs, as well as beaver, opossum and mole, are used with a lavish hand.

THE NEW KNITTED WEAR

Snug Smartness and Comfort

Now the masculine severity of seasons past is no more—and the new Knitted Wear is expressive of the greater feminity that everywhere pervades the Autumn mode. Undreamed-of intricacies of cut and weave, a subtle fineness of texture, and soft, alluring tones proclaim these smart, new garments as distinctly a la mode. The vogue for the collarless neckline remains as yet unquestioned and beige continues the predominating color for sports wear.

Fashion's Classic—The Two-Piece Sports Dress

Distinguished by a new tweed-like thickness and unusual weight. The swagger Two-Piece Knitted Dresses assume added smartness for the late Fall season. In novel herringbone weaves. Cut in a jaunty slip-over style, with matching skirt in silk crepes. Youthful! Dashing!—for the active sportswoman and the spectator. In shades of red, beige and green. Sizes 16 to 38. At the regular meeting of Vimy Ridge, L.O.B.A., held last week, the regular business was disposed of and a large number of friends and visitors from sister lodges came in and a Country Store was held. Mr. Dave Manley acted as auctioneer and the goods were soon disposed of. A social evening was held afterward, and pumpkin pie and coffee was served.

* * *

A number from Lakefield were present, also Mrs. Childs, formerly of a Toronto L.O.B.A., who has recently moved to this city.

* * *

Mrs. Frank Merrett of Leslie street entertained at four tables of bridge last evening in honor of Mrs. Arnold McWilliams, who leaves soon to reside in Toronto. Winners of bridge prizes were Mrs. R. Williamson and Mrs. H. Wilson, also Mrs. W. Gray (consolation). At midnight, a delicious fowl supper was served.

* * *

Miss Mary Brooks left to-day for Toronto, where she will be a guest tomorrow at the wedding of her cousin, Miss Marion Huff, B.A., and Captain Edmund King.

* * *

Members of the U-Kum-Tu Club of the Y.W.C.A. entertained at afternoon tea at the "Y" rooms yesterday, in honor of the newcomers to Canada. In the evening a special club program of games and music was enjoyed, many friends of the club being present.

* * *

A delightful social evening was held at the Y.W.C.A. residence last night when the girls met to extend best wishes to Miss G. Knapp, who left on the midnight train for her home in England. A souvenir of Canada, in a copy of Bliss Carman's poems, was the gift of the girls to Miss Knapp, the presentation being made by Miss E. Thomlinson.

* * *

Messrs. J. W. Boorman, F. J. Batten and W. C. Thompson, accompanied by Mr. Hamilton of Toronto were members of the local Oddfellow lodges who went to Bowmanville on Wednesday evening to take part in a presentation of honorary veterans' jewels by the Oddfellows there.

* * *

A very enjoyable card party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. Ferguson, 64 Aylmer street, on Tuesday evening, under the auspices of Vimy Ridge, L.O.B.A., No. 244. Nine tables of progressive euchre were played. The ladies' first prize was won by Mrs. P. Campbell, and the gentleman's first prize by Mr. Percy Lowes. Miss Eason won the lucky number prize, and the consolation prizes went to Mesdames Wesley Flannery and Fred Burnham. Dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by the social committee of the lodge. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Pearson, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Manley, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Manley, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Flannery, Mr. and Mrs. George Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Millard, Mr. and Mrs. P. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Robinson, Mesdames F. Burnham, George Thorn, Clarence Cook, E. Dormer, Robinson, O'Toole, Sarginson, Sanderson, Brooks, White, E. DeLong, G. Peters, Misses M. Burnham, Jean Thorn, Tillie Han, Lillie Lowes, Gladys Lowes, Eason; Messrs. Percy Lowes, Dave Calder, Eddie Reid, Walter Johnson, and R. Wright.

Mr. W. C. Morrow, who is chairman of the Music Committee of Trinity United Church, entertained the members of the choir, their wives and husbands, and a number of friends, at a sumptuous banquet held last evening in the basement rooms of the church. The affair, attended by seventy people, was one of the most enjoyable events in the life of the choir and every detail was looked after with care and attention. A delicious banquet was served by Hooper's and the decorations were extremely attractive. The large room was draped with flags and the lights were covered with baskets of green and yellow paper. A central electrolier was in the form of a square lantern, in red and yellow with black edgings. The two long tables, facing each other and covered with pale yellow marquisette, were divided in the centre by a profusion of palms and ferns, low enough to allow the guests to converse comfortably and giving an air of summer growth to the scene. These were edged with large autumn leaves lying on the cloth. Red and yellow candles were placed in brass and silver candleholders and candelabra and the place cards were tiny Hallowe'en favors of cats and owls. At the head of the table, where Mr. Morrow and Miss Morrow received the guests, was a small table, also decorated with autumn leaves and yellow candles and having a large central wicker basket filled with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. The toast to The King was proposed by Mr. Morrow and responded to with the singing of the National Anthem and the toast to the choir was proposed by Mr. D. Walker. With this toast was coupled the remarks of Mr. W. D. Campbell, speaking on behalf of the Music Committee, and the response to both was made by Mr. R. F. Downey, who made especial mention of the kindness to the choir shown on so many occasions by the chairman of the Music Committee, Mr. W. G. Morrow, and his interest in its welfare at all times. Judge Huycke, a guest of the evening, spoke briefly, congratulating the choir and its leader, Miss Mabel Clarry, on its presentation of beautiful music and speaking particularly of the pleasure experienced by himself and others in the reverential, devotional character of the music at Trinity Church. The evening closed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" with clasped hands around the table.

Mr. W. T. Lucas, M.P., who has been in Ottawa for the past month, spent a few days recently with his sister, Miss Lucas of Bailleboro, before returning to Lougheed, Alberta.

* * *

Mr. George Wensley, of Gilmour street, left this morning to attend the wedding in Toronto to-morrow of his cousin, Miss Marion Huff, B.A., and Captain Edmund Ott King.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Callaghan left yesterday on a motor trip to Kingston.

* * *

Rev. Dr. R. C. Blagrave has gone to Newhaven, Connecticut, to take part in the formal re-opening of Berkeley Divinity School. Dr. Blagrave has been invited by the Dean and Faculty of Berkeley School, which is affiliated with Yale University, to give an address at the re-opening on Monday. During his absence, Rev. Sidney Childs of Trinity University, Toronto, will take next Sunday's services.

* * *

Mrs. C. Wright, Rubidge street, has returned from London, Ont., where she spent three weeks with her daughter, Mrs. E. Bert McWilliams. Mr. McWilliams, who recently underwent a very serious operation, is recovering satisfactorily.

* * *

Dr. Edmond King, of Toronto, entertained at dinner on Wednesday for the friends of his son, Captain Edmond King, and Miss Marion Huff, B.A., whose marriage takes place tomorrow at Bloor Street United Church. Miss Huff's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Huff, were former residents of this city.

* * *

Mrs. A. F. Bookhout, president of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church, received the guests yesterday afternoon at a tea and sale of work held under the society's auspices in the Reid street hall. The affair was very successful and well attended. In the tea room, decorations were in yellow, with yellow flowers and yellow candles in silver holders and candelabra. Hallowe'en colors were used in the arrangement of the candy table. Mrs. J. K. Moore poured tea, assisted by Mrs. T. Barrie, Mrs. R. Jackson, Mrs. H. Martin, Mrs R. Powell, Mrs. H. Huffman, Mrs. W. English, Mrs. B. Watts, Mrs. A. Preston and Miss McKnight. Mrs. Albert Barton and Mrs. J. F. Allin had charge of the sale of home-made candy and Mrs. D. Wallace sold cooking and recipe books. An interesting musical program was in charge of Mrs. J. A. Wolstenholm and included vocal solos by Mrs. W. H. Hohner and Miss Olga Huffman, instrumental solo numbers by Miss Musa Cox and Miss Beulah Huffman, readings by Miss Irene Cox and selections by the Greene Trio, composed of Harold McFarlane, piano, Donald Greene, violin, and Jack Thackeray, violoncello.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Liddle, Downie street, entertained the choir and Music Committee of George Street United Church, and several other friends, at their home last evening. After a choir rehearsal, a program of games and contests provided a jolly evening, at the conclusion of which refreshments were served. Besides the choir and committee members present, other guests were Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Todd, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. H. Wallace, Dr. and Mrs. H. M. Yelland, Mr. and Mrs. George Carruthers, Mrs. G. D. Carlisle, Mrs. A. Lillow, Mrs. J. W. Kenmure, and members of Murray street choir who took part with George street choir in the Musical Competitions; Mrs. L. Ingram, Mrs. W. Fitzgerald and Mrs. W. J. Rome.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Tuck-in blouse of men's tie silk worn with flannel skirt.

Life is just one loud don't after another for the fat woman and it does seem too bad to follow her when she goes clothes shopping and whisper in her ear, "Don't on any consideration be induced to buy a tuck-in blouse!" and "Don't think of wearing your sports sweater with the hip band beneath your skirt band."

Still I suppose almost every woman who is inclined to embonpoint knows that the overblouse is kind to her and the tuck-in blouse is not. But I doubt if it has occurred to many of her thin sisters and cousins and aunts that the tuck-in blouse is rather trying to the underweight also.

It's a flapper fashion, I know, and flappers are proverbially thin, but I have seen a number of college girls lately who wore their blouses tucked in who thereby added inches to their height that they assuredly did not need.

Personally I think that a girl has to be very nearly perfectly proportioned to gain anything by following this new fashion, and most girls would do better to wear a decidedly short overblouse or sweater that gives the higher waist that seems so desirable to the younger girls nowadays.

And let me add a word of warning concerning the popular sunburst pleated skirt. Among certain girls last summer and early autumn this type of skirt was greatly admired. It provided the swaying flare that seemed so desirable. But among the smartest of the new clothes pleated skirts are almost always made straight. Flared pleats occur more often at the side only. When the pleated skirt is worn in connection with the tuck-in blouse or short overblouse the pleats are held in restraint at the top either by being stitched down along the edge of each pleat or by a number of horizontal stitchings at the top in the form of a sort of yoke top.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

WELL! Isn't it easy to get into an argument? Almost all one must do is state an opinion on any subject, and one finds a challenger. At the Kiwanis Fair tea room I did just that—state my opinion—and there I was, in the middle of a controversy right away.

* * *

In the course of conversation I remarked how good it is these days to note that hostesses don't feel it necessary to urge a guest to eat a great deal more than the guest desires to eat. A very simple remark—but . . .

* * *

One lady seated at the table took me right up; challenged me to a duel as it were. "I think a guest feels it if the hostess doesn't invite her to make herself at home" said my challenger.

* * *

Which is another thing altogether, but at the same time I gathered her meaning. I well remember when it was the custom to assure those who were already doing ample justice to the refreshments that they were eating no more than canary birds.

* * *

I know that the hostess who became so absorbed in the conversation of one of her guests that she forgot to urge another guest to have a second helping of everything had neglected her duty.

* * *

In my opinion, that sort of thing—the incessant urging—was really as disconcerting to the guest as to the hostess; I think it's a good thing to see the custom dropped.

* * *

It's not "making people feel at home" to urge them to eat more of every dish offered. It's making them feel very awkward indeed.

* * *

The practice to-day, where formal service is not followed, is for the host to serve moderate portions of the meat, and the hostess or other member of the family who dispenses the vegetables also follows the rule of moderate portions. If the vegetables are passed, the guests simply take what they wish without making comments about wanting only a little, or suggestions that too ample provision has been made.

* * *

I admit, of course, that where there are no servants the host and hostess do have to watch their guests to see that they lack nothing. But it is not necessary at a course dinner even informally served to suggest second helpings. If such a suggestion is made, and the guest declines, further urging is inconsiderate and unnecessary.

* * *

As a matter of fact, I think the kindest attitude toward a guest who has a very poor appetite, and has eaten very little, is to say nothing at all about it.

* * *

If she has not eaten because of actual lack of appetite she will be grateful not to have comment upon it; if she has not eaten simply because she has not been sufficiently urged, then the sooner she learns that urging has gone out of fashion the better.

* * *

That's my side of the argument, and if the opposition wishes to carry the argument further I shall be very glad to publish contrary views!

* * *

There's a thrill about Hallowe'en that doesn't come at any other holiday season, I think. Everyone feels free-and-easy and jolly. That's why Hallowe'en parties are so enjoyable—and parties will be easy this year for those who have the help I am offering this week. If you plan a party—if you are even thinking of planning a party—send for this free help, which tells of decorations, games and menus.

* * *

No sooner was the paper out last night than a lady called me to say I had stolen her recipe for salad. I plead not guilty. I simply told about a salad that I enjoyed last week! I'm only too delighted Mrs. M., to have a local name attached to every recipe I print. I'm observant, however, and I pick up a lot of information people don't notice me taking!

* * *

For instance, here's another salad—now, whose is it? Diced cold sweet potatoes, minced celery, chopped hard cooked egg white, and crumbled hard cooked egg yolk. It is mixed with mayonnaise.

* * *

I DO like sweet potatoes!

* * *

Do you remember away back when, in the early days of the Whatnot, I started a series on "Husbands and Wives"? I have two or three contributions on hand, and I will use them soon. Haven't you any experiences along this line that you will contribute?

* * *

Two or three more ideas for Christmas presents to be made at home have come in, but I want MORE. Come on, neighbors, and give us your hints—Christmas is only eight weeks away!

FAVORITE RECIPE.

ORANGE PUDDING.
(Contributed by Mrs. Walter Clarke, of Havelock)

Peel and cut into slices three oranges. Pour over them one cup of sugar. Boil a pint of milk. Add yolk of two eggs and a tablespoon of corn starch well beaten and thinned with a little cold milk. Boil till thickened and pour over the fruit. Beat the whites to a stiff froth and add a tabespoon sugar and spread over top. Brown lightly in the oven. Serve hot or cold. Better cold.

Peaches, strawberries and other fruit may be used in the same way.

PEACH MARMALADE.
(Contributed by Mrs. Offa Williamson, Fraserville)

2 qts. peaches cut fine
1 lemon sliced
1 orange sliced
1 can pineapple

Boil all together 20 minutes then add equal amount of sugar and simmer 20 minutes and seal.

PLAIN TEA BISCUITS.

Dear Marion:

Please send your instructions for little girl's drawers. I like your page very much, especially the recipes. I am enclosing one of mine for Plain Tea Biscuits.

1 egg, beat lightly with 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 tablespoon of pulverized sugar. Add 2 cups of rich cream, then 4 cups of flour sifted with 3 teaspoons of baking powder. Bake in a quick oven.

Mrs. B. B., Chemong Road.

CITRON PRESERVES
(Contributed by E.I.S., Otonabee, for Southend Neighbor)

Slice and cut citron into small squares then for every pound of fruit add a pound of sugar. Boil sugar to a thick syrup and add fruit and sliced lemons for flavoring. Boil till citron is clean and seal.

CITRON PRESERVES
(Contributed by Mrs. W.E.P. for Southend Neighbor)

Cut citron in dice about one inch thick. Boil in water with a small piece of alum till clear and tender. Rinse in clear water. Make a syrup of ¾ lb. sugar to 1 pound of citron. Tie 2 ozs. of ginger root in cloth and boil with syrup. Put in the citron and boil till it can be pierced with a straw. Add 1 lemon sliced to two citrons. Seal while hot.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

Please send me a copy of any recipes you have and also any previous helps you have since the camiknicker. I am not a subscriber for The Peterborough Examiner but I am a reader of the Women's Page and think it is simply wonderful. You helped me greatly for I bought the slip in coral color and made the camiknicker according to the directions you gave me and it looks far nicer than if I had bought it ready made. Also it was much cheaper. I think you must be a wonderful person to be able to be such a cheerful giver. If you need more than a two cent stamp to send me these just slip a note in and let me know and I will willingly send more.

I'm working away from home and I only get the woman's page on weekends, then I read the six papers. Well, I will be closing, hoping to hear from you soon and I wish you and your page every success, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
M. W."

Blaiton

This is, indeed, a recommendation, "M. W.", when you read all six pages at one sitting! I'm delighted to know that the neighbors have been able to help you. I'll be looking for another letter from you soon.

"Dear Marion:

I wish to thank you for the splendid help I get through the Women's Page. I enjoy all your writings and I also have tried a lot of the recipes and find them real good. I see in to-night's paper where some reader wished a recipe for citron preserves so I will enclose mine.

Wishing you every success, I remain,

Yours truly,
E. S."

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

It is a well known fact that some foods have a strong tendency to produces excessive stomach acidity and consequent indigestion. By omitting from daily meals those foods that experience proves do not agree the limiting the diet to certain tasteless unappetizing foods, stomach troubles may in many instances, be slowly overcome. Nine times in ten, however, indigestion, gas, etc., are due to excessive acidity and the premature souring of food in the stomach. Keep the stomach clean and sweet by freeing it of this extra acid and then sufferers can eat the foods they like best and as much as they want in reason and have no stomach trouble at all. Thousands of people do this daily by merely taking after every meal a little Bisurated Magnesia, which can be had at any good drug store in either powder or tablet form. Bisurated Magnesia instantly neutralizes stomach acids, stops food fermentation and meals digest as naturally and painlessly as in the stomach of a healthy child. Stomach comfort means a lot and most folks like good things to eat. Enjoy them both by making Bisurated Magnesia your daily after-eating protection.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE RUSTLING LEAVES

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

After Uncle Wiggily had given Mrs. Bushytail, the squirrel lady, some chestnuts to make a pudding the rabbit gentleman began to wonder what sort of an adventure he would have next.

"If I had my way," said the rabbit gentleman, twinkling his pink nose upside down for a change, "I would wish for an adventure with something funny in it."

"You shall have your wish!" suddenly exclaimed a voice.

"Hello! Who is that talking to me?" exclaimed Mr. Longears, looking around amid the trees and bushes, for he was out in the woods in the crisp October air.

But he saw no one and there was no answer to his question, so Mr. Longears began to believe he had really heard nothing. But it was the wind whispering to the rabbit and what the wind promised really came to pass a little later.

"Yes, I should like a funny adventure," went on Mr. Longears, speaking aloud to see if the voice would answer him again. But he heard no sound more than the whispering wind and rustling dried leaves. For now nearly all the leaves were off the trees where Uncle Wiggily lived in his hollow stump bungalow.

"I wonder," said the rabbit gentleman to himself, "how it would seem to live down in the sunny South, where the leaves never fall off the trees, where there are palms and cocoanuts and pineapples and all that sort of thing and where there is never any winter? I wonder!"

But, then, he rather liked the cold weather after he had grown his thicker winter coat of fur and he did not want to move to the South now. So Mr. Longears hopped along looking for an adventure.

All of a sudden Uncle Wiggily stopped short and stood still. And no wonder. For on the path in front of him was a pile of leaves, and as the bunny rabbit looked at them the pile of leaves began to rustle and rattle and move.

"Oh, ho!" said the bunny rabbit to himself, "here comes an adventure for me and it isn't going to be a jolly funny one, I fear. I think a Bad Chap must be hiding under those leaves and soon he will jump out and nibble me."

Mr. Longears was just going to run away when, all of a quickness, the leaves rustled louder than before and out from beneath the pile came Johnnie Bushytail, the squirrel boy.

"Oh, Johnnie! Whatever are you doing in the rustling leaves?" asked Uncle Wiggily, his heart still beating fast.

"Oh, I was just looking for some hickory nuts or beechnuts," answered the squirrel boy. "I often find nuts under leaves."

"Well, I'm glad you weren't a Bad Chap hiding under them," said Mr. Longears. "Good luck to you!"

So Uncle Wiggily hopped along and Johnnie kept on looking for nuts, and pretty soon Mr. Longears saw another pile of leaves. As soon as he looked at them the leaves began to quiver and shake and rattle.

"Surely there must be a Bad Chap hiding under them!" thought Mr. Longears and he was getting ready to hop away when, all at once, out from beneath the leaves scrambled Tommie Kat, the pussy boy.

"Oh, Tommie! I thought you were a Bad Chap!" gasped Uncle Wiggily.

"Once I was bad, my mother said, when I tipped over my saucer of milk," mewed Tommie. "But I hope I'm good now!"

"Oh, I'm sure you are," said Uncle Wiggily and then, all at once he heard another rustling in the dried leaves of the path and, turning quickly, thinking it was the Fox after him, Uncle Wiggily saw Mr. Twistytail, the fat pig gentleman.

"Oh, I'm so glad to see you!" said the rabbit.

Before Mr. Twistytail could answer a gust of wind blew some of the dried, rustling leaves down the fat pig's neck and they tickled him so that the big, fat animal had to laugh:

"Ha! Ha! Ho! Ho! Tee! Hee!" Oh, how he laughed. He chuckled until he shook all over like a bowl of jelly. And Uncle Wiggily had to laugh also to hear his friend laugh.

"Ah ha! What di I tell you!" softly whistled the wind, blowing more rustling leaves about. "I promise you an adventure with something funny in it, didn't I?"

"You certainly did," answered Mr Longears, knowing now who was speaking. "And it was a most jolly adventure to hear Mr. Twistytail laugh."

Simplon Tunnel Express Collides With Another Fast Train Near Bucharest.

25 IN HOSPITALS.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Thirty-one persons were killed to-day in a collision between the Simplon Tunnel express outbound from Bucharest, and another express train from Sibiu at the little station of Recea, near Slatina. Those killed included an Italian engineer, his wife and daughter, and a Greek passenger. Twenty-five persons were taken to hospitals.

The force of the collision was so great that one of the sleeping cars of the Simplon express was completely wrecked. Two first-class coaches and a baggage and a mail car were smashed.

The identity of the victims has not been established. Those injured were taken to the hospital at Slatina, which is 90 miles west of Bucharest.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Adverse signs dominate in today's horoscope, according to astrology. It is a time to be careful in business and domestic affairs.

There is a sinister sign that seems to indicate destructive rather than constructive planetary influences and for this reason the most positive mental attitude should be maintained.

It is not a lucky day for surgeons or for hospitals. Persons who contemplate submitting to serious operations should await a more favorable configuration, astrologers advise.

There is today an encouraging sign for workers of every class and farmers should benefit.

In certain places real estate transactions should be more profitable while this sway continues.

Winter this year may bring unusual suffering in cities, for there is foretold a serious scarcity of fuel.

Uranus is now credited with arousing a widespread desire for personal freedom which will manifest in many troubles abroad, the seers prophesy.

Mars continues in a sinister aspect that is believed to keep awake the warlike spirit despite peace pacts of many nations, astrologers declare.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE ENJOY AN AUTO RIDE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.
(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

The automobile has certainly made a hit with the American people. Enough automobiles are owned and operated to take care of the whole population. Practically every one in the country could be out riding at the same time. And the sale of new cars is constantly growing. The manufacturers' output is greater now than ever before. A country that can absorb three or four million cars a year must be very fond of it.

[illegible] that impells so many people to sell all they have and purchase an automobile. Motoring is our national pastime and hobby.

Transportation is one of the elements of enjoyment in owning a car. In this respect it is superior to the train and the trolly. These vehicles are confined to rails and must take a definite course. You must go to some station or other designated place to board them. These are serious handicaps. It is inconvenient and undesirable to change and you do not see the country. Moreover there is a world of difference between riding in a public conveyance and a private car of your own. When in your own car you can go as fast or as slowly as you like and go where you like. This greater freedom of choice is in itself one of the chief charms of motoring. It is as though you were riding in a special train and could be your own engineer and conductor if you cared to.

We enjoy an auto ride as a means of quick change of scene and an excuse for being out doors. It is a stimulant and sedative at the same time. We rest from our daily tasks and get our minds off what we are compelled to do for our daily bread.

The driver has the added thrill of mastery over mechanical force. By the merest touch he is master of the strength of a half hundred horses. The passenger in a lesser degree shares the driver's sense of mastery over the forces of nature and the mechanical environment in gliding through space at a rapid rate. The auto is the magic carpet of our dreams.

Why do you do what you do. Ask Dr. Thomson. Write him care of this paper, and send stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

SALE OF ROSES FOR GOOD CAUSE

Health Association Makes Only Public Appeal of Year To-morrow.

MONEY AIDS NEEDY.

The roses will bloom to-morrow regardless of weather. They will bloom for the benefit of those helped by the Health Association. Just remember this is the only appeal the Health Association makes to the public throughout the entire year. This sale of roses takes the place of the sale of stamps which occurred last year at the Christmas season. This is community work in the highest form because it is confined to no certain class but the needy and suffering, regardless of age, race or creed are cared for. The work goes on among the old as well as among the children. It is work that goes on daily, Sundays are no exception, and the weather makes no difference. It goes on in any part of the city wherever needed, and is conducted throughout the entire year.

Few people realize the number of homes that are visited, the amount of suffering that is alleviated, the cures that are effected and the good that is done throughout the twelve months. The members of the Health Association put in their time, money and efforts, and the ladies of the organization will be on the street tomorrow asking you to purchase a rose to enable this work to be carried on. Just remember when you are giving money for a rose you are helping to make the future more rosy for some individual case of suffering who is sadly in need.

SAYS CAVALRY STILL NEEDED

Viscount Allenby Points Out Many Advantages Over Machinery.

FIRE POWER HIGH.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26 (C.P.). — "Modern invention has not yet rendered obsolete the cavalry arms," Field-Marshal Viscount Allenby, at present in the United States, wrote to the Cavalry Journal. The Journal asked the Field Marshal for an expression of his opinion as to the value of cavalry.

Lord Allenby wrote: "The functions of cavalry have, admittedly, been affected by the advance in modern invention.

"Distant reconnaisance has become mainly the business of the air forces.

"Tactful reconnaissance, too, is increasingly being carried out by mechanized means.

"The mounted man of to-day is strong in fire-power. He has, moreover, the assistance of mechanized vehicles to carry ammunitions and warlike stores, thus increasing his mobility.

"He is not invulnerable. He carries no side armor; but he is a small mark and is nimbler than any machine. He is silent as well as swift. The armored vehicle requires oil, water, petrol, in large amounts; spare parts and skilled mechanics to keep it in working order. Except in arid desert, the horse can subsist on the produce of the country. The horse can live and do his work on one good drink in 24 hours; he can stand extreme cold and extreme heat. In hot climates the heat of a tank is unendurable to its crew.

"In broken country, amid rocky hills, ravines, sand dunes, dense brush and forest, mechanized vehicles are hampered in movement and may be brought to a standstill. Cavalry is dismayed by none of such obstacles. Modern invention has not yet rendered obsolete the mounted arm."

MUSIC MEDALS ARE ON DISPLAY

Thirty-six Individual Awards Shown in Schneider's Window.

In addition to the shields won in recent Kiwanis Musical Festival, there are now on view seventeen silver and ninteen gold medals in the wondow of Schneider Bros. HEAR TALK ON BIRDS.

St. John's Men Enjoy Interesting Address By F. J. A. Morris.

A good meeting of St. John's Church Men's Club was held on Monday evening, in the Parish House. The speaker of the evening was J. A. Morris, who gave a very interesting and entertaining talk on some features of Bird Life, particularly the goose; showing that it is quite easy to get false ideas about geese as well as people.

A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Morris for his splendid talk.

Members are asked to keep the third Monday in November free for the annual meeting.

V. Crowley, pleaded guilty this morning in police court to operating a car while under the influence of liquor. The young man who was along with him pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and was fined $25 and $6.50 costs.

Around the City

Within the past few weeks, Ye Olde Firme Heintzman of Heintzman Hall, Hunter street has gained another capable member to its staff in the person of W. E. Foley, former local manager of the J. M. Greene and Company store in Lindsay. Mr. Foley has had a wide range of experience extending over many years in the piano business and should be a decided asset to his new firm.

A bad rear end smash occurred on George street last night about 10.30 when a car driven north on George street by V. Crowley collided with the rear of a car driven by Max Kerneghan of Smith street. Both cars were badly broken, but neither party was hurt.

MANASOO OFFICERS BLAMED FOR WRECK

Master and Mate Lose Certificates, Capt. Demers Decides.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 26 (Canadian Press). — The judgment of Captain L. A. Demers made public today on the investigation of the wreck of the Manasoo, in Georgian Bay, with a loss of fifteen lives, finds the loss due to "bad stowage, indifference, neglect, and carelessness on the part of those in charge."

The certificates of the master, John McKay, and the first mate, Osborn Long, are cancelled. The owners of the ship complied with the regulations, and are exonerated of all blame.

penditure for this will be taken out in stock. The Macot have what is believed to be the extension of the East Bay break. This is a large body of sulphides with some chalcopyrite in disseminated form. There are also several quartz veins on which assays show up to $12.60 in gold.

East Bay

It is understood that a diamond drill campaign is about to commence on East Bay Mines, to the north of Default Lake. The money for this campaign is being put up by some independent mining people who will take stocks for their expenditure. The zone to be diamond drilled is a large mass of iron sulphides. It is hoped that chalcopyrite has replaced the pyrite at depth.

Noranda

The President, J. Y. Murdoch, in a statement to the press last night, stated that the fire in he Noranda coal pulverizer was not of a serious nature and was well under control last evening. Though two explosions took place yesterday, nobody was hurt and the damage was small. It is expected that operations will not be held up for more than a few days.

Calgary Oil Gossip

Imperial will make another attempt to get production on Jumping Pond district. Location will be two miles south of site of first well, 28 miles west of Calgary. Illinois No. 2 filling with mud to overcome largep ressure looks excellent. No. 1 still producing around 100 barrels.

Jackson - Manion

Recenty the press published a very optimistic and glowing account of progress being made in development operations on Jackson Manion. In view of this the sharp decline in Jackson Manion yesterday and today is hard to account for. However, the Street has learned that the old Jackson Manion units are being converted into stock and that this stock is being liquidated on the market by one of the big brokerage houses on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange.

We feel that when this stock is absorbed that Jackson Manion will rally back to the eighties.

The Inter-Provincial Exploration Company Limited

The Interprovincial Exploration Company, Ltd., operating in Ben Nevis Township (which is located about 15 miles north of Dalby Siding on the Nipissing Central Railway between Kirkland Lake and Rouyn) have been rushing work at a high speed during the past Summer a force of fifty men are employed. Recent developments underground point to large ore bodies containing lead, zinc pyrite up to considerable quantities with some copper and gold content up to $4.68 per ton and four ounces in silver. The combined values exceed $30.00 per ton.

The general geology consists of Keewatin volcanics, consisting of rhyolite and andesite brecciated zone in which three and perhaps four prominent fault fractures have been opened up ond otherwise extensively explored on surface. These fractures show lead, zinc and copper sulphide with the lead predominating. The entire area is more or less mineralized with fine grained pyrite.

A three compartment shaft has reached a depth of 335 feet with stations out at 125 feet, 225 feet and 325 feet. Lateral work will be carried on on the various levels immediately. The shaft has been sunk to the South of No. 1 vein which was out at the 110 foot level. Another large orebody was cut for 30 feet at the 225 foot level. At the bottom of the shaft high grade ore was again encountered,

The Directors and Engineers at the property are highly pleased over the discoveries which they regarded as the utmost importance to the future of the property.

Prof. L. D. Huntoon, M.E., has reported favourably on this property. Mr. Andrew Waltz, M. E. who has receitly made an independent examination of this property has reported favourably. He stressed the importance of values obtained on underground development, also a wide vein of disseminated ore which has receitly been exposed 500 feet east of the shaft. Mr. Chas. Sheehan is Mine Manager, Mr. E. A. Robert of Montreal is President. The Head office of the Company is at 437 St. James Street, Montreal.

This Company has been privately financed.

Mrs. Libby Mansfield - By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Author of "Humoresque", "A President Is Born"

EVERY morning Red Mansfield had his breakfast at a little restaurant between his rooming house and the subway, called The Astoria. You could get a "club breakfast" there, two eggs, boiled or poached, toast and coffee, for thirty-five cents. The best breakfast place in town, for the money, Red, who had eaten about all his days, concluded and forthwith made The Astoria his habit.

Libby, the waitress there, liked Red. She was a big, rather lumpy girl, but with a glory of chestnut hair and fine smile that quite outweighed her defect of figure. Red, who had never fancied big girls, found her rather a nuisance. She was so elaborate about opening his eggs for him. The toast which she brought him had been personally supervised by her in the kitchen and frequently there was an extra slice, richly buttered, concealed beneath the paper napkin.

For the most part, Red pretended not to notice, exchanging the time of day with her in the big bluff manner characteristic of him, propping his morning paper up against the sugar bowl, bolting his food and then, with a tossed ten-cen piece and a hurried farewell, dashing for the subway and the large Cocoa firm where he superintended the shipping department.

Red was an incorrigible romanticist. He was a big, finely-built fellow, with a magnificently unruly head of red hair, broad, athletic-looking shoulders and a slouch. Girls took to Red. He took to them, too, but only after a fashion, because deep down in his young and turbulent heart, Red harbored a dream.

Red had it figured out, that somewhere, somehow, destiny had a card up her sleeve for him. A fellow of his Olympian proportion, his heroic kind of personality, must not content himself with the little sparrows of girls who came his way. Girls in the Cocoa factory, girls who came in twos to the dance halls, hoping for someone to cut in, girls like Libby in the restaurant. Red was used to being yearned over by such. The fact that girls in limousines sometimes craned their necks after him as he crossed a street or girls walking into a smart hotel threw him a second glance as he crossed the sidewalk, was what kept alive the fires of the dream that burned in the heart of Red.

And so Red continued to be lofty with the girls who came in twos to the dance hall and to flip Libby the ten-cent coin with the hurried manner and to patronize the one or two girls at his rooming house who were not opposed to stopping in the dark, damp hallways for an exchange of talk, at the hour of going or coming from work.

Red had ideas and ideals. He was not exactly concrete about them. That is, he never visualized the girl of his dreams in terms of complexion, or figure, or hair. He just knew that she was lovely as none of the sparrow-girls of his workaday were lovely. That there was faint perfume to her. That the foot she put out to mount the step of her limousine was long and indescribably narrow and clad in kid softer than gloves. He knew that she had never walked up the brown-stone stoop of a rooming house, or wrapped a pound package of cocoa or superintended the browning of toast.

He knew of handsome young fellows, "gigolos" they were called, who were supported by women older than themselves. Nothing of that for Red. He also knew that it was not unknown in social annals for a girl of position to marry her chauffeur or her swimming master or even her hairdresser. Here it was that Red banked his dream. He did not know how to even make the first wedge, or in what direction lay hope, but it was the secret reason, nonetheless, why no girl of his own circle, and there were plenty who had eyes for him, could so much as seem to capture his passing fancy.

Then one day, probably because he had brought the pressure of will power to play so strongly, chance threw one of the limousine girls with the faint scent to her, and sure enough, narrow blue suede shoes, directly into his path. She had turned to glance after him, and as she turned, a small lap dog which she held in her arms had leaped from them, out of the automobile window, directly into the path of a swift roadster coming from the other direction.

Red had it figured out, that somewhere, somehow, destiny had a card up her sleeve for him. A fellow of his Olympian proportion, his heroic kind of personality, must not content himself with the little sparrows of girls who came his way.

It cost Red a lacerated forehead, a bicuspid and a torn coat sleeve to rise to the occasion and save the pet, which he did with all the heroic gesture of which he was capable. To the cheers of an instantaneous crowd, he was able to hand back the dog intact, into the grateful arms of its charming and half hysterical mistress.

Then romance began to happen. Red was hustled into the limousine, quick orders were telephoned through a tube to the chauffeur and ten mintes later, Red's wounds were being dressed in a canary colored and wistaria bed-room of an Italian Renaissance house in East Sixty-third Street, no more than two houses removed from the Avenue.

It was all as through a glass, fantastically, and yet in another sense, precisely as if the expected were happening. The girl, in a gold-colored negligee, hovering over his bed. The lap dog brought in on a brocaded cushion to repose at the foot of its rescuer's bed. Soft lights. Soft footsteps. Faint perfume. The narrow hand of this girl of the limousine, actually on his forehead like a bar of pure ivory.

In a Venetian bed, beneath canary-colored satin puffs and with a wistaria night light burning at his side, Red spent an ecstatic night. As a matter of fact, the doctor had dismissed him as sufficiently recovered to go to his home, at six o'clock the evening before. But subtly, and with an insistence too privately thrilling to him for words, the girl had insisted that he remain overnight.

The romance had begun to happen. All night, for fear of some of the wonder of it escaping him, Red forced himself to lie awake, drinking in the soft colorings, the insinuation of perfume, the luxurious billowings of soft blankets around him.

Toward morning he fell asleep. It was eleven o'clock when a valet tip-toed in and drew back his curtains, letting in sunshine and awakening Red. It was twelve before he was finished with his bath, in which he luxuriated as if to the manner born. It was after one, as he waited, hoping that she would summon him to lunch with her, when a butler brought him a note. A big, square pad of an envelope, scented, and addressed in violet ink in a flowing hand. A gold piece rolled out as he opened it.

Dear, Grand, Rescuer: Tibby and I send you grateful greetings. The enclosed is a slight token of our appreciation. Before you leave, you must give your address to Peacock, the butler, because I have instructed him that if ever you need a position and apply here, he is to give you either pantry or house-man work, as you prefer.

Gratefully yours,

Alicia Groat.

Next morning, when Red came in for his breakfast at The Astoria, he was something of a shock to Libby, who noticed that his forehead had a criss-cross of adhesive on it.

A strange thing happened them, when she asked him, with her nice eyes flooded with concern, what had happened. He took her hand for answer, and laid a kiss against it.

BOWMANVILLE PLAYS HERE SATURDAY

INTERMEDIATES NEED VICTORY

Petes in Tie With Bowmanville if They Win Saturday's Game.

SENIORS AT COBOURG.

To-morrow afternoon at James Stevenson Park the P.C.I. Intermediates will play in the hardest game of their young lives when they take on the Bowmanville High School team. The Peterborough boys have to win this game or hang up their uniforms. If the Garnet and Grey win they will be tied with Bowmanville at the top of the league and another game on neutral ground will be played to decide the winner of the group. But first Coach Legon's team must win this game to-morrow.

The Bowmanville squad heavily out weigh the Petes, but Coach Legon is certain that with the snappy plays the P.C.I. use they can beat their heavier opponents. Yesterday afternoon in their last big work out they were certainly playing nice rugby. The line was working smoothly clipping the opposition to a man and generally performing in big league style. The P. C. I. have a small yard gainer in Douckas who hits the line hard and Young and Dinisen, a little Dane boy, performs nicely on the line.

Bowmanville took the last game when these two teams met in Bowmanville when they intercepted a long P.C.I. pass and won 7 to 5. But even then the P.C.I. boys had their full share of the play and they have improved vastly since.

All indications point to a hard tussle as there is so much at stake. The locals are well groomed and in fine fettle for the battle.

The Senior Game

The Senior P.C.I. squad journey to Cobourg to-morrow to play the Cobourg Collegiate team. The game will likely take place on the sand dunes of the famous lakeshore beach. The Cobourg team gave the fast Oshawa gang stiff opposition when they played there and will likely extend the P.C.I. team to the limit; but the Garnet and Grey should win the tussle. The whole team was hitting on high yesterday afternoon when they went to hard scrimmage with the Intermediates.

The line-ups that will carry the P.C.I. hopes to-morrow in these two important games are as follows:

Seniors—Snap, Preston; insides, Wiman and Hall; middles, Johnson and Armstrong; outsides, Glover and Westbrook; flying wings, Green and Dunkerley; halves, Hewitt and Cuthbertson; quarter, Gemmel; subs, McGee, Reynolds, Lord and Dearborn.

Intermediates—Snap, McWilliams; insides, Waddell and Best; middles, Fraser and Doukas; outsides Wagar and Ward; halves Young, Braund and Dinisen; subs, Chandler, Gaul, Legon and Irwin.

Bowmanville plays here to-morrow afternoon in an intermediate fixture at James Stevenson Park.

Saturday, October 27th means more than the final day of the week for the P.C.I. squads, for on that day, the two teams meet dangerous opponents in important matches in the collegiate group.

* * * * * *

The seniors have all the confidence in the world of winning their tussle at Cobourg for although the Lakeshore gang put up a stiff battle with the Motor City last week the Garnet and Grey are counted on as strong favorites to win the decision.

* * * * * *

To the intermediate squad goes the responsible end of upholding the school honors. If they do not win the game with Bowmanville here to-morrow, their name is "Mud." A victory will put them in a tie with Bowmanville for first place while a loss means elimination from the running.

* * * * * *

Matched against a much heavier team, Legon's squad are depending on their faster team work along with the yard gaining ability of Doukas to cope off the honors.

* * * * * *

If the local crew are successful in coming out on the long end of the score, another game will have to be played on neutral ground to decide the winner of the intermediate group.

* * * * * *

The Teco club have again come to the fore in sports circles having formed a bowling league composed of eight teams. According to the schedule published to-day, the club are making use of the two public bowling alleys in the city and open the play to-night at the Water Street Academy.

* * * * * *

Senior intercollegiate fans are flocking to the Queen city to witness the Queens-Varsity tussle regarded by many as the most important battle of the season in the gridiron pastime. The Tricolor shows improved form and appear to be all ready for the important game ahead of them with "Bubs" Britton and Eddie Hanford back on the line-up. Britton as leader of the Kingstonians is more determined than ever to get in the game at Toronto in spite of his bad knee.

* * * * * *

Benny Leonard, retired padded glove artist will need his million dollars worth of optimism" he is quoted as having if he intends to make a success of operating a N.H.L. club this year. The Pittsburgh club owner for a starter is faced with two big problems; first, his players are demanding an increase in salary and second, the Corsairs home arena has a seating capacity of only 3,500 persons and promoters claim you cannot make money from crowds of that size. The Pirates have some crack players in their outfit, some of these being much sought after by the other clubs in the league. The Americans seek the services of Roy Worters who is considered the best goal-tender in the loop while other clubs would not be dissatisfied if the names of Milks, Darrah and Drury were registered on their line-ups.

* * * * * *

Because of his multi-millionaire backing there is no danger of Leonard going to the wall, nevertheless we would like to see the man who had the honor of being the retired champion of the lightweight division also make a name for himself among the pro hockey moguls.

* * * * * *

"Babe" Dye, the expensive piece of hockey bric-brac recently purchased by the New York Americans has at least come to terms with the Gotham club and will go into training with the rest of the squad sometime next week.

* * * * * *

It was reported that Dye was expecting more money this year, and he evidently got it. He led the league two years ago in scoring but played very little last year, due to a broken ankle suffered in a pre-season practice.

* * * * * *

Further dissension has come to light in the N.B.A. The State Athletic Commission of Illinois intend following the lead of Canada and other truant states who withdrew from the association last week. Paul Prehn as president of the national body and leader of the Illinois commission has incurred the wrath of the other members of the board for the manner in which the Canadians were treated at the Toronto convention and they have pledged themselves in favor of withdrawal.

* * * * * *

Public repudiation of their chairman in the form of a withdrawal from the supervising organization which he commands would place Prehn in a difficult position. It he cannot control his fellow-workers he could scarcely be expected to continue in the N.B.A. presidency.

TECO ORGANIZE BOWLING LEAGUE

Eight Teams Formed Composed of Employees of Local Store.

The Teco Club, which during the past summer has been active in softball circles and other lines of recreation, has now entered upon its main autumn activity with the drawing up of a bowling schedule, involving eight teams composed of the young men and women employees of the local Teco stores.

Having engaged the Water Street Bowling Alley and several of the Duffus Alleys, each for a night a week, the club has elected eight captains, namely, W. Butcher, B. Reid, M. Board, B. Sexsmith, N. Saunders J. Gilbert, R. Ross, and H. White. The choice of teams immediately followed by the selection of mixed teams, and to-night the schedule will open at the Water Street Alleys.

Following is the schedule (W indicates Water Street Alleys, D indicates Duffus Alleys):

Oct. 26 W.—Board vs. White, Reid vs. Sexsmith.

Nov. 1 W.—Saunders vs. Gilbert, Butcher vs. Ross.

Nov. 6 D.—White vs. Reid, Board vs. Butcher.

Nov. 8 W.—Saunders vs. Ross, Gilbert v. Sexmith.

Nov. 13 D.—White v. Butcher, Reid vs. Board.

Nov. 15 W.—Ross vs. Gilbert, Saunders vs. Reid.

Nov. 20 D.—Gilbert vs. Butcher, Saunders vs. Sexsmith.

Nov. 22 W.—Sexsmith vs. Ross, Board vs. Saunders.

Nov. 27 D.—Board vs. Sexsmith, Reid vs. Butcher.

Nov. 29 W.—Board vs. Gilbert, White vs. Saunders.

Dec. 4 D.—White vs. Ross, Butcher vs. Sexsmith.

Dec. 6 W.—Gilbert vs. Reid, Ross vs. Board.

Dec. 11 D.—White vs. Sexsmith, Butcher vs. Saunders.

Dec. 13 W.—Reid vs. Ross, White vs. Gilbert.

It has been decided to award two points to the winning team each night and two points for total pinnage, and at the conclusion of the schedule prizes will be awarded for women's and men's highest singles as well as the highest three for men and for women.

LEONARD HAS BIG PROBLEM ON HIS HANDS

Former Padded Glove Artist Has Crack Players in Outfit.

SOUGHT BY OTHER CLUBS.

Faced With Jinx in the Form of Small Home Ice Arena.

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, October 26 (Associated Press). — When Benny Leonard retired champion of the lightweight kingdom, stepped into Pittsburgh's hockey situation with a handful of cash, a million dollars worth of optimism, and a fierce desire to get somewhere in a big way, he bought for himself hockey's biggest problem.

Three years ago Pittsburgh had one of the greatest hockey teams in the country in the Yellow Jackets, members of a fast circuit that included Minneapolis, Cleveland, St. Paul, Eveleth, Minn., and Duluth. It was a happy, powerful aggregation, content to rank at the top of the country's amateurs.

Jumped Into Pro. Ranks.

Then the Yellow Jackets, at the start of the 1925-1926 season, jumped from amateur ranks into the National Hockey League, and the Hamilton Tigers switched to New York as the Americans to strengthen and add breadth to the professional circuit. The Jackets turned professional to a man, organized the Pittsburgh Corsairs, and set out to treat the professional game to a dose of the power and speed that had dominated amateur ranks.

In that amateur aggregation were Roy Worters, recognized to-day as the greatest goal tender in the game; Hib Milks, a crack centre who led the team in scoring last season, and Hal Darragh, recognized as the "cleanest" player in the league. Roger Smith, Harold Cotton, Herby Drury, and Tex White helped with the forward line. All signed three-year contracts as professionals and proceeded to shove the Corsairs into two of the three Stanley Cup playoffs for the world championship since their entry.

Now these contracts, entered into then on terms that bulked large to amateurs, have all run out. Professional hockey has added many cubits to its stature, and the game is a financial success everywhere in the United States, but in Pittsburgh. Duquesne Gardens, where the Corsairs play at home, will seat only 3,500 persons, and promoters say you can't make money from crowds of that size.

Ask Larger Salaries.

To a small degree, hockey magnates throughout the National circuit are worried over Pittsburgh's situation, and Benny, master of the jab and get-away in his prime, may have slowed up enough to forget to duck some of the financial onslaughts of his players. No one is worried over Benny's resources, however, for the slightly bald retired champion is said to have Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury and a multi-millionaire, in his corner for this engagement.

There is always the chance that the Pittsburgh franchise may be shifted to Philadelphia.

The New York Americans are interested in the Pittsburgh situation to the extent that they would like to acquire Roy Worters, considered an entire team in himself. Other teams could use Milks, Darragh, Drury, or any one else on a squad that tied three and lost eight of their first eleven games last year, but finished the season third in the American group. The magnates all have been informed, however, that Benny has not forgotten to duck to that extent.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 26.—A quantity of ripe raspberries were picked Tuesday from bushes in a local garden.

The river has been running very high this week, the various creeks overflowing from the recent heavy rains.

Miss Barbara Fennel of Havelock was a visitor with Miss Winnifred Spencer over Sunday.

BEACHES LET UP ON HEAVY DRILL

Hamilton O.R.F.U. Club in Good Shape For Balance of Season.

HAMILTON, Oct. 26.—Balmy Beach with an off day Saturday, are letting up a trifle on the heavy rugby drill this week, but they are going steadily at the play perfecting and conditioning and should wind up their league schedule in flying style. The Beaches are coming along towards the point of strength that is not far behind the championship power of last year. Their big, hard-tackling line is faster and better balanced than the gallant wing collection that bore the brunt of the Tigers' charges in the final last year, and the half-line, though lacking the driving brilliancy of the famous Moore-Cawkell-Foster trio, is even swifter afoot. The Beaches have come back from the hard blows of chance, and once again are a decided titular threat.

Coach Hobbs has his squad worked out now so that he knows exactly where he stands and about how much to expect from each of his players. Ross Robertson, Buck Billings, Red Foster and Alex. McKenzie make a quartet of running back fielders who can alternate in the two catching positions. Earl Smith, the Flying Parson, has a likely-looking understudy in Charley Delahey, at second, defence half. Then there is Bus Lewis, the rather slight but clever performer, who can work into either of these combinations in case of emergency.

Alex. Ponton, the plunging quarter-back, has a smart relief man in the sturdy Frank Northam, who can also take a crack at the punting. Either Ted Reeve or Lou Snider can work at flying wing, and Snider, who is a regular at outside, is such a good line smacker that he may be given a chance to carry the ball even from his end position. At the rover post, of course, he is given plenty of opportunity to handle the spherold.

BASEBALL MOGULS PAY LAST TRIBUTE

Late "Jack" Dunn Deeply Mourned at Graveside By Friends.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 26.—(Canadian Press.)—"Jack" Dunn, owner-manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International Baseball League was buried yesterday while scores of men prominent in baseball circles stood at his graveside.

Floral tributes that overflowed from eight automobiles expressed the sorrow of others throughout the country. The funeral was held from Dunn's home. A requiem mass was said at St. Mary's Catholic church and the burial was in the graveyard adjoining the church.

Among the mourners were: Connie Mack, pilot of the Athletics; Ned Hanlon, former team mate of Dunn; Michael Drennan, scout for the Athletics; Clark Griffith of the Washington club, and J. Conway Toole, president of the International League. Each team in the International and National leagues were represented. A floral tribute from Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis formed part of the huge banks of flowers.

Shop League.

The Stores Department mounted another rung on the championship ladder in their Shop League, by cleaning up on the Production Department in three games. With the clever work of B. Weese, J. Playford and F. Martin this team is gaining points at every performance. Martin piled up a high single score of 304 pins, a record that will take some strenuous work to beat. Weese had a score of 653 for high three.

Coil Winding are still with the leaders of their group due to their good work in taking two from Test No. 1. Calladine was high with 597 while Hall of the Test Men rolled high single 249.

Art. McLeish and his gang of drawing makers pounded the pins in a creditable manner relieving Test No. 3 of two games in which the captain himself gained the decorations with scores of 267 and 668.

The hardest fought battle of the night was staged between the Engineers and Test No. 2, the former winning two games out of three. Benson, captain for the Engineers, stayed in the 200 class with scores of 287 and 614 while Butcher of the Testers was the mainstay of his team with 271 and 620.

Fitters gave Test No. 4 a hot time in a three game argument that resulted in a 2-1 score for the former thanks to the nifty bowling by Craig who set a nice pace with 258 and 591.

Engineering League.

Mechanical Engineers are right up with the leaders now owing to their 8 point gain made when they blanked the Switchboard No. 1 in three games. Benson as usual pushed them over in great style with big scores of 254 and 680. Miss Abbott the only member of the fair sex on the quintette increased her average six points by her scores.

Price Setting No. 1 are still in the lead with 28 points taking two games from the Laboratory and losing the third by a very small margin. J. Copping was the star of his team with 232 pins and J. Barnes rolled 565 for high three.

Mercantile League.

The Little Five captained by Ossie Johnson clashed with the John Sloan aggregation in the first game of the Mercantile League. The Little Five despite their name took the big half of the score, winning two games and losing one, with E. McGee and O. Johnson rolling 241 and 240 respectively for high single. Johnson's score of 547 going for high three. By the way things went last night, I don't mean maybe, when I state that this will be a regular bouncer of a league.

POTATO CROP POOR.

Grain Yield Fairly Good in Roseneath District This Year.

ROSENEATH, Oct. 26.—Threshing is about over in this vicinity and another week will about finish it. Farmers claim their grain yield has been on an average with former years. Owing to heavy rains a few farmers have potatoes undug and are taking advantage of a fine day to dig them. Many complain of their potatoes which have rot, hollow centres and very inferior generally.

Turnips and mangolds are promising a good crop, some of the farmers having commenced harvesting them into their barns.

SHEPHARD IS ONLY HOLD-OUT

"Butch" Keeling, Former Leaf, and Thompson, Not Signed Up Yet.

PLAYERS IN TRAINING.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—The signed contract of Cecil ("Babe") Dye, professional hockey's deadliest sharp-shooter, was received yesterday by the management of the New York American Club of the National Hockey League. Dye, who has been a hold-out since he was purchased by the Americans from Chicago last week, will report next Monday when Tommy Gorman's charges will leave for New Haven to commence training.

Johnny Shephard, recently bought from Detroit, is the only holdout in the American camp now. Gorman will take 25 players for the start of training activities at New Haven, but this number will be whittled down to 12 by the opening of the season.

The New York Rangers are sitting pretty. They have all their stars signed and the players are hard at work at the training camp in Springfield. "Butch" Keeling, purchased from Toronto Maple Leafs last winter, and Thompson, a reserve forward, have not signed as yet, but Manager Lester Patrick is confident of straightening out the difficulties with these players before the week is out.

Judge In London Hits Extravagance

LONDON, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Judge Crawford, who has long been known for his outspoken criticisms of modern extravagance, is in receipt of $7,500 a year. He does not own a motor car and says he has no right to do so on the salary he gets. "There is gross extravagance all around nowadays," the judge declared, "and the great bulk of the people who come into court are living beyond their means. As has been said, 'people marry on credit and live on judgment summonses'."

ILLINOIS TO JOIN CANADA

Two Members of Commission Favor Plan in Order To Oust Prehn.

HEADS CALL MEETING.

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—Dissension among professional boxing organizations affiliated with the National Boxing Association, which has resulted in the secession of the Canadian Boxing Federation and which will probably be followed by the withdrawal of several American States, has taken on a new and ludicrous aspect.

According to word received here the State Athletic Commission of Illinois will follow the deserters next week. A special meeting of the commission has been called and two of the three members of the commission are said to be pledged for a withdrawal.

If the plan goes through, Paul Prehn, chairman of the Illinois Commission, will be placed in a ridiculous position. It was the election of Prehn as president of the N.B.A. at Toronto two weeks ago that precipitated the big row.

Canadians Ignored.

Canadian candidates for office were ignored, and it was charged that Prehn and his supporters had "steam-rollered" the convention.

Prehn's election, it is said, was far from popular with the other two members of the Illinois Commission, Sam Luzzo and Al Mann. Luzzo was an active worker against his candidacy, according to those who are now on the outs with his organization.

Luzzo and Mann hold the balance of power on the Illinois Commission, and they are reported to have decided on an open break with Prehn.

Boxing End Seen.

Advices from Chicago are to the effect that strained relations have existed on the commission ever since the defeat of Governor Small at the primaries. Small appointed the three members of the commission, and it has been understood that a shake-up will be in order when the new political party comes into power.

Prehn has been named as one sure to go. According to one writer well versed in the Illinois situation:

"You can safely term the boxing situation here as shaky because of lack of co-ordination by the commission. My impression is that it will not take much urging to have certain legislators move to kill it."

Meanwhile the secessionists have called a meeting to be held here next week, at which Tom Donohue, former president of the N.B.A., and present commissioner of Connecticut, will preside.

Donohue Is Leader.

Donohue is the leading spirit among the bolters and he will have a lot to say about their future activities. It is said he is in favor of a new organization, which will be affiliated with New York.

In the event the Illinois commission withdraws from the N. B. A., which will amount to a disavowal of Prehn, the Bull Moosers claim it will mean the complete collapse of the organization.

They claim he will be asked to resign the presidency or else all of the loyal States will withdraw.

Miss Margaret Dickson, gold medalist of the Peterborough Kiwanis Music Festival, will sing the test piece of the Special Open Soprano Class, "Loreley," at the concert, Monday night.

STRONG CARD IN FIRST DIVISION

Much Interest in Arsenal Showing—Glasgow Scene of International Match.

ENGLISH SOCCER.

LONDON, Eng., Oct. 26.—First division soccer in England recently has produced almost weekly a crop of most unexpected results and it would be a bold prophet who can claim to predict what will be the outcome of the matches next Saturday. The strongest set of attractions is on the card since the season opened. In a bunch are the following matches between clubs all well placed in the top half of the averages and all struggling for points: Blackburn Rovers, league leaders at present, and West Ham United; Derby County and Burnley; Everton and Leeds United, and Manchester City and Leicester City. Arsenal, who have begun to buy great players, will be closely watched in their match with Liverpool as the London Club let themselves get left behind in the early games Should Run To Form.

In the second division the leaders on form should win. Those are as follows: Southampton. Notts County travel to Bristol City, but their task would not appear to be too formidable. Hull City go to Clapton Orient.

League football must take a back seat in Scotland on account of the international match between Scotland and Wales which is being staged at Ibrox Park, Glasgow.

I.O.D.E. SENDING BOOKS TO NORTH

57th Regimental Chapter Will Furnish Set of Canadian History.

DRAW FOR QUILT.

The regular meeting of the 57th Regimental Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held yesterday afternoon in the Armories, the regent, Mrs. R. Cottrell, presiding.

It was decided to send a set of books on Canadian History to one of the isolated schools in Northern Ontario an dalso to furnish school books for a girl scholar in the city.

It was also decided to hold the annual Armistice tea of the Chapter at the Armories, on November 9th. At this tea, the draw will be made for a quilt made and presented to the Chapter by Mrs. M. McNabb.

Mrs. W. L. Sharpe reported on 18 visits made to the hospital during the past month.

At the conclusion of the meeting, tea was served by Mrs. W. G. Hall, Mrs. B.B. Gillespie and Miss L. Belleghem.

THEATRES

AT THE REGENT.

The management of the Regent Theatre, announcing another showing of the big super-picture, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which is to begin Monday night, is confident that the new presentation of the gigantic film production will occasion even greater response than was displayed during the first showing in this city, when waiting crowds had to be turned away from some performances for lack of standing room.

The general opinion of the picturization of the great Hugo masterpiece, expressed on all sides after the local premier, left no room to doubt that it was hailed as a film drama that would "live," and repeated presentations have not seemed to dim the alurement of the mammoth movie in the eyes of theatre-goers.

"The 'Hunchback' is not like other films," he said. "It's one of the few pictures ever produced that people wan to see again and again. The book has been a favorite for nearly a century, and the picturization is a classic, too."

THE RING.

NEW YORK, October 26. — More and more suspicion is growing that this young "Tuffy" Griffiths, of Chicago, must be a real good fighter. Another top-notcher turned him down—Jack Delaney.

Probably as a reward for his good judgment, Delaney was matched with Leo Lomski instead. The bout will take place at the Garden some time during December, and the winner will meet Tommy Loughran for the light heavyweight title in January.

Meanwhile, Griffiths will be dropped from the Garden program. He is signed for November 30, but no one will fight him. "Tuffy" must be well named.

Tom McArdle is preparing a brand new card for the November date. He has signed Lou Moscowitz and Al Singer in an eight-rounder as a starter.

LIBERAL WINNER IN BY-ELECTION

Dr. J. T. Waugh Wins Arm River Seat in Saskatchewan House.

REGINA, October 26. — Dr. J. T. Waugh, Liberal, of Imperial, Sask., yesterday was elected to represent the constituency of Arm River in the Provincial Legislature.

In a by-election in that constituency Dr. Waugh defeated Stewart Adrian, Conservative nominee, by a majority of 53 votes. In 1925 the Liberal majority was 308.

The election followed the resignation of Hon. George Scott, who was appointed to a Federal Government post in Saskatchewan.

In the 1925 general election, Dr. Scott was elected by a majority of 308 over Dr. Adrian. The vote then was: Scott 1,799, Adrian 1,491.

The standing of the parties in the House remains unchanged as follows: Liberals 52, Progressives 6, Conservatives 4, Independent 1.

CHARLOTTE STREET

Long years ago, when bustles were all the vogue, and men boasted of their "coach and four" the sons of little old New York were famous for their comfort and good cheer. The Victoria, today, is proud to follow that same tradition of true hospitality.

THERE'S a FAMOUS Tradition BEHIND the NEW VICTORIA!

It's a smart hotel, of course—you're proud to say, "I stopped at the Victoria!" It's convenient, certainly—you're in the very heart of the theatrical and business and shopping districts! But above everything else, you'll remember your stay at the Victoria for its old-fashioned courtesy, its warm hospitality!

NOW OPEN

Rooms with Bath, Shower, Sunlight, Running Ice Water, Servidor $3.00 a day.

Toronto Prices Move Up In Active Session To-day

TORONTO, Oct. 26. — (Canadian Press.) — In active trading prices moved into higher ground on the Toronto stock exchange today. Advances were most noticeable on the curb section and firmness was the prevailing note on the listed sections.

Hiram Walkers broke all previous records when it touched a high mark of 80 after opening with a record high of 79. At noon the price had laped to 79 again, a net gain of a point. Sales of Walkers totalled more than 12,000 shares. English Electric Preferred stepped up seven points to 96.

International Nickel showed strength early in the session and sold up to 177, but at noon it was down to 174, a drop of one from yesterday's close. Massey Harris was also down a point at 52½. Brazilian was unchanged at 70. The Laura Secord stocks continued to advance. The preferred jumped eight to 148 and the common was up a point at 49. Carlings was very active to-day, advancing two to 35¾, while Seagram was up 1 7-8 at 20 7-8.

British American Oil advanced 1½ to 46.

Wheat and Corn Go Up On Good Export Business

CHICAGO, Oct. 26. —(Canadian Press)—Higher prices both for wheat and corn developed early today. The unexpected firmness of Liverpool wheat quotations, together with the absence of selling pressure here, strengthened wheat and there was talk that further export business in corn had been done overnight. Opening ⅛ to ½ higher, Chicago wheat reacted a little and then rose higher than before. Corn started ⅛ to ¼ up and held near to the initial figures. Oats were steady.

Opening prices were—Wheat, December, 113½, March 118¾. Corn, December, 81¾, March 83¼; Oats, December, 43¼, March 44.

Stock Market Firm Despite Dear Money

NEW YORK, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—The stock market displayed a firm undertone to-day in the face of the recurrence of eight per cent call money, and an increase of $107,000,000 in brokers' loans. Buying was against selective in character, but a long list of merchandising, copper, public utilities, and aeronautical issues registered substantial gains, several of which ran from four to twelve and a quarter points. Call money renewed at 1½, but advanced to eight as banks called $20,000,000 in loans.

Considerable stress was laid in commission house comment on the excellent character of the large majority of earnings reports now being published. This, together with the fact that no signs of any marked recession have yet developed in any of the basic industries, helped to maintain bullish enthusiasm. A further advance of a quarter of a cent a pound in the price of export copper brought fresh buying into that group. The oils were mixed. Maryland moved into new high ground.

Noranda and Jackson Feature Mine Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 26 (Canadian Press).—Strength in Noranda and weakness in Jackson Manion were features of an active session of the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Outside of these stocks price changes were for the most part negligible. Noranda reached a high mark of 58.50, but receded to around 47.10 at noon for a net gain of 1.60 a share. Jackson Manion had the heaviest turnover of any stock on the board, selling down nine points to 65. A fair number of stocks declined slightly, among them Barry Hollinger, two points lower at 37, Teck Hughes, down five at 8.65, Tough Oakes, a point lower at 12, and Wright Hargreaves, down ten at 3.80. Amulet, on a big turnover lost eleven points to 3.06. The Western issues were generally stronger, led by Hudson Bay, which gained 25 cents to 19.00. Pend Oreille firmed 38 to 13.38. Other firm spots were Malartic, up nine at 1.30, Mond Nickel, up 14 at 33.00, and Lake Shore, up twenty at 20.80.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

A wire from Sudbury states that the Falconbridge Mines' No. 1 drill hole cut 125 feet of nickel-copper mineralization, of which six feet is said to be very high grade.

Drifting operations on the 250-foot level of the Bathurst are said to have been successful in encountering very high grade ore. While dimensions were not contained in the report, it was stated that widths were better than ten feet.

Kirkland Lake advices are to the effect that Trout Creek Mines have started diamond drilling to test the new surface discovery which was made recently. This company is now offering stock to the public at 90 cents a share.

Recent surface work at the Baker-Patton property of the Flintoba Mines is reported to have been successful in locating two new veins. The new veins are about 900 to 1,000 feet from the original discovery and both contain massive chalcopyrite with good amounts of disseminated chalcopyrite. The finds have been traced for several hundred feet by a system of cross trenches and the schisted zone in which they occur has been arced for over three miles. About twenty-five men are now engaged and this will shortly be increased to about 35.

Opinion on the street seems to be that Lake Shore will declare a bonus of 20 cents at the coming annual meeting. This company's fiscal year ended last June, and the annual meeting should be held soon.

Buying has appeared on the market for Central Manitoba shares and our Winnipeg correspondent wires that these orders are emanating from that centre. Developments at the property are favorable and millheads are on the up, while costs are slowly decreasing. The mill is operating very smoothly and from now on concentrates will be cyanided instead of being stored as was formerly the case. An example of the mill efficiency is seen in the fact that during September tailings averaged about 65 cents, while for the first fifteen days of this month these were brought down to an average of 40 cents.

Canada's Master Coup—International Nickel

The Finance Times this week will say:—

"In days to come, the Nickel deal will often be referred to as the greatest coup ever pulled off by Canadian financial interests. In the light of what has happened and more especially in face of the opposition that came from New York at various times, what has occurred is little short of marvellous.

"A few years ago, it would have been regarded as absolutely beyond the power of Canadians to engineer anything of the kind. It caught the New York crowd absolutely by surprise and many of the interests who went short of the stock in the 60's and 70's even to-day are unable to understand how anybody in Canada could have been in a position to finance the deal or work it out in a way to make possible what is occurring in the way of a merger, and reorganization of capital.

"Of course, at the time accumulation for Canadian account started, even the Canadians themselves who were most active in it did not have any idea of the present developments in mind, but were satisfied there were great possibilities for larger earnings seen. Along the contact there is a narrow vein of gossan with much iron rust. Work is now proceeding to determine the nature of mineralization below the oxidized zone.

An east and west quartz vein has also been discovered on this group which has been traced for the entire length of one claim. It has a width of from two to four feet and shows some sulphide mineralization.

Recently it has been stated that Astoria Rouyn's treasury lacks sufficient funds to continue operations. We can officially say that there is approximately $75,000 in Government bonds and in the bank to the credit of this company, as well as 2,000,000 shares of treasury stock.

Through Selloway, Mills & Company

Evangeline

This company, which took over the Calumet property near Lake Fortune, has completed the surface work for this season. It is intended to put on a diamond drill campaign during this winter to connect up two separate showings of massive chalcopyrite some four hundred feet apart and try to get some extensions of same. In one place the chalcopyrite had a width of thirty inches. It is contained in a sheared zone five hundred feet wide. This is to the west of Mac. Donald Lake. To the east of the lake, there is a quarts vein about eight feet wide, opened by cross trenches. A test pit was also put down and some sampling done. Values were found to be eratic running from $1.00 to $20.00 to the ton. This will also be diamond drilled during this coming winter.

PRESCOTT HARBOR PROJECT TO COST $5,000,000

WILL FINISH PROJECT BY SPRING 1930

Public Works Department is Calling For Tenders About December 1.

TO COST $5,000,000.

Prescott Will Be Transfer Point For Lake and River Traffic.

OTTAWA, Ont., October 27. — The first step in the $5,000,000 harbor and port development at Prescott will be taken about December 1, when the Department of Public Works will invite tenders for the construction of docks at an approximate cost of $2,000,000.

Work on the construction will begin in January and will be carried on throughout the winter months. There will be provided employment for more than 1,000 men.

Working Out Location.

Engineers now are working out the location of the docks. Final decision will not be arrived at for several weeks as some property must be expropriated.

While the docks are being constructed tenders will be called for the erection of grain elevators at a cost of more than $2,500,000. These can be constructed in seven or eight months, but as the Welland Canal will not be completed before 1930, there will be no rush in the work.

It now appears that the whole terminal facilities at Prescott can be completed by next fall and that in the spring of 1930, when the Welland Canal is completed, the flow of shipping will begin.

Will Be Transfer Point.

By that time Prescott will be the transfer point for traffic coming down the lakes and the St. Lawrence by ships whose capacity is too large for the smaller St. Lawrence canals, thus necessitating trans-shipment.

CANADIAN GENERAL BUSINESS INCREASED

Net Earnings Above 1927, Increase in Orders Booked and Sales Billed.

Operating results of the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. for the year 1928 compare favorably with those of the same period of last year, orders booked, sales billed and net earnings all showing improvement over the figures for 1927, was the statement made by President D. C. Durland.

Mr. Durland stated his company has sufficient volume of unfilled orders on hand to insure operation of the company's manufacturing plants on a satisfactory basis for several months to come.

The general prosperity in Canada with the consequent stimulation of industrial activity has created a much larger demand for electric power. The output of the General Electric stations in Canada for the first seven months of 1928 was 8,976,000 kilowatt hours, as compared with 7,788,000 for the corresponding period of 1927, an increase of over 15 per cent. This increase in electric power demand has necessitated the expenditure of large sums for generating and distributing equipment, as well as increased purchases of motive machinery and electrical supplies for the utilization of the power generated.

The large building program underway in Canada has also created a big demand for electric wiring supplies and devices, incandescent lamps, etc., while the ever increasing use of electricity for domestic purposes is enlarging the market for refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners and heating and cooking appliances.

In the field of entertainment radio is occupying an increasingly important part with consequent greater sales of radio receiving sets, particularly the batterlyless or socket power sets, concluded Mr. Durland.

OIL SHALE AND TAR SANDS.

Canada has vast resources of oil shale and bituminous sands, the former occurring in the Maritime Provinces and the latter in Alberta. These deposits have long been considered as potential sources of products generally obtained from crude petroleum. As a result of recent modifications in refining methods these raw materials may now be seriously considered as sources, to be drawn upon when needed, to help in supplying the rapidly increasing demand for motor fuel.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press)—The treatment for insanity, imperfect yet temporarily effective has been demonstrated by two doctors of the University of Wisconsin.

Two persons, considered hopelessly insane, were wakened from their stupors for several minutes yesterday by Dr. W. F. Lorenz and Dr. A. S. Lovenhart, after inhaling gas as prescribed. The patients were able to talk rationally, answer questions intelligently and move and act normally for some time.

CHIEF NEWHALL TO REPRESENT ASSOCIATION

In Toronto To-day Attending Funeral of Late Inspector Wallace.

PAYS TRIBUTE.

Chief Constable Went To Colorado Springs Last Spring With Deceased.

Chief of Police S. Newhall, who is in Toronto to-day, attending the funeral of his friend, the late Inspector William Wallace, is also representing the Chief Constables' Association of Canada on this occasion, having been requested to do so in a wire from the president, Chief Ritchie, of Calgary. The funeral took place to-day from the late residence of the Inspector at 217 Fern avenue.

In speaking of the late Inspector Wallace, Chief Newhall remarked that through his death, Toronto had lost one of its most efficient and courteous police officers.

"His place will be hard to fill," said the Chief. "We have worked together and travelled together for over a quarter of a century. Our last trip was in June, when we went to Colorado Springs. There were four of us there who made a record unknown before on the continent. We had one hundred and sixty years of police service between us. Chief Dave Coulter, of Hamilton, had seen half a century of police work, ex-Chief Dixon, of Toronto, and the late Inspector Wallace had thirty-eight years apiece, and I had thirty-four years.

"There will be plenty of crooks resting more easily in Toronto now that Inspector Wallace is gone," concluded the Chief, characteristically.

MID-WEST TRIP IS CANCELLED

Officers and Men of Graf Zeppelin Prepare To Leave For Germany.

STARTS SUNDAY.

LAKEHURST, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press.)— Officers and crew of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin today prepared for their return trip to Germany with the prospects favorable for a start on Sunday. The cancellation of the mid-west trip permits the start on return voyage within the two weeks limit set by Dr. Hugo Eckener on his arrival.

Although the Graf Zeppelin will carry enough fuel for 120 cruising hours at full speed, the return voyage is expected to take only 50 to 60 hours, as the great circle course will be followed.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—Pressure is high over the Great Lakes and Eastern States, also over the northwestern portion of the continent, while a very shallow trough of low extends from Manitoba southward to the Gulf of Mexico. The weather has been fair and cool in nearly all parts of the Dominion.

Lower Lakes and Georgian Bay—Moderate east and southeast winds; partly cloudy and cool; followed by scattered showers toward night.

IMAGINATION IS REQUIRED FOR SUCCESS

Declared Walter Howard at Underwriters' Banquet Last Night.

SPLENDID ADDRESS.

"Enthusiasm Is That Which Brushes Aside All Obstacles," Defines Speaker.

"Imagination and enthusiasm are absolute needs in a man if he is to succeed in any business, profession or calling" said Walter Howard in speaking to the Peterborough branch of the Life Underwriters Association last evening at their banquet at the Empress Hotel. "The man must visualize the future as it may be and go ahead and produce that which he has seen in his mind," said Mr. Howard. "Imagination fans the flame of enthusiasm and the two together lead a man to success in any calling he may choose to enter. The artist plans his picture in his mind before touching brush to canvas; the crook premeditates his crime if he is to be a successful crook. All must have some picture of what they are working to accomplish. Lacking imagination a man is handicapped.

"Enthusiasm is that which brushes aside all obstacles in efforts to obtain or build that which has been imagined," continued the speaker. "The Kaiser's dream was so marvelous and his enthusiasm so contagious that he lined millions up behind him in a forlorn hope. This is enthusiasm misdirected."

"Enthusiasm in selling is the force that makes the prospect sign on the dotted line, but before the salesman can have that true positive enthusiasm he must believe in himself and the thing that he is selling. If you do not believe in the company you are working for you are better a hundred times out of it," explained the speaker.

Mr. Howard then went into an inspiring talk on insurance explaining that he thought that outside of the church, insurance was doing more to help mankind over their trials than any other one thing. All the Insurance Companies have started from small beginnings and have had romantic histories enough to grip any man's imagination. "American insurance statistics stated last year that there were something over twenty billions of doars invested in Insurance policies by over sixty-five millions of people," said the speaker. "The Insurance companies must pick out the best forms of investments to invest the people's money given to them in premiums and they have supplied the necessary capital to help the growth of many sound businesses and developments that never could have succeeded without this financial backing. In this way by wise investments the Insurance companies have helped the growth of the country."

"In a speech made at the great International convention of the Life Underwriters Association M. A. Linton subjected the Insurance policy to the known tests of an investment to discover its weakness or strength and the Insurance policy ranked high on each of the tests," concluded Mr. Howard.

T. H. Hogwood, manager of the group department of the Canada Life, gave an interesting discussion of the group Insurance plan. In this idea of Insurance the employer pays part of the premium and the employee pays out of his weekly envelope a sum amounting to sixty cents a month.

Joseph Morrison Struck By a Car at Factory To-day.

CUT IN HEAD.

Joseph Morrison, of 209 Dalhousie street, a foreman at the C.G.E., received injuries requiring medical attention when he was struck by a motor car at noon to-day.

Mr. Morrison was coming out of the C.G.E. when he was thrown to the pavement by a car driven by a man residing outside the city. He suffered a bad gash on the back of his head and was hurriedly rushed away in the car that struck him. Mr. Morrison is a foreman in the punch press department.

Newspaper Prints One Lone Edition For Aged Mother Whose Daughter Was Murdered in Illinois Town

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27.—(Canadian Press).—"A school teacher in an Illinois town was brutally murdered. The circumstances of the crime were unpleasant. The newspaper of the town had to carry the story because knowledge of the crime was general. But for the mother of the slain teacher—a woman, nearing eighty—the paper printed a single copy, changing the story to state that her daughter was killed in an automobile accident and thus sparing the mother of details it would do her no good to learn. These hard boiled editors!" says the "Quill" an American magazine devoted to the work of newspaper writers.

It has a word of advice for young men and women seeking work after graduation: "To the hundred knocking at the doors of newspapers and magazines we would say: Don't try to do it all the first year; see your own country before you settle down; get acquainted with its cities before you specialize. Do a certain amount of creative writing every day, and read at least one new book a week."

TWENTY KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK

Simplon Orient Express Crashes Into Bucharest Special in Darkness.

MANY INJURED.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press). — Twenty people were killed when the Simplon Orient express, one of the world's most famous trains, bound from Bucharest to Paris, racing through the darkness at sixty miles an hour, crashed into the Hermanngstadt - Bucharest express near the town of Recea at 2 o'clock yesterday morning. From twenty to thirty persons were seriously injured.

Two of the killed are believed to be Arnold Ehrlich, a merchant of Chicago, who was proceeding to Bucharest, and Alexander Herschler, general manager of the Wahl Eversharp Company of New York.

The crash, which is attributed to a defective switch, was one of the worst in recent years. Many of the injured it is feared will die. Twenty-one of the dead are Rumanians.

To add to the horror of the disaster, the passenger coaches of the two trains which were telescoped, caught fire and many of the passengers were burned to death. The engineers and firemen of both trains were instantly killed, and the man in charge of the switches is said to have committed suicide.

In the darkness there was indescribable confusion, and rescue work was more difficult. It was daylight before any of the victims could be extricated.

UNVEILING DATE IS POSTPONED

Committee Found It Impossible To Get a Speaker For Armistice Day.

CEREMONY IN SPRING.

At a well-attended meeting of the Citizens' War Memorial Committee held last evening, it was definitely decided to postpone the unveiling of the monument now in course of erection in Confederation Park until a date to be arrived at some time next spring. This was found advisable when the Program Committee reported through its chairman, His Honor Judge Huycke, that it was impossible to secure the presence of any of the outside speakers for the 11th of November, or in fact for any date this fall. In addition, the Memorial is incomplete, and the weather not to be depended on. It was unanimously felt that conditions would be much more favorable in the spring, so that the unveiling could take place in a manner in keeping with the excellence of the Memorial.

PLANNING DANCE.

Teco Club Will Hold Hallowe'en Party at Chemong Pavilion.

The Teco Club is planning a very jolly Hallowe'en party for next Tuesday evening. It will be held at the Chemong Pavilion, which will be decorated for the occasion with Hallowe'en colors and autumn fruits and grains. Ferdie Mowry's orchestra will provide the music for dancing, which will include many novelty numbers. A general invitation is extended to all interested.

POULTRY IS PLENTIFUL

Chickens Sell at 28 to 30 On Local Farmers' Market.

EGGS SCARCE.

There was a crowded market this morning which kept the prices very firm. The tables were lined with poultry in good quality for this time of year.

Chickens were selling at 28 and 30 cents; ducks at 33 and 35 cents, and geese at 28 and 30 cents. Eggs were not plentiful and were commanding high prices at 50, 55 and 60 cents, depending on the grading. Butter was going at prices ranging from 43 to 48 cents.

There was a large vegetable market outside, and business was very brisk. The better grades of eating apples were priced at: McIntosh Reds, 50 cents a peck. Snows at 40 cents and Wealthies at 50 cents. High grade cooking apples were 40 cents a peck. Fine winter apples were $6 and $8 a barrel. Pickling pears were selling for 50 cents a peck and fine ripe eating pears were priced at $1 a large basket. Good potatoes were selling for $1 and $1.25 a bag. Cauliflowers, depending on the size, were priced at 15 and 25 cents each.

Pork was selling by the quarter at: hind quarter 20 cents a pound, and front quarter at 18 cents. Lamb was 25 cents for front quarter, and 28 cents for hind. There was no beef on the market. There were several crates of young pigs six weeks old priced at $10 and $11 a pair.

BAND CONCERT AT MARK STREET

Salvation Army Band Renders Concert in Aid of Building Fund.

The Band of the Salvation Army presented a very enjoyable program of music at Mark Street Church last night, in a benefit concert given by them in aid of the building fund of the church. Bandmaster Robinson was in charge and the music was played in the swinging, tuneful manner that characterizes the band's presentations at all times. The players were cordially thanked by the pastor, Rev. A. E. Thornley, at the conclusion of the program, and Bandmaster Robinson, in reply, promised to repeat the musical treat at some future time.

The band selections included some snappy numbers: "Carry On" being the opening selection, followed by "The Banner of Liberty," "While the Days are Going By," and several other selections.

Readings by Benjamin Green were loudly encored, as were the vocal selections by the band in unison and in solo by Victor Lang.

A quartette, composed of Messrs. Robinson, V. Lang, S. Richardson and M. Shadgett, gave some very enjoyable selections, and Ensign Green gave a Scripture reading.

SIX ARE KILLED.

Glaring Headlights Blind Driver at Sharp Turn in Road.

MARTINEZ, Calif., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The apparent failure of the driver to see a sharp turn in the highway because of blinding headlights on an approaching car, resulted in the deaths of six persons, all of Berkeley, when their motor car plunged over a 75-foot bluff at Tormey, near here, last night. Five were women and one man.

DESPERADO CLEARS OUT WITH $10,000

Covers Teller While Demanding Money Written On Slip of Paper.

POLICE ON LOOKOUT.

Man at Next Desk Unaware Anything Unusual Had Happened.

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27—(Canadian Press).—In a daring robbery a lone bandit obtained approximately $10,000 in cash from the Portage Avenue and Carlton street branch of the Royal Bank of Canada here yesterday afternoon.

The desperado, who was described as about 25 years of age and unmasked, entered the bank shortly before closing time and walked up to the Teller's wicket. Teller John Resch was making entries in a book, having just completed attending to some customers when the man appeared before the wicket and shoved through a slip of paper. On the paper was written: "Hand it over. You are covered,"

Resch looked at the stranger and noticed a large calibre gun protruding from a parcel he carried in his hand. Without further hesitation he shoved the money he had in front of him at the time across the counter.

The bandit scooped up the money and walked out of the building. Resch grabbed the revolver which he kept in the cage and pulled the trigger half a dozen times but each time the gun failed to go off. "I had him covered all the way," said the teller, "but the gun wouldn't work."

W. R. Scott, working at the next wicket nearest the door, was unaware that anything was amiss until he heard Resch's revolver clicking frantically. A. V. Rae, at the accountant's desk, was also between the door and the teller's cage, and he too, was ignorant of what was transpiring.

The alarm was diven as soon as the robber passed through the door. Through some misunderstanding the police rushed to the branch of the bank on Portage Avenue and Sherbrook street, so that there was some little delay in arriving at the actual scene of the holdup.

COMMANDERS COME TO CITY

Major and Mrs. Ritchie, From Toronto, Visit Salvation Army.

PLANS SOCIAL

The local Salvationists will be greeting Major and Mrs. H. Ritchie, the Toronto East Divisional Commanders, who will be here conducting a special series of services this weekend, commencing to-night at 8 o'clock. They will be accompanied by Ensign Mildred Adby, head nurse of the Salvation Army Women's Hospital, Bloor Street E., Toronto. She is the daughter of the Territorial Young People's secretary, Colonel R. Adby, who is also one of the outstanding prayer meeting leaders of the Salvation Army in Canada. Major Ritchie, it will be remembered, visited the city some months ago, and received a civic welcome by Mayor R. Denne. However, this is the initial visit of Mrs. Major Ritchie and all the local soldiery, recruits, converts, and adherents are determined to accord her a hearty welcome so characteristic of Salvationists. There will be an enrolment of young people to-morrow afternoon from junior soldiership to the senior roll. The Major will conduct the ceremony. The singing of Major and Mrs. Ritchie with his guitar accompaniment will be a pleasing feature.

On Thursday next, at 5 p.m., in the local Temple, the Salvation Army will be entertaining, through the kindness of Mr. George Poulter, Montreal, all residents of the city who have reached the age of 70 and over. Tea will be served, following which a program will be rendered by the veterans of our city. It is expected that in addition to Mr. George Poulter, an early Christian missioner, Colonel and Mrs. C. T. Jacobs and Brigadier and Mrs. Frazer of Toronto, who were in charge of Army work in this city thirty years ago, will be present for the occasion.

Ensign E. H. Green states that his invitation is extended to all

Dirigible Ready To Start Back Late On Sunday

LAKEHURST, N.J., Oct. 27.—Officials of the naval air station late yesterday announced that a ground crew had been ordered to stand by at five o'clock Sunday evening prepared to start the trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin on its return flight to Germany.

Lieut.-Commander Zeno H. Wicks, naval officer in charge of fueling and inflation of the airship, who took charge of that work when plans for a flight to the middle West were abandoned this noon, expected to have the craft ready for flight Sunday noon. He said he would pump 735,000 cubic feet of blue gas and 140,000 cubic feet of hydrogen into the air liner's fuel and lift cells.

Two tons of gasoline and a quantity of antifreeze solution for the ship's motors will also be laded.

NATURALIST PURCHASES SANCTUARY

Belleville Bird Lover Buys a Three Hundred Acre Farm.

WELL PROTECTED.

Is Flooded With Letters of Indignation About Vandals Act.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 27.—Wallace Havelock Robb, naturalist, has acquired a three hundred acre sanctuary.

"I have located a place where I will run a well protected sanctuary privately. It is three hundred acres in extent and is a real paradise for birds. There are already wild geese upon it and I shall endeavor to propagate them, and if successful shall give Mr. Walter Turner some stock for the Belleville sanctuary."

Referring to the recent shooting of the tame Canada geese at the sanctuary north of the city, Mr. Robb said: "The reaction I had was a poet's reaction, expressing sorrow. I have every regard for the bird lovers of Belleville, they gave me their sympathy.

"I have been flooded with letters of congratulation and sympathy and indignation from all over the Province of Ontario."

Mr. Robb has not made public the location of his new sanctuary into possession of which he has come.

Baldwin Denies Story

No New Engagements Have Been Made, Declares Premier.

STRENGTHEN RELATIONS.

Always On Most Friendly Terms With Italy For Generations.

(By Henry Somerville, Special Correspondent).

LONDON, Oct. 27.—Premier Baldwin, in a speech at a great meeting of the League of Nations Union at Albert Hall, denied that the British policy has turned away from Locarno to become entangled exclusively with France. "I must contradict the idea," he said, "that has gained currency in some quarters, but for which there is no shadow of foundation that we to some extent have abandoned our position of impartiality and conciliation which we assumed at the time of the Locarno pact.

"We have not made any new engagements. There is no change in orientation of our policy. Our intentions and inclinations prompt us to preserve and even strengthen the cordiality of our relations with Germany, as well as with France. With Italy we have been on most friendly terms for generations, and nothing has occurred or will occur to interrupt that friendship."

Premier Baldwin's clear statement is reassuring at least to those of his own party who feared that the government was losing sight of the Locarno pact, and though it may not satisfy critics of other parties it will prevent the question of foreign policy becoming an election issue.

The Premier deplores the existence of suspicion of this country. We haven't any intention of naval building in competition with America," he declared.

Lord Cecil, who followed Premier Baldwin, probably was thinking of the Admiralty when he questioned whether all the Prime Minister's colleagues were equally wholehearted in renouncing thoughts of war.

RACES CONTESTED AT SWIMMING MEET

Y.W.C.A. Holds Its Weekly Swimming Meet—Records Made.

The weekly swimming meet was held at the Y.W.C.A. pool last night. The various races were keenly contested and each week sees new records established. In the senior speed tests Doris Rogers held first place and cut her own record 1½ seconds.

Gladys Johnson took second place. In the junior race Mary Kingsbury stood first and Marion Harvey second.

The diving contest was extremely good, Hazel Bradley having the highest score, Doris Rogers second and Ina Terrace third. In the junior contest Mary Kingsbury first and Marion Harvey second.

Several new games were introduced last night and thoroughly enjoyed.

Because of the Hallowe'en Party next Friday the sports hour will be held on Wednesday at 7:30.

FIERCE STORM ALONG COAST

Shipping Along English Coast Lashed By Gale—Boats Seek Shelter.

DRIVING RAIN.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—A northeast gale was causing trouble to shipping around and near the British coast to-day. The gale whipped the English Channel into strong seas, causing a rough passage for ships to and from the Continent and forcing many vessels to take shelter in Dover harbor. The lightship men experienced one of the roughest nights in years.

Near Goodwins, off the Kent Coast, the wind last night reached the velocity of from sixty to seventy miles, while the driving rain made visibility extremely poor.

FROST AT BUFFALO.

BUFFALO, Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press).—A killing frost and snow flurries, the first of the fall, visited western New York yesterday. The temperature was 30 degrees above zero.

Manasoo Officers Blamed For Tragedy

COMMISSION HOLDS BOTH INCOMPETENT

Captain John McKay and Mate Stephen Long Lose Certificates.

JUDGMENT IS ISSUED.

Owners of Vessel Are Exonerated of All Blame.

OTTAWA, October 27 (Canadian Press).—In a judgment made public yesterday afternoon, Capt. L. A. Demers, Dominion wreck commissioner, investigating the wreck of the steamship Manasoo, formerly the Macassa, finds:

"First: That the owners complied with all the conditions imposed by government legislation and, therefore, are exonerated from blame.

"Second: That the loss of the ship and lives is attributable to bad stowage, indifference, neglect and carelessness on the part of those in charge.

"In view of which the court cancels the certificate of the master, John McKay, No. 10730, also that of the first mate, Osburn Stephen Long, No. 11823, who are found in default, and who have proved incompetent to meet the responsibilities incumbent on them.

"The court wishes to convey to the bereaved its profound sympathy."

A rider is added to the court's judgment which says that "having been the recipient of requests to raise the ship or send divers for the recovery of the bodies which are supposedly within, the court regrets to state that owing to the depth in which the Manasoo rests, it is impossible to entertain any hope of beneficial satisfactory achievements. It counsels the bereaved to make a sacrifice of the hopes they may have entertained of seeing the bodies of their loved ones, and to let them rest in peace. It is one of the hazards of those who follow and help in commercial interchanges and communication by water, who go down to the sea in ships.

"The suggestion is made for consideration and study as to whether in short trips it would not be advisable to tie the cattle heads amidships, and the pens be constructed in such a manner as to immobilize such live but helpless cargo.

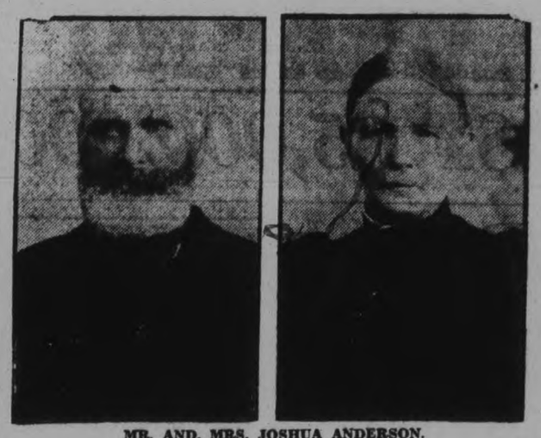
"It is also suggested that in such a class of ships, the lower hold should have compensating weight if no cargo is carried to ensure stability. What has happened in this instance may also be expected when some of the passengers are pacing the 'tween and upper decks. It is hoped that this last suggestion may receive the consideration of various interests."

The hearing into the loss of the Manasoo, which foundered off Griffith Island in the Georgian Bay on September 15 last, was held by Com. Demers, assisted by Capt. Frank Waugh, nautical assessor, and James Nicholl, engineer assessor, at Owen Sound.

CHURCH SERVICES

ROSENEATH, October 27. — Rev. Barton will conduct special services at Alderville at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday, closing his series before returning to Toronto.

CELEBRATE ANNIVERSARY



MR. AND MRS. JOSHUA ANDERSON.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, October 27. — Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Anderson, of Anderson's Island, will have completed another year of married life on Monday, as the 29th of October is the seventy-third anniversary of their wedding day. Both Mr. and Mrs. Anderson are enjoying good health and able to be out and about their home every day when the weather is fine. Mr. Anderson is in his 103rd year and Mrs. Anderson is 93 years past. They reside with their son Fred, and having telephone and radio communication with the outside world are able to hear and know of what is going on beyond the shores of their island home. The venerable couple are quite contented and happy in their declining years, at an age to which very few attain.

LADIES' AID ELECTS OFFICERS

Annual Meeting Held of Warsaw Presbyterian Church Society.

(Examiner Correspondence).

WARSAW, Oct. 27. — Mrs. Bruce Douglas entertained the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid on Tuesday afternoon There was a full attendance and a very pleasant afternoon was spent. As it was the annual meeting, the reports were given and officers elected.

The officers are now: President, Mrs. T. H. Crowe; Vice-President, Mrs. Henry Clements; Secretary, Miss Mary Rose; Treasurer, Miss Ellen Douglas; Flower Committee, Mrs. John Tucker and Mrs. George Russel.

The work done was patching and embroidering quilts.

HART GOES TO MINORS.

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—"Gizzy" Hart, for the past two years left wing player with the Canadiens, left yesterday for Providence, R.I., to play in the American Professional League.

One Person Killed In Storm At Sea

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Badly battered by a terrific gale and with a casualty list of one dead and several injured, the Ocean Transport Co. steamship Choyo Maru, Captain Murai, is approaching the coast and is due at Victoria on Saturday evening, according to word received by the local agents for the transport company. The Choyo Maru lost her bridge and her cargo shifted until she has a bad list; her third officer was killed and several sailors were injured in the gale early this week, 1,000 miles off the West coast. In addition her steering gear suffered injury which makes steering difficult. Still, she is making port under her own power, steaming seven to eight knots hourly. The ship is loaded with lumber from British Columbia ports.

WILL HOLD COURSE.

Madoc and Elzevir Sunday School Workers Will Study.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Oct. 27.—The S.S. Association of the townships of Madoc and Elzevir has decided to hold a Standard Teachers' Training School on November 21, 22 and 23, at Hazard's Church. It is hoped that many of the Sunday school teachers in the nine schools of the district and others interested will take advantage of this opportunity to commence the course of study in Sunday school teaching and leadership training.

HOT LUNCHES FOR CHILDREN

Matchett's School Has Served Them For Several Winters Past.

W. I. CONSIDERS EXTENSION.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, Oct. 27.—Cavan Women's Institute as well as other Institutes, has been in favor of having a hot lunch served in the schools of the district which they represent.

There are three school sections represented in Cavan Institute. So far only one school, No. 7, has availed itself of the Governments assistance to carry out this feature of the school children's daily lunch. School Section Number Seven or Matchett's School as it is frequently called, has had a hot lunch served for nine or ten winters.

The serving of one hot dish commences November 1 and continues until March 31. The teacher to inaugurate the movement was Miss Ryley. She met the mothers of the school section and outlined the plan.

At a meeting of the Institute, these mothers met in a special committee and agreed to try it for one season. It proved so successful that it has continued each winter. The following teachers since Miss Ryley's time have successful carried it out, the Misses Nokes, Paisley, Preston and Staples.

This winter Miss Segsworth will likely continue the custom. The initial outlay is the greatest, but the government will reimburse this outlay up to forty dollars for equipment. It will be returned to the section in grants in two years.

The trustees purchased a three-burner coal-oil stove, a serving table and cooking utensils.

Each child takes his or her own dishes. The school numbered over twenty and the desks were used to eat on, white oilcloths being used as covers. After each meal these oilcloths were carefully rolled on sticks and put away. The school has been so small the last two years that the children and teacher can sit around the table. Last winter the table was covered with a white oil cloth and when set, with a centrepiece and bouquet of crimson artificial flowers, in the centre, it presented a cosy homey appearance. Soup, cocoa, bacon, sausages or vegetables were usually served hot. The cost of these staple articles is borne by the government, the teacher and secretary-treasurer keeping an account of supplies purchased. Each child brings milk from home and any vegetable required.

Occasionally eggs are cooked. These are contributed by the children.

The children are divided into groups, and with the teacher as supervisor, serve the mail and wash the dishes. The teacher receives a grant of twenty-five dollars for serving and managing the lunch.

To a child who has a long co'd walk to school, a cup of hot cocoa or soup makes a welcome addition to the cold lunch carried from home.

Again if a child comes from a home where it is not possible to provide a really nourishing noon-day lunch and where perhaps milk is not plentiful, a war dish shared with the other children at school helps to provide the less fortunately situated child with more nutrition.

Another benefit to the children is having to sit down at the table and take time to eat their lunch properly. The presence of the teacher making the observance of proper table manners, compulsory. Many of the mothers in rural schools, as they look back, remember the noon hour as a time, when some of the pupils considered the absence of the teacher for dinner, an opportunity to run over desk tops and throw crusts.

They can see the value to their children of a properly supervised noon hour, even aside from the consideration of food value.

TWO MEN ARRESTED IN BELLEVILLE CASE

Both Charged With Theft of Wild Geese From Sanctuary.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 27. —Harry Mattis and George Miller of Consecon, Prince Edward County, appeared before Magistrate Mikel yesterday in Police Court charged with the theft of 14 Canada geese from the sanctuary on the outskirts of this city. This was the outcome of vandalism which took place early Tuesday morning October 16, when these Canada geese were slaughtered and mutilated by so-called hunters.

Mattis and Miller did not plead, but elected summary trial before his Worship, and they were remanded on their own recognizance until a week from to-day.

I. G. Lyons, game overseer for this district, and Provincial Constable Bert Hammer had the investigation in hand. A third party has not yet been apprehended, but officers claim he soon will be.

The hunters were disturbed in their nefarious work by a near-by neighbor, David Scott, but they escaped with seven of the geese. There were 7 of the 14 geese that were not pinioned, and they flew to safety when the slaughter was on. A wave of indignation swept the community on the harming of these confined birds, and Crown Attorney Donnan ordered a searching investigation.

TRACK CLEARED AFTER WRECK

Very Little Grain Wasted in Salvage Operations at Campbellford.

ONE CAR SLIPS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 27.—A day and a half since the wreck found still much work to be done in clearing up the wreckage caused in the C.N.R. yards here Thursday, when seven cars of wheat left the rails and deposited themselves in various positions on the right of way. Five cars have been removed and sent for repairs. At three minutes to two Friday morning, the wrecking crew called it a day and returned to Lindsay. Another crew replaced them to-day.

All possible despatch has been used in transhipping the wheat from the two cars which slid down the south embankment and by midnight one of these cars had been reclaimed and set up. It was while working with this car that the thrill of the evening occurred. The grain having been transferred to another car brought in for the purpose, the powerful auxiliary crane was brought into play. To place one end of the car well up on the right of way was but the work of a few minutes. Then the trick was to keep that end there while the other end was swung up onto the rails. To keep the end already placed from sliding down the bank, a steel cable was made fast to the end and also to the rail of the main line. The crane took its hold on the lower end of the wrecked car and began to exert its power. Just as the car was almost up the bank, the cable suddenly gave way and the whole car went rolling down the bank and half way across the fence at the edge of the right of way. The crashing noise disturbed and frightened sleepers in a nearby hourse. There was no damage done to private property. An hour later the car was set back on the rails.

The transhipping of the grain was also a fascination for spectators. Men entered the wrecked car and filled bags with the wheat. These were placed in a sling and a derrick on the passing track swung them up over the main line and into the door of a box car on the storage track on the north side. The work order which was good till three o'clock in the morning, was cancelled and the line opened for through traffic. At three minutes to two, an eastbound train came through.

A note of interest is the fact that very little grain has been spilled during either the wreck or the salvaging operations.

LADIES' AID MEETS AT WARSAW CHURCH

Members Hear Reports of Success of Recent Fowl Supper.

WARSAW, Oct. 27 (Examiner Correspondence).—The United Church Ladies' Aid met in the basement on Thursday afternoon. A fair number of ladies were out.

After the opening exercises Mrs. Herrington thanked the ladies for coming out; the month had been so strenuous she realized many would rather remain at home. She also thanked all who had assisted in making the fowl supper a success. It helped to keep up the church, and the church represented the people who went there.

She also spoke of leading in prayer; it may be difficult, but it should be done. The business had to do with the fowl supper. The new dishes and cutlery were shown. It was decided to keep them in the parsonage storeroom.

A report had gone out that the village stores had gotten a commission, Mrs. Digweed stated that absolutely no commission came to their store nor to Payne and Darling. Five dozen plates, cups and saucers, knives and forks comprise the new stock.

The secretary read her report, and the treasurer gave a detailed report of last month's finances. There was on hand a balance of $161.63. The total receipts for the supper and social was $191.28. Supper expenses and dishes came to $86.99. What is now on hand is $313.82.

A set of rollers was made to move the piano.

Last year's fowl supper report was read and showed very little difference in the amount received and the supplies sent.

A velour curtain has been placed across the back of the pulpit.

The November meeting will be a social of some kind, held in the evening, to pay off the piano debt before the new officers are elected. The executive will make preparations.

"Mrs. George Taylor sang "I've Found a Friend So Precious."

Mrs. Weller went to Toronto on Monday, called there by the illness of her sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Sloan have moved into H. G. E. Choates' house.

Mark Lonsberry and family have moved into William Davis' house (once Fred Calder's).

William Laporte is working in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Foster are spending a few days in Reaboro.

Mr. Gillies, immigration inspector, made his annual rounds in Warsaw district on Thursday. He seemed satisfied with conditions under which the boys are living.

There was quite a snowstorm on Thursday morning, but men were at the corn as soon as it stopped. There are yet two more silos to fill.

Threshing gangs are in great demand and much inconvenience is caused by not being able to get them.

1,300 Bottles Of Cognac Found on the France, Secreted in Small Lots All Over the Liner

NEW YORK, October 27. — Thirteen hundred bottles of cognac, presumably destined for New Yorkers who wish to make merry on Election Night, Thanksgiving, and other approaching holidays, have been discovered secreted in various places on the French liner France since she docked on Wednesday morning by a special searching squad of twenty-five men under Mike Sweeney, it was announced by enforcement officers of the Customs Service.

A previous announcement said that liquor had been found, but put the total of 200 bottles.

Inasmuch as every member of the crew disclaimed both orally and with eloquent Gallic gestures all knowledge of and responsibility for the liquor, it was checked up, counted, and put into crates preparatory to being shipped to the Government warehouses at the Army Base in Brooklyn.

There it will be destroyed later.

The bottles were found in all parts of the ship, and never in lots larger than five or ten. They were hidden in the crew's quarters, in spaces between the various units of the cargo, and in unoccupied cabins.

Of the 1,300 bottles discovered, 1,200 were found on Wednesday and 100 on Thursday. The searchers admitted that they had combed the boat from top to bottom, and said that they did not expect to find any more liquor.

WILLIAM CONDON SELLS HIS STOCK

Animals and Poultry Bring Good Prices—Moving To Peterborough.

INDIAN RIVER, Oct. 27.—The sale of farm stock and implements on the farm of William Condon on Wednesday was a very successful one, high prices being obtained. Three aged horses of good type sold from $36 to $81; cows up to almost one hundred apiece with two or three selling for about sixty dollars. A fine flock of some eighty turkeys were knocked down at $3.10 apiece; young geese were $2.90 and older ones $3.30; hens and pullets sold from around 60c to $1.10. Brood sows brought $20 to $25. Machinery and the few household articles sold brought good prices. Mr. and Mrs. Condon and their young son are leaving shortly to reside in Peterborough.

LONDON MARKET REMAINS FIRM

Some Irregularity Shown in the More Speculative Issues.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press Cable).—Business on the London stock exchange quietened down towards the week-end, with the general tone remaining firm. Some irregularity was shown, however, among the more speculative issues.

Talking machine shares maintained a sporadic liveliness, and from the fact that several new issues in connection with this industry are due for appearance, it is evident that interest in this market is not considered likely to evaporate for some time.

Mond Nickel sharply reacted on the reports of the basis on which it was thought a merger with Internation Nickel would take place, and shares of International also fluctuated freely after the initial advance. Both have reached a more stable position on Lord Melchett's statement of Thursday, that the companies could probably get together to reduce duplication.

The shipping section, dormant for some time, was enlivened by a declaration of a twelve per cent. tax free dividend by the famous Peninsular and Oriental Line, against ten per cent. in the past three years. There is additional significance to this declaration inasmuch as the payment is on a much larger basis of capital.

An issue of $10,000,000 for the City of Sydney, New South Wales, appeared yesterday at 98½ per cent, the debentures yielding 5¼ per cent interest. The proceeds will be used principally for electricity extensions. Sydney was last in the London market a year ago on somewhat similar terms, and judging by present quotations for this issue the new one should be warmly welcomed.

HUDSON SUPER 6

A thrilling NEW DISCOVERY in performance - and in value

"It made a Hudson owner of me."

"It changed my whole idea of motor values."

"It showed me that high price is not necessary to own a great car."

Thousands of riders talking like this. A great Hudson program of personal demonstration brought these values home with the impact of a new discovery.

We have never heard such praise of a car. People comparing it to cars costing two or three times as much. Saying it is the easiest riding car they ever drove—saying it is smoother—saying it outperforms all cars of their experience.

In this special month of personal demonstration thousands have ridden in the advanced Hudson Super-Six.

Even those who owned and admired Hudson Super-Sixes of previous issue, have no conception of the superlative quality expressed both mechanically and in body beauty of the great Hudsons of today.

The extraordinary speed of Hudson getaway is but a single expression of the brilliant activity of the New Hudson Super-Six, which is carried on to every phase of performance. And with it a gasoline efficiency that alters all previous standards.

A single ride will explain why this has been the most enthusiastically accepted Hudson ever built.

The Picture Explained

The picture shows a portion of the plans of a long-hidden treasure which consisted of six heavy chests each filled with bars of solid gold. The Adventurer who buried the chests kept this record of the contents of each one.

Which are Equal—What is Total

Two of the treasure chests contain an equal number of bars of gold. Can you find the equal chests? Start at No. 1 and total the figures on the outside of the chest, then do the same with each of the rest. When you find two that total the same, write their numbers on the coupon provided. ALSO, underneath, write in figures the total of the whole treasure. Note that all the figures are simple, running from one to nine, and there are no zeros. RUSH YOUR ANSWER.

Follow These Rules to Win

1. Use a sharp lead pencil, and neatly write the numbers of the two equal chests (such as "One and Five") in the space on coupon, and underneath write in figures the total of the whole treasure.
2. Print your name (Mr., Mrs., or Miss) and full address, also the names of dealer from whom you obtained this entry blank, on coupon and cut out entire advertisement around coupon and mail to us.
3. In case of a tie, the judges may state whether final decision shall be reached through general appearance or a tie-breaker will be used.
4. No one connected with our company may compete.
5. The Judging Committee will render all three gentlemen in no way connected with us. Their decision shall be final.

Every qualified contestant will receive an immediate reward (value 50c to $4.00) regardless of any other prize.

Absolutely No Selling to Do

YOU WILL POSITIVELY NOT HAVE TO SELL OUR GOODS TO WIN. Our Company has paid THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS TO HUNDREDS OF SUCCESSFUL PEOPLE during the past year just for advertising purposes. Contestants will be asked to make a very small sample purchase. RUSH YOUR ANSWER — YOU HAVE EVERYTHING TO GAIN. PLEASE SEND STAMP FOR REPLY.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

IT IS A PLEASURE AS WELL AS A PRIVILEGE to introduce a good book to one's friends. This was may privilege last week. I felt that my introduction was very imperfect. More time and more thought should have been devoted to it. But, such as it was, it was sent forth with the heart-felt prayer that it might lead others to seek the closer and large acquaintance of a remarkable book. I refer to "Herbert Booth," a Biography by Ford C. Ottman. I have been greatly encouraged by the reaction to my introduction. If, in the space of a few days, so brief and imperfect an introduction to a book can arouse so much interest as has already been shown, surely, it is fair to assume that the book must be more than ordinary! Anyone who knows this biography will readily agree with me that it provides a rare treat for those who will secure and read it for themselves.

NO THOUGHT OF GAIN.

We do not write these musings with any thought of gain. We have never yet received from any publisher a free copy of a book as an inducement to bring it before our readers. When we commend a book it is just because we do not want to be selfish in either our pleasure or our profit. We want to share both with our friends.

Some friends have communicated with us asking where the publishers of "Herbert Booth" are located. We have already given the desired information to these friends, but give it here also in view of the possibility that there may be others who want to know. It is from the publishing house of Doubleday, Doran & Company, Inc., Garden City, New York. I would suggest to all who may be thinking of buying a copy that they get it through their local bookseller and so save all trouble with the customs.

WILLIAM AND CATHERINE BOOTH.

The first two chapters are devoted to a sketch of the lives of the parents of Herbert Booth. It is cleverly done. Concise and comprehensive, this sketch gives an illuminating review of world conditions during their life-time. The British Empire has never passed through more troubled years.

In a modest summing up of the prevailing conditions the writer says: "This brief sketch of prevailing conditions defines, however inadequately, the howling wilderness of strife and misery through which William Booth forced his way to eminence. His name, however, and his achievements are chronicled by the historians of the period which an inconsideration equal to that given to Moses on the monuments of Egypt. To the world the history of Caesar is of more interest than that of Christ."

The first twenty-six years of Catherine Booth's life were, in a very real sense, years of preparation. Then, her preparation done, she spent the last thirty-five years of her life in absolute surrender of herself to Christ to preach the gospel to the masses of mankind. Her life and labors are all the more remarkable when we remember that she was handicapped all her days by a body that was frail and fragile.

It seems to me that the most conclusive proof of the greatness and grandeur of character of Catherine and William Booth is to be found in the remarkable family to whom they gave far more than their name. It was said of the son of a famous preacher that he would have been great if it had not been that he was overshadowed by the greatness of a great father. But, in spite of the greatness of two remarkable parents, every member of the Booth family has demonstrated their right to be considered great in their own right.

MAKE-UP OF THE BOOK.

There are twenty chapters in the book, two of which we have already touched upon. The headings of the others are as follows: From Mousehole to Mile-End Waste; Earliest Adventures; Great Britain; Songs of Peace and War; Canada; Farewells and Welcomes; The First Australian Campaign; The Second Australian Campaign; At the Crossroads; The Resignation; The Crisis at the Collie; Faith's Adventure; Christian Citizenship; The Ambassador; The Extended Embassy; Tribute of the Marechale; Robin Lawn; The Commander's Eulogy; Appendix, which sets forth the Foundation Deeds of the Salvation Army; and a very excellent Index.

HIS BEGINNINGS.

Herbert Booth was born in Penzance on the twenty-sixth day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-two. It is interesting to know that the Salvation Army Barracks in that place is known as Fort Herbert, and was so named to commemorate his birth. He was the third son and fifth child of General and Mrs. Booth. In his nineteenth year, his school days being over, he enlisted in the Army. During the next twenty years he gave ungrudingly of his strength and gifts to its extension throughout the world. His was no easy task, for in those early days the Army was far from being popular. Yet, his efforts were crowned with eminent success. There is much that we must pass over; but we do it with an easier conscience since we have been led to believe that many will undoubtedly read the entire book for themselves.

"The life of Herbert Booth was so filled with thrilling adventure, is so fascinating as a psychological study, so beautiful in the unfolding of an unblemished character, that there is an alluring temptation to choose one of these phases and, by riveting attention upon it, look only at one side of the shield. He himself made no pretense to holiness, though he earnestly longed for it, followed the trail of those who claimed it, and scrutinizing their lives came to the apostolic conclusion that in his flesh—as in theirs—there dwelt no good thing. If he failed to attain the holiness he craved, he walked by no crooked paths, and with a mind conscious of rectitude conducted himself with exactness and fairness toward all men."

A GREAT SOLDIER.

While in command of the Army throughout Great Britain he was regarded by many, competent to judge, as the ablest field officer in the Salvation Army. During this time he came into close contact with evil at its worst, and could with many other Salvationists say, "I know there is a hell, for I have been there." "Such testimony is founded on no figment of the imagination, but upon grim, matter-of-fact experience."

"By scripture text, by logic of facts, by bitter personal conflict, Herbert Booth reduced to demonstration the personality of Satan, exposed his wiles, openly opposed him, and neither cried for nor gave quarter. From such war there was for him—as for all other true-hearted belligerents — no discharge."

COMPOSER AND CONDUCTOR.

Music has played an important part in the work and worship of the Salvation Army. And for much of its music and the contribution that music has made to its growth and glory the Salvation Army is more deeply indebted to Herbert Booth than to any other single individual. So far as I have been able to discover his contribution has never been adequately admitted or acknowledged. "The soul of the Army undoubtedly found its voice in Herbert Booth, discovering in him a real genius for devising characteristic musical containers for the new wine the living spirit had fermented." "And if Herbert Booth had done no more than to have given the Army his imperishable hymns of the heart he would have graven his name in a manner never to be blotted from the memory of those who, under the inspiration of his music, have found their way to God or, by its medium, have given expression to their penitence, faith and love."

THE ARMY AND THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

To me, always stirred by a crowd or by music, one of the most thrilling parts of this glorious biography is the story of the Army's musical achievement in the Crystal Palace on the occasion of the celebration of its Silver Jubilee. It is only the lack of space that prevents me giving it at length. One of the chief attractions of the day was "The Battle of Song." Nothing even approaching this in spectacular display and volume of song was ever before seen or heard in the Crystal Palace. To get the writer's account of this alone is worth the price of the entire book. The total strength of the choir, including the orchestra, was five thousand. In the course of a splendid interview which Dr. Robertson Nicoll gave to one of the Salvation Army officers, he said: "It is easy to critize till you get at the heart of a thing. The Crystal Palace demonstration showed the heart of the Army, and that young Booth showed that the Army can get at the brains of the non-church-going section of the country and make musicians out of blasphemers and low-down citizens."

STICK TO YOUR MUSIC.

What a wonderful experience it must have been to have been one of the twenty-five thousand hearers who listened to the great orchestra made up of five thousand bandsmen as Herbert Booth led them in the overture. As he arose, the General patted him on the back, and was heard to say, "God bless you, Herbert." Knowing his men, he was aware of their limitations as well as their possibilities. "In a voice scarcely heard by others he said, "Now, lads, your best! Stick to your music. Watch this baton. Pray while play. One—two—three!"—and, with a sweep of his baton, he blazed the musical trail for the Salvation Army."

The writer goes on to say: "At the conclusion of the first number a wave of emotion swept over the audience. Veterans rose from their seats and, brushing away their tears, expressed their feelings in loud hallelujahs. A thousand flags were unfurled, and from twenty-five thousand throats there came a roar of approval augmented by a peal of applause that sounded like the discharge of artillery."

In commenting upon it afterwards, the General said: "Comparisons are always tricky, but we are bound to give my son our homage to-day for his remarkable gift displayed last Tuesday. His management revealed a talent for that sort of thing that will be invaluable to the Army in the future."

I shall return and complete my self-imposed task next week. As a book review I know that I have carried things to a great length, but I find my excuse in the many for whom I am writing who might otherwise never get to know of a book which ought to be read not only by the entire Salvation Army, but by multitudes of others as well.

—Allan Fairbairn.

The Minister Remarks—

—To meet some people and not to like them is impossible, but with others it is different.

—The ability to do a thing is usually a good argument for doing it.

—If it is the business of life "to fail cheerfully" then the man who has soured on the world advertises his own defeat.

—If you want for your life a higher horizon, enter the school where Christ is headmaster.

—Shoddy preparation is prolific of blunders, and blunders are costly. Superficiality is soon bankrupted. Therefore, be thorough.

—Some folks are true to everything in general, but to nothing in particular, and if that is not a roundabout way of saying that they are false I don't know what else it can be.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

ONE sharp winter day, so runs a nursery tale, a poor woman stood at the window of a king's conservatory, looking at a cluster of grapes, which she longed to have for her sick child. She went home to her spinning-wheel, earned half-a-crown, and offered it to the gardener for the grapes. He waved his hand, and ordered her away. She returned to her cottage, snatched the blanket from her bed, pawned it, and once more asked the gardener to sell her the grapes, offering him five shillings. He spoke furiously to her, and was turning her out, when the princess came in, heard the man's passion, saw the woman's tears, and asked what was wrong. When the story was told, she said, "My dear woman, you have made a mistake. My father is not a merchant, but a king; his business is not to sell, but to give." So saying, she plucked the cluster from the vine and dropped it into the woman's apron. All good things are God's gifts.

What The World Needs.

MODERN society has a lot of nasty ways and gilded sins. There are evils which should be exiled from decent society; wrongs to be righted; abuses to be corrected; opinions which should be jarred, and practices which should be rebuked. It would be impossible to square some of the present-day business methods with the Ten Commandments. And I don't think I am too severe when I say that there are too many men with us who seem to think more of losing money than of losing character.

Whether it realizes it or not, the world needs the man who can, and will, when necessary, stand alone. Although we have it on good authority that it is not good for man to be alone, there are times when that is the only course left open to a real man.

If conditions in the world are to be improved this improvement will never be brought about by the individual whose aim is to be proper and do what a certain section of polite society expects him to do. It will only be done by a man of strong, deep conviction, of unclouded vision and dauntless daring. He must be a man who will not get scared when he finds that a lot of spineless contemporaries leave him to stand alone.

Such a man, having the courage of his convictions and not afraid to speak out against much that is popular to-day, may be given the dungeon of obscurity and poverty, or worse, for his portion. But every real man would rather be a hero in a dungeon than a time-server in some prominent position. Better be a man in a prison cell than a criminal in a magistrate's seat. It is ten thousand times better to do right and stay poor, than to get rich at the expense of a moral collapse. More than once the dungeon has turned out to be an annex of the Hall of Fame.

THE EVENT OF THE SEASON

HAS GOD SPOKEN?

HOW about the next world? Who knows anything about it? What is the source of our information? If the Bible is not God's Revelation fully inspired, then no one in God's universe knows one thing about the future life. Throw out the Bible as God's word, and no one has one particle of positive assurance of a life of felicity beyond the grave. "The Land of the Leal" is illusory, imaginary, only a dream, unless God has positively and unequivocally spoken. But He has.—"Jesus Christ at the Crossroads."

CHECKING A MENACE.

The fact that Magistrate Langley in one case this week inflicted the maximum penalty upon a motorist who pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated, carries a warning that only the foolish will disregard.

A jail sentence of 30 days for this offence is not a pleasant punishment, but the protection of the public must come before the feelings of the individual, and motorists who attempt to mix gasoline and whiskey must be prepared to face the consequences.

One Ontario magistrate said not long ago that he was not a total abstainer and did not drive a car, but added that if he did buy an automobile he would sign the pledge before he undertook to drive.

Certainly a man who knows that he is going to be called upon to operate an automobile would be well advised to remain sober, especially as magistrates throughout the Province are beginning to inflict the most drastic penalty the law provides for motorists who attempt to drive while under the influence of liquor.

GREAT MEN OF CANADA.

The protest of W. E. N. Sinclair, leader of the Opposition in the Provincial House, in regard to the book, "Great Men of Canada," which has been authorized for use in school libraries in Ontario, would seem to be thoroughly justified.

The absence of the name of Sir Wilfrid Laurier from any list of Canada's great men is unexcusable.

It is surely agreed by Canadians of all shades of political belief that he was outstanding among the Dominion's statesmen, and the service he rendered to this country during his long and illustrious public career should have been recognized in a book of this kind.

Sir Oliver Mowat's name should also have been included if the book was intended to give the school children of Ontario a fair perspective of the history of this Province and of this country.

In authorizing a book for school use that omits such prominent figures as Laurier and Mowat, Premier Ferguson, as Minister of Education, has left himself open to the charge of introducing political propaganda into the schools of the Province, a charge he could easily have avoided by doing justice to outstanding statesmen regardless of their party tags.

A SAFETY CONTEST.

The Ontario Safety League, with the help of members and contributors from all over the Province, has subscribed to a special fund of $320 for cash prizes to be awarded in a school children's drawing contest.

There are to be two classes—one for school children of 13 years and under and the other for pupils from 13 to 16 years, inclusive.

The drawings must deal with either accidents, fires, accident prevention or fire prevention, and must, of course be the work of the pupil submitting them.

Such contests as this should receive every encouragement from school staffs throughout Ontario.

Safety campaigns have the best chance to succeed when they are conducted among young children, and the development of a traffic consciousness in school pupils would do much to eliminate accidents.

The teachers of local schools will doubtless be glad to direct their pupils' attention to this contest and to encourage them to participate.

The educational value of such a competition can readily be appreciated.

REVENUE FROM TOURISTS.

Figures compiled by the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce show that United States tourists spent more money in this district during the past summer than ever before.

The chamber reports that the revenue from this source was approximately $315,000, a figure that illustrates the importance of cultivating the tourist industry and of redoubling efforts to bring a larger number of visitors into the district.

It is gratifying to know that there was an increase in revenue this summer, inasmuch as the season opened rather slowly in this part of Ontario, and in the early weeks of the summer there was some anxiety as to whether or not the influx of tourists would approach the volume reached in the previous summer.

The tourist industry has become a major industry in Ontario—in fact, in all parts of Canada—and there is every reason to expect that its value will continue to increase because of the development of better roads and the increase in the number of automobiles in commission.

Cultivating the tourist trade is good business, and organizations like the Trent Waterway Development Association should have no difficulty in securing sufficient financial support for its future drives in this regard.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

In all parts of the world there are men fascinated by the spectacle, eager to join in the toil and its rewards. Those who can meet the Dominion's wisely conceived regulations for admittance seek to share its hospitality. They are setting up a melting pot in the Northwest; in the standing grains and good farms competitions conducted this year by the Calgary Board of Trade with the patronage of the Alberta Department of Agriculture the prize for the best all-round farm in the district was awarded to Tosef Cavossy, of Cochrane, who emigrated from Hungary a few years ago, and also won the highest honors for a standing field of oats; the second prize winner was Oscar Anderson, from Sweden; the winners of third prize were Messrs. Wright and Bond, of Irricana, who are from the United States, while the fourth prize went to R. Ness, of De Winton, Alberta, who emigrated from England. All are Canadians now; their children will have another part in the ever-changing drama of nation building.

In all their activities the pioneers of Canada work with the tools that progress has fashioned. Their lumbermen have been taught by the experience of others that forests are not inexhaustible, but that reforestation and afforestation are as practicable and essential in America as they are in Europe. The trapper and hunter supplement the peltry of the wild with skins from carefully bred animals. They find high profit in such once neglected fur bearers as the muskrat and the rabbit. The stock breeders outlaw those thieves of fodder, the scrub bull and stallion. Their rams are pedigreed; their barnyard flocks are scrutinized for non-producers. Their milk and cream are handled under hygienic conditions and are marketed intelligently.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING.

Reading the text of the White Paper which has been issued by the British Foreign Office covering the naval compromise reached between France and England, the only wonder is why it wasn't made public before. For months now the cables have been burning up with reports, rumors, conjectures and insinuations that London and Paris had entered into some dark and sinister arrangement aimed at Italy and the United States. To make matters worse, Mr. William Randolph Hearst bought or stole a document purporting to be a copy of the agreement entered into, and when one of his correspondents in Paris cabled it to America the French Government magnified the incident into international importance by arresting the correspondent and deporting him from France. This, of course, intensified suspicion. There was a resurrection of all the old jargon about the need for "open covenants openly arrived at," the State Department at Washington got into one of its highly moral moods, and that section of the British press which dislikes France and is critical of Sir Austen Chamberlain waxed highly indignant.

In the circumstances it is difficult to understand why the facts weren't published long ago. For, judging by the White Paper now published, there was nothing to conceal. Let us see what took place. France and England could not see eye to eye respecting a basis of disarmament. France desired a naval reduction upon a basis of total tonnage; England held out for a decrease in certain classes of ships. England desired disarmament on land to include reservists; France wanted reservists left out. Getting nowhere, and deciding that they would get nowhere if they continued to hold rigidly to their respective positions, they determined to compromise. And they did. France compromised by agreeing to the British naval proposition in respect of four classes of ships. England agreed to the French demand in respect of reservists.

The result, judged from the standpoint of practical disarmament, was good. Says the White Paper:

"In the end a compromise was reached on the basis of a limitation applicable to four classes of war vessel. Like all compromises these tentative proposals involved concessions by both sides. They represented an advance from a position of difficulty and deadlock which had prevailed for over a year. While admittedly incomplete as a final solution of the naval limitation question, they would, if adopted, have added two further classes of vessel to the two classes limited under the Washington treaty. They could only lead to useful results if the other principal naval powers were ready to regard them as offering a possible basis for resumption of negotiation in the preparatory commission."

Nor was there anything in the complaint, voiced by United States and some British newspapers, that the French and British Governments entered upon these negotiations without giving the other nations an inkling of what they were doing. On the point the White Paper points out:

"His Majesty's Government have been criticized on account of the secrecy in which negotiations described above are alleged to have taken place. The facts are that, as long ago as March last, it was announced in the Preparatory Commission that conversations were taking place in the hope of removing the differences which had hitherto obstructed progress, and the session was adjourned to allow of their continuance. When the Anglo-French naval compromise proposals were ready for submission to other naval powers the fact was announced by Sir Austen Chamberlain in the House of Commons."

To this Lord Cushendun, acting British Foreign Secretary, adds:

"I myself gave to the press on August 30 a full account of the circumstances in which the compromise was reached, and an emphatic denial of the speculations as to the existence of secret clauses and political understandings.

"The whole case is revealed in the correspondence, and any suggestions to the contrary are totally devoid of foundation."

Summed up, the whole outcry of the past few months is shown to have been unjustified. With the best of intentions, without any sinister motive, and in a spirit of practical compromise, Britain and France simply tried to get somewhere in the task of disarmament. The only mistake made was that when criticism and suspicion were first voiced they were not promptly squelched by publication of the documents.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The Fire Chief's warning in regard to pipes and chimneys should not be neglected. Failure to follow his advice may mean a fine as well as a fire.

If half what is being said about Toronto's jail conditions are true, the city administration had better show some signs of life.

Over on the other side there seems to be some difficulty in deciding what is the real issue in the election, and we must confess that we are unable to throw much light on the question.

Anyway the horse is not being forgotten, points out the Toronto Globe. Horseshoe pitching is more popular as a pastime than changing tires.

Our Heavenly Father, we bless Thee for Thy great gifts to us, Thy children—that there is provision for all our needs. We thank Thee for the power given to men to bless and gladden one another by the warmth of love, the truth and tenderness of friendship, and to support each other in all good. May we accept this great gift with a sense of responsibility. Let not the wealth of human love bestowed upon us be wasted or despised—the tender care lavished on us in our early days, the love of parents, the patience of teachers, the wisdom of counsellors, all the sweet charities of home, the joy and strength of true human intercourse.

As we have received of love, so may we give. May we learn the deep lessons of love—self-denial, patience, helpfulness, sympathy, and growth in gracious living. May the discipline of love train us in constancy and true virtues. May we use the love with which we have been dowered to panoply us against evil, to preserve us under the manifold dangers and temptations of the world.

Bless our friends—may they and we be friends of God. Above all, may our experience of earthly love bring us nearer to Thy love, O Thou Lover of our Souls! Amen.

DISCOVERIES.

Everywhere we go there are a thousand things to develop the best there is in us. Every sunset, landscape, mountain, hill and tree has secrets of charm and beauty waiting for us to discover. In every patch of meadow or waving field of wheat, in every leaf and blossom, the trained eye will see beauty which would ravish an angel. The cultured ear will find harmony in the forest and field, melody in wind and stream, and untold pleasure in all nature's songs. It is astonishing how much beauty we can see everywhere when we look for it.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—The large run on Monday was an incentive for buyers to acquire supplies at lower prices. The closing market shows many unsold, despite efforts of salesmen to effect a clean-up. Most of the receipts weer composed of poor unfinished cattle.

Heavy steers were very draggy, the tops selling at $10 to $1.50. Light butcher steers and heifers brought $9.50 to $10.25. Medium and common were off a full 50c at $8 to $9.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Wheat went up in price yesterday and corn down, chiefly owing to large scale operations of "spread" traders, who simultaneously bought wheat and sold corn. The rise of wheat values was aided by export purchases of 1,250,000 bushels of North American wheat, mostly Canadian. On the other hand, a sharp setback in cash corn prices here, especially for old corn, tended to weaken the corn market as a whole.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm ⅝ to 1c a bushel higher. Corn future deliveries finished irregular, varying from ¼c decline to ¼c advance, with oats ⅛ to ¼c off, and provisions unchanged to 15c down.

Strengthening of prices yesterday in the wheat market here had as a background unexpected firmness of wheat quotations at Liverpool.

Besides, arrivals of domestic wheat at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago totaled only 614 cars, compared with 989 cars a week ago. Canadian country marketings of wheat showed likewise a decided falling-off, being but 3,828,000 bushels, against 7,354,000 bushels on the corresponding day one year back. Assertions were also current that the forthcoming official Canadian crop report would prove bullish, and there were advices that Canadian frosts had done greater harm to wheat quality than as a rule has been thought probable.

Considerable notice on the part of wheat traders was given to reports that although soil conditions are generally favorable over domestic winter wheat territory, more rain is needful in western sections of Kansas and Oklahoma. A comprehensive summary of unofficial reports from the United States winter wheat belt as a whole said indications are that the seeded area will not be larger than last year, and is likely to be somewhat less.

A drop of all the way from 2 cents to 7 cents a bushel in the price of cash corn yesterday was chiefly on old corn. By far the greater bulk of the corn that reached Chicago yesterday though, was new crop corn. However, the total, 165 cars, new and old together, was much heavier than has been the rule of late. Some authorities said the new corn being received here constituted 90 per cent. of the arrivals. About 400,000 bushels of corn was taken yesterday for export. Meanwhile, the forecast pointed to unsettled weather for the corn belt last night and country offerings to arrive were small. Oats prices held within narrow limits.

Despite an upward trend in the hog account of scattered selling.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain here yesterday was extremely dull, but the domestic trade in wheat and oats was fair. Prices were unchanged.

A moderate amount of business was worked in Spring and Winter wheat flour and prices for all grades were well maintained.

An active trade was done in all lines of millfeed and values were firm. The tone of the market for rolled oats was firm under a fair demand.

The demand for all grades of egg was good and prices for fresh and storage were unchanged. Receipts were 336 cases.

A fair trade was done in imported beans at $5.00 per bushel for choice white hand-picked grades.

Prices for potatoes were marked up five cents per bag owing to the improved demand. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 70 cents loose, ex-track, and Cobblers at 65 cents loose. In 90 pound bags Green Mountains sold at 85 cents.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—The fresh egg market continues to work firmer, particularly on extra grades, which are now quite difficult to secure in any volume. Fewer fresh eggs are offering this week from Ontario country points, although there has been some offerings made of short held fresh. These, however, are not readily taken up. Dealers have made their price revision this week for future deliveries and the nominal quotations to country shippers were being well maintained yesterday as follows: Fresh extras, 48c to 50c per dozen; fresh firsts, 42c to 45c; seconds, 31c to 33c; fresh cracks, per dozen, 30c to 33c, and pullet extras at 36c to 40c, delivered, cases returned. Quotations to the retail trade have been similarly advanced at fresh extras, per dozen, in cartons, 57c to 58c; extras, loose, 55c to 56c; firsts, 50c to 51c, and seconds, 36c to 38c. The movement of storage eggs for the week under review has been relatively slow in locals, and the market on this class of eggs is about steady with a week ago, but inclined easier. Wholesalers are quoting to retailers as follows for storage grades: Extras, per dozen, in cartons, 45c to 46c; loose, 43c to 44c; firsts, 41c to 42c, and seconds, 33c to 34c.

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 27. — The Young People's League held their regular meeting in the United Church on Tuesday evening.

Archie Deyell, citizenship vice-president, gave an excellent talk on "How Does Law Increase Freedom."

The meeting was ably conducted by George Dean, while William Howson took the Scripture reading.

The president, F. Barnard, made the announcement and conducted the business period.

At the conclusion of the service a social half-hour was spent in a Chinese spelling match, which was presided over by Rev. E. Swain.

Next week's meeting will be held in the form of a Hallowe'en party.

COOPER—SHARPE.

WARSAW, Oct. 27.—On Wednesda afternoon Elizabeth Evelyn, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sharpe, Warsaw, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Francis Elmer, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Cooper, Warsaw, by the Rev. J. T. O'Conor-Fenton in Norwood. Immediately after the ceremony the young couple returned to the bride's home, where her parents held a reception for her, and the wedding supper was held at half past six.

Later a number of the young peple of the neighborhood gathered to wish the young people joy and happiness and a jolly evening was spent in music, dancing and games. About midnight supper was served. The bride wore a pretty gown of rose-colored crepe-back satin. She received many beautiful and useful gifts.

On Thursday morning Mr. Cooper took his bride to the home where he had been born and brought up.

Mr and Mrs. Albert Cooper have moved to the brick house on an adjoining farm which they have recently bought.

OBITUARY

MRS. FERGUSON.

MADOC, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Ferguson, one of Madoc's oldest residents, died yesterday morning following an attack of pneumonia. Mrs. Ferguson was about 94 years of age and lived with her daughter, Miss Alice Ferguson.

JOHN BENNETT.

OMEMEE, Oct. 27.—The death occurred in the Toronto General Hospital on Sunday, Octover 21, of a well known former resident of Omemee, in the person of John Bennett, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, at the age of 68 years. Mr. Bennett, who was born in Emily township, had spent the greater part of his life in Omemee, having built and occupied the house now owned by Dr. G. N. Earle while engaged in the marble business, and had made many warm friends here. He was a faithful member of the Presbyterian church and in politics a Reformer. A man of sterling worth and character from his youthful days to his death.

After leaving Omemee some few years ago, he with his wife and two children lived in Saskatchewan and afterward for a short period made their home in Winnipeg. Later, they moved to Toronto, where the late Mr. Bennett was emloyed by C.P.R. in pressing and cleaning trainmen's uniforms. About three years ago his wife, who was Miss Hetherington, of Verulam township, was struck down by an automobile and almost instantly killed in the city and since then Mr. Bennett made his home with his daughter, Merriam, at Long Branch.

The funeral, which was held on Tuesday to Park Lawn cemetery, Toronto, was largely attended.

Left to mourn his passing are his two children, Merriam, Mrs. Charles Figg, and Hetherington, of Toronto, also one sister, Mrs. William Bannon, of Omemee, two half sisters, Margaret Bennett, of Saskatoon, Sask., and Mrs. Walter Feir, of Manitoba, and two half brothers, Will and Charles of Alberta.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, October 27. — Rev. and Mrs. N. Clarke Wallace were visiting in Belleville yesterday afternoon.

The posts for the metal stop signs are being erected, and it is expected that the signs will make their appearance immediately after the next Council meeting when the by-law will be given its third reading passed, signed, and sealed. At the last Council meeting the by-law was given its first two readings and submitted to the Department of Public Highways at Toronto for approval, as required by the statutes.

Cold weather has seriously interfered with the business of the Joyland Shows midway operating on the market square. Yesterday the men were busy dismantling the various attractions and getting them ready for winter storage.

To-day is the last opportunity that will be given the theatre patrons and citizens generally to see the highway traffic picture which is being run in connection with the drive for safer road conditions. The picture was brought to Campbellford in response to the request of Chief of Police A. V. Light. It has been shown every night this week in conjunction with the regular picture program at the Regent Theatre . In connection with the film, Dr. Carlton of Toronto has been giving a brief illustrated lecture on highway accidents, how to avoid them, and some of the numerous conditions which are liable to lead to a serious mishap. Dr. Carlton stresses the necessity for lights that do not glare, brakes that function properly, and a steering gear that is in perfect working order. The proper use of brakes on wet, slippery roads; the observance of the legal speed limit; caution at level crossings and intersections; care and courtesy, are also strongly advocated by him. Common sense is a factor which, properly applied will go far toward reducing the number of highway accidents to a minimum, and is strongly advocated.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS— by John Hix

TOURIST REVENUE HIGHER THIS YEAR

Banks in This District Handled $315,000 in American Currency.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce reports a minimum tourist revenue to Peterborough and the immediate vicinity during the past summer of $315,299.00 in United States' currency. This figure is arrived at by the chartered banks of Peterborough and district supplying the Chamber with the total amount of American currency shipped back to the United States by each bank together with an estimate of American currency exchanged by each bank for travelling purposes in the United States.

While the figures for the entire Central Ontario district are not as yet available, the revenue to Peterborough and district shows a slight increase over that of last year which was in the neighborhood of $307,000. In 1926 tourist revenue figures from the same sources were something slightly in excess of $252,000.

The Peterborough Chamber of Commerce was the first organization to compute the tourist revenue of the district in the above way. It is obvious that the total tourist revenue for the past year must have been higher inasmuch as many tourists have Canadian funds before their arrival in the vicinity of Peterborough. Consequently, there would be no record of their currency passing through the local chartered banks.

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE LEAF HOPPER

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily was hopping from one room to another in his hollow stump bungalow one day, looking first under a chair and then back of the piano.

"What's the matter?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, who was on her way up stairs to make the beds straighten out their sheets and pillow cases. "Are you looking for an adventure in here, Uncle Wiggily?"

"No, I am looking for my glasses," answered the rabbit gentleman. "I had them a little while ago but I must have laid them down and now I don't know where they are."

"Maybe they have gone to sleep," said Baby Bunty, who was getting ready to go to school.

"Pooh! How could glasses go to sleep?" asked Buster, who was putting his school books in a strap.

"Very easily," answered Bunty. "Uncle Wiggily's glasses are his eyes that he uses to read stories with. And you go to sleep with your eyes shut. So maybe the glasses have gone to sleep and they can't call out and tell where they are."

"That might be so, Bunty!" said Mr. Longears. "Anyhow I wish my glasses would wake up and let me know where they are, for I need them to read the paper and see what the weather is going to be before I go to look for adventures."

So Mr. Longears kept on looking for his "other eyes," as he sometimes called them. Nurse Jane made the beds, Mrs. Longears made a chocolate cake and Uncle Wiggily made work by turning over chairs and pulling out tables to look under and behind them for his lost glasses.

All of a sudden, as the rabbit gentleman was out in the front hall, he heard a queer little voice saying:

"Oh, dear!"

"What's the matter, and who are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for the voice wasso small and timid that he knew it could be none of the Bad Chaps. Nor could it be any of the forty-fourteen bunny boys and girls, as they had hopped on to school.

"The matter is that I have lost my little brother," was the answer of the small voice, "and I am afraid a big, giant Leaf Hopper has caught him."

"A Leaf Hopper!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "What's a Leaf Hopper, if you please?"

"I am a Leaf Hopper myself," was the reply. "And so is my little brother, whose name is Doodle. But just now, out on your front porch, I saw a giant Leaf Hopper and I'm so afraid he has caught Doodle."

"I must look into this, even without my glasses," said Mr. Longears, and though he could not see very well without his other eyes, he peered around the hall and pretty soon he caugd sight of a green bug something likh a Katy Did, or perhaps a Katy Didn't only different. "Oh, there you are!" said the rabbit gentleman kindly. "Welcome to my hollow stump bungalow."

"Thank you," said the Leaf Hopper, whose name was Lootie, and a very nice little girl Leaf Hopper she was, indeed. "Thank you so much. I'm afraid to stay outside for fear the giant Leaf Hopper might catch me, as he has. I fear already caught my little brother Doodle."

"And you say this big giant of a bug is out on my front porch?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"That's where he is," said Lootie. "I saw him looking at me! Oh, such big eyes as he had, and such big legs and such a mouth!"

"Now don't you be in the least afraid!" said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "It would have to be a very big bug, indeed, to scare me. And when I am with you you will not be frightened either. So we'll go out on my front steps and see what this giant Leaf Hopper means by being so bold."

"And will you please find Doodle?" asked Lootie.

"Of course I will!" said Mr. Longears. "I'll do the best I can without my glasses."

So the rabbit gentleman hopped toward the front door followed by Lootie.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Benefic signs dominate in today's horoscope, according to astrology which finds all the planetary influences helpful.

The clergy are well directed and should make the most of this sway, which is believed to impart convincing power and sincerity.

It is a rule under which to call men and women to their broadest responsibilities and to remind them of their duty to one another.

The planetary government is favorable for appeals for charitable or philanthropic projects and is supposed to impart sympathy.

Under this direction of the stars the mind should easily eliminate prejudice and may be quick to accept changed views onlife.

This is a day favorable for making good opinion regarding men and their public policies. Many changes in political viewpoints are foretold while this configuration prevails.

It is a lucky day for visiting relatives and friends whose good opinion may have a material significance. Maiden aunts and influential politicians may be cultivated successfully while the Sun is in kindly aspect.

All the signs appear to presage a winter fraught with big events and it is well for individuals to be careful in planning and season's work or play.

Sports continue under a most stimulating sway making for big achievements by American athletes.

The Hunter's Moon this month brings to those who study the heavens' assurance of extremes of good and the opposite in the coming year.

Manufacturers who handle cotton, tin and wool should profit greatly in the next few months, the seers prophesy.

Great combinations of capital are to relieve farmers by applying to agriculture the methods of big business, astrologers forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of an unusually prosperous year, but they must be wise in dealing in real estate or signing contracts.

Children born on this day probably will have successful careers. The subjects of this sign of Scorpio may be developed into captains of industry or heads of enormous enterprises. Girls have the possibility of brilliant careers.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1928

Again the stars smile on the planet Earth, according to astrologers who read much good fortune for the day.

Merchants and manufacturers are subject to favorable influences that indicate a busy season with a big volume of holiday shopping.

The stock market will continue to provide surprises in fluctuations that break previous records, the seers prophesy.

Sensational events in Europe will affect the market, if the stars are rightly read, but this country will be protected by friendly planetary government, it is forecast.

This is an auspicious rule for any sort of constructive work and should bring encouragement to all who are promoting great enterprises.

Public buildings of magnificence never before equalled will be started before the close of this year which will be famous for certain lines of civic development.

Men and women in search of employment should make use of every hour under this sway which promises success.

The world will have much work for men and women in every walk of life in the next year, if the stars are wisely read. New vocations as well as old ones will offer chances that will mean much in the future, it is foretold.

Under this sway those who desire public acclaim or support should benefit immensely.

While few women will be elected to public offices, those who are victorious will be able to achieve fine records, for only the super women will attain victories at the polls.

Sex rivalries will be apparent more and more in the next few months in many lines of business as well as the professions. The seers prophesy. But this is merely an indication that worth or qualifications are to be considered.

Women are reaching a place where they are to achieve great things in the channels of public service best suited to them, it is foretold.

The feminine attributes are to be stressed in a way that will eliminate ambition to compete in fields of activity for which men are especially fitted, astrologers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is may be disturbed by small ambitions, a few of which are realized. The year may be on the whole unimportant.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly well balanced in mind and active in body. Many subjects of this sign excel in building trades and certain of them achieve high ranks as architects. Girls are usually well poised and able to make an art of living.

IN DAYS GONE BY

What Peterborough People Read in The Examiner.

25 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Tuesday, October 27, 1903.

Two Peterborough men were arraigned in police court on a charge of furious driving, when they ran into a third man, injuring him. The case was heard before County Police Edmison, while County Crown Attorney Wood prosecuted.

Snow fell in Omemee to a depth of two inches last night.

Claims for compensation were heard by Judge Weller, from people whose land will be flooded by the new cereal mill dam.

While working at the C.G.E. company's new buildings, John S. Pogue, a riveter, fell twenty feet, breaking his wrist.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY A STRANGE NOISE FRIGHTENS US MORE THAN A STRANGE SIGHT

By M'ehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

You wake up in the night and hear a strange noise. You are terrified and cannot sleep until you find out what made the sound. This proclivity of ours to special fear of strange sounds is not confined to night noises, although the night sounds have the additional element of darkness to add to their terror. In the woods, at your work, anywhere a strange sound startles you. The start is a signal of quick mobilization to meet an immediate emergency. Our savage ancestors could not afford to be indifferent to strange noises.

A strange noise is more terrifying than a strange sight because you have no way of knowing how far the maker of the noise is from you. He may be close enough to pounce upon you the next moment. In other words our faculty for judging the distance of sound is not nearly as effective as for judging distances of objects we see. This better ability to judge strange sights gives you a better chance to run away or to prepare for combat.

We can judge familiar sounds fairly accurately by the known intensity of the sound. Suppose you had never heard a dog bark. You hear it now for the first time and are terrified because you have no way of knowing how far the animal is from you. The loudness of the bark is relative to the bark of a dog close by. And if you have never heard a dog bark at close range you cannot tell how loud a dog should bark. There is no medium or basis of comparison.

Strange sounds cannot be accurately located in addition to the disadvantage of not being able to judge its relative distance. This is very important. There is real cause for fearing a possible source of danger that cannot be located. For if you decide to run away you might accidently run toward it instead of away from it. And if you decide to fight you are compelled to strike blindly, not knowing where to hit.

The greater danger of strange sounds over strange sights consists in the defectiveness of the ear in locating sounds accurately as compared with the eye which is fairly accurate. Strange sounds frighten us more than strange sights because they strike the weaker parts of our defensive armor.

Why do you do what you do? Ask Dr. Thomson. Write care of this paper, and send stamped self-addressed envelope for reply.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE MURDERED DREAM

One killed my dog, and I forgave,
Even above my comrade's grave.
One stole my purse, and I forgot
Whether I had a purse or not.
One plucked the rose beside my door,
That also I forgave him for.
But now there's something in my breast
That will not let me sleep or rest.

Once even gray skies glistened blue,
And all things wore a lovely hue,
No cold in snow, no wet in rain,
No hurt in labor, pain in pain.
For always, in the darkest night,
Before me walked an angel bright,
And always, in the hardest day,
That heavenly vision showed the way.

And then I met, one certain morn,
A curling lip, a look of scorn,
And then I learned how sharp a spear
They wield who slaughter with a sneer.
I can forgive the oaf, the thief,
And he whose bullet brought me grief
But small offenses these may seem—
But what of him who kills a dream?

Roy D. Pitchford, gold medallist in the Boys' Class (Unchanged Voices) in the Kiwanis Music Festival, will sing the test piece, "The Chorister," at the concert, Monday night.

Let us figure on your new furnace

The Findlay furnace built on scientific B.T.U principles

The Findlay Warm Air Heating System leaves no room for faulty heating.
It begins with a flawless furnace—one of the very first to be built on scientific B.T.U. principles—the only absolutely correct method of measuring furnace heat and heat losses.
The Findlay Furnace has leak-proof joints, a big oversize water pan that assures moist, healthful air at all times—in all rooms . . . a dozen features of merit . . . from ash pit to radiator dome.

Installed by Experts

The Findlay Warm Air Heating System is installed under the guidance of heating and engineering experts. Heating difficulties are therefore met and overcome at the outset—not in the dead of winter. When the installation is made, simply fuel up, light up—and every room in your house is heated properly.

Guaranteed

Findlay Installations are guaranteed. Two things make this guarantee possible: the Findlay Furnace itself; and scientific installation. They are the only real bonded systems offered today.

Write for our book, "Heat and Health with WARM AIR." Ask also for the Findlay Service Chart, which makes it easy for you to draw up an exact plan of your house. From this we will give you—without charge or obligation—an estimate of cost for installing the Findlay.

Speed! Speed!
Always More Speed!

"THIS is an age of rapid motion," says Mr. Babson. "It will become more and more rapid, not less so."

Our nervous systems have failed to adjust themselves to the marvellous speeding up process of the last decade and the result in many cases is physical bankruptcy and nervous collapse. Sleeplessness, headaches, wearied feelings and digestive troubles are the most frequent warnings of danger.

Experience has proven that there is nothing like Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to rescue you from this helpless condition.

Rest and change are helpful, but in most cases it is absolutely necessary to have some medical assistance such as is found in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The starved, depleted nerve cells must be fed back to health and vigor and in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food are found the very ingredients which nature has intended for this purpose.

A few weeks use of this reconstructive treatment and you will be feeling and looking fine.

PROTESTANT HOME REPORT

The following is the report for the past year of the superintendent of the Peterborough Protestant Home, Miss A. M. Lancaster:

In reviewing the events of the last year, we must first record the death of four persons—three passing after long and painful illness, and one going out with absolute and startling suddenness. The health of the remaining inmates has been fair, with the exception of such ailments as are to be expected and indeed may be regarded as inevitable, in persons of advanced age. These ailments have necessitated, in some instances, a period of hospital treatment, so that the year will be seen to have been distinguished by considerable movement.

Many pleasant incidents, confirming and verifying what we have learned to expect—the kindness and goodwill of the citizens—took place during the year. The young people's societies of various churches, also the Caledonian and the Female Voice Choirs, put on entertainments which were much enjoyed. On Easter Sunday, by invitation of the Rector, and arrangements by the Automobile Association, we were taken down to All Saints' Church, where the gladness of the great festival was emphasized by beautiful floral decorations and fine music. Then came an invitation from the Ladies' Aid of St. Paul's to an old-fashioned concert, those who were able to go being conveyed in cars there and back by the gentlemen of that congregation. This was particularly enjoyed.

The acceptance of an invitation to the Capitol Theatre was made possible by the kindness of the Automobile Association, and was the occasion of a great deal of hearty laughter, which we are assured is better than medicine.

Then the Annual outing, for which we have to thank the Royal Arthur Lodge, A.F. and A.M., took place on August 1st. The place was Chemong—the day perfection, and Mr. and Mrs. Westbye, who kindly offered their cottage, were the kindest and most interested of hosts. Several experienced the pleasure unusual now, but bringing back memories of the days of their youth, of boat-rides on the calm surface of the beautiful lake. The catering was done by St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid, which is all that need be said about the excellence of the dinner served.

It is too much, perhaps, to expect that in a house of this sort, peopled by men and women who have grown up, each in different environments, with varying temperaments and traditions, that there should always be tranquility. They can hardly be expected to agree in every particular, and indeed it is a surprise that there is so little serious friction. And I am glad to record and to remember many instances of mutual helpfulness and kindness—many instances of patient endurance of pain, and of unselfish sharing of pleasure. We still have with us our oldest inhabitant, Miss Martin, who received last June, on her 95th birthday, a dress length, which she immediately cut out, and made almost entirely herself by hand, wore it with much comfort, and took a prize thereon at the Peterborough Exhibition. Several others of the old ladies also took prizes on their very creditable needlework.

It is these, who sincerely appreciate the efforts made to make them comfortable who earn the respect and esteem of other in the house. No one in the house can doubt the constant care and thought bestowed by the Board upon the welfare of the inmates; and this thoughtful kindness is deeply appreciated.

If more of the church representatives would make the effort to visit here, they would be very welcome. It is an effort, I know, but most of the women, especially in the winter, when they are so much shut in, even from their much-enjoyed sun-porch, would be cheered and comforted by the feeling that they were not forgotten. And if any of the ladies could come prepared to read aloud to some who cannot, with their dim eyes, read with pleasure for themselves, it would be indeed a much-appreciated kindness.

I wish also to express my personal gratitude to the Board for their unvarying kindness and consideration, and their help in solving the problems which, from time to time arise in the management of this house.

Secretary's Report.

The following is the report of the secretary, Mrs. F. M. DeLaFosse, for the affairs of the past year at the Peterborough Protestant Home:

Madam President, Members of the Board of the Protestant Home, Ladies and Gentlemen—I beg herewith to present my Annual Report as Secretary of your Board.

The past year has been one of very satisfactory progress. Twenty regular meetings have been held with an average attendance of 9 members and much important business has been transacted.

The generous aid given to us in the work by various public societies has been most gratifying, and it gives me pleasure to mention in this connection, the different Church societies, the Automobile Club, the Capitol Theatre, and many other kind friends.

To the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. we are indebted for so handsomely furnishing the Women's Sun-porch, which has so materially added to the appearance and comfort of this structure.

Warm thanks are also due to the Royal Arthur Lodge, A.F. & A.M. for a most enjoyable annual picnic, and to Mr. and Mrs. Westbye for the use of their grounds at Chemong on that occasion.

Cordial thanks are also due to the clergy of the city as well as to the doctors and to the press for benefits conferred during the year. To Mr. Wren, Miss Clarry and the members of th Trinity Church Choir we also tender our warm thanks for the splendid Christmas entertainment provided by them last year.

I have to record that during the past twelve months bequests from the estate of the late Emily Mitchell of $100, and from that of the late Elizabeth Anne Harper, of $200 have been made to the Home.

I also have to record with thanks the gift of $25 from Mrs. Hannah Bell.

Mr. Beavis, an old resident died suddenly in the Home on Feb. 6th. We also have to note the passing of Mr. John Morrison and Mr. Clegg and Mrs. Cobb, who were with us for many years.

The improvements that have been made at the Home during the past twelve months include the following:

The laundry has been placed in first-class condition and has been fully supplied with electrical equipment.

New eavetroughs have been placed round the entire building and railings on the Men's staircases.

Outside improvements include painting and general repairs.

A new seeder has also been purchased for the farm.

On the recommendation of the Fire Chief 6 chemical fire extinguishers have been installed in the halls.

The Register of the Home which has been in use since 1885 has been rebound.

Fifty-two persons have been lodged in the Home during the year October 1st, 1927-1928—Canadians 45, English 2, Irish 1, Welsh 1, American 3. Total, 52.

There are in the Home September 30th, 1928—men, 12; women, 24. Total 36.

Discharged during the year—men, 9; women, 6. Total, 15.

Died in the Home—1.

Total, 52.

Number remaining in the Home October 1st, 1927—men, 14; women 20. Total 34.

Admitted during the year—men, 8; women, 10. Total 18.

Total, 52.

Total number of days spent in the Home—12,525; a verage number of days per inmate, 241.

In concluding my report I would like to mention the valuable services rendered by Miss Lancaster and the members of her staff. The Board also desire to record their appreciation of the faithful work of Mr. Hamilton and Mrs. Hurry. The first-class condition of the Home and its surroundings is sufficient testimony to their efficiency.

All of which is respectfully submitted,
AMY DE LA FOSSE,
Secretary of the Board.

Grounds Superintendent.

The following is the report of the Grounds Superintendent of the Peterborough Protestant Home, J. C. Hamilton, for activities of the past year:

To the President and Directors of the Peterborough Protestant Home, ladies and gentlemen:

Herewith I have the honor of submitting my Annual Report for the years 1927 and 1928 (October to October) as to crops raised on the Home grounds. potatoes (eating) bags, 48; potatoes (small for feed), bags, 6½; mangolds, bushels, 110; turnips, bushels, 95; carrots, bushels, 22; beets, bushels, 11; onions, bags, 3; loose oats (for feed) tons, 2½; cabbage, heads, 226; parsnips, bushels, 13; apples, bushels, 3½.

As regards eggs I have had some 385 dozens from 40 hens and 19 chickens have been killed for home use.

Reverting to garden produce, a quantity of water melons, pumpkins, citron, cucumbers, peas, beans, corn, tomatoes, cauliflowers and other vegetables have been raised for summer use.

As regards fruit I sold 4 baskets of plums at 60 cents per basket; all other fruits and vegetables were used in the Home. One calf I sold for 10 dollars.

GOVERNOR SMITH IN PENNSYLVANIA

Candidate Will Speak in Quaker City To-night, a Republican Stronghold.

NEW YORK, October 27 (Canadian Press). — Satisfied in his own mind that his fight for the presidency has made forward strides as a result of his New England incursion, Governor Smith to-day carries his campaign into Pennsylvania, the enemy stronghold which has not felt the sting of Democratic defeat in more than 70 years.

For an hour late to-day, the Democratic presidential nominee will head an automobile procession through the principal streets of Philadelphia, and to-night, in the Quaker City Arena, he will deliver his thirteenth formal address of this campaign which has taken him more than 10,000 miles by rail and automobile.

AMERICAN PEOPLE OBSERVE NAVY DAY

Every State in the Union is Holding Celebrations To-day.

WASHINGTON, October 27 (Canadian Press). — This is Navy Day, observed annually throughout the American naval establishments on the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt. Through gubernatorial proclamations and the co-operation of the Navy League of the United States, appropriate exercises were planned for every State in the Union. These included speeches by the high ranking officers of the navy and the opening of naval bases and warcraft to visitors.

Stop that agonizing RHEUMATISM

Read how James Dalley, 1404 Gerrard St. East, Toronto, stopped his:

"I was attacked by Rheumatism in the hips (he wrote). It got steadily worse, spread over my body. People recommended all kinds of liniments and medicines. My druggist gave my son a free sample of T-R-C's. I wouldn't use the sample. Was so discouraged. Then I started taking T-R-C's. Felt much better after the second dose. By the time I had used 6 or 8 $1 boxes the pain and stiffness had all gone."

What better proof could you want? Why continue suffering with Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Neuritis, Lumbago? T-R-C's will help your body get rid of the poisons that cause the trouble—will give you safe, speedy relief. No harmful drugs. 50c and $1 at your druggist's. T77

DESIRES TO HOLD BALANCE OF POWER

Churchill Declares Liberal Party Best Fault Finders in Existence.

EPPING, Essex, England, Oct. 27. —(Canadian Press Cable). — The object of the Liberal party is to get into a position whereby they will hold balance of power in the next parliament, declared Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of Exchequer, in a speech last night.

Describing the Liberal party as perhaps the best fault finders in existence, Mr. Churchill said hardly anything escaped their attention. The Liberal Party's aim next parliament, Mr. Churchill stated, is an arrangement "In which there will be no substonce but only shadow."

IN POLICE COURT

Her counsel, J. A. O'Brien, entering a plea of guilty to replace the original plea of not guilty on a charge of selling contrary to the Liquor Control Act, Mrs. Margaret Brisboise, of Otonabee, was this morning sentenced to two months' imprisonment by Magistrate O. A. Langley, that being the minimum punishment provided in the act.

Ralph Davis was remanded until November 1, on a charge of entering with intent to commit theft in the property of Lowe and Outram, wholesale confectioners, 184 George street, on Friday, October 26. Bail was set at $4,000.00. Davis had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

"CONFEDERATION" TRAIN TO EDMONTON ENSURES PLEASANT, COMFORTABLE JOURNEY

Canadian National Railway Officials are being congratulated on having continued the popular "Confederation" in operation between Toronto and Edmonton.

This innovation has eliminated most of the delays experienced by travellers crossing the Prairies in the winter time as it provides a fast, through, comfortable service to Edmonton, via Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina and Saskatoon. By this route good connections are made to all important points by lines radiating from these cities.

The splendid equipment and courteous service—always a feature of the "Confederation"—ensure a pleasant journey without the discomforts of Winter travel.

QUEBEC'S FIRST STAMP MILL IS NOW OPERATING

Thompson-Cadillac the First Mine in the Province To Mill Gold Ore.

HIGH GRADE ORE.

Two Stopes Established to Date On Number One Vein.

AMOS.— The Thompson-Cadillac Mine has placed its small ten stamp test mill in operation and is credited with being the first mine to mill gold-bearing Ore in Quebec province.

The installation of the Straub mill had just been completed and the work of tuning-up was in progress when visited.

Waste rock was being run through at the time but as soon as the necessary adjustments had been made the intention was to start treating high grade. This work has since been started and it is reported satisfactory results are being obtained.

The mill has been erected to treat the mine's high grade ore which carries free gold. A considerable amount of this is now in the dump having been brought out in development work. This is to be run through the mill first, following which ore will be drawn from the stopes. Two stopes have been established to date, both on the No. 1 vein.

One is on the 150-ft. level where a raise is being put up to surface. The raise is now up over 25 feet and about 60 tons of ore have been stoped here.

The second stope is on the 300-ft. level where a raise is being put up to the 150-ft. level, and is now up 40 feet.

A three-compartment shaft has been put down to a depth of 322 feet and work at the present time is being centred on the opening up of Nos. 1 and 2 veins on the 150 and 300 foot levels.

The shaft was sunk on No. 1 vein, which remained in the shaft most of the way down, dipping out shortly before the 300-ft. level was reached At this depth it is ten feet south of the shaft.

150 Foot Level.

On the first level, No. 1 vein has been drifted on 50 feet to the east and 250 feet to the west. The main north crosscut which was started 10 feet east of the shaft is now out 200 feet. It is now going through the syenite and is to be extended 100 feet the other side of it.

Nos. 1 and 2 veins have been connected up on this level by two crosscuts. The main north crosscut intersects No. 2 vein 60 feet from No. 1, and a second crosscut 100 feet west of the shaft also connects the two. A third crosscut 300 feet west of the shaft is also being pushed out to connect the two veins. Drifting on No. 2 vein on this level has been confined to the west where it has been opened up for a distance of approximately 100 feet.

On the 300 ft. level No. 1 vein has been drifted on 300 feet to the west and 200 feet to the east. The main north crosscut has been carried 300 feet to the north. It intercepts No. 2 vein 70 feet north of the shaft. No. 2 vein has been drifted on 300 feet in both directions.

At the present time the drift is being pushed east on No. 1 vein on the 150 foot level to get over the ore shoot opened up on this vein on the 300 foot level.

An impressive amount of development work has been done on this property where over 3,000 feet of lateral work has been carried out to date. Murray D. Kennedy is in charge of the operation and has 41 men employed on the property.

Thompson-Cadillac's plant consists of tw 60o h.p. boilers, a 525 cu. ft. compressor, Rand drill sharpener, and an 8¼ by 10 hoist.

The mine has its own assay plant, and electric lighting plant.

ENTRANCE PUPILS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

Rev. J. E. Todd Delivers Interesting Address to Central School Class.

Addressing the class of entrance pupils to whom he presented diplomas last evening at the meeting of the Central Home and School Association, Rev. J. E. Todd drew their attention to some of the important aspects of life. Drawing from his own personal experience, he cited many instances which might be of use to them, and adjured them to follow in their fathers' footsteps as much as possible, but to never rest content until they were even better than their parents, in material, intellectual, and spiritual ways.

Rev. Mr. Todd also pointed out to the parents the necessity of giving their children the best possible educational advantages.

The meeting which was presided over by K. . Wightman, in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. H. Lacey, opened with the singing of "O Canada," and had a very enjoyable musical interlude to the regular business session.

Those taking part in the program were Isabel Weddell, in vocal numbers, David Pearse and Jean Howson in piano selections, Dorothy Boorman, Gwen Parnall, and Thelma Buller, in recitations, and a trio of lads, Jack Skitch, John Allison, and Clarence Thompson, in mouth organ renditions.

At the conclusion of the program, refreshments were served.

ASSOCIATION ELECTS OFFICERS

George G. Gimblett Re-elected President of All Saints' Athletic Club.

EXCELLENT REPORTS.

The annual meeting of All Saints' Athletic Association was held on Friday evening, October 26. The meeting opened with President Gimblett in the chair and the club room practically filled to capacity. The members of the association took their respective seats in a dignified manner as they knew they had something worth while for the honorary member to see, with their display of cups and shields, and a newly decorated club room for a background. The meeting commenced with the general routine, followed by the reading and endorsement of the club's constitution. The auditors, Mr. Price and Mr. Hope, gave great credit to the former officers for the splendid showing they put up during the past year. Honorary members Richardson and Waudby congratulated the club on the successful showing they had put up in sport and goodwill during the past season. The secretary, Mr. J. Smith, who was absent, had his report read by Mr. C. Thomas, the acting secretary for the evening. This report was highly commented upon by all. The treasurer, H. Lundy, gave a splendid financial report, and received much applause from the members of the association. The president, G. Gimblett, was shown great appreciation by the club members when he gave his report on the general work of the assocation.

Hon. President Rev. J. D. Paterson, then took the chair, and the election of officers followed after he had given the association hearty thanks for the work which it had accomplished. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Hon. Presidest—Rev. J. D. Paterson.

Hon. Vice-Presidents—Messrs. A. Robinson, H Ashmore, Richardson, Price, Waudby, Young, Chevrill, and Hope.

President—George Gimblett, Jr.
Vice-President—Spencer Hope.
Secretary—Stanley Jones.
Treasurer—Wilford Davies.
Chairman of Executive—Jack Hope.
Captain—Charlie Ross.
Athletic Leader—Clayton Frost.

After the officers had been installed a general discussion was carried on regarding the coming year's activities. It is planned that a hockey team will be entered in the City Junior League as well as a team in the City Church League. The members of the association agreed to play their annual rugby game on Thanksgiving Day, and that a suitable place be arranged for so as to continue the basketball games which were carried on last year. The boxing, wrestling, tennis, running, and general work of the association will be carried on in and around the club room as previously.

BOOTHS FOR HALLOWE'EN PARTY

Boy Scouts Will Have Soft Drinks and Pumpkin Pie On Sale.

A body of boy scouts have consented to take care of the wants of both spectators and those in costume at the Armouries Hallowe'en night when they will erect and stock with soft drinks, pumpkin pie and other good things which have been sought for on the occasion of other celebrations.

The proceeds will take care of some urgent demands.

She Can Now Walk Eight Miles Easily

"I have been laid up with the Lumbago and Rheumatism," writes Mrs. E. Corbin, of Fraxville, N.S. "It was so bad I was unable to get up out of my chair or turn in bed. After using one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills I was a lot better. I was able to get around without the aid of help and now walk eight miles twice a week for my groceries." Dodd's Kidney Pills tone up and strengthen Weak Kidneys so that they can do their full work of straining all the impurities from the blood.

TO THE MOTHERS OF ALL PALE GIRLS

If Your Daughter Shows Signs of Anaemia a Tonic is Needed.

Anaemia is simply a lack of blood. It is one of the most common and at the same time most dangerous troubles from which growing girls suffer. It is common because the blood so often becomes impoverished during development, when girls often overwork and overstudy. It is dangerous because of the stealthiness of its approach and because of its tendency to grow steadily worse. Every growing girl should occasionally take a tonic to ward off this insidious trouble. It is because of their powerful action in rebuilding the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made a world-wide reputation. The case of Miss Claire Sullivan, Pincher Creek, Alta., amply proves the value of this medicine. Miss Sullivan says: "During my school days I suffered a great deal from thin and watery blood. I was continually weak and tired; my appetite was poor, my sleep unrefreshing and I was troubled with backaches. To make matters worse I was attacked with acute appendicitis and the operation left me in a very weakened state. My mother, learning of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, had me take them and after using them for some time I can say the result was simply wonderful as they completely restored my health, and now when opportunity occurs I always recommend these pills to weak, pale girls suffering as I did."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

C. J. BEAUCLERC LEAVES EXAMINER

The city of Peterborough lost a citizen keenly interested in its welfare, the local Y's Men's Club, All Saints' Church Sunday School and other organizations an active member, but most of all The Examiner lost a willing and capable member of its staff in the departure to-day for Owen Sound of Joseph C. Beauclerc, until to-day city editor. Mr. Beauclerc will assume the duties of telegraph editor of the Owen Sound Times, a position of responsibility that his Peterborough newspaper experience well fits him for.

"Joe" Beauclerc, as he was widely known in Peterborough and Lakefield, is a native son of this city, having been educated in Peterborough public schools and Collegiate Institute. For some time he was an employee of the C.G.E., but began his newspaper career about four years ago, as a reporter. He later assumed a "desk job," and some months ago was raised to the responsible position of city editor. Needless to say, he has formed a wide circle of friends in the Council and other civic bodies, as well as in sporting and social circles. All wish him well in his new station.

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. It is harmless and tasteless and its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, never continue to suffer, when you learn how quickly how pleasantly this premier method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any druggists.

Gifts that Bring Yuletide Joy

Personal Greeting Cards

selected from the wide range and exclusive lines
now ready for inspection at

The Peterborough Examiner, Ltd.
"The Complete Printing Plant."

We also invite your inspection of our moderately priced lines of Gift Stationery in white and colors. Some of it is ribbon tied and boxed in very pleasing styles.

Then there are the lines of Correspondence Cards which make nice gifts, especially if the name or initial or monogram is embossed thereon in either Gold or Silver. This can be had at a slight additional cost.

You might like to have the stationery printed or embossed. We can do this for you in almost any color desired, and at a reasonable charge. It makes the gift more personal.

We also make up boxes of personal stationery for men, with envelopes to match. These boxes usually have the name and address embossed in blue or black on the legal size notepaper and envelopes.

Our stock of plain die sunk cards permits of you having a purely individual greeting card made up with your own verse and ornament to suit. These are reasonably priced and have envelopes to match. See our sample book of these.

Perhaps you would rather have a folder made up with verses of your own composition or those of a dear friend on. We will be glad to make any number of these up for you on short notice.

We would suggest that all orders for special greeting cards, personal stationery, etc., be placed without delay in order that we may serve you well and with complete satisfaction.

You will find "WELCOME" on the mat at The Examiner, where Examiner Greeting Card Girls will be glad to serve you.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XVII.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM, on his way back to London from the United States, to help wind up the affairs of his young half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW, meets Julie in Switzerland through his friend, HARRY LOMBARD. He determines to make Julie fall in love with him and then spurn her, to avenge his brother. But after accomplishing his purpose—and failing in love with her as well—he finds out that she is a cousin of the JULIE FARROW who broke Rodney's heart. Because he has been married he has to give her up, after telling her the truth. He goes on to London to see his mother, MRS. ARDRON, a rather silly woman who wants to enjoy life. He takes her to a night club. There he sees Julie, who, much made up, is acting wild and boisterous.

Across the table Julie found Giles Chittenham's eyes upon her, and immediately she roused herself to her old gaiety and flippancy.

"A penny for your thoughts," she said. "What were they? Were you admiring me, or what was it?"

Giles did not answer. Something had brought back the memory of this girl as she had looked that morning they came down from the cold mountain tops into the sunshine of the valley beneath—the memory of how she had slept during the long drive back, with her cheek against his arm, of how she had said when they parted: "I'll look much prettier when you see me again."

She was the same Julie as this girl with the hard mocking eyes and painted lips, but the difference between them hurt him like a physical pain. And he alone was to blame. It was all his fault, the fault of his arrogance in believing that he had the right to judge or to avenge.

"I don't think my thoughts would be worth even a penny to you," he answered, and Julie laughed.

"I expect you're right," she said. "Well, I suppose I must go back to my own depressing crowd, or I shall be making myself unpopular as usual." She pushed back her chair and rose. "Bye-bye everyone! I suppose we shall meet again some day. Doris will tell you where I live. Mr. Chittenham, if you ever feel like running in for a cocktail, and if she doesn't remember you've only got to inquire of the police! I'm well known to the police." She laughed again recklessly, waved her hand and strolled back to her own corner where she was greeted with ironical cheers and banter.

There was a little silence when she had gone, which Mrs. Ardron broke by a mild question.

"Is she always like that, Doris?"

"She has been lately. I can't make her out——"

Essen shrugged his fat shoulders. "She's just acting!" he said with unusual insight. "Acting all the time. The trouble is that she overdoes it. You ought to give her the tip, Doris."

Doris frowned.

"It's not my business. If she likes to make a fool of herself let her, and it's a dead cert that if Bim can't pull her up I can't!" She glanced at Chittenham. "You heard her ask you to call and see her? Well, a couple of months ago she'd have died rather than suggest it. We used to call her the Wise Virgin, because she kept men at such arms' length. It's a different tune now. You ought to go and sample things for yourself, Mr. Chittenham."

Giles shook his head.

"I'm afraid it wouldn't appeal to me," he said stiffly.

"Giles simply doesn't care for women" his mother struck in. "We might as well not exist for all the difference we make to him. A born bachelor, aren't you, Giles?"

Giles laughed dryly.

"I wouldn't bet too heavily on it, mother." He thought of Sadie. She would have been quite at home with Essen and his friends; it hurt intolerably to realize that Julie was striving to be like Sadie.

"You look very solemn, Giles!" his mother said with a shade of anxiety. He roused himself with an effort.

"Sorry! I was listening to the band."

It was not true. He was not listening to anything except to the sad accusing voice of his own conscience.

"Shall we dance?" Doris asked, and he rose at once.

"Didn't you want to dance?" she asked, and he hastened to reply that of course he did.

"It's what I came for."

He tried not to see Julie as they went round the room, but she seemed the only real thing in a crowd of unrealities; he tried to keep his eyes turned from her, but against his will they sought her face again and again.

She was laughing—always laughing in that shrill, reckless fashion! Once he saw her lean across and pull the curly hair of a youth scarcely out of his teens who was very flushed and obviously much the worse for drink, and the boy retorted by lurching over and kissing her white arm.

Giles set his teeth.

He longed to go across to her and pick her up in his arms and carry her away from the noise and heat and glare, and soothe her into rest and sanity again. He felt that everyone must know of his share in this tragedy and be holding him in derisive contempt. When Doris Gardener spoke to him he felt as if he had to drag himself back from another world to answer her.

"I hope we shall meet again," she was saying in her casual, rather bored voice. "I've known your mother for some time."

"So I understand. I shall be delighted, of course." He answered at haphazard. "I shall be staying in London for some time."

"Splendid!" She raised her eyes to his face with a faint smile. "Perhaps you'll come along and sample my cocktails some day, even if you don't think Julie's would interest you."

"I shall be delighted."

He wondered if she believed him; wondered what she would say if he told her that the only things of any interest to him in the world were Julie and Julie's future.

"I run a highly respectable menage," Doris was saying. "I live with my father. He's paralyzed, poor lamb, so even if he wanted to run about and look after me, he couldn't. But we're very good friends, and I'm one of the most harmless of the harmless set to which I belong."

"I am sure of it," Chittenham said absently.

She raised her brows and laughed. "Is that meant for a compliment? Never mind. I'm not easily offended either way." She paused, but Giles did not speak, and after a moment she said again, "I was rather surprised to see you and Mrs. Ardron here tonight."

"Really? Why?"

"I don't know. You're not the type of man one meets here as a rule, and your mother——"

"Mother had never been to a night club before. She thinks she is seeing life, in capital letters."

His voice was grimly ironical.

"That's what we all try to make ourselves believe." Doris answered calmly. "We think we're the whole cheese, but in our hearts we know quite well all the time that we're only just a nasty, rather smelly little corner of it."

It was impossible not to laugh at her frankness.

"Why do you do it then?" Chittenham asked.

"Why?" she shrugged her shoulders. "God only knows! It's amusing at first, and afterwards—well, it gets to be a habit, and it's difficult to break oneself of habits."

"I suppose it's all right if you really enjoy it."

"Enjoy it? Do you think we do?" she asked mockingly. "Do you think Julie Farrow is enjoying herself? She'll probably tell you she is if you ask her, but I know better. There's an early-Victorian streak in Julie. She ought to be married to a respectable man with high ideals. She ought to have half a dozen children and live in the country, and instead——"

"Instead—what?"

"I suppose she'll end up by getting into a corner she can't get out of, unless Bim can pull her up in time with a firm hand."

"This Bim seems rather an interesting personality."

"She is. She wears her hair in an Eton crop and dresses in rather a mannish fashion, but she's really the most entirely feminine thing I know."

Chittenham looked at her with interest.

"You're rather complex yourself," he said quietly.

She flushed faintly. "Do you think so? I'm not really. Only when one is entirely ordinary one has to make an effort to attract in some way or other, so I paint my lips redder than anyone else's, and let people think my husband divorced me——"

"And didn't he?" Giles had asked the question before he was aware of it, and he hurriedly apologized. "I beg your pardon. I should not have asked."

"Oh, yes you should! I wanted you to ask," Doris said coolly. "I married when I was eighteen—I'm twenty-two now. I went out to East Africa with my husband, and found—well, the usual thing!" She made a little gesture of distaste. "I stuck it for a year, then I came home. I'm not divorced at all, but I let people think I am, and it makes no difference as I shall never want to get married again."

"But I thought——"

"You mean, your mother told you that Marco and I were going to make a match of it? I let people think so because it adds interest, but I wouldn't marry him if he were the last man in the world and could cover me with diamonds from head to foot. No, thank you—if you're a woman-hater, I'm a man-hater."

"Some day you will change your mind."

"Do you think so? And does that mean that you have?"

Chittenham laughed.

"Are you setting a trap for my unwary feet?" he asked.

"No, but I heard you tell Julie Farrow you had once put your fingers into the fire and been badly burnt."

"I probably said that because it seemed to be expected of me. If I lived in this atmosphere for long I should be saying all sorts of things which were entirely without foundation."

"Yes," Doris agreed calmly. "It's a hell of a life."

(To be continued.)

Better Than Any Diet

LAY less attention to what you eat; not one person in a thousand need diet; or ever really has indigestion. Acidity, flatulence and heartburn are caused by excess stomach acid and food fermentation.

Following a hasty lunch, or too hearty a dinner, a little "Pape's Diapepsin," instantly neutralizes excess acidity, stops that fermentation, and soothes and heals the acid-inflamed stomach lining as if by magic. Your recovery is quick, and complete. Make a special point of getting a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today, and so follow the example of millions all over the world who use "Pape's Diapepsin" to end indigestion and allied stomach troubles.

With "Pape's Diapepsin" handy you can eat and enjoy whatever you fancy, without fear of pain or discomfort to follow. At any rate, it's worth the trial, for lots of folks have found a new freedom at the table.

Mr. C. J. Beauclerc, who has been a member of the editorial staff of The Examiner during the past four years, leaves to-day to motor to Owen Sound, where he has accepted the position of telegraph editor with The Owen Sound Daily Sun-Times. Mrs. Beauclerc will spend the next fortnight in Lakefield with her parents before joining him. "Joe," as he has been known in The Examiner plant, was for some time a member of the reporting staff, being promoted to the position of city editor some months ago. He was one of the most popular members of the staff and has been a general favorite with every department. A great deal of regret is felt over his departure, although the best of wishes follow him to his new field of endeavor, where his unfailing good nature and amiable disposition will doubtless bring him the same meed of general liking and respect. To-day at noon, representatives of the different departments gathered to wish him Godspeed and to present him with a wrist watch as a souvenir of their regard. An address, prepared by Mr. F. D. Craig, was read by Miss Cathleen McCarthy and the presentation was made by Miss Phyllis Robinson.

Members of the Caledonian Club held one of their very jolly parties last evening, in the form of a Hallowe'en masquerade, in the Woodmen of the World Hall. Black and orange decorations were used for the occasion and a blithe program of fun and frolic consisted of dancing, with an eightsome reel as one of the chief features, and a Grand March for the judging of costumes, followed by the service of dainty refreshments. Over one hundred people were present, with seniors and juniors alike taking part in the gaiety of the evening, and dressed in costumes of many types and fancies. Judging was done by Miss Cathleen McCarthy and prizes were awarded to Miss Peggy Irvine, as a Colonial Dame, and Mr. John Wyllie, Junior, as a Spaniard, in the fancy dress class. Prizes for best comic costumes for ladies and gentlement were won by Mrs. M. Moffat, as a fat Dude, and W. Waddell and Andrew Jackson, the two latter winning the prize jointly as an elephant, whose antics were life-like and extremely funny. In the girls' and boys' fancy section, prizes went to Miss Isabel Duthie, as Winter, and to Stewart Clark as a Chef, while comic prizes were also awarded to Mrs. John Wyllie, as a Witch, and to James Brown as a tiny Pierrot. The president, Mr. R. Veitch, was in charge of arrangements, assisted by Messrs. R. Hendry and A. Clark, with Messrs. R. Gilmour and A. Begg playing the accordion for dancing. Ladies looking after decorations were Mrs. R. Veitch, Mrs. A. Duthie, Mrs. James Reid, Miss Helen Veitch and Miss Isabel Reid. Little Isabel Gilmour made the presentation of a box of chocolates to the judge, Miss McCarthy. Among others who were present in costume were noticed: Mr. and Mrs. Irvine, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour, Mesdames Brown, Kenney, R. French, Ralston, Nimmons, Lister, D. Anderson, Petrie, Joseph Reid, J. Kingsbury, Hutton, A. Clark, the Misses Betty Kenney, Helen Shearer, Jean Baird, Nimmons, Jean Rae, Agnes Baird, Mary Kingsbury, Jenny Clark, Grace Ingram, Jean Ingram, Margaret Irvine, Marion Irvine, Cummings, Betty Goldie, Jessie McGillivray, and Margaret Wyllie, Messrs. John Rae, R. Wyllie, J. Wyllie, W. Robb, A. Burgess, J. Miller, N. MacDonald, G. Low, G. Nimmons, Ian McPhate, Mays, T. Gemmell, D. McMaster, J. Waddell, W. Waddell, Frood, A. Begg, J. McLeod, W. Petrie, W. Rae and D. Anderson.

Mrs. R. H. Parsons and Miss Marjorie Hatton were tea hostesses yesterday afternoon at the opening meeting for the season of the Women's Art Association, when Miss Nora Thompson of Toronto was the visiting speaker of the day. Assistants were Mrs. R. M. Waddell, Miss Mabel Collins, Miss Clara Morris and Miss Margaret Borbridge. The table was very attractive with bright golden calendula in a silver basket and pale yellow candles in silver holders.

An atmosphere of mirth and merriment pervaded the bright upper hall at the Downyflake last night, on the occasion of the Hallowe'en party held under the auspices of the Liberal Ladies' Club. About one hundred and twenty-five people were in attendance, the majority being in costume, and everyone appeared to be having the best possible time. The decorations were done in black and orange, with a profusion of overhead streamers and numerous ghostly figures welcoming the guests. Little grottoes decorated with black cats and other Hallowe'en insignia were used for the telling of fortunes. Good music for dancing was supplied by Sproule's orchestra. Two special entertainers of the evening, both in blackface and comic costume, were Harry Dugan and Fred Scates, who enlivened the proceedings and kept the ball of fun rolling all evening, in their own inimitable style. Dr. J. J. Craig and Mr. J. J. Duffus, from the Men's Club, also assisted in making the affair go with a swing and a dash that gave it a very enjoyable aspect. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. B. F. McNeely, with Mrs. W. Stevens acting as treasurer and Mrs. C. R. Banks as general convenor, assisted by an energetic corps of ladies. Mrs. J. McNeely and Mrs. J. D. Deyell officated at the door and Miss Clara Fontaine looked after the card games, prizes for which were won by Mrs. C. Powers and Mrs. D. Hinton. Fortunes were told by Mrs. R. Bugg and Mrs. R. Lynch. Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Austin, proprietors of the Downyflake, lent their usual ready assistance, the latter helping Harry Dugan in "calling off" for a square dance which was a variation in the evening's dancing program. Judges for the costumes were Mrs. J. J. Craig and Miss Cathlene McCarthy and prizes were awarded to Miss Helen Hennessey, a belle in crinoline and Mr. Herbert Walker, a green-clad Pierrot, for ladies' and gentleman's fancy dress. Mr. Hosanna Vinette, a lingerie-clad lady who, with his partner, contributed much to the fun of the evening, receiving the prize for the gentlemen's comic costume and Miss Mary Grove was awarded the decision for the best girl's original outfit, as a Midshipman. Little Ruthie McNeely, as the "Spirit of Hallowe'en," a charming sprite, received a special prize for the smallest girl present in costume.

A GREAT PUZZLE TO CAREFUL PARENTS

One of the greatest puzzles to the careful parent is to know just what medicine to give the little ones. When the child falls ill with griping pains; is seized with cold or fever, refuses food or vomits what he has taken when he cries a great deal and cannot get the sleep so necessary to the growing child, the parent is in a quandary. What is to be done on such occasions? As often as not there is not a suitable medicine in the house. The puzzle is what to give him to set him right quickly.

It is to meet such emergencies that Baby's Own Tablets were designed. These pleasant little Tablets quickly reduce fever, break up colds, relieve constipation and indigestion and allay teething pains. They quiet the nerves and promote restful health-restoring sleep. They are guaranteed absolutely harmless and safe for even the youngest and most delicate baby.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Gray tweed coat made without collar to be worn with fox scarf.

With the world of fashion so full of luxurious winter coats lavishly trimmed with fur it takes a bit of courage to put in a plea for the coat that has no fur at all. Still this type of coat has a definite place in the wardrobe of the woman who has many new coats every season and it also seems to me an important place in the dress scheme of things for the woman who has but one.

Just at present there is no street costume smarter and so unquestionably right for wear about town for informal luncheon, and afternoon engagements too, as the two-piece suit worn with a fox scarf. I am sure few of us dreamed that by this time American women would have been so won over to this type of street costume that has for some time been more popular in France than in this country.

And only the optimistic would have felt certain that so many of the women who have adopted it would wear it with such distinction and chic. Apparently the simplest sort of ensemble, it requires a sure sense of dress to wear it well. Shoes and stockings must be chosen with such careful regard to the cut and color of the little suit. The skirt must be of precisely the right length, for even a half inch one way or the other may spoil the effect. And the skirt must fit with just that scantness to keep it from being dowdy and just that looseness to keep it from drawing in the least. Gloves, hat, blouse, handbag must all be simple and yet faultless of their sort. And with this two-piece suit goes the fox scarf as unquestionably as mint sauce goes with roast lamb or cranberries with turkey.

With cooler weather these light little suits will be put aside in most climates for heavier, longer coats and frocks—but just as surely the two-piece suit and fox scarf will be revived for spring. And so it occurs to me that for the woman who cannot afford to buy a good fox scarf and a winter coat trimmed with fur of a good quality a very excellent plan is to buy a substantial winter coat without fur.

NEIGHBORLY HELPS

This column is used by Examiner neighbors to help out others who have requested recipes or advice. You may use it freely by addressing Marion.

"Dear Marion:

I noticed some days ago one of your readers was asking for citron preserve and another for red cabbage. These two recipes have always given me good satisfaction. The alum gives the citron a nice flavor and the cabbage keeps crisp for a year or more with the cold boiled vinegar.

Citron Preserve.

Cut the citron into cubes about an inch long, and cover with boiling water and one level teaspoon of powdered alum. Boil for about five minutes then let it stand until the next day. Strain from the alum water then make a syrup of 2 cups of white sugar, to a pint of water, add 1 oz. of bruised root ginger and a lemon shredded fine. Put in the citron and cook all very slowly until it looks yellow and transparent.

I have tried several recipes but everyone who has tasted this one thinks it delicious.

Pickled Red Cabbage.

Shred cabbage fine with a sharp knife and put in a fairly strong brine of salt and water overnight. Then drain well on a clean cloth. Boil half a gallon of white vinegar with a cup of brown sugar, a tablespoon of salt, a few grains of cayenne and 2 tablespoons of mixed pickling spice tied in a muslin bag. Allow the whole to get cold, lift out the spice, pack the cabbage in jars and pour over the cold spiced vinegar and seal. The cold vinegar makes the cabbage more crisp.

Hoping these will prove of some help, I remain, MRS. F. S."

For what saith the Scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness. Now to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt. But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.—Rom. iv, 3-5.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

I have received a letter from a Lindsay reader which is of so general interest, and contains so grave a warning, that I am going to discuss it in the Whatnot column. It is a subject which affects every woman.

• • • • • • •

My correspondent tells me her husband died about a year ago, leaving her some money invested in good bonds. She could have lived very nicely in Lindsay on the income from these securities.

• • • • • • •

Then along came a presentable young man who won her confidence, told her how the nest-egg could be re-invested so as to double itself very quickly—he offered to attend to all the details of the transaction so as to save her bother.

This lady handed over her securities, and received in exchange a number of pretty-looking engraved bonds which have turned out to be utterly worthless. "What can I do about it?" my correspondent asks.

• • • • • • •

The answer is, sad to say, "Nothing, excepting turn the case over to the police." There is only one time to foil this class of sharper—and that is before the deal is made.

• • • • • • •

It is a safe rule never to invest money without consulting your banker. He has your interests at heart, and he is well up in the markets. That is his busines.

• • • • • • •

If you hiave a family solicitor, consult him. Consult any reliable person of knowledge; but never trust a stranger in money matters.

• • • • • • •

It's a simple rule, but it is sound. I'm sorry for my Lindsay correspondent, but I'm helpless to assist.

• • • • • • •

On the front page of a Toronto daily recently I saw a joke that raises another of these eternal "masculine versus feminine" questions. The joke says the difference between men and women is: "A man will give two dollars for a one dollar thing that he wants, and a woman will give one dollar for a two dollar things that she doesn't want."

• • • • • • •

Just how much truth is there in it? We'll concede the point that most men shop in the same way. They know what they want; they go into a store likely to have that article; they ask for it; they ask the price; if the price is anywhere reasonable they take the article, pay the clerk, and the transaction is closed.

• • • • • • •

Is that economical buying? I think not, but it is a system on which men pride themselves. I was in one drygoods store a short time ago where I saw a woman buying chintz; I knew that a few doors away the very same chintz could have been bought that day for some cents less. If she had shopped around she would have had the advantage of the special price—and while this is an isolated case among women, I think the statement applies very widely among men.

• • • • • • •

On the other hand I can't see the logic in this case: a woman entered a certain store in the centre of the city, purchased all the goods that were "special" for the day, left them there to be called for, and walked to East City to purchase a dozen eggs that were price a cent a dozen less than at the first store.

• • • • • • •

But I'm wandering away from my subject. It is said that a woman will buy a two dollar article she doesn't want if she gets it for a dollar. What do you think of it, neighbors?

• • • • • • •

There may be some women in this class in Peterborough, but one would think they would soon get tired of having the house cluttered up with unwanted goods.

• • • • • • •

The statement may be a fallacy arising out of the ability of some women to look far ahead. Suppose Mrs. Jhones has no immediate use for curtain material, but knows that she will need new curtains in spring. She has no immediate use for the bargain material, but isn't she an economical housewife if she buys for one dollar NOW the two-dollars' worth of stuff she will need next year?

• • • • • • •

I suggest that there are not so many foolish women buyers as the joke would have one think, and that most Peterborough women who take advantage of the sales have a very good idea of what they will do with everything they purchase.

• • • • • • •

These jokes on bargain hunting are on a par with man's other jokes about women. This particular joke, however, is better than most, because it admits a failing of the male sex. Surely it is just as bad to pay double for something one wants as it is to pay half for something one doesn't want!

• • • • • • •

There dropped into the office the other day a doctor of national fame, who syndicates articles in a score of Canadian and many United States papers. In the course of an interesting conversation, he mentioned the danger to women of unnatural slimness and the dieting necessary to achieve it.

• • • • • • •

"It is not natural for a woman to reduce weight below normal for her type," he said, "and the excessive dieting needed to maintain the slim figure after a woman has passed her early twenties is menacing to her health."

• • • • • • •

This visitor showed me the written opinion of a doctor at Queen Charlotte Hospital: "One of the chief dangers of over-dieting is the damage caused to the nerves."

• • • • • • •

It seems to me that when we start dieting is a good time to consult the family physician. I will endeavor to obtain the views of some Peterborough medical men on the subject, and pass them on to you.

• • • • • • •

With Hallowe'en just a little over a week away, we are naturally thinking of the parties, and I'm willing to help out. This week's help is a printed list of games, with instructions; a menu, and hints on decoration. You will find it very useful.

• • • • • • •

It may be a far cry from the first snow of winter, which we had in the city on Thursday, to the bluebird of Spring, but browsing through "Songs of Friendship," by James Whitcomb Riley to-night I came on a delicious little verse that I'm passing on:

"O were I not a clod, intent
On being just an earthly thing,
I'd be that rare embodiment
Of Heart and Spirit, Voice and Wing,
With pure, ecstatic, rapture-sent,
Divinely-tender twittering
That Echo swoons to re-present—
A bluebird in the Spring."

• • • • • • •

My suggestion is that all the year can be Spring-like if we will take the wings of imagination and soar into the spaces made open to us through that which we have that the bluebird cannot have—fancy.

• • • • • • •

Castles in the air! That is but a trifle. The bluebird can fly high in the skies, where we cannot follow, but far beyond the bluebird's highest reach our fancy can carry us—to the very gates of heaven itself.

• • • • • • •

I think it would be a good idea if in Peterborough we women were banded together to take these flights of fancy every day—how extra-human they would make us—how they would brighten the daily grind. Nay, with release such as that COULD there be ANY grind?

• • • • • • •

And looking down from such heights you would see many strange things. You would, for instance, see women wondering just what to give friends for Christmas—and you would remember something you made at home last year, or the year before. Then, in the generous mood encouraged by your delicious experiences, you would sit right down and write me a note telling how to do it—so that the neighbors might be helped.

Let's all go!

PRAYER No. 7.

O Blessed Jesus, Who didst yield Thy Spirit into the hands of the Father, deliver us by Thy death from being subject to the fear of death: Teach us, whilst we live, ever to consider our latter end; grant us a sure confidence in Thee, and when the time of our departure shall come, then, Lord Jesus, receive our spirits. Grant us eternal rest and peace, and bid us enter into Thine eternal joy, where, with the Father and the Holy Ghost, Thou livest and reignest, God for ever and ever. Amen.

FAVORITE RECIPE.

LIGHT MUFFINS

(Contributed by M. H., Thomasburg, for Scotty, Lakefield)

½ cup sugar
4 tablespoons melted butter
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 cups flour

Cream sugar butter and salt. Add the egg well beaten and the milk. Sift in flour and baking powder mixing all thoroughly. Bake in muffin tins in hot oven.

GRAHAM MUFFINS

(Contributed by M. H., Thomasburg, for Scotty, Lakefield.)

1 egg
½ cup sugar
1 level teaspoon soda
2 cups sour milk
1 level teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening

Graham flour to thicken. Melt shortening and put in last, put soda in milk. Add milk and flour alternately.

YORKSHIRE PUDDING

(Contributed by E. Roberts)

1 pint milk
2 eggs
2 cups flour
Little salt

Beat eggs, sift flour and salt and add together with enough milk to render it easy to beat. Beat well. Add remainder of the milk. If possible, allow it to stand in a cool place for an hour before baking. Melt a piece of lard in a flat tin, then pour in batter (after first stirring it if it has stood). Bake in a hot oven about thirty minutes. Serve immediately either with meat course or as a sweet with syrup or sugar over. This quantity is enough for 6 persons.

FRUIT PUFF

(Contributed by Mrs. L. G.)

"Dear Marion:

Have been enjoying your very helpful column from day to day and find them not only interesting but very helpful and useful. I have tried quite a number of recipes and they are good. I am sending a recipe for Fruit Puffs:

3 eggs
1½ cups white sugar
1-3 cup butter
3 cups flour
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 lb. of dates
5 cents worth of walnuts
2 tablespoons milk.

Drop on a buttered pan and bake.

Mrs. L. G."

PEPPER HASH

(Contributed by Mrs. H.A.L.)

1 head cabbage
6 onions
12 peppers, 6 red, 6 green, seeds removed.

Chop all very fine and sprinkle with a half cup salt and let stand over night. In the morning drain and place in a jar with vinegar enough to cover and add:

1 tablespoon white mustard seed
2 cups sugar (if you want sour omit sugar).

Stir every day for 3 days, then put into sterilized jars.

I have found this pickle very nice about Christmas, the cabbage having been cooked with the vinegar. Please note you do not have to cook this pickle.

WELSH CHEESE CAKES

(Contributed by Goldenglow)

1 egg, its weight in flour, butter and sugar
½ teaspoon baking powder.

Line patty tins with short crust and put spoonful of mixture in each tin.

CAKE ICING

"Dear Marion:

I have received the instructions which you were so kind in sending me. I wish to thank you for your kindness in sending them. I have a recipe for cake icing which is very nice.

Put whites of two eggs and 1 cup of granulated sugar in a double boiler and beat seven minutes with a dover beater. Remove from the fire and add 1 teaspoon of baking powder and flavoring and beat another five minutes. I remain,

Yours sincerely,
E. J. R."

PICCALILLI

(Contributed by D. S. W.)

6 cucumbers
2 dozen onions (medium sized)
6red peppers
½ peck green tomatoes
1 head cabbage

Chop all fine, sprinkle with salt, and let stand over night. In the morning drain and add:

2 oz. celery seed
½ pound mustard
1 gallon vinegar
2 pounds granulated sugar.

Cook slowly for 3 hours and just before taking from the fire, add 1 oz. turmeric, boil up and bottle in air-tight jars.

JELLY ROLL CAKE

(Contributed by Mildred Broadworth, winner of "Institute Special" prize at Madoc Fair)

3 eggs, yolks and whites beaten separately
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons sweet milk
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup flour
Lemon flavor

Beat the yolks well with sugar and milk. Beat whites to a stiff froth, then mix with sugar, eggs and milk. Mix flour and baking powder and add to the other ingredients. Beat well, flavor with lemon and bake immediately in a moderate oven.

To "Roll" a Jelly Roll Cake.

While cake is hot remove it from the pan by turning the pan on a cloth wrung out of cold water. Sprinkle a little sugar on cloth and while cake is still warm spread it with jelly. Roll quickly by putting your hands under the cloth. (If the cloth is kept close to the cake roll it will help to prevent it from breaking). Cut off any crusty edges that might interfere with rolling. After it is rolled into correct shape, sprinkle a little more sugar around it.

Olive and Nut Sandwiches

Chop finely an equal quantity of olives and nuts and mix with it a good mayonnaise made with Keen's Mustard. Spread on a lettuce leaf and place between slices of well-buttered brown bread.

Write for free recipe book entitled "Salad Secrets."

That Final Touch!

Experienced sandwich-makers everywhere agree that a dash of fresh mustard adds zest and flavour to any sandwich. Put in a little mustard next time you make sandwiches. You'll be surprised and delighted at their wonderfully improved flavour.

Winner!

The artist friend who advised lovely Dorothy Gray, 254 West 12th St., New York City, to enter two recent beauty contests, is probably saying, "I told you so." She won both of them and a movie engagement into the bargain! Too bad, pictures can't show the loveliness of her skin and the gleaming beauty of her dark brown hair, points which, the judges say, swayed their decisions.

"When I consider how people admire my hair now and how different it was not long ago," says Miss Gray, "I can't help telling about it. Dandruff had nearly ruined my hair. It had gotten stringy, dull, and was falling out. My scalp was terribly uncomfortable. Then a friend got me started on this method of caring for the hair which is all the rage among New York girls. Now, I just put a little Danderine on my brush each time I use it. Since I have been doing this regularly, all dandruff has disappeared; my scalp has become perfectly comfortable and healthy; my hair has stopped falling out and has become soft, gleamy and pretty."

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair, restores its natural color, gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy to dress and keeps it in place. It stops dandruff. It isn't oily and doesn't show. At all drug stores, 25c. A delicately fragranced toilet necessity for the well-groomed girl.

The good of all mankind

WARSAW

When organized the Institute had a president, vice-president, recording and corresponding secretaries, a treasurer, and two directors. In 1907, one secretary took both corresponding and recording work, and later it was found that the secretary's and treasurer's work so over-lapped that the whole office of secretary-treasurer was given to one officer. When there was strenuous work, the secretary-treasurer has sometimes been paid $5.00, but not since the War. There is a library, to which new books are added from time to time. The difficulty has been to get someone who could act as librarian once a week as well as on Institute days. The recording secretaries were Mrs. A Fraser, Mrs. W. Wasson, Miss Annie Hawthorne. The corresponding secretaries were Mrs. S. R. Payne, Mrs. Ellen Brown, Mrs. Robert Matthews. Mrs. A. F. Choate was the first secretary to do corresponding and recording. The secretaries were Mrs. A. F. Choate and Miss Mae Davis.

The treasurers were Mrs. Battis'y, Mrs. S. R. Payne, Mrs. Matthews, Mrs. Steedman, Miss Maude Morgan. Mrs. George Clements was the first secretary-treasurer, and the first to receive the five dollars.

A book containing minutes from 1908-1911 is missing.

After a secretary-treasurer, acting for a short time, those who were nominated for the office asked to have it divided, and again there were secretaries—Mrs. E. R. Hamblin, Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Miss Marjorie Choate, Mrs. H. G. E. Choate, and treasurers, Miss Jory, Miss Marjorie Choate, Miss Dora Payne, Mrs. Matthews, and Mrs. W. Anderson. Again the offices were united, and the secretary-treasurers have been, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. S. W. Anderson, Mrs. R. G. Moore, Miss Ruby Davis, Miss F. Cooper, Miss Cressa Crowe, Mrs. Wm. Selkirk, Mrs. J. Sargent, Mrs. Theodore Douglas.

The vice-presidents have been, Mrs. W. Campbell, Mrs. J. Wason, Mrs. A. F. Choate, Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Currie, Mrs. Robert Payne, Mrs. David Taylor, Mrs. Arthur Edwards, Mrs. C. Ellis, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. James Selkirk, Mrs. Richard Batten, Mrs. D. Molter, Mrs. Thos. Crowe, Mrs. George Weller. It is possible, especially with one of the books missing that some names have been omitted, but diligent search has been made to secure every one, and the Institute would be glad to have any omitted names to complete the records

Havelock Institute has invited Warsaw Institute members and friends to attend their Hallowe'en masquerade.

MILLBROOK

Announcement has been made that "Canadian Book Week," in connection with the Women's Institutes of the Province, will be held beginning November the fourth, and the organizations are urged to recognize this in some practical way, putting before their respective communities the best and newest in Canadian books.

Promise is made that help will be given by the Canadian Bookmen's Association, putting on, for instance, an exhibit of books, or a demonstration by means of the paper covers, which may be secured from any of the publishing houses, and which will present titles, and press comments, on the latest productions of Canadian authors. One Institute has this year begun the practice of presenting one good book to each of its members, with the understanding that each is to be passed round until all who wish have had the opportunity of reading it, when it becomes the permanent property of the person to whom it was first given. This is, in a sense, a reading circle, and may possibly lead to the formation of a permanent Institute library in that particular centre.

Referring again to the 'jackets,' or paper covers, it might be noted that these cost but a small sum to mail, and have not to be returned; next to buying, or borrowing for exhibition purposes, the book itself, this is a fairly good way of directing attention to literary productions of recent months by native writers, and now holding a prominent place on the home market.

A well-prepared Canadian literature program should be put on by each Institute, if at all possible, during 'Canadian Book Week,' and those in authority urge that the children be not forgotten, bringing publications specially for the boys and girls to the fore in some manner that will be to their decided advantage. The initiative of the program committee has an opportunity of exercising itself when apanning the best manner in which each branch may take profitable notice of the Week of Canadian Books.

Should it be required, Donald French's essay on "Canadian Writers, and Their Message" will be sent free of charge to any Institute making request for same, if the secretary will write Miss J. McEwen, 77 Wellington street West, Toronto, 2.

Giving prizes, preferably in books, to the school children in each locality who take highest marks in the entrance examinations each year, is a practice not often followed, but highly recommended as an activity well worth consideration by the various Institutes of the Province, and one that will actually mean something in the young life of the several communities. Giving a donation, annually, to the Public Library Board for the purchase of new books is another suggestion of genuine value that has been thrown out from headquarters.

Mount Pleasant

The Women's Institute is a Good Samaritan by the wayside. It brings to the door of every woman, no matter where she lives, or what her circumstances are, in formation and assistance in practically anything she might or should be interested in. It has been said that "Flattery is the food of fools but now and then some men's wit can condescend to take a bit."

The regret is that praise so often is all too stingily given or withheld altogether till those meriting it have passed beyond recall when it is said with flowers.

You cannot speak of womans sphere,
As though it had a limit;
There's not a thing in all the earth
That has a feather weight of worth, without a woman in it.

"Home and Country" is our motto, so naturally home is our first concern. What the mother is to the home, the Women's Institute is to the rural community—meeting prevailing conditions as they exist in the several areas north, east, centre and west. From sending stockings to motherless children, helping a sick mother, keeping a layette on hand for the next baby who needs it and welcoming the stranger from overseas, the benefactions are endless. When calamity comes such as the Northern Ontario fire, or a neighboring family is burned out, the Institute turns its energies to relieving the distress incurred.

The school is of special concern where the health, education and welfare of the children have attention through the arranging for hot school lunches, outdoor sports supervised noon hours and school fairs. In the community in general, there is wide scope for activity. No task is too hard; the Institute arranges for garment-making clubs, choral classes, debating societies, softball tournaments, athletic sports and community Christmas trees. It provides a staff and flag for the school, equips and maintains restrooms for the public, puts down sidewalks, installs drinking fountains and street lights for the town, cares for neglected children and cemeteries, beautifies the parks, starts libraries and manages them. It plans, buys and build and equips community halls throughout, making them up-to-date community centres. It erects memorials to the fallen heroes and arranges annual decoration days to perpetuate to the mind of the youth of to-day the sacrifice of the youth of yesterday.

The Institute is sponsor for the social life of the community. How is all this accomplished? By the unselfish giving of time in sewing suppers, catering at banquets, holding garden parties, conducting booths, selling on plans and entertainments, appealing to councils for financial assistance and innumerable other ways and means the wherewithal necessary for the successful carrying on of all these undertakings is forthcoming.

It's doing your job the best you can,
And being just to your fellowmen;
It's figuring how, and learning why,
And looking forward and thinking high,
And dreaming little, and doing much
Its keeping always in closest touch
With what is finest in word and deed;
It's being clean and playing fair,
Its laughing lightly at Dame Despair
It's sharing sorrow and work and mirth,
And making better this good old earth;
It's serving and striving through strain and stress;
It's doing your noblest — that's success."

Space will not permit to go into details of the activities, but such a review enables one to comprehend in a measure, something of the fine work being done for the communities. We women cannot but be benefited individually. Thinking and working together for others, our sympathies are enlarged, our outlook broadened, our knowledge increased and our lives enriched. Our work, valuable as it is to the communities, brings to us its own reward.

Let us therefore continue—
"To do something for others always.
Whatever may be our creeds,
There's nothing on earth can help our selves
As much as kindly deeds."

LITTLE SONGS OF LOVE

THE PARTING

(Contributed by "?")

The Mountain and River, they quarrelled:
Oh, what a foolish pair,
The Mountain so grim and forbidding,
The River so sparkling and fair.

The Mountain called out to the River,
"Come back, come back to my side.
I'll hold you close to this heart of mine,
And you will be my Bride."

The River laughed as she rushed along
"I'll have no more of thee,
I'm running away to a lover new,
I'm running away to the Sea."

WOUNDED BY OFFICER.

Louis Cicco, former police officer of Lorain, Ohio, is on trial in Elyria, charged with wounding Miss Betty Heywood, 22-year-old British girl, when a volley of bullets was fired at the motor car in which she was riding. Miss Heywood is shown ABOVE as she appeared in court, her head still enveloped in a bandage. The case has aroused interest owing to its international complications.

Accommodation for 3000 autos is planned in an eight-story garage to be built in London. Cars will be taken to the various heights in electric elevators.

Any Woman Can Look Stylish

By MAE MARTIN

Most stylish looking women know simple ways to make last season's things conform to this season's style. Thousands of them have learned how easily they can transform a dress or blouse or coat, by the quick magic of home tinting or dyeing with true, fadeless Diamond Dyes, anyone can do this successfully. The "knowhow" is in the dye! Diamond Dyes don't streak or spot like inferior dyes. New fashionable tints appear like magic over the out-of-style or faded colors. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is easy as bluing and dyeing takes just a little more time. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. They have been perfected by over 50 years' experience. Insist on them and save disappointment.

"Color Craft," my big new book of dollar-saving hints, will be sent you FREE. Write Mae Martin, Diamond Dyes, Windsor, Ontario.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion at The Examiner Office.

"DEAR MARION;
I received the Camiknicker pattern for which I sincerely thank you. I haven't had time to use it yet but hope to real soon.

Seeing that you have another pattern which I have been wanting, I am going to be greedy and ask for it also, although I have mislaid the coupon. It is for the baby coat.

Oh Marion, I must tell you how good the page for women in The Examiner is. Even my husband who thought it was some such a thing as 'advice to love-sick girls and boys' remarked how helpful it was. At first he didn't believe it was readers who really sent in lots of the recipes and hints.

Thanking you for your helpful patterns and hope you will have one of the Christmas gifts suggestions for me when they are printed, I am,

Sincerely,
RAE."

I'm delighted to send you any patterns you desire, without stint, "Rae," and I hope you don't hesitate to ask for any help I can give.

I'm glad that your doubting Thomas husband has been convinced of the authenticity of the letters and recipes. Some day I'm going to print a picture of extracts from the letters—and then he will know for sure! Tell your husband to write to me (if you won't be jealous) and see if I print his letter!

And do write soon again, yourself, Rae.

"Dear Marion:
This is my first letter to your page and I must say I enjoy reading it very much and find many useful helps in it.

Would you please send me this week's help—printed hints on games and decorations for Hallowe'en, also instructions for making wool flowers for coats; ribbon flowers for lingerie and the pointed slip, if they are obtainable. Thanking you in advance, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
A. M. S."

I am glad to have been able to send the helps desired, "A.M.S.," and shall be looking for other letters from you.

* * *

"Dear Marion:
Many thanks for the instructions for making the wool flowers. I shall try them—when I have time. I would not have asked for the slip but did think it might be a nicer design than the one I use.

Am begging again, as you will see by the enclosed.

There was no one in The Examiner stall in the Armouries when we were there on Tuesday. The bright little Scots laddie in the Bowmanville Training School for Boys interested us greatly. We were delighted with the Exhibits, and also with the evening, but oh, the rain, to drive that fourteen miles and going down the steepest hill our lights blew out! But it was all worth while. Farmers cannot well get in every day. We did want to go again.

We have not a set of The Books of Knowledge, and I have seen just odd volumes. One was open at a page of birds, and among them a Bobolink or rice bird, with yellow on his back. The Bobolinks that visit us during fed clover time principally, are a beautiful velvety black and white, marked and spotted exactly like the one in the picture, but Mr. Bobolink was all black and white, the richest black I ever saw; Mrs. Bobolink is greyish.

I thought perhaps he was a different species or came from some other place, and spoke of the color, but the attendant knew nothing but what he read there. I have not always been satisfied with what youngsters have told me they got out of The Book of Knowledge at school.

In Port Hope there was a book-seller, Mr. Williamson, who kept a book store. Really, if I could not get a book in Peterborough, he either had it, or could get it, and you could ask him about any book and he could tell you. A Mr. Petrie, in Guelph, was the same. How they managed it I never understood, but they did, and I did hope for information about the colored Bobolink. Bobolink's song to me sounds like "Klonk-o-link-o-link-o-link, link, link, link, link.

I heard a man say it was too bad to make those disabled men work for a living, the country should support them. We think it a great blessing they can do it. I began this just to thank you for the instructions.

Sincerely,
QUID EST."

Warsaw.

It's nice to hear from you again, "Quid Est" and to know that you enjoyed the Kiwanis Fair. I thought it really splendid. It is too bad that rainy weather kept you, and many others, away on other days.

About the Bobolink, I've looked up three bird books I have, and they all describe just the one specimen. Perhaps some neighbor better versed in birdlore than I am can give some information.

I'll be looking forward to your next letter.

"Dear Marion:
I read your page and find it most interesting. I am especially fond of the little poems which you sometimes publish.

Hoping you will find space for mine, I am,

Yours truly,
MARIE."

WHAT AM I?

Through the summer I wore a green dress,
And you never heard me speak or cry,
I hid away where the vines were cool,
And I hadn't a mouth nor an eye.

And yet to-night somehow I have both
And my dress is of pretty yellow,
My mouth is always smiling, you know,
And I even winked at a fellow.

Oh my, I like Hallowe'en parties,
And oh, I'm so glad that you all came,
Since I've told you all about myself
Now won't you please try to guess my name?

—MARIE.

Thanks very much for the poetry, "Marie," which should make a good Hallowe'en favor.

"Dear Marion:
I am coming to you for help as I see everybody else does. Would you please send me a pattern or help me some way or other to get a suitable costume for a masquerade party?

Here is hoping I hear from you by return mail. I thank you, I remain,
PEANUTTS."

Bonarlaw.

All I can do here is suggest the titles of costumes, from which your imagination must make up the dress. It's not really difficult, if one has ability with needle and thread. Here are some easily made—if you have an encyclopedia you will find pictures in it.

Bo-peep; Britannia; Butterfly; Bohemian Girl; Carmen; Chinese; Cinderella; Cleopatra; Cow-girl; Canada; Dresden China (very pretty, indeed); Egyptian; Joan of Arc; Juliet; Milkmaid; Ophelia; Oreintal Dancer; Powder Puff; Pierette; Portia; Fairy; Gypsy; Grecian; Highland Lassie; Indian Princess; Quakeress; Red Riding Hood; Rose Girl; Shepherdess; Sailor Girl.

If you wish to hire a costume, you may obtain almost any design from the McKenna Costume Company, 395 King street west, Toronto, at rentals of $3 to $3.50 for one night's use. The rental includes wigs and accessories.

"Dear Marion:
I enclose coupon for instructions for Autumn Hat and also for new short cape. Thanks for giving Examiner readers these helps. I enjoy reading the Women's Page very much.

M. B."

I'm pleased to hear from you "M.B." and to know that you appreciate our page.

"Marion:
Will you kindly repeat, through your column, the formula you gave several weeks ago, for a lotion to use on nails which were growing out brittle and in ridges.

Thanking you in anticipation."

I'm very pleased to be able to help by repeating the instructions printed in the Whatnot on September 22: "Melt 30 grains of powdered resin and 80 grains of white wax, and, as you gently stir the mixture, add 30 grains of table salt, 1½ ounces of almond oil, and 30 grains of powdered alum. Pour into a jar resistant of heat and let cool. Apply this to the nails, with a piece of cotton as often as possible."

"Dear Marion:
I received sketches for which I thank you very much. I am sending you in a tried recipe for cooking liver, which I have found very nice—

Take liver and flour it, put in very hot greased pan, with onions, pepper and salt and curry powder and when brown cover with boiling water and let simmer for an hour.

YOURS TO A CINDER."

Thanks very much, "Cinder" for the recipe. In these days when liver is being hailed as a great curative agent it is particularly appropriate.

"Dear Marion:
I wish to thank you for the correspondence cards, I received as second prize in your recent contest. They are really delightful. I enjoy reading your page very much also the recipes that I have tried are all good.

Thanking you again, I remain,

COUNSELLOR."

"Dear Marion:
I am enclosing the coupon, for more household helps. Thanks very much for those previously sent. They are easily understood, and I have had great success with them.

I am especially grateful for the last ones I received, as I had forgotten the stamped, addressed envelope, but received the patterns promptly. It was very nice of you, Marion. I realize that if many did this you'd soon have to quit writing and go begging stamps. I am sorry to have troubled you so. I have an excuse though, I was so anxious to get my letter mailed, and receive the patterns that I forgot the necessary requirements. I am sending you two stamped envelopes this time, one unaddressed. Maybe some other help-seeker will forget her envelope this week, so here is one ready for you.

I just thought of something that might be useful for your Christmas Gift section. I hope I'm not too late with it and that you'll think it worth while.

Thanks, again, Marion, and much success to you.

AMLER."

Your letter of appreciation is very acceptable "Amler" and I certainly like your hints for Christmas gifts, which I am happy to use. I can't get the help ready for next week, but hope to make the grade for the following week.

I put your stamped envelope to good use as you suggested!

Marion

ENTERTAINING

It is rather hard to find something different in the way of contests, but this one is educative as well as amusing and can be used during intermission for your Hallowe'en dance.

Subjects	Answers.
Bound to shine	Bottle of shoe blacking.
Out for the night	Candle in candlestick.
A dancing entertainment	A ball.
Departed days	Last year's calendar.
An absorbing subject	Blotting pad.
Scene in Bermuda	Onions.
Assorted liquors	Whip, switch and slipper.
We part to meet again	Scissors.
A morning caller	A bell.
The four seasons	Mustard, vinegar, salt and pepper.
The reigning favorite	Umbrella.
Common sense	Pennies.
Cole's Memorials of the Great	Cinders.
The home of burns	Flatiron.
Consolation	Pipe.
The greatest bet ever made	Alphabet.
A line from home	Clothes line.
Sweet Sixteen	Sixteen lumps of sugar.
A rejected beau	Old ribbon bow.
The black friar	Black frying pan.
A mute choir	Quire of paper.
A Heavenly body	Dipper.
The house the colonel lived in	Corn cob without corn.
Spring offering	Glass of water.
Family jars	Two glass jars.
Bound to rise	Yeast cake.
A place for reflection	Hand mirror.
Scene in a baseball game	Pitcher.
The spoony couple	Two spoons.
Old fashioned flowers	Lady's slipper.
Nothing but flowers	Block of blank writing paper.

The subjects are written on sheets and given to the guests, and from the answers you will know what to arrange on a convenient table. Allow only about fifteen or twenty minutes for the guessing and, of course, comparing notes is not quite fair. Sufficient good prizes according to the number of guests should be awarded to make the contest worth while.

Since the household help has been printed, I have come across a few more interesting suggestions suitable for Hallowe'en. Ducking for apples seem to be the first choice among the boys, but it is a rather wet job, so instead of grabbing for the floating apples with your teeth, hold a small steel kitchen fork in your teeth and spear the apples. Every apple should have tucked into it a slip of paper with the christian name of a boy or a girl, and your future fate may have that name.

Place three dishes side by side on a table. One is empty, one has clear water and the third milky water. Blindfold the players, bid them turn round twice and dip a finger in one of the dishes. The clear water indicates a happy marriage, the milky water an early widowhood, and the empty one single blessedness for life.

Grab bag is usually used as a finish up game. Mix nuts with soft shells and candies, caramels, kisses, etc., done up in wax paper. Lay them on a number of sheets of paper and tie up like a big Christmas pudding. Hang it by a stout string from the centre of a doorway. Then let each guest in turn take one whack at it with a big cane or stick while the others stand ready to scramble for the contents when at last the bag gives away.

ASPIRIN

The whole world knows Aspirin as an effective antidote for pain. But it's just as important to know that there is only one genuine Aspirin. The name Bayer is on every tablet, and on the box. If the name Bayer appears, it's genuine; and if it doesn't, it is not! Headaches are dispelled by Aspirin. So are colds, and the pain that goes with them; even neuralgia, neuritis, and rheumatism promptly relieved. Get Aspirin—at any drugstore—with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

What will You do when Your— Children Cry for Castoria

THERE is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of this soothing preparation. And any night may find you very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and Baby is comfortable. A few moments, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. Yet this is a vegetable product; a remedy meant for youngsters. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for every-day ailments. Any hour of the day or night that Baby becomes fretful, or restless.

PRESENTATION OF PRIZES MADE to BOWLERS

JOHN SEDGWICK RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF BOWLING CLUB

Two New Officers Elected On Executive For Season 1929.

STATEMENTS READ.

Committee Appointed To Investigate Sites and Possibilities For New Greens.

The re-election of John Sedgwick to the presidency for 1929, along with two new officers; discussion and appointment of a committee to investigate sites and financial possibilities of new greens; encouraging financial statements and presentation of prizes to winners of 1928 events marked the annual meeting of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling club, held last evening in the Paragon Hall, George street. The attendance at the dinner meeting was not as large as had been hoped for owing to numerous other events in the city, but what was lacking in numbers was made up for in enthusiasm and there was not a phase of the club's business that was not accorded thorough consideration.

Following is the personnel of the 1929 executive resulting from the election:

Honorary President—D. H. Moore (re-elected).

President—John Sedgewick (re-elected).

Vice President—Mark Bredin.

Secretary-Treasurer—Arthur Mc. Leish.

The retiring Vice-President, H. Martin, and the retiring secretary-treasurer, Charles Seymour, were both fittingly thanked for their work in the past. An executive to assist the above mentioned new officers will be chosen by them while Fred Brown was elected to the Tournament committee to fill the vacancy resulting from Walter Oke's retirement at the end of his three year term.

Auditor—J. W. Mayneord.

Greens committee—J. Bacon, G. Sorenson and R. Fox.

The Meeting

It was well on toward seven o'clock when President Sedgwick called the members round the festive board and during the next hour, Joe Parkins supplied music while his club mates enjoyed an appetizing supper. With accordion, banjo and piano, he proved himself a versatile entertainer indeed. With the dinner over, there was little time lost in getting the meeting proper, under way.

President Sedgwick, in his opening remarks, referred to the conflicting events which had tended to cut down the attendance but suggested that quality, rather than quantity was to be desired. He appreciated the co-operation and support of the club members as accorded him during the 1928 season as well as of the other executive members and spoke of the harmonious relations that had existed. There had been careful adherence to economical lines and as a result, the following financial statement, submitted a few minutes later, had been made possible:

The Financial Statement

The statement was duly adopted while an equally satisfactory report of the Friday night tournaments was given, verbally, by the president The tournament committee had its financial statement on hand also, and with its balance of $97.46 was approved by the meeting.

Prizes Presented

The presentation of prizes was a pleasant feature of the evening, with the winning rinks, and runners-up receiving their awards in happy manner. The rink comprising George Coleman, lead, had been successful in winning the rink schedule and to them Dr. A. H. Allen presented the Glover Trophy, beautiful rugs and a smaller cup to Bob. Coleman, since it had been his first year as a bowler. In so doing, Dr. Allen referred to bowling as a Royal game; he touched upon the many hard-won victories and the sportsmanship that had prevailed.

Beautiful silver plates were presented the runners-up by David Moore, the rink which had come second, comprising skip Charles Seymour, vice-skip Dr. Fulford, lead A. Wood and second G. Johnson. In reply, Charlie Seymour praised his rink for having turned out for every schedul game without any urging, and for good teamwork throughout. The other prizes were awarded as follows:

3rd prizes—smoking trays, to E. Taylor, K. Sloan, J. Watson and E. Bowes; R. Fox making the presentation.

4th prizes—(sweaters)— presented by H. Martin, to J. Sedgwick, A. Gillies, R. F. Downey and H. B. Cowan.

The McKone cup to the winners of the doubles, namely E. Taylor and Joe Parkins. Harold Freeman making the presentation of individual trophies.

Runners-up— Reg. Fox and J. Harison, presented with fruit dishes by Charles Seymour.

1st prize in singles—the Clarke cup—won by Harold Wood.

2nd prize in singles—T. Donaldson.

To Establish New Greens

The present greens, used by the Peterborough club, have long been inadequate. The club membership has grown to such an extent that there is an acute need for new and better and more numerous greens and with this in view, the 1928 executive has been doing a certain amount of scouting and investigating possible sites. Such was the content of President Sedgwick's brief talk to the members at the opening of discussion which terminated with the appointment of a committee to look into and with power to act in the establishment of new greens in Peterborough.

President Sedgwick told of having an expert visit several prospective locations and of the most favorably considered piece of land which is south west of the Canadian Woollens plant between Walnut and McDonnel streets. It could be prepared at a moderate expense, and could provide ample room for bowling and club houses.

After discussing the matter, the general feeling of the meeting seemed to be in favor of new greens. This was borne out a few minutes later when the motion of Dr. Allen passed, expressing complete confidence in the 1928 committee and providing for it to carry on with power to act. The addition to the present committee of J. T. Braund, B. Chesler and A. Brown was also made in Dr. Allen's motion.

The auctioning of several articles donated by members of the club, provoked much merriment toward the close of the meeting. Harold Freeman proving himself a shrewd auctioneer.

Capablanca Maintains Chess Tourney Lead

BERLIN, Oct. 27.—(A.P.)—Capablanca of Cuba maintained his lead in the International Chess Masters tournament yesterday by gaining a draw with Rubinstein of Poland. It was the twelfth round of the tourney. The summaries:

First board—Reti, Czecho Slovakia, adjourned with Spielmann, Austria, in a position favorable to Reti.

Second board — Tartakower, France, drew with Nimzowitsch, Denmark, by repetition of moves.

Third board— Rubinstein, Poland, drew with Capablanca, Cuba, by perpetual check.

Marshall, United States, had a bye.

OTTAWA CLUB IS READY FOR BATTLE

Senators Confident They Will Score Victory Over Winged Wheelers.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 27.— (Canadian Press.) — The Ottawa Rugby Club, twenty-three players strong, left this morning for Montreal where they meet M.A.A.A. in a scheduled big four engagement this afternoon. Winding up a week of strenuous practice with a signal call yesterday afternoon, the squad is fit in every way and confident that they will score their second victory of the season over the Winged Wheelers.

A fairly large crowd is expected to accompany the Senators. Many Rugby fans are motoring over to Montreal, in addition to those who go by train with the team.

The line-up as announced last night, follows: Flying wing, Starr; halves, Connell, Brassington and Irvin; quarter, Lynch; snap, Bruce; insides, James and Curry; middles, Stanyar and Radley; outsides, Pinney and Buells; subs, Tubman, Paget, Herbert, Hutchingame, Sirrs, Wilson, Lagrave, Clarke, Kealey, Porter and Cousens.

TOILED HARD FOR COVETED DIADEM

Mickey Cochrane Entitled To Be Called Most Valuable Player in American League.

Mickey Cochrane may not have deserved the American league's most valuable player prize in preference to Heinie Manush, but he certainly worked for it.

By his individual efforts Manush had much to do with the transformation of the St. Louis Browns into a first division club, but Cochrane had his own personal responsibilities with an important team in a torrid pennant race.

Cochrane worked behind the bat in nearly every game of the season and he had more duties than to catch what the pitcher threw at him. He had to strain himself in every minute of every game to put some fight in the team.

The ball players say that Cochrane was one of only two "money players" on the team and that is their way of saying something mighty important about the players on a team that were just nosed out of a championship.

Foxx Couldn't Get Tough.

Mechanically Jimmy Foxx may have been more valuable to the Athletics than Cochrane was. Some baseball men think he was because he caught, played third base and first base and hit nobly. In the positions he was forced to fill he was more necessary than Cochrane because there was a very good catcher sitting on the bench.

But Jimmy is just a boy and he couldn't have the influence on his teammates that the older Cochrane had and he couldn't call the older men on the team as Cochrane called them plenty.

No Kick Either Way.

The voting of the committee of writers upon whose judgment the prize was awarded indicated that opinion was so closely drawn between Cochrane and Manush that no serious kick could have been made if either one had received the slight majority.

ALEXANDER IS SLATED FOR NEWARK

THIS WEEK IN SPORT

The Canadian sport horizon for the week had few upsets The old game of hockey is certainly out of the moth balls. Things are already buzzing and meetings are under way for buying and selling of players.

No mater what line of sport it is, whenever a team from Hamilton, the Mountain City, is in it, there is always plenty of action. The announcement was made a little over a week ago that the players of the Hamilton Can-Pro Hockey League team had ben sold to Buffalo.

This is regretted by other towns from a sporting standpoint. But some hardly blame a club that has lost $34,000 in two years for failing to continue to operate a team on such a basis. This again looks as if the Canadian sporting public prefers amateurs to pros.

Never has the old Arena Gardens at Toronto witnessed such a crowd as jamed its doors last winter for the Junior Dominion Memorial Cup finals between Ottawa Gunners and Regina Monarchs. This was an outstanding example of the Canadian sport fan's opinion of amateur hockey.

However, getting back to rugby again, this afternoon at Varsity Stadium at Toronto, the old rivals meet to settle the question as to who is the better team on the gridiron this year. The followers of Queen Boo Hoo are confident that the trimming they received at the hands of the Varsity squad a few weeks ago was all a mistake and they are all set to prove it. It is true that the Tri-color had several injuries before their last game and this may have spelled defeat.

A win for Varsity to-day puts them up again with a chance to win the Intercollegiate title and a loss means in the cellar and up on the shelf for this year.

Inside Sportin' Dope—By A. Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I been scratching the venerable dome the last 2, 3 days wondering what to tell the customers about this week, but barring a coupla slivers, I ain't been able to get much outa the old bean. When you get around this time of the year they ain't much in the local sporting world to get gabby about. The Collegiate kids is still doing quite nicely in the school football scramble, thank you, but outside of them they ain't a leaf stirring. Even at the bowling alleys, so they say, you can hear a pin drop. Be that as it may, the customers expect the week-end banana oil, and far be it from me to disappoint them.

On the hockey front they still ain't a great deal to report. Our hockey ambassadors to the U.S.A., Mister Bert McLeod and Mister Biffer Ranger, of Kansas City, and Mister K. Murray, of Providence, Rhode Is., is under marching orders and soon will be in the thick of the battle. May they have the best season in their careers is all the harm I wishes the lads. And as for the boys what will keep the home fires burning this winter, they is enough staff here to make a coupla of scrappy teams, intermediate and jrs., and between them and the movies and lieing about what stations we pick up on the radio, we oughta get the cold weather in all right.

Say, Mac, baseball sure lost a colorful guy when old Jack Dunn, of Baltimore, died sudden the other day. There was a real manager, a bird what believed in fighting for every point and able to put the same fight into his players. And when it come to seeing big league ability in rookies, they never was a pilot in the game had a thing on the fiery Baltimore leader. He could spot class in school boy ball tossers, and if you don't believe it just think back over the list of players he sent up to the big show. He'll sure be missed in the International loop, Mac.

That item the other day, Mister Sporting Editor, where Mister Fred Whitcroft was elected president of the Vancouver Hockey League sure made me think of the old days when Mister Whitcroft was the idol of the local hockey fans, and I don't mean likely. That bozo could play hockey et comment, as our Quebec friends sez. When I remember some of the stick-handling he used to do back in the years of 7-man teams and on small ice surfaces, I sure would of liked to have seen him get a chance to strut his stuff on a big rink and with 6-man teams. He was the daddy of them all, this same Mister Whitcroft, and if knowing his hockey groceries means anything, he oughta make that Vancouver League a real president.

The duck hunting season don't seem to be none too good, Mac. 2 or 3 fellows told me they was going to shoot me a mess of plump birds, but up to date if I hadn't of had a fair standing with the butcher we'd of had pretty slim eating. Of course, I ain't give up hope yet. Some day some unlucky ducks is going to fly just where them guys is shooting and then mebbe I'll get mine. Anyway we got a lotta sage that'll come in fine at Christmas time, so it ain't a total loss.

Well, Mac, if I keep on talking this way some people may think I'm throwing out hints to try and get myself some cheap eating, so I'd better drop the thing right here.

Tinkety-tonk, old dear.

Sportfully yours,

A. WISE CRACKER.

Military Team To Meet Varsity

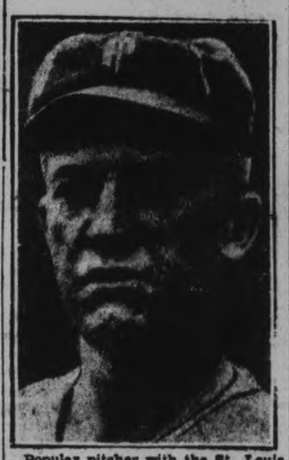
KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 27. — (Canadian Press)—R.M.C. soccer team left last evening for Toronto where it will meet Toronto Varsity in the second game of the Inter-Collegiate series called to commence at 10:15 a.m.

The cadets will have exactly the same team as that which held McGill to a 1-1 draw on Saturday, of last week on R.M.C. grounds, and if the weather is good, with a dry ground, it is thought possible that they can bring home the bacon.

The Varsity team is reported to be a bunch of experienced stalwarts, much heavier than R.M.C. but on the other hand there is no doubt that the cadets should be in better physical training.

R.M.C. team will be as follows: Goal, McTavish; Backs, Hennel and Bessonnette; Half backs, Griffiths, Ross and Harrison; forwards, Gamble, Kins, Best, Groves and Cotton.

MAY MANAGE BEARS.



Popular pitcher with the St. Louis Cards, is now slated to succeed Walter Johnson, as manager of the Newark Bears, International League.

SENATORS HOLD FAST WORKOUT

Capital City N. H. L. Club Begin Practice Work For Season.

REGULARS OUT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—With a lightning fast ice surface to work on, the Ottawa National Hockey League squad gave some 1,500 fans an idea of how they will shape up this winter when they flashed through a torrid workout at the auditorium last night under the watchful eye of Manager Dave Gill.

All the regulars of last season with the exception of Frank Nighbor, were in uniform, and together with a promising array of "rookies," made up two teams that gave the crowd their first hockey thrill in a series of speedy dashes on both goals.

The players cut out a furious pace from the first whistle, and maintained a speedf clip for about half an hour, slackening up towards the finish under orders from Manager Gill. The play was well divided, each team counting eight goals. Of the "regulars," Connell in the nets, Clancy and Grosvenor showed smart opening efforts, while for the opposing side, Finnigan and Touhey on the wings, with Jackie Duggan at defence, gave the fans plenty to enthuse over.

Frank Nighbor will get in from Pembroke to-day and will take part in the Saturday night drill.

Besides getting the jump on the other teams as far as ice practice is concerned, Ottawas also encountered the first casualty of the season in Hec Kilrea, speedy left winger. Kilrea is laid up in hospital with an infected foot. It is nothing serious and he will likely rejoin the squad early next week.

VIEWS ON SPORTS

The two local Collegiate teams go into action to-day — the Seniors at Cobourg and the Intermediates here.

It looks as though Humberside Collegiate is going to be the winner in the Senior Interscholastic title series in rugby again this year. They put out the fast Oakwood C.I. team yesterday in a close game.

• • • • • • •

The last time Humberside C.I. won the championship of the Toronto group they came and played P.C.I. in a sudden death game in the semi-finals. Before the largest crowd that ever crossed the bridge to view a gridiron game since Gene Hurtubise and his merry men of strength used to do battle with the Rough Riders of Ottawa, the P.C.I. squeezed out a win in twenty minutes' overtime, 7 to 6.

• • • • • • •

It smells like hockey this morning. Yesterday the Ottawa Senators took to the ice in the Auditorium for the first workout of any of the teams in the N.H.L.

• • • • • • •

This long-distance race the "Y" Harriers are staging for Thanksgiving Day ought to be good. There is going to be a large entry, and competition ought to be as keen as a razor, because the boys have been out practising for months now. Newt. Hamilton, Dick Bates, Grant Palmer, "Bim" Sturgeon are only a few of the runners who have been out getting the old dogs in shape for quite a while back.

What is wrong with boxing in the city? There used to be some years ago a class of boxers in training at the Armouries, and occasionally they would treat the followers of the flying gloves to some hard fought bouts. Now this branch of sport seems to be dead. We could guarantee that a lot of the youth around the city would like to learn something of the manly art; all they need is some one willing to teach them and get them together.

LADIES' AID MEETS

However, if it only stays dry they can go ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg. Bolton sold practically everything on Monday, as they are moving to Renfrew. They have over $1,200 from the sale. One cow, not in good condition, went for $60.00. A horse went for $150.00. Everything he had went high. The neighbors gathered for a dance in the evening.

Someone put the school bell out of commission during Wednesday night.

A funny little incident happened at the plowing match. The men hurried their meals as much as possible. A Warsaw man, who had his car, rushed a few loads of men from the field to the house. Four men of one load were out soon, but the driver waited for No. 5, and spoke to him about the men waiting. The answer was, "I'm not a plowman."

CARD TWIRLER TO HEAD BEARS

Rumored Owner of Newark Club After Services of Alexander.

SUCCEED JOHNSON.

BUFFALO, October 27. — Grover Cleveland Alexander, the colorful twirler of the St. Louis Cardinals, and veteran of many National League campaigns, will manage the Newark Bears of the International League during the 1929 season, according to information imparted by an official of the St. Louis Browns club, who stopped here en route to New York.

According to the St. Louis official Alexander's choice as the new manager of Newark has been decided upon by Paul Block, owner of the Bears, after Walter Johnson was released from his contract to enable him to manage the Washington Senators.

Alexander's signature to a contract is only a question of time, as Mr. Block has already made his decision in having the St. Louis star pilot his campaign.

PUBLIC SCHOOL SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP MONDAY

King George and King Edward Meet On King Edward Park For Alex. Kay Cup—Kick-off 4.30.

The final soccer game for the public school championship will be played on Monday afternoon, when the winners of section A meet the leaders in section B on King Edward Park.

King George eliminated Central, Queen Alexandra in their own group; while King Edward gained the decisions against Princes of Wales and Queen Mary. These two teams have won the same number of games in the league schedule and this will make the tussle all the more interesting. The kick off is scheduled for four-thirty.

The winners will be awarded the Alex. Kay trophy as the emblem of the school championship, and E. A. Peck, M.P., has donated Eversharp pencils to the association to be given to individual players of the winners.

In the previous games in the final encounters, many spectators witnessed the boys produce an excellent brand of soccer.

AT THE REGENT.

CHANEY REGRETS HE CAN'T REPEAT HIS "QUASIMODO."

'Hunchback' Star Paraphrases Patriot

In a recent interview relative to his memorable performance of "Quasimodo" in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which comes Monday to the Regent Theatre, Lon Chaney paraphrased the patriot, Nathan Hale.

"My only regret is that I had but one 'Quasimodo' to give to my country," declared the celebrated actor, who is known for his uncanny characterisations of strange types. "The role of the mishapen bell ringer is one that was a great strain on me," he said. "It will never be able to perform another part that requires so much training in contorions, and so much agility in climbing dizzy heights, hanging by an 'eyebrow.'"

Prior to the production of the Hugo classic in its screen adaptation, at a cost of $1,500,000 when Chaney was chosen to play the stellar part, making the height of his remarkable career and an epoch in the art of film production, he had been known for a long time as a master of queer make-up and a contortionist of amazing ability, his first great part being the role of the "Frog" in "The Miracle Man" in which he astounded the critics with his portrayal of a distorted creature.

From that time his rise has been rapid and meteoric. In the film classic as the 'Hunchback' his characterization brought gasps of amazed admiration from the critics of New York and other principal cities. Alan Dale, the distinguished critic of the New York American, wrote a lavish laudation in which he said, "This bit of work is art of the purest ray serene; it cannot die, it will live forever."

"As there is only one Chaney, there will never be another 'Quasimodo' like Chaney," he remarked to a reporter for this newspaper. "As the bell ringer in the mammoth movie he was at the height of his ability as a contortionist, able to portray the strange, distorted creature as nobody else could have done."

AT THE CAPITOL.

"RAMONA," THE FILM SENSATION OF THE YEAR, RETURNS TO THE CAPITOL, ON MONDAY, TUESDAY, AND WEDNESDAY. FOR A RETURN ENGAGEMENT. MISS GERALDINE M. COLLINS WILL AGAIN SING, AS AT THE FORMER ENGAGEMENT.

"Ramona," the picture sensation of the year, that broke all attendance records for any picure at the Capitol a few weeks ago, returns on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, by the special request of hundreds of patrons who were unable to see this great picture on its former visit, and those who want to see it a second time Miss Geraldine M. Collins will again sing "Ramona" at the evening performances.

When Mrs. Jackson decided to write "Ramona" she had a deliberate purpose and as high an aim as that associated in the writing of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." She did not realize that her story would prove one of America's most interesting romances.

It was the writer's motive to bring the treatment toward the Indians by the Americans, before Congress in the hope that Congress would enact just laws. That was Mrs. Jackson's whole desire.

Before "Ramona" recalled the Indians' plight in fiction form, she had written "A Century of Dishonor," in which was an account of the United States government's dealing with the Indian tribe that had widespread influence. Being a plain, cold statement of facts, with copies of evidence to bear it out, "A Century of Dishonor" was really an indictment of the Government for its failure to keep its promise with the Red Man from early times down to the date of the publication of the book, 1880.

It was later that Mrs. Jackson became convinced that public sympathy on behalf of the Mission Indians of California, could be awakened if revealed in story form; hence her novel with a purpose—"Ramona."

"Ramona" would never have reached a 194th printing had it not possessed unusual literary qualities for public interest in the Indian quction alone could never have kept the book alive. As it is, "Ramona" is regarded as one of the American classics.

Today the book enjoys its largest sale and now comes the film that will give it perpetual life on the silver sheet. Inspiration Pictures and Edwin Carewe produced the story with Dolores Del Rio in the star and title role. It is regarded as one of the important pictures for the new year and a vehicle entirely suited to the star's histrionic talents.

SIR ROBERT BORDEN ELECTED PRESIDENT

Directors Elect Former Prime Minister Head of Crown Life Insurance Company.

TORONTO, Oct. 27.—(Special to The Examiner).—The Rt. Hon. Sir Robert L. Borden was unanimously elected president of the Crown Life Insurance Company at a special meeting of the directors held in Toronto yesterday. Sir Robert was one of the first policy holders and shareholders of the company and was a member of the original board from 1901 to 1907.

Since his voluntary retirement from the Premiership of Canada in 1920 Sir Robert has been devoting his time to his financial interests and to literary work. He plans to take an active interest in the affairs of this company with which he was so early associated and will be a frequent visitor to Toronto, attending the meetings in connection with the Company's business.

It is interesting to note that in the twenty one years since Sir Robert was formerly on the Board of the Company, the Insurance in force has increased from $4,000,000 to over $102,000,000 the company having joined the ranks of the larger insurance companies of Canada. Announcement was recently made that the company had acquired additional property adjacent to its head office building at Yonge and Colborne streets and will shortly erect a modern office building of sixteen to twenty stories in which provision will be made for the expanding requirements of its head office staff. The board of the Crown Life Insurance Company is now constituted is as folloys:

President: Rt. Hon. Sir Robt. L. Borden; Vice President, C. W. Sommers; President Canada Grain Company; Gen. Mgr., H. R. Stephenson. Other Toronto directors are: W. R. Morson; F. Erichsen Brown, K.C., Director City Dairy Co.; H. D. Burns, Asst. Genl. Mgr. Bank of Nova Scotia; W. F. Watkins, Canada Permanent Mortgage Corpn.; G. E. Spragge, out of town directors include: F. R. McDrussell, K.C., Vancouver; G. O. Somers, Pasadina, and G. A. Morson, Havana.

Scout News and Notices

4TH PETERBOROUGH TROOP

Hello everybody! Here we are again. We have just started to dig in for our Fall work. Our first meeting for the Fall work was held Thursday evening at the headquarters on Simcoe street. We have not got settled down yet, but we hope to be by next Thursday. Mr. Whiteside and Acting Troop Leader Heffernan hope to carry on the work in the absence of Scout Master Corbett and Troop Leader Taylor. Mr. Wilkes and one of his patrol leaders paid us a visit in the early part of the meeting.

The meeting opened with flag break and then inspection. A snappy game of dodge ball was then played, followed by a sense training game, "The Pirates Treasure."

At this part of the meeting Mr. Dickin, the new president o fthe local association, dropped in to see the troop. He spoke to the Scouts for a short time on the work that is going to be done by the association this year, and told of the endeavor to increase the number of Scouts to 300 by the end of the term next year. He told of the visits that are being arranged, and he urged everybody that possibly can to go and see the various business places about the city. After Mr. Dickin's talk, the troop gave him three hearty cheers and a tiger to show their appreciation.

The patrols were then dismissed to their corners for instruction. Mr. Whiteside was taken around to each patrol and was introduced to the various members. He spoke to each patrol, encouraging them to do their best on the work cut out for the Fall. The patrols are in charge of Acting Patrol Leaders Asquith, Stuart and Hewitt.

Another game was played to liven up things. The council fire was then arranged. The opening song was "O Canada," followed by "There's One More River to Cross." A game "The Camp Chief's Hat" was played, followed by another song.

Mr. Whiteside told the troop an amusing story, followed by the showing of some photographs he took while on his vacation. The meeting closed with the lowering of the flag in the rays of a flashlight, with the other lights out. It makes a very impressive closing of the meeting. "God Save the King" was then sung, followed by thirty seconds of silent prayer.

The Scouts are asked to remember that the time for Fall registration is about due. The Court of Honor meeting will be held on Saturday evening at 7.30.

A NEW VICTORY SIX BY DODGE BROTHERS

SMARTER, ROOMIER, MORE COMFORTABLE

With Famed Victory Performance Made Still More Brilliant

Striking improvements in beauty, comfort and roominess, set Dodge Brothers new Victory Six apart as a distinctive and impressively attractive motor car.

Seat dimensions are more generous; cushions deeper and more luxurious; doors higher and wider; and passenger vision materially increased.

New Victory lines sweep gracefully forward to a radiator that expresses new ruggedness and power; and improved fenders further accentuate the vigorous and arresting charm of Victory Six design.

Moreover, new Victory Six construction insures many unique and vital advantages.

The wide Victory chassis frame, flush with the body lines, provides a foundation for the body—which is directly mounted without sills. This remarkable construction lowers the all-important center of gravity, increases the head room, and eliminates the customary body overhang.

And as a consequence, the new Victory grips the road at the curves, travels rough pavement with incredible smoothness, obeys the four-wheel brakes instantly—yet with no discomfort to passengers And provides a quality of pick-up, flexibility and fast flashing action that we urge you most earnestly to investigate.

News From the Mines

Through
Solloway, Mills & Company

Sherritt Gordon.

A guarantee of railway tonnag such as was given by Hudson Ba Mining in the case of the Flin Flon will be required from Sherritt Gordo before any railway is built in Col Lake. Major Graham Bell, deput minister of railways and canals, h stated in an interview in Ottawa.

"We must have that guarantee befo construction is undertaken," Maj Bell declared, "and the compan though well satisfied with prospect wants time to develop its property and determine its possibilities before it enters into any specific contract."

The proposed construction of a branch line from the Flin Flon to the Sherritt Gordon properties was rumored some time ago.

Kirkland Lake.

Managing Director J. B. Tyrrell, Kirkland Lake Gold Mines, states that good progress is being made in underground work and that a station at the 3,100 foot level has been cut and sinking operations have been resumed. The shaft will be deepened to 3,225 feet before the intervening horizon is opened up. Mr. Tyrrell reports that the mill is operating at its usual tonnage and meeting all expenses besides adding a small amount to the company's surplus each month.

Consolidated Smelters.

Consolidated Smelters are now rushing in supplies to the Hall claim at Rotten Stone Lake about 75 miles north of Lac La Rouge in Saskatchewa. The company recently acquired these important claims when it was found that they contained values in nickel, copper, and traces of gold, silver and platinum.

Noranda.

Noranda smelter is still closed down. Fire is still smouldering in the hopper above the pulverizer and it is being let burn itself out. The plant should be in operation by the end of the week or the first part of next week. They intend keeping the furnace warm by burning wood in it.

Amulet.

Amulet's drill hole put down north of the shaft has not cut any ore and has been pulled. New location is further north and east. This hole has been drilled on site of concentrator and the purpose is to eliminate any chance of concentrator being built on top of orebody.

Aldermac.

Our field man in Rouyn reports that the Aldermac crosscut on the 1175 foot level has still a distance of about 100 feet to go. This should bring it close to the vicinity where the diamond drills intersected a narrow width of high grade chalcopyrite. Owing to the deflection of the drills, the exact location of this ore is not known. It will be remembered that the ore on the Aldermac is in the main low grade. There are four orebodies 1, 2, 3 and 4 in addition to the high grade on the 1,175. One and two are surface deposits and of no commercial value. Number three comes in on the 125 foot level and is a large deposit. Number four was first found in the shaft at a depth of 410 feet, where at that level it is 78 feet wide. Both of these bodies are low grade, but it is thought that, owing to their immense size, mining costs will be extremely low, and that they can be made commercial should a sufficient amount of high grade be found to bring the average grade up to around 5 per cent.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

A wire from Kirkland Lake states that for the three months ended September 30th, 1928, the Lake Shore mill treated 78,847 dry tons of ore from which it recovered $1,027,787. The report also contains some information regarding development and states that on the 1,600 foot level the company have the extension of the Teck Hughes' ore body. This is said to show a width of 62 feet with values up to $50 per ton. The north vein on the 1,000-foot level is now said to be 220 feet long with average values between $15 and $20.

Vancouver advices state that the Rufus-Argenta Mine has closed until next February. No reason for this action was given.

Recent prospecting on the Stewart-Abate properties in Beatty Township is said to have revealed a mineralized area with quartz stringers and some quartz veins. These veins are now being prospected.

It is stated that the crosscut on the 1175-foot level of the Aldermac has still a distance of about 100 feet to go. This should bring it close to the vicinity where the diamond drills intersected a narrow width of high grade chalcopyrite. Owing to the deflection of the drills, the exact location of this ore is not known.

Our Vancouver correspondent advises that the Big Missouri Mine, in the Portland Canal district, is developing well. "That the recent strikes of gold bearing ore is of considerable importance is the opinion of the company's officials," he writes, "the high quality of the ore has shown that the Big Missouri is a property with good chances as the general opinion. The Consolidated Smelters crews are energetically carrying on development and expect important results as work proceeds."

Further reports of Tough Oakes closing came down from the north. The mill is said to be silent and underground work ceased. It was reported earlier that the company was again arranging financing in England. Nothing regarding this has been heard. The Gull Lake Kirkland, which adjoins the Tough Oakes is said to have been re-organized under the name of Toronto Kirkland. Properties nearby which were watching Tough Oakes depth programme, and thus obtain some useful information will not be cheered by this news. The closing is liable to affect a lot of properties.

A report from Sudbury is to the effect that International Nickel is not only rushing the day work on the new smelter construction, but a battery of floodlights will permit rushing the work at night. The foundation is said to be almost completed. At the Frood three crosscuts are said to be rushed to cut the high grade copper on the main Frood ore body.

The small fire and coal dust explosion in the pulverizer house at Noranda is stated to have done less than $1,000 worth of actual damage. The mine is said to be operating at full capacity and that the smelter will be held up for only 2 or 3 days.

Rouyn advices are to the effect that sinking of the Newbec shaft commenced yesterday (from present 70-foot level) to a depth of 250 feet, from where a drift will be run to the east on the ore first found at the 70-foot horizon. The new oil-burning plant is said to have been installed. Shaft sinking at the Lartic Gold (controlled by Newbec) is also said to be started. Sampling of the Lartic vein is said to have yielded some assays as high as 11% copper and $2.50 gold over a width of 12 feet. A later report on Newbec states that the present diamond drill hole is now down 335 feet and is drilling in favorable porphyry formation. The main objective is around a depth of 500 feet. The drill is making progress of 20 to 25 feet per day.

Wheat Prices Stronger Corn Remains Firm

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—Wheat prices here scored a fresh upturn early to-day owing chiefly to an advance in the quotations at Liverpool. Corn also displayed a firmness, unfavorable weather offsetting the enlarged receipts. Opening unchanged to ⅝ and ½ cent up Chicago wheat later rose all around. Corn started unchanged ⅝ cent advance and held near to initial figures. Oats were steady; provision inclined downward.

Trading Distributed During Active Session

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The market was active and the trading was well distributed on the Toronto Stock Exchange. Hiram Walker continued to lead and chalked up another new high mark at 86½. At the close it sold at 83¾, a net gain for the day of ¾. Brazilian advanced 3¼ to 72, and Standard Paving 2⅛ to 34½. In active trading Northern Bakeries declined 2¼ to 34½, and Service Stations dropped 1½ to 54½. Hayes Wheels was down ⅛ to 43, and Page Hersey ½ at 114½. Massey Harris dropped ¾ to 52, and Cockshutt ½ to 31½.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 27.—At the cheese market here to-day 1418 white cheese offered all sold at twenty cents.

TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 27 (Canadian Press).—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Creditmen's Trust Association, Limited, for week ending October 27th, 1928, is as follows:

Saint John: A good volume is reported by the wholesale trade generally. Retail trade only fair owing to the unseasonable weather. Collections just fair.

Quebec City: Dealers in wholesale groceries report trade active. Dry goods improving, particularly in goods for winter demand. Boots and shoes have a better outlook. Hardware business in all lines is brisk; lumber trade good. Retail trade is a little quieter owing somewhat to the ending of the tourist trade.

Montreal: Wholesale groceries in good demand; dry goods show a considerable falling off in sales; boots and shoes moving well; clothing decidedly busy. Ladies' wear very fair; hardware continues very busy. Brisk trading is reported in novelties, etc. Retail trade is satisfactory, although the unsettled weather has had an adverse effect on trade generally. Collections are fair. The port of Montreal is busy and both freight and passenger traffic is well up to average. Building trade continues busy.

Toronto: A good volume is reported by wholesale trade generally. Retail trade improving. Collections good.

Winnipeg: Manufacturing continues active. The wholesale trade reports a good volume in seasonable lines. Retail trade is normal for this time of the year, although dealers in the heavier lines of winter clothing report business rather slow owing to the fine weather. Collections are improving.

Regina: Wholesale grocery sales are only fair; dry goods, boots and shoes and hardware good. Retail trade is fair to good and not much improvement can be expected until more seasonable weather develops. Collections are fair generally, but are not as large as was expected, due no doubt to the grain blockade.

Saskatoon: A good volume of business is still continuing in wholesale groceries and fruit and confectionery. Dry goods good and hardware good. Retail trade generally is good in the city and improving considerably in the country. Collections are improving and may be considered good.

Calgary: Business generally continues exceedingly satisfactory, except in clothing lines, where some dealers report business quiet, as a result of an open season. All other lines, particularly construction, autos and oils, are unusually busy. Country collections are not as good as might be expected, owing to congestion of elevators and a large number of farmers working the land in place of realizing on their grain.

Edmonton: Country business and collections fair. Exceedingly fine weather is interfering with seasonable lines.

Vancouver: Manufacturing fairly good. Wholesale hardware, groceries, dry goods and ladies' wear good. Boots and shoes and gentlemen's furnishings fair. Retail trade, both city and country, fairly good. Collections fair to good. Construction and building going ahead rapidly. Mining, lumbering and logging also satisfactory. The grain movement to the coast is excellent. The growers all have had good crops and received good prices while will stimulate the trade.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR

In Hosea 13-14, we read "I will ransom them from the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death." Ransom here means to rescue or deliver from. Through the disobedience of Adam, death came upon all men. Death being the penalty for sin (not endless torment as taught by the clergy) so in order to have man delivered from death there must be a full redemption price paid. If no redemption price is paid, all mankind in time would perish eternally. God so loved mankind that He gave His beloved Son to die for mankind, that the people of the world might not perish; but that they might be saved from everlasting destruction.

Jesus said He came to give His life a ransom for man, that man might have life.—John 10:10.

The life that Jesus gave was a perfect equivalent for the life lost by Adam, and therefore was a sufficient ransom to release Adam and his posterity from death. No wonder the clergy do not preach the resurrection, when they say man does not die. If a man is not dead, he cannot be resurrected.—M. T. Butcher.

LEBAR—In loving memory of Cecil Lebar who passed away Oct. 28th, 1921.

As we loved him, so we miss him,
In our memory he is dear;
Days of sadness still come o'er us,
Tears of sorrow oft times flow;
Memory keeps you, Cecil, near us,
Whom God called seven years ago.
—Sadly missed by mother, father, sisters and brothers.

IN MEMORIAM.

BRIOUX.—In loving memory of my dear sister, Katie Brioux (Dot Graham) who died Oct. 27th, 1924:

Sweet is your memory dear to our hearts,
The place you hold there will never depart,
Though all the years, be they many or few
Will be filled with remembrance dear sister of you.
—Jennie and Charlie and Family.

IN MEMORIAM.

BRIOUX.— In loving memory of Katie (Dot) Graham, beloved wife of Alphonse Brioux, who departed this life October 27, 1924:

Not lost, but gone before.
Her life was earnest, her actions kind.
Her hands were generous, an active mind,
Anxious to please, loathe to offend,
A loving wife, a faithful friend.

The blow was great, the shock severe,
We little thought her death so near,
It's only those who have lost can tell
The sorrow of parting without farewell.

As we loved her, so we miss her,
In our memory she is dear,
Loved, remembered, longed for always
Often wishing she was here.
—Remembered By Father and Mother, Roberta, Margaret and Gerald.

GRAF ZEPPELIN TAKES OFF FOR GERMANY

PREMIER KING RETURNS WITH PEACE MESSAGE

CANADA BEARS GOOD WILL TO ALL NATIONS IS MESSAGE OF PREMIER KING TO CANADA WHEN HE RETURNS FROM GENEVA CONFERENCE

Britain, France and United States May Assure Peace To World.

PROGRESS HALTED.

Perfect Courtesy is Accorded Canada's Envoys Abroad—Settlers Wanted.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press)—In his stateroom Mr. King told of some of those things which took him to Europe, of the welcome he received everywhere, of the hign place which Canada has achieved in the minds and hearts of European nations, and of the benefit which had accrued from his sojourn in Great Britain and on the Continent. Peace, and Canada's part in perpetuating peace in the world, formed the theme of much of what Mr. King had to say.

"The peace of the world depends more on good relationship between the United States and Great Britain, and Great Britain and France than on any other single factor," said the Prime Minister in this connection. He pointed out, in the development of this happy relationship Canada held a key position. The Dominion understood and could interpret the French, the British, and the United States character. She was qualified to act as the interpreter nation. With her understanding of all their peoples, she had it in her power to cement closer and closer the bonds which existed between them.

Must See Viewpoint

"Europe will have to come to the new world point of view," said Mr King, in referring to efforts for world peace.

"The new world," he continued, "could present the old world with a practical example of the effectiveness of disarmament as a means of perpetuating peace. Canada and the United States had demonstrated the value of arbitration and conciliation in international affairs ever since the Rush-Bagot treaty became effective.

"What is interesting to Canada is that here we have worked out what the European nations are seeking," the Premier said. "Canada has renounced war insofar as her relations with the United States went. As a matter of policy, war has been replaced by the spirit of conciliation, and means have been set up for the amicable investigation and adjustment of differences. In Europe there is still an element of distrust between the nations which are seeking peace. That is one reason for the emphasis laid on disarmament as a necessary factor in the attainment of peace. But, for a hundred years, Canada and the United States have disarmed and had trusted each other, and the results had proven the wisdom of doing so.

"By this system we have been relieved of the necessity of putting large sums of money into armaments and this money has gone into industry," Mr. King said. "When the Minister of Finance prepares his budget he does not have to allow even five cents for armaments. The result was a stimulation to prosperity."

ARRIVES HOME.

RT. HON. W. L. MACKENZIE KING, Prime Minister of Canada, who arrived home after two months abroad, on Saturday.

Great Purpose in Going Abroad Was To Carry Message of Peace.

SIGNS PACT.

Church is Most Important Institution in Promoting Peace, Says Premier King.

QUEBEC, Que., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Premier MacKenzie King brought back to the people of Canada a message of peace. Saturday night he set foot on Canadian soil after a sojourn of more than two months abroad. Yesterday he made his first public appearance on a flag-draped platform in the Armouries here and told an audience of some thousands something of what transpired at Paris, at Geneva and at London during the period he and his colleagues, Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways and Canals, and Hon. Raoul Dandurand, Government leader in the Senate, were in Europe. His speech was given in response to words of welcome in the two official languages of Canada, delivered by persons of both sexes representing the Governments of the Dominion, the Province of Quebec, the City of Quebec, and the women of the ancient province. The occasion was featured by the first fall of snow this year in Quebec City, but the white carpet remained only for a short time.

Welcomed by Lapointe.

The Prime Minister was welcomed by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, who acted as Premier during the absence of Mr. King, and who spoke for the people of Canada as a whole. For Quebec, A.-L. A. Taschereau, Premier of the Province, voiced a cordial welcome and expressed an appreciation of what Mr. King and his assistants had accomplished overseas. Mayor Auger of Quebec City, who presided at the meeting, spoke for the city, and Madame Georges Parent, wife of the Federal member for Quebec West, for the women. Incidentally Mr. King was presented with a bouquet of crimson roses, the presentation being made by Miss Marielle Paradis, daughter of Senator Paradis.

"Our great purpose in going abroad was to carry a message which is uppermost in the minds of the Canadian people, a message of peace and goodwill," said Mr. King.

He went on to tell of the first ceremony in which he had participated, the signing of the Briand-Kellogg peace pact at Paris. He explained the purpose of this instrument as the renunciation of war for all time as a means of settling international disputes between nations.

Germany, he said, was the first nation to sign. Gustave Stresemann, the German representative, was given the hand of good-will and fellowship, and Mr. King told his audience that this was particularly significant because sixty years had passed since a German Minister was received by the Government of France. Not since the Franco-German war had a German Minister been received by the French Government.

FIVE KILLED AT CROSSING

Automobile Stalls On Track In Front of Fast Express Train.

SIXTH INJURED.

SEWARD, Pa., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Five persons comprising an entire family were instantly killed early to-day when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by an express passenger train of the Pennsylvania Railroad east of here. A sixth, the driver of the machine, lies critically injured in the Memorial Hospital, Johnston, his death a matter of hours, according to the hospital officials.

The dead are, George Zahorchok, his wife Anna, their two minor children and Mrs. Zahrochok's mother, Mrs. Homala, a widow, all of Johnston. The driver of the machine was Joe Tshck of Charles. According to reports the machine stalled upon an open crossing and the Pittsburgh-Philadelphia express, eastbound, bore down upon them before any of the occupants could escape. The machine was struck and demolished. Both women were decapitated and one of the youngsters was rent in two. Zahrochok's both arms weer ripped from his body.

PARADE ROUTE IS OUTLINED

George and Brock Streets Are To Be Kept Free of Traffic.

STARTS AT 8 P.M.

The committee in charge of the Hallowe'en parade has outlined the following route: Leave the Armouries sharp at 8 o'clock, headed by the Peterborough Rangers Band, out of south door to Murray Street up Aylmer to McDonnel Streets, to George Street, down George Street to Simcoe Street, over Simcoe to Aylmer Streets to Charlotte Street, along Charlotte to George Streets, up George Street to the Brock Street Rink, where the judging will take place.

The Band will go immediately after the parade to the Armouries, and will furnish music for dancing until eleven o'clock. It is hoped every one will have a good time and continue to observe the night in the same jolly but gentlemanly manner they have for seevral years past.

The Police Department asks that citizens refrain from parking their cars along the line of the parade and at intersections they leave the way clear for all emergency traffic.

COD LIVER OIL SUPPLIES ALL THE VITAMINES

Rotary Club Learns How the Oil is Manufactured and Tested.

GREAT CARE TAKEN.

Biological Test To Determine Vitamine Potency of Product.

Members at the Peterborough Rotary Club heard a lot of interesting facts in regard to an unusual subject at to-day's luncheon when Rotarian Wm. Harrison of Toronto, a member of the firm of Ayerst, McKenna and Harrison, Pharmaceutical Chemists discussed the manufacture and uses of cod liver oil.

Rotarian Harrison who was introduced by Rotarian Lou Powin, prefaced his story of the manufacture of cod liver oil with an informative talk on vitamines, dealing with the principal powers of vitamines A, B, C, D, and E and showing how each of these was necessary to physical development and maintenance of health. In regard to vitamine D, which he said was supplied by the sunlight and was needed in the development of bone structure and the teeth. He remarked that next to the sun the chief supply of this most important vitamine was to be found in cod liver oil. This oil too contained the other vitamines and its use was recommended by physicians in almost every case for children under two years of age.

The speaker remarked that the world's chief supply of cod was obtained from Norway and Newfoundland, the former yielding the most oil and the latter the best. He described the catching of the Newfoundland, cod, the process of cod liver oil manufacture, the testing of the oil by a biological test in which its effect from a vitamine potency viewpoint was studied when fed to rats, and the great pains taken to prevent an offensive taste and to put on the market an oil with the greatest possible vitamine value. Incidentally he advised parents to see that their children acquired a taste for cod liver oil by giving it to them in small doses at first until they learned to like it.

The speaker was heartily thanked for his informative address.

Among the guests to-day was Kiwanian W. H. Dickin, president of the Boy Scout Association who thanked the Rotarians as a club and individually for their interest and assistance and reporting the organization of new troops in several churches, urged co-operation in making possible similar troops in other churches not yet connected with the movement.

Rotarian Ensign Green asked for volunteers for cars to transport a number of old people to the tea to be given at the Salvation Army Temple on Thursday and secured a score of automobiles in quick order.

President W. R. Morris commended the Examiner's Hallowe'en Party as a splendid feature and also drew attention to the fact that Rotarian Fred Roy had been doing good Rotary work away from home as well as locally in as much as he had been addressing the Cobourg and Niagara Falls Clubs.

Snowfall Evident In Surrounding District

Snow in the fields and on the roof tops all along the lake front is reported by motorists who drove from Toronto during the night. While there was not a sufficient "fall" to make the highways troublesome, there was a distinct touch of winter in the air.

At Lindsay there was quite a snow storm during the day while other sections to the north and west have also reported a blanket of "the beautiful."

104 Men Serve Time

Total Cost of Administering Jail Last Year Was $3,358.39.

NUMEROUS VAGRANTS.

Nobody Confined Claimed That He Hailed From Scotland.

The annual report of the Peterborough County Jail has been compiled. It is an interesting document and discloses that the amount of crime is rather light in Peterborough County and not of an exceeding ing bad or desperate character. This is mostly due according to officials to the really small number of foreigners in this county as compared with others.

The total number of prisoners of both sexes during the year was 241. But 227 were only committed to the jail during the fiscal year just closed there being 14 in the jail when the year commenced. There were 104 men and 7 women sentenced to a term of imprisonment. All the prisoners together spent a total number of 3568 days in the jail.

Considering the nationalities dis[illegible] the fact that there wasn't a Scotchman imprisoned or at least there wasn't a prisoner who gave his nationality as Scotch. Each of the other British nationalities were well represented. According to nationality the number for each is: Canadian, 189; English, 29; Irish, 2; American, 4; other nationalities, 3.

The classification of the prisoners according to religious denomination shows that there were 59 who claimed membership to the United Church, 50 declared adherence to the Roman Catholic faith, 54 said they were Anglicans, Presbyterians numbered 22 and other denominations 43.

The greatest number of prisoners confined in the jail at any one time was sixteen and at no time was the jail entirely vacant, there always being at least on inmate.

The total cost of administering the jail was a low figure considering the large number of prisoners, $3.358.39 being the amount. And certainly the prisoners did not live on too rich foods, sixteen and a half cents paying for all that each prisoner consumed per day.

It would prove too complicated a job in research to give figures of the number confined under breach of the Liquor Control Act. Most of the prisoners, 63 in number were confined under the simple charge of vagrancy.

HONOR MEMORY OF SENATOR

Window Unveiled Commemorating Late Hon. R. A. Mulholland.

AT PORT HOPE

PORT HOPE, Oct. 29.—In commemoration of the late Senator Robert A. Mulholland, a former valued member of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church here, and chairman of the Board of Managers, a memorial window was unveiled at St. Paul's yesterday morning. The dedication ceremonies were carried out by Rev. Dr. Thomas Eakin, Principal of Knox College, Toronto, assisted by Rev. J. G. Hornsby of Port Hope.

The auditorium was taxed to capacity, and the eminent Toronto divine had charge of the morning service. He eulogized the works of the late Senator and the ceremony was very impressive. The inscription on the stained glass memorial reads: "To the glory of God and in loving memory of Robert A. Mulholland, Senator of the Dominion of Canada, for many years a faithful and devoted member of this church."

THE WEATHER

This morning the temperature was down to 21 degrees, or 11 degrees below the freezing point. Sunday was a day of varieties of weather conditions—showers, a little snow, and also hail. The total was .12.—W. P.

TWO PERSONS ARE INJURED IN CROSSING WRECK

Belleville Men Struck By Canadian National Engine Near Toronto.

FAILED TO SEE SIGNALS.

Owner of Car in Serious Condition As Result of Wreck.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct 29—(Special to The Examiner)—Two Belleville men, Roy Gilroy, aged 27 and John Oster, were hurled a distance of forty feet on Sunday evening when Gilroy's car was driven into side of a C.N.R. yard engine the Victoria Park level crossing in Scarboro Township.

Gilroy was rescued from his wrecked car by [illegible] and the train crew. He was unconscious, suffering from internal injuries. Oster, who was thrown clear of the wrecked car, was picked up, suffering only from minor bruises.

Gilroy was rushed to the General Hospital where an operation was performed on him in an endeavor to save his life. His condition was reported as only fair.

Did Not See Signals

According to the train watchman, who was at the level crossing and witnessed the accident, Gilroy came north on Victoria Park Avenue. The engine was coming to the crossing from the west and the watchman took up [illegible] with the red flag of danger held out.

Gilroy evidently did not see the wavings of the red flag or the approaching train, for the train was half way over the crossing when Gilroy crashed into the side of it. The car was dragged a distance of 40 feet.

OFFICERS RELATE HARDSHIPS DURING NIGHT IN OPEN BOAT

Three Officers and Cook of the Steamer Cairntorr Land at Quebec.

VESSEL A WRECK

Men Tell of How Wreck Occurred Without Warning Last Tuesday Night.

QUEBEC, Oct. 29 (Special to The Examiner).—Reporting for the first time their almost unbelievable hardships and dangers, three officers and a cook of the wrecked Cairn freighter Cairntorr, which now lies disintegrating near Cape Whittle in the vicinity of Belle Isle, landed at Quebec on Saturday afternoon from the Anchor Donaldson freighter Salacia. They are recovering from a distressing night spent rowing almost in vain against heavy seas, through fog and rain to gain succor announced by answering flares soaring up into the darkness from the Salacia.

The rescued mariners laud the valor and steadfastness of Captain W. Rennie of the inbound Salacia which stood by under adverse conditions until all were known to be safe and which took twenty-four of the unfortunate seamen aboard soaked and weakened by exposure and toil.

The remainder of the unfortunate freighter's crew are stranded on shore in the vicinity of the grounding, probably under the protection of some small community and will depend upon the Canadian Government steamer Montcalm, to effect their safe embarkation for Britain aboard the first possible out-going ship.

No Warning

Giving to The Examiner the first authentic story of the wreck, the four men told of how on three o'clock on Tuesday without warning, there came a terrific grinding and a lurch. The engine room became a seething torrent of inrushing water and the Chief Justice Latchford said members of the court were all agreed that nothing had taken place to lead them to grant a new trial. The only error, he said, was that the trial judge had allowed too much latitude to counsel for defendants.

T. F. Hall, K.C., of Cobourg, appeared for appellants, while R. H. Parmenter, K.C., represented Sir Arthur Currie.

Giant Ship Starts Back

Graf Zeppelin Leaves Lakehurst at 1.58 On Return To Germany.

START UNEXPECTED.

At Eleven O'clock Big Ship Was Reported To Be Near Bermuda.

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N.J., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, imprisoned for days by contrary winds, heaved off its bonds early to-day and headed back through the moonlight skies for its home port at Friedrichshafen, Germany. It left at 1.54 a.m., with three score men and women aboard. The greatest airship that ever flew the skies was dragged, tail first, from the hangar not long after midnight, and then, seeming suddenly to acquire life of its own, it lifted proudly against the moon and strode away on its journey across the seas.

All day yesterday the departure of the Zeppelin on its return flight had remained in doubt. The zero hour for the ground crew of sailors who have been in constant attendance on the great ship since its arrival from Europe two weeks ago to-day was first set for five o'clock in the afternoon and then advanced to midnight. But even then no one seemed really to believe that the ship would leave. But midnight came and action followed with a breathless swiftness. The passengers were bundled aboard, chatting feverishly and grinning with something of desperation in their smiles. The ground crew, more than three hundreds sailors trained to such events by frequent handling of the Los Angeles, marched to their posts and grasped the air monster as unceremoniously as a mother pushes a baby carriage. The great east doors of the hangar ground open on their tracks, and night wafted into the hangar with its invitation of limitless space to be traversed by those who dare.

An officer barked a terse command. The great ship stirred through its whole length of 778 feet. Its 111 tons of weight seemed to heave and rise. It was like a giant sighing at the thought of the activity expected of him.

Great Black Monster.

Out in the night the Zeppelin was a great black monster with a fin of silver down its back where the moon struck. It twisted toward the north and moved ponderously, under the sailors' expert guidance, to haul it far enough from the hangar so that there would be no danger of being blown against the towering steel structure.

And then, "Weigh ship," the officer bellowed.

The ground crew released its many handed hold. The Graf Zeppelin, a giant waking from the deep sleep, lifted its head slowly as though sniffing the relish of the morning air, and then the roar of its five great engines split the night.

Propelled by those engines, the Graf Zeppelin shot upward toward the moon and circled majestically overhead, in large circles. It swung about the air station that had been its temporary home since its arrival from Germany and then headed eastward toward the ocean it must cross to return to its home station. It started into the air at 1.54 this morning, and at two it was nothing more than a gray blot against the moon. And then it was nothing at all. The Graf Zeppelin came to America from across the seas, and had gone back whence it came.

Germany Surprised.

BERLIN, October 29 (Canadian Press).—The start of the Graf Zeppelin on her return flight from the United States this morning came as a surprise to the German public who had been led to assume that Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander, had decided to postpone the voyage until Tuesday. Confidence prevails everywhere that the airship will negotiate the return

BALDWIN WINS IN CLOSE VOTE

Prime Minister is Elected Rector of Glasgow University By 66 Votes.

FOUR CANDIDATES.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press Cable.) — Premier Stanley Baldwin was elected Rector of Glasgow University, but the results of the voting are taken as indicating the emergence of "Scottish Nationalism" from its comparative obscurity. Premier Baldwin only defeated Robert B. Cunningham Graham, politician and author, by the narrow margin of 66 votes. Mr. Cunningham Graham stood for election as a Nationalist. The result of the voting was:

Premier Stanley Baldwin, Conservative, 1,044; Cunningham Graham, Nationalist, 978; Sir Herbert Samuel, Liberal, 396; N. Rosslyn Mitchell, M. P. for Paisley, Labor, 226.

It is believed that the women's vote turned the scale in favor of Premier Baldwin. The Nationalist party was founded in the university four months ago with a membership of six. It has a number of able leaders including Lewis Spence, editor and author, who intends to contest future parliamentary elections in Scotland on an independent platform. The Nationalist Party alleges that there is neglect of national interests at Westminster, a gradual decay of various traditions and institutions and expresses fears of "racial extinction" through recent industrial developments.

The usual lively scenes between rival bodies of students occurred in the vicinity of the polling station. The student ammunition supply consisted of 60,000 bad eggs, thousands of cod fish heads, barrels of rotten fruit, small bags of soot, peas, meal and ochre. The "storm troops" were dressed in "boiler" suits and football attire, many wearing crash helmets and wire coverings for their faces.

DESCRIBES TRIP.

Rev. M. E. Wilson Addresses Belmont Women's Institute, Describing Western Trip.

Examiner Correspondence)

HAVELOCK, Oct. 29.—Rev. M. E. Wilson, of Havelock, gave a very interesting address on Thursday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Belmont Women's Institute held at the Township Hall when he gave a very vivid description of the scenery and places of interest which he visited on his recent trip through Western Canada. Part of the journey was made by boat. On arrival at Port Arthur, the balance of the trip was made by train, stopping at Kenora, Winnipeg, Fort Garry, Calgary, Banff, Lake Louise, en route to the coast. On his return he again visited Winnipeg where he had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Nellie McClung give an address.

During the business session it was decided to hold a pie social and entertainment in the Belmont Town Hall on Thursday evening, November 1st. Mr. Storey, of Campbellford, who is well known in this district as a comic singer, has been secured to assist with the program.

A demonstration on carving fowl, given by Mrs. George Smith, was an item which was of interest and help to the members, the chicken used for this purpose providing a very tasty addition to the lunch served at the close of the meeting.

The president, Mrs. A. Russell, presided and the roll call was answered by Hallowe'en legends, customs and superstitions.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS SHOW DECREASE

C.N.R. Places Embargo On Grain Coming From Georgian Bay Ports.

LINDSAY, Oct. 29.—There has been somewhat of a slump in grain shipments over the C.N.R. through Lindsay and Peterborough during the past few days. Owing to the congestion at Montreal the C.N.R. has found it necessary to place an embargo upon grain shipments from Georgian Bay ports. It is understood that the reason for the embargo is the fact that there is at Montreal at the present time over fifty grain boats loaded with grain as well as many thousands of cars, with no place to put the grain, the terminals there being filled. It is unknown just how long this embargo will prevail, but it is expected that it would not be lifted by the end of last week.

Increased activity in flying in Canada has led to the establishment of flying schools by commercial firms, to fill the growing demand for pilots ad air engineers. The Department of National Defence, to encourage the popular use and knowledge of aeronautics, is assisting in the establishing of flying clubs in the principal cities of the Dominion.

"That's what makes teeth dull and cloudy"

—a dingy film that ordinary brushing will not remove successfully. A new way to remove it.

THE greatest destroyer of lovely sparkling teeth, dental science knows as film. The source of most serious tooth and gum disorders is likewise film.

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery, sticky coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film, dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. They continue to improve for months. Start today. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 191 George St., Toronto 2, Ont., Canada.

Baggageman Causes Trouble On C.N.R. Passenger Train Attempts To Draw a Gun On Officer Who Makes Arrest

LINDSAY, Oct. 29.—(Special to The Examiner).—C.N.R. Detective Ray Morden, of Lindsay, and formerly of Peterborough, had a rather thrilling experience with a drunk on the Midland-Blackwater train a few days ago, having sustained injuries in his struggle with the man.

His assailant was one Delbert J. Irwin, messenger and baggageman on the train. It appears he had been causing a lot of trouble on his regular run, and was in such an intoxicated condition that he refused to put off baggage at the right stations. Detective Morden went in to the baggage car, but could not quiet Irwin. He threatened to blow the officer's brains out, but could not get the gun from his pocket quick enough. Morden got the gun, but he also cut his head badly on some broken glass from the baggage room door. The drunk was finally overpowered, and while on the journey to Lindsay said to the detective: "I would have shot you quick, but could not draw my gun quick enough. He pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication and also to the charge of assaulting an officer and was fined $150.00 and costs.

CANADA BEARS GOOD WILL

Needs Immigration.

The Prime Minister referred briefly to immigration. He felt, he said, that he and those associated with him had been able to convince the people of Great Britain that British settlers were welcome in Canada. He expressed the opinion that some of the injurious propaganda circulated in Great Britain which led to an opposite impression gaining ground might be traced to private organizations which desired to compel the Canadian Government to contribute financially to their own immigration schemes. The Government had no intention of contributing large sums to private immigration schemes, he stated.

The meeting of the League of Nations, which he attended for the first time as one of Canada's representatives, was referred to by the Prime Minister. "The League is doing a great work," he said. "It is trying to develop the appeal of reason rather than the appeal to force." This accounted for the stress laid upon disarmament, because the League believed that to discourage great armaments meant to put a brake on any nation which might be inclined to belligerence. The bringing together of representatives of the world nations, their sitting down to talk over their differences, was a most important thing.

"It is helping to create a world opinion which fosters goodwill instead of illwill," the Prime Minister declared. He considered the signing of the Kellogg treaty an important step toward that condition which was desired by the signatory nations.

"I think they are leaving it to the United States to decide," Mr King said, when asked if efforts were being made to induce the United States to join the League. All countries are welcome," he added.

Happy Position.

Canada's representatives had been in a particularly happy position during peace discussions at the meeting of the League of Nations, declared the Prime Minister, because Canada and the United States had already renunciated war and substituted for it conciliation and arbitration as a means of settling disputes.

When questions of disarmament arose at the League, Canada's representatives were able to point to thousands of miles of border without a fort or gun on it. "And what is more, we were able to say that this had prevailed for a hundred years," added the Premier. "What would have happened," he asked, "if Canada and the United States had entered into a competition of armaments?"

"We are a people of ten millions; they are a people of one hundred and ten millions. Where would we have been in the race for competitive armaments if our forefathers had not renounced war as an instrument of international policy?" he asked his hearers. "Disarmament is not only the secret of peace. It is the secret of prosperity as well. We are applying reason rather than force to the settlement of international problems."

Mr. King stressed the importance of the Church in promoting peace and called upon it to do its part.

"I am not speaking of any one church but of all churches which profess to teach the precepts of the founder of Christendom," he said.

Orval Shaw, Hunted For Nearly a Year, is Found in House.

ROBBERY SUSPECT.

CHATHAM, Ont., Oct. 29.—Orval Shaw, 24, hunted for nearly a year as the "mystery man" of Skunks Misery, was arrested by county police early yesterday morning at a dwelling near Bothwell. Skunks Misery is a bush which extends over thousands of acres on the border of Kent, Middlesex and Elgin counties.

Police went to the dwelling near Bothwell after receiving a report that the suspect was there. They surrounded the house and Shaw was arrested when he attempted to leave by the back door. He submitted quietly and was brought to Chatham to be arraigned in county police court today.

Police allege that Shaw is suspected in connection with numerous petty robberies in the towns and villages near Skunks Misery. On different occasions when the police have hunted him, he is alleged to have escaped by taking to the woods, where he is said to have lived in caves. On different occasions police of three counties, provincial officers and citizens have formed posses and combed the brush-land for the "Mystery Man" without success.

It is expected that Shaw will be remanded on a nominal charge today, while police investigate his record.

ORCHESTRAS UNITE.

Two Local Organizations Join To Form One Unit.

Peterborough will be provided with another clever dance orchestra in the amalgamation of George Logan's Merrimakers with Eric Roberts' orchestra, as announced recently.

Mr. Roberts is known to the Peterborough dance public as conductor of the Ohioans, who made such a pleasing impression while playing at Chemong Park this summer, and his joining of forces with the Logan Merrimakers, under the name of the Roberts-Logan Merrimakers, is certain to result in a well organized dance unit.

Walter Parr, gold medalist in the Bass Class in the Musical Festival, will sing the test piece, "The Two Grenadiers," at the concert in St. Paul's Church, Monday night, October 19th.

Bailieboro

BAILIEBORO, Oct. 29.—The victor tuxis square held their nomination meeting on Friday evening in Bateson's Hall. There was a splendid crowd present and at the conclusion of the service the nominations were called for a member for the boys' parliament.

The Pretor, Archie Deyell, presided at the meeting, and Arnold Brown, Ray Barnard, Herbert Dean, Joe Barnard, Archie Deyell and Keith Barnard were nominated. The boys all withdrew their names with the exception of Joe Barnard, Arnold Brown and Keith Barnard. Arthur Bateman and Clifford Harper acted as scrutineers and when the ballots were counted it was found Keith Barnard had won the nomination. It is not known as yet who his opponent will be in East Durham.

The tuxis movement is very active in this vicinity and the boys are looking ahead to a profitable and educational winter's work.

YOUNG PEOPLE VISIT OMEMEE

Bethel Society Pays Visit To Young People of Trinity Church.

GOOD PROGRAM.

OMEMEE, October 29.—The Young People's Union of Trinity Church was favored with a visit from the sister society at Bethel one night last week, who contributed much to the program. Following the opening exercises, conducted by the president, Rev. Mr. Blanchard, on behalf of the Omemee society, expressed a very hearty welcome to the visiting group. Bethel then took charge. Mr. Cecil Casey presided. After the singing of a rousing hymn, Mrs. Harry Deyell had charge of the devotional exercises, being assisted by Messrs. Eugene Switzer and H. Deyell. Rev. J. T. Blanchard delighted his hearers by rendering "The Holy City."

The topic was then ably taken by Mr. Harry Jackson, who chose for his subject, "The Lamps of Life." Four of these lamps which each individual should keep trimmed and burning, and to which the speaker made reference, are: Gratitude, hope, faith, and love.

W. Howden gave a reading entitled "Women's Curiosity," in his usual humorous style.

Cecil Casey, who was filling the role of president in Mrs. Oswald Ruth's place, expressed the appreciation of the Bethel Leaguers, stating that these visits from time to time built up a friendship and helped to keep up the interest.

On behalf of the local group, a hearty vote of thanks was extended by Messrs Gordon Bradley and Roy Faulkner, and responded to by H. Jackson. Two contests were put on which evoked much pleasure, and later refreshments were served and a social half-hour enjoyed.

Members Enrolled.

The regular meeting of the A.Y.P.A. was held in the basement of the church on Monday evening. Three new members were enrolled. The rector, Rev. A. T. Weir, addressed the meeting. He spoke on the first of a series of talks he is about to give on the "Principles of Liturgical Worship." His address proved very interesting and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Hot Supper.

No lack of interest and enthusiasm was shown by the citizens of Omemee and district on Thursday evening, when the Women's Institute held a hot supper in the U.F.O. Hall. From five o'clock on, the ladies in charge had a continual rush. The hall was decorated with Hallowe'en colors of orange and black, with black cats and witches overlooking all. Small tables were used which were laden with fancy covers and adorned by a bouquet of marigolds. For the small sum of twenty-five cents one received hot potatoes, salisbury steak, baken beans, pickles, jelly, salad, bread and butter, rolls, pie, and tea; and no one went away hungry. The Institute have a worthy object in view, which is evident by the support given them in their undertaking.

The proceeds of the evening were in the neighborhood of $45.00.

GOLD IN CANADA

The chief sources of Canada's gold production continue to be the gold quartz ores of Porcupine and Kirkland Lake, Ontario; the copper-gold, sulphide ores, and the quartz veins of British Columbia; and the placer deposits of Yukon. A small amount of placer gold is obtained also in covered from quartz veins in Nova Scotia and Manitoba, and as by-product of the treatment of copper ores in Quebec.

ALL BOOKS ART SAYS SPEAKER

Women's Art Association Hears Talk On Books and Art.

OPENING MEETING.

"All books are art, or at least, should be art," was the opening sentence of a brief, informal talk on "Books on Art Subjects" given to the members of the Women's Art Association at their opening meeting for the season, held Friday afternoon in the studio at the Conservatory of Music.

The speaker was Miss Nora Thompson of Toronto, who is an authority on books of all types and who has just returned from a trip to Europe. Her address was delivered in a delightfully informal and friendly fashion and was illustrated by means of examples of books of various types, demonstrating the art of many countries. The talk was really descriptive of these books and drew attention to their salient features to the differences in their making and illustrating.

"Long ago, books were always beautiful. The old manuscripts were lovely because the makers of those days had ideals and everything was done by hand. They were works of love. In the nineteenth century, books became very bad because the people became intellectual and mechanical and demanded only of a book that it hold an idea. It was William Morris and his companions who started a Renaissance in the art of printing, and now a great interest is taken in the printing and binding and illustrating of books."

Miss Thompson showed a copy of an old French manuscript, reproduced in Belgium, complete with its ancient illustrations in black and white and in colors.

Canadian Books

A group of All Canadian books was exceptionally notable. It included "Fine 'Arts in Canada" written by Newton McTavish, being a comprehensive review of Canadian art from its beginnings and having as one of its illustrations a copy of the first picture painted of Cornelius Creighoff, the habitant painter of Quebec.

There was a portfolio of deceased Canadian artists; a history book entitled "The Canadian Art Movement" written by F. B. Houser and descriptive of the work of the Group of Seven; and a book called "Le Grand Silence Blank" written by an eminent Frenchman who translated into words his impressions of the mystical charm of Alaska and illustrated by Clarence Gagon, a French Canadian artist. This volume is dedicated to the artist's faithful dog companion, Tempest.

A. Y. Jackson's book of drawings of the Far Northern country, taken after a trip by him on the little steamer Boethic which yearly leaves Sydney to journey to the Arctic and the Eskimo posts and a volume entitled "The Downfall of Temlahama" written by Marius Barbeau and centreing about Indian life in Canada, were included in this collection. There was also a charming little book called "The First Canadian Christmas Carol" by Father Jean de Brebouf, one of the stalwart Jesuit martyrs of the early days of Canada. This had an exquisite little color plate showing the birth of the Christ Child, with an Indian convert standing beside the Mother and Babe.

Butterflies in Colors

The French books were very fine, with one lovely thing in "Papillons" a large volume with plates of butterflies' wings, done in wash colors of brilliant hues. There was an odd book on Napoleon, illustrating in bright tints by means of old-time "broadsides" or contemporary magazine illustrations of the day.

The children's books in French showed the gay, happy tendency of the Parisian and there was a beautiful example of hand-tooled leather binding in "Poesies de Albert Samain" with dainty little colored pictures illustrating equally dainty bits of verse in old French lettering.

Another of these French books, with their odd illustrations, was "Le Mortifiement de Vaine Plaisance" with large pictures of strange people, one of them depicting a surprised and startled horse, from whose eyes a bandage had slipped, turning to gaze curiously at a damsel conveyed behind it in a farmer's cart. Another horse trudges along sedately, the bandage still properly in place before its eyes.

Examples of French art in these books showed a shadowy, yet very vivid delineation of thoughtful subjects. One book, entitled "Les Albums d'Art Druet" had in its series a curious illustration of the eccentric Don Quixote, a bony gentleman astride his bony horse, Rosinante, with his squat companion, Sancho Panza, riding beside him.

"Maria Chapdelaine" Louis Hemon's famous book of French Canadian heritage, was illustrative

DOCTOR SHOWS QUICKEST WAY TO END HEAD COLDS

Many Here Who Try Hospital Method in Own Homes Get Almost Instant Relief

Quick, sure relief—then the joy of waking up without the misery caused by neglecting a cold at this season.

This experience of Miss Gertrude Cary has been shared recently by numbers of people in Peterborough and Lindsay. For doctors are now recommending home use of a hospital method that ends colds quickly—often in a few hours—yet is inexpensive and pleasant to take.

Miss Cary, for example, neglected her cold until her eyes became inflamed, her nose stopped up and congestion started spreading so fast she called her doctor. Relief began almost instantly when he advised Ayer's Cherry Pectoral—a hospital certified compound of wild cherry, terpin hydrate and other ingredients used in treating even extreme hospital cases.

With the first pleasant swallow she felt its comforting, healing warmth. In an hour or so the medication was absorbed by her system, loosening up congestion. When she awoke the next morning there was practically no sign of the cold—and in another day or so congestion had disappeared entirely.

Note: Other cases reported daily—all certified by attending physician.

Just a few pleasant spoonfuls of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral now and you, too, will feel like a different person to-morrow. At all druggists—60c and twice as much in $1.00 hospital size.

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral for COLDS and COUGHS HOSPITAL CERTIFIED

IN POLICE COURT

It was "neighborhood problems" morning in Police Court this morning when Magistrate O. A. Langley disposed of at least two cases arising out of disagreements between neighbors.

While not wishing to give the impression that he approved of the use of a club to assert an individual's rights, His Worship declined to convict George Foster, of Euclid Avenue, on such a charge. The case provided an interesting point of law, in that it was necessary to decide whether a man is justified in using force to remove a trespasser on his property. James Pemmett, a neighbor of Foster's, had gone about his work of moving a fence and shed on the latter's property, despite strenuous verbal objections. Finally, Foster had taken a stick and had struck the trespasser, and incidentally, even that had not been sufficient to convince the assaulted one that he was not welcome. Later, the assault charge was laid.

His Worship failed to find that the blow had been struck vindictively rather than as a preventive measure and therefore dismissed the case.

That it is bad business to strike a neighbor's child, was evidenced when W. Evans White, a local carter, was fined $2.00 and costs amounting to $6.75, when he pleaded guilty to striking young Harry Whatley, Young Street. White claimed that young Whatley had been one of a number of boys who had been throwing stones at his house during the past couple of weeks. On the day of the assault, White had heard the stones or some such object striking his house and had gone out to see one of the lads run over to where Harry Whatley was sitting on his own verandah. He had struck the boy on the face.

The fine was imposed, indicating that it is not well to take the law in one's hands too rigorously.

The case of a young lad, implicated in the theft of a car, was adjourned to provide opportunity for arranging his admission to an industrial school.

NOTED PREACHER VISITS HASTINGS

Rev. Archer Wallace, M.A., Conducts Anniversary Services in Trinity Church.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Oct. 29.— The people of Hastings and neighboring communities had the privilege of hearing Rev. Archie Wallace, M.A., preacher, author and lecturer, on Sunday, October 21st, in Trinity United church, and on Monday, Oct. 22nd, in the Town Hall. Rev. Mr. Wallace is associate editor of Sunday School Publications for the United Church of Canada, and for several years has edited a boys' paper, "The King's Own" and has shown himself to be particularly at home in the realm of boy life. He is a boy's man. Of course we speak of him as a man, because he is an editor and the head of a family, but really the boy in him will never die. Boys gather around him at a football match or hockey game or in Sunday school. Many boys write to him of their problems. Whenever he speaks to boys, they are eager to hear him again. With rare insight he is able to understand them, and tell stories they like to hear. He knows how to condense a long story and make the spirit of the hero live again in many other lives. Rev. Jesse Arnup, D.D., once wrote of Mr. Wallace, "He is an artist in abbreviation; he has the happy faculty of telling old stories in an interesting manner. Examples of heroism and devotion preserved in big biographies and known only to a comparatively favored few, are set forth in such small compass and with such simple directness of style, that he who runs may read.

As a preacher, Rev. Mr. Wallace is constantly in demand for special occasions, and his mesasges are always human, direct, interesting and inspiring.

Written Books.

Besides thousands of articles for magazines and religious periodicals, Mr. Wallace has written four books, "Stories of Grit," "Overcoming Handicaps," "Canadian Heroes of Mission Fields Overseas," and "Blazing New Trails." The latter is a book which tells of fifteen missionaries at work fairly well around the world, in such fields as Labrador, Northern Manitoba, The Yukon, Tibet, China, India, Arabia, Africa and the South Pacific Islands. All of them were ready to take at hand at anything that needed to be done, from translating the Scriptures to stopping fights. Dr. Paton digging the first well in Aniwa; Mackay of Uganda repairing a boat, whose bow had been crunched by the jaws of a hippopotamus; Dr. Sheldon who opened the first hospital in Tibet, and did as many as thirty-one amputations in one day; James Evans inventing the Cree Syllabic System for the Indians in Northern Canada, making type from lead of tea chests, and the ink from chimney soot. Such men are revealed, not as dreamers building castles in the air, but practical men who did things, new things in new ways.

Whether you listen to Archer Wallace preaching a sermon or delivering a lecture, or whether you read one or more of his books, you are fascinated by his wealth of thought, originality of style and practical understanding of human nature.

On Sunday large crowds were present at both services to enjoy the special music provided by the choir, with the assistance of Miss Jessie Wilcox of Detroit, who sang a solo very sweetly at the morning service, and to hear two soul-stirring sermons delivered by Rev. Archer Wallace. The morning theme was, "Unsuspected Sacredness of Common Things," while the evening subject was, "Right and Wrong Ideas of Religion."

Cancels Service

Rev. D. A. Thomson, D.D., pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church took part in the evening service, having cancelled his own regular service because of Trinity anniversary.

"Is the World Growing Better?" was the subject upon which Rev. Mr. Wallace lectured in the Town Hall on Monday evening, and no one was left in doubt as to whether Mr. Wallace believes the world is growing better. From far afield in history and human experience, the speaker mustered an array of facts to prove his contention, and in doing so, held his audience in rapt attention for more than an hour.

Instrumental music for the evening was provided by the Excelsior Orchestra, supplemented by a piano duet played by Miss Gladys Stevenson, and Mrs. J. Knight, and won unstinted applause. Vocal numbers were, solo by Miss Mae Huycke; duet by Mrs. Gordon Fox and Mr. John Wilson; duet by Miss Irene Sargent and Miss Madeline Bond.

The program was further enhanced by short addresses delivered by Rev. Mr. Battersby, Rev. Dr. Thomson, and Rev. A. Carman Hie.

With the singing of the National Anthem, there was brought to a conclusion, a red-letter event in the life of Hastings people, who were voicing their sincere appreciation of the entire anniversary occasion.

Address and Presentation

On the eve of their departure for Kenilworth in Wellington County, where they will reside in future, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. O'Neil and family were kindly remembered by their friends and neighbors in an address and presentation.

LYRICS OF LIFE

THE BABY'S PICTURE

We took the baby down to get
Her picture taken yesterday,
Although she's just a baby yet—
Because we knew she would not stay
A baby always. Night and noon
And morning alter cheek and brow,
And we shall want her picture soon
As she is now.

In baby days how swift the hours,
How quickly changes come and pass,
How like the blossoming of flow'rs
The blooming of a little lass.
We want to capture every curl
And bring our baby back again,
To show the maid the baby girl
That she was then.

We took the baby down and had
Her picture taken, as they do,
A little present for her Dad,
A memory for Mother, too.
Perhaps some day a lovely bride
Shall look upon it and shall see
A baby's portrait, and, beside,
The babe to be.

EIGHT PERMITS DURING WEEK

Two Large Building Contracts Commenced in City Last Week.

COST $2,265.

Eight permits, providing for the expenditure of approximately $2,265 were issued from the City Engineer's office during the week ending Saturday, October 27. There were no large contracts referred to, being mostly alterations ,small garages, shingling and other small pieces of work.

Alterations and additions to a dwelling at 460 Charlotte street will be responsible for the expenditure of $1100.00 according to a permit granted R. Henry, contractor for All Saints' Church. The addition, which is to provide a kitchen, and garage with a bedroom on the top floor, will be on a concrete foundation 14 feet long by 12 feet wide, and the walls will be of brick veneer exterior and lath and plaster finish inside.

The building will be of two stories with patent roofing and will be completed on or about December 1, 1928.

The erection of a one-story addition at 186½ Charotte street costing $700.00 was the only other major piece of work. It will be of concrete foundation with brick and iron as the wall materials. There will be one storey with a tar and gravel roof and the entire job will be completed for Braund brothers by January 1, 1929.

The shingling of a house owned by R. C. Braund, at 95 Rubidge street will cost $60.00 and will be completed by November 5, according to the permit issued. Wood and asbestos roofing will be the materials used.

W. J. Adams has set November 30 as the date of completion for his private garage which will be of concrete foundation, cove siding walls and cedar shingles. The job will cost about $40.00.

A car storage shed, to be used in connection with a public garage will be erected at 114 Stewart street by D. Laplante, contractor for E. Hurtubeise, at a cost of $150, while alterations to a kitchen at 508 Bonacord street for Samuel Woosencroft will cost $75 and will be completed by November 15.

Two garages will be erected by George Sloan and son, contractors for A. Low and Company, at the rear of the Low appartments on Hunter street. Asbestos roofing and galvanized iron will be the materials used.

A verandah at 242 Monroe street will be completed by Nov. 1 for Robert Curtin. It will cost approximately $75.00.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Malefic stars are strongly dominant today, according to astrology, but certain good aspects promise relief.

Neptune is in a place read as most threatening to oil and oil interests, making for rises in price for consumers, it is foretold.

Under this sway there may be much deceit, intrigue and double dealing. The rule encourages secret plots and evil propaganda.

The planet that is supposed to rule mineral waters, fruits juices and beverages of all sorts is in threatening aspect that can be interpreted according to one's point of view.

It was foretold by atrologers, months ago, that there was a sign that would bring out sharply the significance of what Americans eat and drink. The seers recall early prophecies.

Real estate is subject to adverse sway today, but big transfers are indicated. The rule favors large deals and discourages small ones.

Farmers may be expected to be dissatisfied and exacting in their demands while this configuration prevails. Some sort of a setback not concerned with the marketing of their products is foreseen. Storms may cause losses.

There is a sign of promise for thinkers and for those who view the world philosophically. Good sense is to have a brief reign, according to the seers.

The evening of this day should be fairly favorable for meetings or conferences in which lawyers, professors and leaders of public opinion are interested.

Women may expect to be fairly fortunate in seeking the co-operation of men in important reforms, but they will meet with opposition from many sources, it is prophesied.

Damp and foggy weather in France may cause much illness as the winter approaches.

Alaska and the Northern Pacific may suffer from storms of unusual severity before the new year.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of a fairly fortunate year in which much depends on themselves. They should be unusually careful to safeguard against accidents.

Children born on this day should enjoy prosperity. These subjects of Scorpio often have an uncanny ability to discover secrets and often profit by this gift. They usually are exceedingly magnetic and enjoy many friendships.

English citizens purchase about 2500 autos each week; about one-fifth of these are delivered in London.

A Japanese legend has it that music was devised by the gods to lure the sun-goddess from a cave where she had retired.

'Never a Pain now'

"I should like to let you know how much I have benefitted by the use of Kruschen. For twenty years I was a perfect martyr to sick headache and biliousness, also I suffered agony from pains in my stomach and I could get no relief. Beginning the use of Kruschen I improved steadily and now never have a pain. In fact, I am so well that I can scarcely remember what I suffered. I take Kruschen every morning and give it the entire credit for making me so well, and I just hope other similar sufferers will get the same benefit." J. G.

Gilbert Greenwood, Liberal and Albert Bellamy, Labor.

Nuns Lose Lives In Convent Fire

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Three sisters of the Gray Nuns of the Cross, a French order of the Roman Catholic Church, were burned to death this morning when a convent of the order occupied at Gatineau Point, Que., on the eastern suburb of Hull, was burned to the ground. Another nun was badly injured and has been taken to the hospital.

The three victims had escaped in their night apparel, eye-witnesses state, and returned to get their clothing, evidently being trapped in the upper storey, and fell to their deaths when the building collapsed.

GRADUATING CLASS ARE GIVEN DIPLOMAS

King Edward Home and School Association Hold Meeting.

An interesting gathering took place Friday evening, when King Edward Home and School Association entertained the graduating class, their parents and friends. The auditorium was filled to capacity, a great many having to stand throughout the program. Mr. Park of Queen Alexandra School was chairman, and his opening remarks were of congratulation, congratulating the people in King Edward School district for having such an all-round good man as Mr. Bolton for their principal. A lengthy, intensely interesting program was rendered, every artist responding to an encore. Miss Mae Pollock opened the musical part of the program with a beautiful piano selection. Miss Dickson of the King Edward staff followed with two dainty numbers in her usual sweet voice. Mrs Conley delighted her audience with a Scotch reading, and Master Bruce Horton sang, playing his own accompaniment on his guitar. Miss Dorothy Whatley received hearty applause for her piano selections, and Mr. and Mrs. Cutmore sang two duets in splendid voice. Mr. Stasiker was present, and his vocal solos were heartily applauded.

The presentation of diplomas was made by the principal, Mr. Bolton and his remarks were made to parents as well as to the graduating class, reminding them that they had the children under their control 18 hours out of the 24. His address to the class was full of good advice, and each pupil received a hearty handclap as the certificate was presented.

Mrs. Rowe followed the presentation with a very humorous reading and encore, and Mrs. Todd sang two solos very sweetly. Mr. Clifford Gadd delighted his audience with his violin, and last, but not least by any means, Mr. Lucas sang in fine form two splendid selections.

Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. Agnes Logan Green, Miss Mae Pollock, Miss Rome, Mrs. F. B. Elliott and Mr. Hodgson.

Mrs. Andrews, president of the Home and School Association, moved a vote of thanks to all assisting in the program, and incidentally remarked that Mr. Bolton was successful in having his entire class pass into High School, and that several honors had come to King Edward, the Cadets winning the cup, and that several ball teams had been winners this year.

Mr. Crawford seconded the motion in a few well-chosen words, and Mr. Park replied.

Dainty refreshments were served, under the capable supervision of Mrs. Menzies and her committee: Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Sloane, Mrs. Drysdale and Mrs. Gregson.

Program committee: Miss E. Elliott (of the teaching staff), Mrs. J. Price, Mrs. Lockie, Mrs. Drysdale, and Mrs. F. B. Elliott, as convenor.

freighter became a hunted prison of creaks and groans presaging her collopse into a tomb of swirling wreckage. The entire crew, with Captain J. Baker of Whittley Bay, master of the Cairntorr calmly giving orders, finally relinquished their hopeless position, and within an hour they were rowing for their lives to escape the dangers of proximity to a 3,250 ton steamer when heavy breakers, heaved against her helpless hulk.

The lifeboats, battle against current, wave drift, fog and rain, then became separated, each wondering what luck befell the other and whether they might not have met disaster by being washed on to the rocky shore. It was later learned that the captain and his group got safely ashore, though just how or when is not known to those of the other boat, who withdrew some distance as night fell, added to the danger of proximity to the wreck.

Flares were sent up after darkness had enveloped the drenched seamen. These were answered by the God-sent Salacia which had been within a few miles of the wreck since mid-afternoon, intrepidly steaming nearer, unknown to the wrecked crew.

Rescued Wednesday

Deplorably soaked and shivering from exposure in only such garments as they wore at the moment of the grounding, the 24 seamen ended their nightmare of blistering straining on the oars when they were safely in the lee of the Salacia's welcome hull and were hauled aboard at 5.30 Wednesday morning.

"They treated us like princes and added real Highland hospitality to their brave generosity," declared the men, speaking of the captain and crew of the scottish steamer Salacia.

The four men brought here are Wilson of Gateshead, England, third officer; A. Leach, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, fourth engineer; B. Crossthwaite, North Shields-on-Tyne; Chief Officer and J. Newdy, second cook.

SPLENDID RADIO DISPLAY IN WINDOW OF HEINTZMAN HALL

An Exhibit of the Very Latest Modern Sets Arrests the Eye.

INSPECTION WORTH WHILE.

The Problem of Faultless Reception Solved in These Proven Instruments.

Passers-by are arrested these days by the magnificent display in the window of Heintzman Hall of one of the finest selection of radio sets ever seen in Peterborough. These beautiful instruments combine extreme elegance of cabinet with interior refinements and efficiency; they solve the problem of faultless reception, leaving little, if anything, to be desired in all-round service.

The very latest and best radio products, they comprise the famous Victor combination Orthophonic and 7-tube Radio, the Rogers combination 7-tube Radio and Electric Pick-up Phonograph, the celebrated Fada Special 70 Radio, one of the most powerful sets on the market, and the Victor Highboy with dynamic speaker. These are all proven instruments, backed by Ye Old Firme Heintzman & Co.'s guarantee.

Mr. R. Haddow, local manager for Heintzman & Co., has organized one of the most efficient service departments in this district, and is consequently in a position to give prompt and courteous attention to the needs of all customers.

Radio finds a prominent place in Christmas giving now, and makes a present for the whole family that will outlive many Yuletides. So, intending purchasers of a radio set, whether for Christmas or otherwise, will find an inspection of these instruments in Heintzman and Co.'s window, Royal Bank Building, corner George and Hunter streets, well worth while, and Mr. Haddow or one of his staff will gladly demonstrate.

THE PREMIER RETURNS.

Canada's Premier, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, is receiving a royal welcome on his return from Europe, and it is fitting indeed that the Canadian people, whether or not they are political supporters of his Government, should do honor to the man who is at the head of affairs in this country.

Mr. King has represented Canada with dignity and success abroad.

Not only did he sign for the Dominion the Kellog peace pact, but his European visit included important conferences with the British Government and gave him an opportunity to make a most eloquent and serviceable address upon Canada's attitude towards British immigrants.

It was fortunate indeed that the Premier was able by this masterly effort to offset the silly notions, originating undoubtedly in this country, that Canada was antagonistic toward British settlers.

That fallacy had been given widespread circulation in the British Isles, and Mr. King's presence in England was opportune in the chance that it gave him to expose the foolishness of the charge, and to state in language that could not be misunderstood the fact that Canada prefers the Britisher over all other nationalities as a citizen.

WANT AN INQUIRY.

The Waterloo County branch of the Prohibition Union has passed a resolution calling upon the Government to have the Brien charges investigated by a royal commission.

The circumstances undoubtedly justify such a resolution.

The major portion of Brien's allegations remains unanswered.

He claims there was political interference that hampered his enforcement of the Liquor Control Act, and mentions several cases where this condition prevailed.

Up to the present these definite charges have not been met; surely the statement that the constable lost his position because he was in debt is no answer to the complaints he has made that somebody had power enough to prevent violators of the Liquor Control Act from being prosecuted.

And the more reluctance on the part of the Attorney-General to consider the question of a proper investigation the more readily will the public believe that the ex-constable's charges are correct.

Furthermore, people will begin to wonder whether the conditions complained of apply only to Waterloo County or whether there are in other parts of the Province politicians with influence enough to defy the law.

THE HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Examiner's community Hallowe'en party on Wednesday night will be, it is hoped, the most enjoyable and successful celebration of this kind that Peterborough has known.

The number of people in costume is likely to approach record proportions, and given suitable weather and the co-operation of the public, there is no doubt of the success of the occasion.

In one respect there is room for an improvement over last year's party.

It will be remembered that when the parade came up George street the spectators swarmed out in the roadway to such an extent that the masqueraders had difficulty in making their way through the crowd, and much of the effect of the spectacle was lost.

If the public will co-operate by remaining on the sidewalks, leaving the roadway clear for the marching merrymakers, the conditions will be decidedly better both for paraders and spectators and the full color of the masquerade will be appreciated.

The Examiner is sure that it is only necessary to call attention to this feature to prevent a repetition of last year's congestion.

The whole community is invited to participate in this real community event, and it is expected that many friends from outside the city will come in to see all take part in the frolic.

A CALL TO SERVICE.

Reading the report of the superintendent of the Peterborough Protestant Home, there are two features that should attract attention—the first, that many organizations and individuals have during the year contributed to the happiness of the aged inmates by providing treats of various kinds, and the second, that there is room for a good deal more of this kind of work.

One paragraph stresses the second feature.

"If more of the church representatives would make the effort to visit here they would be very welcome," says the report. "It is an effort, I know, but most of the women, especially in the winter, when they are so much shut-in, even from their much-enjoyed sun-porch, would be cheered by the feeling that they are not forgotten. And if any of the ladies would come prepared to read aloud to some who cannot, with their dim eyes, read with pleasure for themselves, it would be indeed a much appreciated kindness."

The Examiner gives prominence to this suggestion in the sure belief that it is but necessary to call attention to the need to secure a ready response.

Many organizations doubtless have felt that there was but little left for them to do in the way of brightening the lives of the aged residents of the Home, and the intimation that there is an opportunity to be of service there will be willingly acted upon during the winter.

THE CLEAN-UP CONTINUES.

Although it is many months since the customs investigation was completed, the clean-up prompted by that investigation continues and thousands of dollars are being added to the revenues of the department month by month as a result of the greater efficiency which is marking the regime of the Hon. W. D. Euler.

When the department was reorganized under his direction, it was discovered that in numerous cases payments of excise taxation were in arrears. The Minister promised his most careful attention to this problem and prompt legal action against any and every concern, without the slightest discrimination, which was found to be in arrears of current tax.

And now the National Revenue Review tells us that "during the past ten months the amount of arrears of sales and manufacturers' taxes has been reduced by more than one million dollars. . . . On August 15th, 1928, the total amount of arrears was $5,374,439, but included therein is the sum of $2,500,000, representing sales and manufacturers' taxes due by brewers and distillers, which are the subject of litigation. The department is unable to deal with the collection of this sum until the cases have been decided by the courts. During the ten months period the staff of auditors has been increased and the audits conducted in greater detail and with added efficiency, resulting in the establishment of debits of hundreds of thousands of dollars not previously assessed. This is an important feature in connection with the question of arrears. Regarding current taxes, that is to say, taxes accrued since the first of January, 1927, there were, on August 15, 1926, 96 out of a total of 149 ports, in which current taxes had been paid to date, and as there were on that date 787 delinquents, from one cause or another, such, for example, as bankruptcy, litigation or disputed assessments, out of a total of 16,744 licenses, the percentage of firms in arrears amounts to 4.70, whereas in August, 1927, the percentage amounted to 5.62."—Brockville Recorder and Times.

CHOOSING A PRESIDENT.

The election of a President, which is now engaging the attention of the United States, is conducted upon a plan totally different from that which results in the return to office of a Canadian Premier. The Premier must win his own constituency; the President does not run in any constituency. The Premier takes office because his supporters are adjudged to be supreme in the House of Commons. His tenure of office depends upon a continuance of that supremacy. But the President is appointed by what is known as an electoral college, although that name does not appear in the U. S. constitution. He holds office for a definite four years and he may be of a different political persuasion from the majority in the House of Representatives. As against this, however, he has extensive powers of veto. The two systems are alike in one point; both Premier and President may be the choice of a minority of the voters.

The United States system may be summarized as follows: Instead of voting for Smith or Hoover or one of the other candidates for the presidency, the electors in each one of the forty-eight States mark their ballots for one of the several sets of "presidential electors" who represent the various parties in that particular State. The number of these presidential electors to be chosen in any State corresponds with the number of Senators and Representatives to which that State is entitled in Congress. This plan gives the smaller States a representation in the electoral college which is larger than if population were the basis.

The result of the presidential election is generally known as soon as the returns of the popular voting are complete, for this voting settles the personnel of the electoral college, by which the President is to be chosen. But that body does not meet until the second Monday in January, and even then it does not meet as a unit. Its members in each State gather at their own capital, go through the formality of casting their votes for the President and Vice-President whom they were chosen to elect, and one of the members carries the result to Washington. There the returns are opened on the second Wednesday in February and the President declared elected, the return from each State counting not as a single vote, but as the number of votes actually cast at its meeting of presidential electors. If no presidential candidate has a majority over the rest, the House of Representatives is entitled to decide who shall be the nations chief executive.

But that has happened only twice. There is usually a decisive majority for one of the candidate in the electoral college, and the one which the college will favor is known as soon as the personnel of the college is settled—that is, immediately the results of the nation-wide elections are, made known. Theoretically there is nothing to prevent any member of the college, or any entire State delegation, from voting for some other person than the one they were elected to support. But it does not happen. The electoral college does what it was elected to do, and, having performed its only function, passes out of existence.—Toronto Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

The presidential candidates are entering the home stretch. The whisper campaign will now swell to a roar.

The Kingston Whig-Standard, which believes to the victor belongs the spoils, will now proceed to write another stinging editorial on a ore equitable division of gate receipts in the Intercollegiate Union.

As the Winnipeg Tribune puts it, looks are often deceiving. No automobile is over 25 years old.

Some of those border commuters seem to have their own ideas as to what constitutes a full dinner pail.

The Hallowe'en community party idea is catching on. The Rotarians of Chatham have arranged a celebration of that kind for the children on Wednesday night.

* * *

Our Father Who art in Heaven, we praise Thee for the grace which permits us to look upon another day. Wondrous is Thy love. We frail children of earth bow for a moment to receive the benediction of Thy infinite Motherhood and omnipotent Fatherhood. Forth we go to battle and to toil. We dare not go alone. Temptation will crouch beside our pathway. Some of us may come upon dangers suddenly. Do Thou befriend us. When the duties of the day are done, may it please Thee to gather us at eventide an unbroken, happy family, with no stain of sin upon our garments. The Church we love, do Thou bless it. May the Holy Spirit abide with the pastor and all the people. We love our native land. Do Thou save it. For the whole world we offer our humble prayer. Thy Kingdom come. Great Son of God, dear Prince of Peace, why dost Thou tarry? Humanity dies. Give us hearts to bleed and hands to bless. Pity the men who have no home, and protect the women who toil and are weak. Send us from this trysting place to laugh and love and labor in the strength of Him Who said, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these, ye did it unto me." Lord, we thank Thee for Thy promised strength. Amen.

A Thought

A MAN OF ONE IDEA.

Don't be afriad of being known as a man of one idea. The men who have moved the world have been of this kind. It is ever the single aim that wins. It is the man who has his purpose burned into every fibre of his being, who never loses sight of his goal, and who has the faculty of focusing, like a burning glass, all his scattered rays, who succeeds.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., October 29 (Canadian Press). — Extreme dullness marked the foreign trade in Canadian grain here on Saturday owing to the fact that outside bids were below local exporters' views.

A feature of the local cash grain trade was the easier feeling that developed in the market for Canadian Western oats, and prices were reduced one cent per bushel. On the other hand, the market for wheat was stronger and values were marked up one cent per bushel. Manitoba No 6 wheat sold at 99c and feed wheat at 95c per bushel.

The trade in spring and winter wheat flour continued of a limited character, and values were unchanged.

The demand for all lines of millfeed was fair to good and values were well maintained. Standard grades of rolled oats weer unchanged under a good inquiry

The butter market was moderately active and firm. Receipts on Saturday were 1,031 packages.

Owing to the continued limited demand from all sources the undertone to the cheese market was again weak. Receipts were 7,043 boxes.

An active trade was done in all grades of fresh and storage eggs, and values were well maintained. Receipts were 315 cases.

Prices for choice white hand-picked beans dropped twenty-five cents per bushel on Saturday to $4.75.

Potatoes were in good demand. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold at 70c loose, Cobblers 65c loose; Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at 85c per 90 pound bag, and Cobblers, 75c per 90 pound bag, ex-track.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Jumping up nearly 5 cents a bushel, the wheat market on Saturday responded excitedly to a sudden tremencous rush of buying. Drought complaints that came without previous warning from the Argentine wheat belt aroused traders, and besides talk spread that a call for a special session of Congress would be probably called to consider farm relief.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous 3¼c to 3¾c to 4½c net higher, with corn ¾c to ⅞c up, oats at ½c advance, and provisions varying from 45c decline to a rise of 17c.

By far the heaviest buying orders in the wheat pit came from Eastern sources. The most of these orders reached Chicago in the final hour of trading, but from the outset the market had shown a decided upward trend. It was not, however, until authoritative advices were received, telling of serious lack of moisture in Argentina, that prices went skyward in earnest, especially in Southern Argentina the dearth of rain of late was reported to be unusual, but the absence of precipitation was also stated to be affecting the northern parts of Argentine wheat territory. Under such circumstances, and with the Liverpool market displaying more firmness than had been looked for, wheat demand here broadened out to proportions not witnessed before in a long while.

When the stampede to buy had reached a climax, Chicago wheat prices were up more than 7c a bushel above quotations here at the beginning of this week. Lively profit-taking brought about a reaction, but most of the gains were held at the finish. Supplementing the bullish influence of drought reports from Argentina and of extra session predictions were continued assertions that the next Canadian official crop estimate would be likely to show a material curtailment owing to frost damage having been under-estimated. It was also contended that the United States wheat visible supply is nearing its highest point, and will soon show a gradual reduction.

Corn and oats sympathized with the action of wheat. Unsettled weather over the corn belt and further export business in corn were also conducive to an upturn of prices for corn future deliveries. The cash corn trading basis, however, was 2c lower as compared with December, arrivals of corn in Chicago on Saturday having been increased to 238 cars.

Provisions were easier early, but rallied when grain went higher all around.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Winter Dinners.

Try to arrange your winter dinners so that the casserole and oven dishes may be cooked frequently. It is not only a help to heat the home, but if the dinner is carefully planned, many times the whole meal may be cooked in the oven, thus proving an economy in gas. Try those casserole recipes you have had tucked away so long.

"PINKHAM'S COMPOUND IS WONDERFUL"

Read This Letter from a Grateful Woman

Vanessa, Ont.—"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is wonderful. I have had six children of which four are living and my youngest is a bonnie baby boy now eight months old who weighs 23 pounds. I have taken your medicine before each of them was born and have certainly received great benefit from it. I urge my friends to take it as I am sure they will receive the same help I did."—Mrs. MILTON McMULLEN, Vanessa, Ontario.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

The mode in fabric fans is exemplified here by one with petal shapes cut from silk gauze shown at the top, in the center a fan of cloth of gold with gold sticks and below the smart velvet-covered fan in green with amber sticks.

The spirit of every period is expressed in the sort of fans in fashion at the time and the way the fans are used.

Cleopatra indolently reclining on her Egyptian couch strewn with roses attended by immobile slaves ceaselessly waving their punpah-like fans to the rhythm of voluptuous music. Can you imagine her toying with a dainty fan of painted gauze on carved ivory sticks after the manner of the arch ladies of the late eighteenth century or going through the coquettish formalities of a fan flirtation like a geisha girl?

It is characteristic of the present period that fans are fairly large, rich in fabric and color, but fairly simple. They express the elegance mingled with that new note of casualness that is so important an ingredient of the present frame of mind. There is nothing mincing or overprecise in their motion when carried by a woman of present-day fashion. They are luxurious surely but with a well-bred restraint and not too spectacular.

Quite new are the large simple folding fans on sticks of amber or ivory covered with velvet to match the gown. If you happen to have an old fan with sticks in good condition and also happen to be blessed with nimble fingers you may be tempted to re-cover it with velvet to match a new evening gown.

A fan covered with cloth of gold like the one shown in the center of the group may be worn with any frock, but is most attractive with the white or off-white ensemble in which the golden note is brought out in other ornaments.

Also new and decidedly good-looking are the fans made of starched chiffon or silk gauze cut and arranged to resemble an enormous delicately petaled flower.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

DID you ever sit down to do something and you felt that you just couldn't get your mind straightened out enough to start at it? Well, that's just the way I feel. The work has been piling up in the office so high that I can't see straight; however I'll try to do better. I am afraid the helps for last week were rather late in being sent out too.

* * *

I was just reading an article in a country magazine where an American woman writes saying our Canadian coffee is a "dismal failure." She says the reason, she thinks, is because we measure our portions and make it too weak, and then serve it with milk instead of cream.

* * *

Now any person, whether he was a cook or not, if he had the least idea at all about making coffee, would certainly know that coffee cannot be made without CREAM.

* * *

Cream is absolutely essential, just as apples are to an apple pie!

* * *

Canada is claimed to be a tea drinking country and we are accused of taking a pinch of coffee and dropping it in the boiling water just as we do our tea. This woman says we have been "pinching" tea for so long that we absentmindedly do the same thing with our coffee.

* * *

She claims that the only one cup of really good coffee she ever had in Canada was made over a campfire by a backwoodsman. "Manlike, he dumped the whole tin of coffee into the pot of water and let it boil merrily for a few minutes. Presently the aroma, dear to the heart of every true American, floated through the woods. And when a can of condensed milk was stirred into it and it was poured into our tin cups, oh boy, that was the real thing at last."

* * *

I heard one woman exclaim that American coffee was 'black rank coffee.' So I suppose we Canadians have our peculiarities, what do you think?

* * *

I'm so glad to receive so many comments on the page. It takes some kind words of encouragement as well as recipes to keep it in full swing.

* * *

But then there are some women in Peterborough who give the page the indifferent glance.

* * *

I was out to tea the other night and afterwards as the evening paper came to notice, I quietly inquired as to the enjoyment of the Women's Page. To my surprise my hostess answered, "Oh, it's new isn't it"? My heart sank a few inches and began to heat rapidly in indignation, but I refrained from expressing my opinion for fear I would go too far. I might have told her a long story relating all my worries and the hard thinking it took to make it thus—but, I didn't.

* * *

So you see I appreciate the many letters that do come in all the more, for once in a while we get a slam that sets us back.

* * *

In the midst of all your array of parties I hope you haven't forgotten the big one on Wednesday night. I only hope the weather man helps us out. As I said before it is SO much more fun if everyone dresses, that we hope you will. Everyone can't win the prize but how much more fun it is for everyone if you come in costume—the funniest one you can find, the better.

* * *

I tasted some most delicious potato balls the other night at dinner. They were rather mysterious when you first noticed them, but after I casually inquired of my hostess the manner in which they were made.

* * *

The potatoes are creamed, sufficient seasoning added to taste with butter, and then they are rolled in crushed corn flakes and put in a moderate oven to heat them. The size of the roll may, of course, vary according to your own desire. I heard too, of them being served in pyramid style, which would make them even more attractive.

Dietitic Dissertations

(Specially Written for The Examiner.)

XII—VEGETABLES

Home-grown vegetables!
Yum! Yum! Yum!
They're rich in iron
And cal-ci-um.
There's a vitamine in every bite,
And how they tempt the appetite!

The dietetic value of vegetables is being more fully appreciated—and, indeed, it is hard to over-estimate it.

1. The carbohydrates of vegetables supply heat and energy.

2. The mineral matter or ash helps to build the body. Bones, teeth and many other parts of the body contain it. It exists in the fluids of the body and in all excretions. The digestive juices also contain mineral matter and it aids in the digestive processes of the body. In many ways mineral matter participates in the regulation of body processes.

3. Because they contain both mineral matter and cellulose, fresh vegetables have a laxative effect.

4. Many vegetables, particularly the green-leaved ones, are rich in the vitamines which keep the body healthy and enable it to make use of the other food.

5. Fresh vegetables help supply the necessary water content of the diet.

Vegetables are cooked to soften the cellulose, to cause the starch granules to swell and burst, to coagulate the protein, and to improve the flavour. Generally speaking, the simpler the methods of cooking and serving vegetables, the better. A properly grown and well-cooked vegetable will be palatable and readily digested. Badly-cooked, water-soaked vegetables very generally cause digestive disturbances which are often serious.

In baking vegetables there is little loss of material except the water which is driven off by heat. When they are immersed in water, as in boiling, some loss of material is almost inevitable—the kind and amount of material extracted by the water depending on such factors as: the sort of water used, its temperature at the beginning and during the cooking period, the length of time the cooking is continued, and the condition of the vegetable—that is, whether pared, whole, or cut into small pieces. To prevent toughening of cellulose and extraction of nutritive material, salt is added near the end of cooking. To prevent their being watery, the boiling of vegetables should be uninterrupted. All vegetables should be thoroughly cooked, but should remain firm except for soups. They should be thoroughly drained and such vegetables as spinach, cabbage, and turnips should be pressed lightly to remove part of the water.

Vegetable Soup.

3 tbspoons beef dripping or butter.
1-3 cup carrots, diced.
1-3 cup turnips, diced.
1-3 c. celery, diced.
1 tbspoon onions, chopped.
1½ c. potatoes, diced.
4 c. boiling water.
½ tbspoon chopped parsley.
1 t. salt, 1-3 t. pepper.
1—Cook carrot, turnip, onion and celery in dripping until lightly browned.
2—Add potatoes, cook 2 minutes longer, add water.
3—Cover and simmer 1 hour; add water to keep amount of liquid 1 quart.
4—Add parsley and seasonings.

A Tip or Two

The Frayed Cord.

Bicycle tape is splendid to wrap around any frayed parts of the vacuum cleaner cord. It will prevent breakage of the wire beneath and greatly prolong the life of the cord.

New Ones Needed.

It may be economy, but it is pretty hard on the wearer to continue to darn stockings and socks after they arrive at the lumpy stage. It only means corns and blisters on the feet of the wearer and certainly this is not true economy.

No Water Marks.

If you are going to beautify the plain flower pot with crepe paper, first cover the pot with a couple of thicknesses of oiled paper and then put on your crepe paper. This will prevent ugly discolored marks should water splash when giving the plant a drink.

Little Reflectors.

There is no mirror that reflects so much as a child does the mood of the person with whom it is. If mother is cheerful, so is baby, but if mother is upset, how quickly baby senses it and is anything but happy. Perhaps that is how so many mothers learn patience.

A Pleasing Decoration.

When our gardens are not a-blooming most of us who love flowers miss them in our homes. Perhaps the best substitute that does not mean a florist bill is the perky, cheerful little straw flower. They can be put in a vase or arranged in a holder in a bowl and a touch of color added where needed.

GETTING SKINNIER EVERY DAY

Something Must Be Done and Done Right Now—Quick

Tens of thousands of thin, run-down men—yes, and women too—are getting discouraged—are giving up all hope of ever being able to take on flesh and look healthy and strong.

All such people can stop worrying and start to smile and enjoy life right now for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets are putting flesh on hosts of skinny folks in all parts of the world every day.

One woman, tired, weak and discouraged, gained 15 pounds in five weeks and now she feels fine.

And this shows what faith the makers have in McCoy's for they say; if any thin person don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your money will be refunded—and only 60 cents for 60 tablets—Economy Size—$1.00. Ask for them at McDermid & Jury, Bond's Lynch and Giles' Drug Stores, or any drug store.

MARION'S MAIL

Address correspondence to Marion, at The Examiner Office.

"Dear Marion:

What has happened to those very interesting sermonettes that used to appear every Saturday? How very helpful they were. One has not always the time nor the inclination to read a whole page of religious articles, no matter how good it may be. But those sermonettes always gave one such a lot to think about for the short time it took to read them. It is to be hoped that they have not been discontinued, for I am not the only one who misses them.

Sincerely,
PHOEBE."

The Sermonettes are not in my department, Phoebe.

HONEY BRAN MUFFINS

(Contributed by Mrs. Hugh Gillen, Marmora)

½ cup honey
2 cups bran
1½ cups milk
1-3 teaspoon soda
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon butter
¾ cup nut meat
½ teaspoon salt.

Melt butter, add honey, bran, milk, soda, flour, salt and chopped nuts. Mix well and bake thirty minutes in muffin tins.

INDIA RELISH

"Dear Marion:

I am sending you a recipe for India Relish which I think is good:

3 quarts green tomatoes (chopped)

Cook in salt water, until clear, then drain, add one large onion (chopped) two cups vinegar, 1 cup brown sugar and 1 cup of white; 1 heaping teaspoon of celery seed; 1 teaspoon curry powder; 1 teaspoon mustard seed, 6 red peppers (chopped). Let all come to a boil, then bottle and seal.

Thanking you and the neighbors for the helps I have received from your page. I remain,

Yours sincerely,
Nancy."

Drop on tins, bake. Brush over with sweetened chocolate.

BAKED APPLES

(Contributed by J. M.)

"Dear Marion:

I am a constant reader of the Women's Page and must say that I more than enjoy it. I like to get the recipes. There have been some really good ones. Here is a good one for baked apples.

Pare and core the apples, fill each centre with a date, a little butter and sugar. Half fill the baking dish with water, and bake slowly until the apples are soft. Add a little more sugar when nearly done. Serve cold with cream.

Here's wishing you continued success.
J. M."

ALMOND WAFERS

(Contributed by Mrs. D. Wellman, Bonarlaw)

¼ cup butter
½ cup sugar
¼ cup milk
7-8 cup bread flour
½ spoon vanilla
½ cup chopped almonds

Cream butter and sugar. Add milk, vanilla and flour; mix well, spread on a greased baking sheet, very thin, sprinkle with almonds. Bake in a moderate oven till brown. Cut in squares.

SODIUM SULPHIDE IN CANADA

The production of sodium sulphate from the natural deposits of Western Canada is still in its infancy. There is a fairly steady market for around 40,000 tons of salt cake in the pulp and paper industry, but the largest consuming centres are in Eastern Canada and the present freight rates from the deposits to the market are an important factor.

He Could Not Get Up out of His Bed

"I have suffered from Weak Kidneys and ever since I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills I have felt a lot better," says Miss Melinda General, R.R. No. 6, Hagersville, Ont. "I am now able to do my work without any pains in my back. My brother has also used them for Lumbago. I have seen him when he could not get up out of his bed, and after taking one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills he was able to get out and do his work." Give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial and be convinced.

BROKEN

CHAPTER XVIII

Bim Lennox sat by the fire, a cigarette between her lips, and her feet thrust into a queer-shaped pair of Chinese embroidered slippers.

A clock on the narrow mantelshelf had just struck four, and Julie was not yet home.

Bim shrugged her shapely shoulders and settled them more comfortably against the cushions behind her.

It was the third time running that Julie had arrived home in the small hours of the morning, jaded and pale, and trying hard to pretend that she had enjoyed herself.

Bim pretended to believe her as she had pretended to believe all sorts of things since the day they came back from Switzerland together.

It seemed a long time ago, she thought, as she sat staring into the warm heart of the fire; a very long time ago since a storm in the Channel had landed them five hours late at Dover.

To Bim Lennox life had seemed more or less stormy ever since. She had seen quite enough trouble of her own and of other people's to be glad of the calm backwaters of life, and when some twelve months before she and Julie Farrow had agreed to share a flat in the lesser part of Chelsea together, it had seemed to be a most admirable arrangement.

Julie had enough money of her own to live upon if she did nothing very extravagant. She was quiet, and sane, and essentially healthy-minded, and a real attachment existed between the two women, without either of them exactly realizing it.

Bim had never analyzed her feelings with regard to Julie, but during the past six weeks, when she had been forced to stand by and see Julie racketing her life away and ruining her health, she had begun to realize the depths of her concern and affection. Once she had ventured to expostulate, but she had met with such sharp rebuff that she had given it up.

"It's my own life, isn't it?" Julie had asked snappily. "And I've been dull enough, goodness knows. You can't blame me if I want a little enjoyment."

"But is it enjoyment?" Bim had urged patiently. "You used to hate night clubs and people like Doris Gardener, and now you don't seem to be able to exist without them."

"Anything for a change!" Julie had declared lightly. "My dear child, when I first knew you, you were always trying to drag me out and about, and telling me I was a stick-in-the-mud!"

"I know—but this—somehow it's different now." Bim answered helplessly.

"It's only different because I'm awake, and because I've got more sense," Julie replied. "I'm going to get the best I can out of life. It's short enough, God knows——"

"You wouldn't have said that a month ago," Bim interrupted.

"Wouldn't have said what?"

"'God knows'."

Julie laughed.

"Don't be a prig, Bim—or don't remind me that once I was! It doesn't mean anything, especially as I'm not at all sure that there is a God—the sort of God I used to believe in at least."

"You don't mean that."

"Don't I? Of course I do! I'm growing up—progressing, emancipating, or whatever you like to call it. I'm not at all sure that Jewel wasn't right when she said she believed in taking what the gods offered. Why shouldn't we, after all? What difference can it make in the long run?"

"Jewel" was the distinguishing name which Julie used for her cousin.

Bim looked at the younger girl with her steady eyes.

"I don't imagine that you would care to have Rodney Ardron's death at your door, would you?" she asked quietly.

Julie made a little grimace.

"He was a poor, weak boy! Fancy taking your life because you can't get what you want."

"And yet—isn't that rather what you are doing?" Bim said.

"What do you mean?"

"I mean that no man is worth smashing yourself to bits for, which is what you are doing. Oh, I know you'll be furious with me, but you've got to listen. It's only since we came back from Switzerland—since you met Giles Chittenham—"

Julie had flushed crimson.

"How dare you say such things to me? Do you think I care a curse for him, or for any other man?"

"I think you care a good many curses, Julie," Bim answered sorrowfully.

Whereupon Julie had flown into a violent rage and rushed out of the room.

"I'll never speak to you again!" she declared, but in the morning she had forgotten it, or at least the matter had never been alluded to since. But Bim knew she was right—she knew that something had occurred that night in the mountains which was responsible for the sudden change in Julie.

Bim did not know what it was, and she was wise enough not to ask questions, but as she sat over the fire waiting for Julie to come home, her heart was torn with anxiety.

Julie was not strong, and lately she had looked as if some inward fire were consuming her.

"And no man is worth it!" Bim told herself almost savagely as she threw her cigarette end into the grate and rose to her feet. "No man is worth breaking yourself to pieces for!" And Bim knew. For three years she had waited and hoped, and suffered and told herself that some day a miracle would happen, but she had been wrong. The only thing that had happened had been that the man she loved had married another woman.

"We're such fools, such pathetic fools!" she told herself as she walked over to the window and pulled the curtain aside. But the street was deserted save for a solitary policeman slowly passing between the lamps.

It was raining a little, and the light shone on his wet mackintosh and was reflected in the puddles.

It was cold weather for July, but Bim had lit the fire more for company than because she felt chilly, and she let the curtain fall and went gratefully back to its warmth from her contemplation of the wet, cheerless street.

It was very silent everywhere, so that when presently a taxi-cab turned into the street and stopped with a squeaking of brakes outside the block of flats, it seemed a great sound in the silence.

Julie at last!

Bim listened anxiously. She was not alone. A man's voice was answering her laughing words, and presently the steps of two people ascended the stone staircase. Bim went to the door, turning up the light as she went.

"I thought you were lost!" she said.

"Lost!" Julie swept past her into the flat. "Why should we be lost? A fire—how can you bear it? I'm so hot, I don't know what to do."

The man who had come with her was looking at Bim with inquiring eyes, hesitating in the doorway.

"It's usual to introduce people, Julie," Bim said.

Julie turned.

"Sorry, I forgot! This——" She broke into a little laugh. "I'm sorry, I've forgotten your name," she told the man. "One meets so many people! This is my friend, Miss Lennox."

"My name is Schofield—Lawrence Schofield," the man said.

"Of course! Well, come in, won't you?" Julie flung herself down into the chair which Bim had vacated. "You needn't have bothered to wait up, Bim, but as you have, can we have a drink?"

"Not for me, thank you," Schofield said.

He was rather an ordinary-looking man, obviously a gentleman, and not very young. He kept looking at Bim in a half-puzzled, half-apologetic way, and after a few desultory remarks he said good night.

"Good night!" Julie twitted him. "Don't you mean good morning? It's nearly five."

"And the taxi is ticking up two-pences outside," Bim said.

Without knowing why, she felt rather sorry for Schofield; she went to the door with him and offered her hand.

"Good night and thank you for seeing Julie home."

"Oh, not at all! Good night," and he was gone."

ALL BOOKS ART

of the neat, simple form of book of the Frenchman.

Books illustrative of the art of various countries were in another group and there were some interesting books on modern interior decoration. Commenting on modern decoration, Miss Thompson said: "The houses of the Victorian era were too personal in their furnishings They were crowded and heaped up with odds and ends. Today, we are getting away from that and are trying to achieve simplicity in our home interiors, just as we try to have simplicity in our architecture and even in our clothing."

Miss Thompson spoke of the books issued by the Nonsuch Press of England as among the notable examples of modern book-making and also referred to the English printer and his fine work, Peter Davis, who is a ward of Sir James Barrie and was the model of the original Peter Pan.

Previous to introducing Miss Thompson, the president, Miss W. Blackwell, spoke of the program of the coming year, which contains some splendid talks and lectures. Reference was made also to the trip to the Art Galleries of Toronto to be made by the members on December 7th.

YOUNG PEOPLE ENJOY NOVELTY

One Hundred and Thirty-five Couples Motor To Chemong.

SHARPE NIGHT.

"Sharp shoppers shop at Al Sharpe's shop" is the slogan of this popular men's specialty store, George street. Always progressive, Al Sharpe last night adopted a novel, but decidedly effective means of advertising his store, and at the same time, of showing his appreciation to his customers when he put on one of the most successful dances of the season at the Chemong pavilion. Over one hundred and thirty-five couples motored to the pavilion Friday night, or took advantage of the special taxi service arranged for by Mr. Sharpe, and over one hundred and thirty-five couples enjoyed to a marked degree the splendid program of lucky number, penny, balloon, spot and other dances which proved so interestingly novel. Such prizes as a gentleman's overcoat, a ladies' slicker and a man's suit were listed in the prize list, Merle Fuller winning the suit, Miss Helen Hollingsworth winning the slicker and L. H. Bearne the overcoat. Numerous scarfs, shirts and other pieces of men's haberdashery, as well as suitable prizes for the ladies were awarded in the many dances.

Following were the prize winners:

Balloon dance—Miss Alma Gosselin and James Corkery.

Second balloon dance— Miss Dorothy Knox and Don Grant.

Birthday dance—Miss Elsie Blears and Stewart Elliott.

Spot dance — Miss Ruby Jackson and Bill Cripps.

Lucky penny dance—Elivra Davis and T. Todd.

A humorous phase of the evening's fun was the penalty imposed upon the winners of the coats, Miss Hollingsworth and Mr. Bearne. They were required to do a miniature family washing, the young lady doing the washing and her partner good naturedly hanging out the clothes on a line across the orchestra platform.

Mowry's Collegians provided a happy program of dance music, being assisted by Harold Snelgrove, whose vocal numbers were particularly pleasing.

The pavilion was nicely appointed for the occasion. Hallowe'en colors and other decorations in the spirit of Autumn setting off a display of men's clothing and presenting a striking scene throughout.

During the evening, Mr. Sharpe made it a point, and indeed was more than met half way in making the acquaintance of all of his guests, who voted the evening one of the best of the season. Certainly, it was an event that could not but bring Al. Sharpe's clothes shop before the public eye most prominently.

BAY CONFERENCE HOLDS CAMPAIGN

Is Bearing Larger Part in Missionary Work of United Church.

(Special to The Examiner).

Bay of Quinte conference is taking up a heavier share of the missionary and maintenance work of the United Church of Canada.

In the seven Presbyteries that extend from Whitby to Brockville and Pembroke, preparations for 2 months of intensive promotion in the congregations are under way, so as to clear the decks for a winter of evangelistic activity.

The Missionary and Maintenance committee of the conference, meeting in Cobourg this week, with W. H. Ackerman of Belleville presiding, heard encouraging accounts of results and plans from all quarters of central and eastern Ontario.

For the month of November the services of Rev. Geo. C. F. Pringle of the Marine Mission, British Columbia, will be available in four Presbyteries, while the ex-moderator, Rev. James Endicott, D.D., LL.D., will continue addressing great supper meetings of representative laymen at various centres in the fourteen counties of the area.

Several Presbyteries which have accepted larger allocations for 1929 are making thorough canvasses this fall with a view to raising permanently the level of financial support and thus facilitating next year's advance. Payments of missionary money to date are well above 1927 figures for the same period, it was reported to the conference committee.

Presbyteries Are Active.

Oshawa Presbytery raised 100 per cent of its allocation for missions last year and has undertaken for 1929 to contribute amounts which will keep pace with the growing strength of the city of Oshawa and with general prosperity. The Presbytery has already accepted a considerably increased allocation for the twelve months beginning January next.

Renfrew Presbytery, with the reputation of giving the most of any Presbytery in the conference on the unit basis, has paid in to the United church headquarters in Toronto amounts which give it the lead for 1928 in the Bay of Quinte conference. Plans for completing the year's work are well matured.

Claude A. Winters of Brockville has succeeded E. J. Smith as Presbytery chairman of missionary and maintenance work in Kingston Presbytery and reports acceptance of an additional allocation for 1929, bringing the objective up from $46,000 to $48,000 in all from the congregations in that to $75,500 for next year, Belleville Presbytery is making strenuous efforts to meet fully this year's allocation and will hold a series of rallies next month, with prospect of having all Prince Edward county represented at a gathering in Picton on Nov. 18 and 19.

Cobourg and Lindsay.

Rev. W. W. Jones of Millbrook and Mr. F. W. Galbraith of Port Hope are the new committee leaders in Cobourg Presbytery, which will hold a series of group meetings touching the whole area. Rev. George Pringle will assist.

Scoring the second largest increase of any district in the conference last year, Lindsay Presbytery has started the fall campaign well, it was reported, having had a complete representation of pastoral charges at the first rally, held this week in First Church, Lindsay.

A city-wide effort of unusual vigor is being planned by laymen of Peterborough and that Presbytery as a whole will aim at new standards of giving to missions. Mr. Pringle will spend the last week of November in Peterborough and Haliburton if present plans mature.

P. C. I. SENIORS SHUTOUT COBOURG C. I.

COLLEGIATE TEAM GAIN EARLY LEAD TO WIN BY 25-0 SCORE

Victory Makes Play-off With Oshawa High School Almost Certain.

GOOD END RUNS.

Forcing the play with smashing line plunges in the second half and running up a score of 24 points, Coach Browne's Peterborough Collegiate senior team defeated the Cobourg C. I. twelve 25 to 0 in their game in the central group of the Interscholastic O.R.F.U. at the Lakeshore park Saturday. The victory keeps the P.C.I. team tied at the head of the group with Oshawa H. S. and makes a play-off with that school almost certain.

The Cobourg team gave the Garnet and Grey stubborn opposition, and they had their full share of the play in the first half. It was only after the half time rest that the P. C. I. boys showed their superiority, unleashing a series of line plunges mixed with extended runs around the ends that baffled and smashed the Cobourg defence. But the Lakeshore gladiators never stopped fighting and in the dying moments of the game it looked as though they were in a good position to score.

The Petes took full advantage of every misplay of their heavier opponents, and their tackling was much superior to that of Cobourg. Gemmell, the P.C.I. quarter, handled the plays well and his booting was always steady and reliable. The tackling of the flying brigade, Westbrook and Green, effectively prevented any long runs, and they got down well under the kicks. The major honors go to the line man, Preston, who broke through and blanketed many a ball carrier before he got under way; Wiman, Hall, Johnson and Armstrong, who opened up big holes for the plunges to go through. Magee, who entered the game in the second half, was the most effective ball carrier for the winners, scoring two touchdowns and going through with a dash every time called on. Hewitt made two nice converts from difficult positions, and he and Cuthbertson made big gains.

"Burnie" Hodgetts, the hefty half, was the best man on the attack for Cobourg, the P.C.I tacklers finding it difficult to bring him down once under steam, and he had a good kicking toe but he often lost direction to his long punts His running mate, Cooper, also frequently shot through for gains, and Roddy, at flying wing, stopped many an extend.

The Game

Cobourg kicked off and the game was on Play remained at mid-field, each team taking two downs and a kick Roddy broke through for a 30-yard gain, and put P.C.I. o nthe defensive at their forty-yard line. But they took control when Armstrong blocked Hodgett's kick and Johnson fell on it On some nice extends, P.C.I. worked the ball down to Cobourg 25-yard line, where the Cobourg line stiffened and Gemmel booted for a rouge and P.C.I.'s first point. Hodgett kicked to the P.C.I. 40-yard line. Dunkerly smashed through for eight yards, and Hewitt skirted the end for six more. Hodgett took Gemmel's kick and ran it back to midfield. Hodgett gained eight yards on a buck and Cobourg made the first yards of the game. Westbrook stopped Hodgetts with a nice tackle and Cobourg were forced to kick. Cuthbertson found a hole and gained ten yards. At quarter time, P.C.I. had the ball at Cobourg's 30-yard line. P.C.I. were off-side on their last down, and Cobourg received the ball. Cobourg made yards on Cooper's buck and Roddy gained eight more. Cobourg were pressing hard and made yards three times in a row, but P.C.I. were given the ball on Cobourg interference. Gemmel booted up a long punt and the P.C.I. outsides stopped Hodgetts in his tracks. Cobourg had the best of the play here breaking through repeatedly for gains, and Hodgetts kicked to Gemmel on P.C.I. 20-yard line. From there the Petes worked the ball down on big gains by Cuthbertson, Hewitt and Green. Gemmel tried an onside kick, but Roddy took the ball and ran it back thirty yards. P.C.I. were in a great position to score when the first half ended when Armstrong broke through and broke up Hodgetts' kick on Cobourg's 20-yard line.

P.C.I. kicked off to Cobourg's 35-yard line. The Petes line held and they received the ball when Cobourg failed to make yards. Gemmel hoisted the ball over the Cobourg line, and Hodgetts was forced to rouge. P.C.I. 2.

Preston broke through and stopped the play, and Cobourg kicked to mid-field. Hewitt gained four yards and Cuthbertson rammed through for thirty yards on a criss-cross play. Green went through for four yards; Magee added five more, and on the next play he crashed over the line for a touchdown, P.C.I. 7.

In quick order P.C.I., their plays working smoothly and their line holding, had forced the Cobourg line back and Cuthbertson went over their line for a touchdown. P.C.I. 12. Hewitt converted nicely, adding another point.. P.C.I. 13.

Magee took the Cobourg kick off on the run and gained twelve yards. Hewitt and Johnson made yards, and then Dearborn and Magee added big gains. Magee stopped Roddy at the Cobourg 20-yard line when Gemmel kicked. Cobourg made a bad snap and P.C.I. grabbed the ball at their 5-yard line. Cuthbertson gained four yards, and Magee dug through the centre for the touchdown. P.C.I. 18.

The Petes paraded the ball down the field, and Cobourg received Gemmel's kick on their own 2-yard line. Hodgetts was forced to kick and Cuthbertson ran the ball back twenty yards to Cobourg's 10-yard line. P.C.I. lost the ball on an offside and Hodgetts kicked out of danger. However, Gemmel booted a long punt over the Cobourg line for a rouge. P.C.I. 19.

P.C.I. broke through and grabbed the ball from Cobourg, and Green and Armstrong made big gains, and Cuthbertson went over for another touchdown. P. C. I. 24. Hewitt converted, adding another point, and the final score.

In the last five minutes of play Cobourg rallied and forced the Petes back on the defensive. Cobourg were fighting hard to score and repeatedly they came within close scoring distance, lacking only the final punch.

The lineups were:

P.C.I.—Snap, Preston; insides, Wiman and Hall; middles, Johnson and Armstrong; outsides, Glover and Westbrook; flying wings, Green and Dunkerly; halves, Hewitt and Cuthbertson; quarter, Gemmel; subs, Magee, Reynolds and Dearborn.

Cobourg C. I.—Snap, Mitchell; insides, Woods and Murray; middles, Shrum and Johnson; outside, Dufton and Roddy; flying wing, Ravensdale; halves, Jack Hayden, Cooper, and Hodgetts; quarter, Harold Hayden; subs, Field, B. Cooper and Jamieson.

Summary

First Period:—
P.C.I. 1, Gemmel's rouge.
Second Period:—

Must Sign Contracts By Tuesday, October 19

PITTSBURGH, October 29 (Canadian Press). — After having been in a muddle all day with his recalcitrant hockey players, Benny Leonard, new boss of the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Hockey League, on Saturday night announced that he had received a telegram from Frank Calder, president of the league, saying that "all hold-out payers who have not signed their contracts by Tuesday, October 30, will be suspended by the League."

To date, Leonard has signed McKinnon, McCaffrey, Holway, Smith, and Drury. Darragh, Cotton, and Worters are still holding out. Odie Cleghorn, manager, was said to have come to terms.

QUEENS WINS FROM VARSITY

Two Touchdowns in the Third Quarter Give Tri-Color Win Over U. of T.

LEAD IN FIRST.

TORONTO, Oct. 29.—Queen's convinced every spectator that packed University Stadium Saturday afternoon that the Tricolor will add another Intercollegiate senior football title this fall to their already formidable list. Even that white mongrel member of the canine family that frequently strayed onto the field and tried to inject himself into the scramble of players, much to the amusement of the crowd, must have realized in his dumb way that those men in the brightly colored sweaters meant business. His friendly advances were met with a couple of gentle but nevertheless convincing taps on his port and starboard flanks from the boot of a Queen's player, and he retired hastily from the scene of action. He kept his distance thereafter, but his sympathies must have been with the University of Toronto squad. The Blue and White players had to remain on the field to see their carefully compiled lead of the first half of the game trampled beyond recognition under the determined Queen's onslaught of the third quarter, and when they finally retired at the end of the game they were decidedly beaten by a 16-to-4 count.

The Tricolor triumph practically destroyed whatever hopes University of Toronto had for the championship. Only one possible chance remains. If the peculiar turn of circumstances that has provided a victory for the visiting team in every game of the Intercollegiate season to date holds good until the end of the schedule, then the three teams will all be tied and a playoff made necessary. But that is a forlorn hope. McGill would have to beat Queen's in Kingston next Saturday and University of Toronto would have to topple McGill in Montreal the following week. Judging from Queen's showing here Saturday, McGill will be lucky even to keep the score down at Kingston.

Rumors Denied Hornsby Traded

NEW YORK, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Reports that Rogers Hornsby, baseball's man without a country, had been traded by the Boston Braves to the Chicago Cubs for a sum approximately $250,000, gave diamond followers something to get excited about on Saturday. The story printed in the New York Sun met prompt denial from officials of both clubs. Despite these denials, the Sun persisted in its story through all its editions. According to that newspaper, Hornsby has been traded for $200,000 in cash and three Chicago players, Outfielders Carl Webb and Cliff Heathcote and Second Baseman Freddy Maguire.

VIEWS ON SPORT

It was a double victory for P. C. I.—the Seniors taking Cobourg to camp and the Intermediates crowding out Bowmanville.

The victory of the P.C.I. Seniors over Cobourg was nothing if not decisive. They played steady rugby and took advantage of their opponents' misplays. Coach Browne has a team that deserves a good deal of credit.

* * * * * * *

The game with Bowmanville was close all the way, but Coach Legon's warriors edged out the victory, and now they have earned the right to play off with Bowmanville for honors in the group. There were some splendid tackling done by Clayton and Ward, and this is where the P.C.I. showed their winning strength.

"Shrimp" McDougall may play hockey with the Niagara Falls Cataracts in the Canadian professional loop this winter. It is reported that Gene Fraser is after the tricky little centre player. 'Shrimp" didn't go so well last year with the Ravinas, but he may perk up and show his old style this season. He has been swinging a paint brush all summer and should be in good condition.

"Bud" Westbrook, who starred with the Garnet and Grey here a few years ago, made the choice play in the game between McMaster University and Varsity. He ran for sixty-five yards and a touchdown, helping his team, McMaster, defeat the Varsity Juniors for the first time in six years.

There will be no team in Havelock this winter. Wright, one of their best players, has gone to New York to join one of the minor teams there, and the rest of the players have moved from the railroad town. This announcement will be heard with a pang from their old enemy in Lakefield.

MONTREAL WINGED WHEELERS SHUT OUT SENATORS 21 TO 0

Frenchmen Play Smooth-Working Combination To Outwit Capital City.

STRENUOUS STRUGGLE.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Revenge is sweet!

When the Ottawa Senators scored a narrow-margin win over Montreal's revamped Big Four football squad at the Capital in the opening game of the season, they pinned a loss on the Montrealers, which now accounts for the fact that the locals have no chance of overhauling the league-leading Hamilton Tigers.

Saturday, at the M.A.A.A. grounds, the Senators paid the return visit, with somewhat of a weaker team, but with a still formidable machine. The wheelers, now a smooth-working combination, were out to avenge the defeat which shattered their title hopes, and what a job they made of it. When the crowd swarmed on the field following the blowing of the final whistle, the score board read: Montreal 21, Ottawa 0.

Reports from Ottawa concerning the first game at the Capital tended to show that the Montrealers outplayed the Senators, in fact, outdid the Senators at everything but scoring. However, it's the score that counts, and the Senators walked off the field with a victory. In Saturday's game, the locals again outplayed the crew from the Capital, but this time, they made no mistakes, and also out-scored them. And, in such a convincing manner as to cause local fans to ask: "How did we ever lose that first game?"

Radley Suspended

Besides losing the game, the Senators also lost the services of one of their youthful linemen, Radley, who was suspended for life by Referee Degruchy for striking that official in the face, while on the playing field. The game was a strenuous struggle, and the many sly pokes and jabs that were handed out by members of both teams during the scrimmages, finally came to a head with an open outbreak in the fourth quarter. It all started when Dr. Al. Blair, Montreal pivot man, closed with Radley, when the latter barged through the Montreal line in an attempt to block a kick. He crashed into Wright, the Montreal punter, and nearly bowled him over. Blair rushed in to push Radley away, and the two came to blows. The fight began to spread to other members of both squads, and Referee Degruchy jumped into the middle of the fray to separate Blair and Radley. He finally got them apart, and was about to motion them to the penalty bench when Radley hit him in the face.

The Ottawa player looked as if he was going to repeat his unforgiveable act, that of striking an official on the playing field. When the more level-headed members of both teams jumped into the fray, and led the Ottawa youth to the bench, Referee Degruchy immediately penalized Blair for five minutes, and announced that Radley would draw a life suspension for his offence

Soon after Radley's banishment, a fight began in the stands immediately behind the Ottawa bench, and police were forced to quell the disturbance.

Over Confident at First.

The Wheelers were a little over-confident at the start of Saturday's game, and despite the fact that they looked to have a margin in the play, led by only 1 to 0 at the end of the first quarter. In the second frame, they came to life, and Beano Wright crashed through to score ten points himself and give the locals an 11 to 0 lead at half time. First he connected for a field goal. An attempted second field goal then went for a point, and towards the end of the period Wright broke through the Ottawa line to snare a Montreal outside kick which Irwin, youthful Senator back, fumbled behind his own line. He converted this try.

The third quarter was scoreless, but in the fourth, the Wheelers crashed through for two well-earned touchdowns, one each by Red Moore and Captain Clarry Foran. Neither were converted. Wright did not attempt to convert the second touch which was scored by Foranan just a few seconds before the final whistle.

The Senators put up a game fight, but their best attacking efforts were offset by the brilliant kicking by Wright and Clarry Booth, who shared the locals' kicking assignment. One punt in particular was outstanding. In the final quarter, when the Senators were resorting to every known trick of the game to get the ball into Montreal's teritory, Booth pushed back a threatening rally with a long, high punt which sailed through the air for fully fifty-five yards.

The Senators could show nothing in the way of a kicking half, both Brassington and Lynch, and finally the veteran Tubman, failing to even come near the tremendous hoists kicked by Wright and Booth.

Stars For Senators.

Lynch was the Senators' trump card, and it was his work only, that kept the Wheelers from winning by even a larger margin. He starred in his crafty leadership of a weakening team, besides doing most of the Ottawa's ground gaining. Ottawa's best effort as a team was shown in the second quarter. The visitors were forced back to their fiveyard line, but here they halted, and led by Lynch's daring play, crashed through for four successive first downs, carrying the ball to centre Here they were halted, however, when the Montreal line threatened to obtain possession when Bert Adams grabbed an Ottawa onside kicks. It brought to an end a great display of a fighting team, working under the handicap of not having a punter that measured up to or even came close to the opposing team's punters.

As for the winners, the running and passing by Perry and Moore on the back field, was again a sensation, and many were the gains ranging from fifteen to forty-five yards made by these two stars. On the line, Captain McCaig, and Potter shone offensively Foran made one dash through Ottawa's right middle in the last quarter forty yards, while McCaig was good for four or five yards practically every time he took the ball. Adams and Stockton were effective on the defensive.

MARMORA HAVE HOCKEY TEAM

Village To Be Represented in Trent Valley League—Good Material.

MARMORA, Oct. 29.—(Examiner Correspondence).—Marmora expects to be represented with a good hockey team this season. It is almost certain that the village will be represented in the Trent Valley League. Mr. J. Finnegan who has been in charge of the rink for the past few seasons has offered to look after it another year. It is also proposed to lengthen the existing rink and remove the dressing rooms from the western end of the rink to its eastern end.

In all probability organization of the club will take place this week and arrangements for the financial upkeep made. With several good players in sight probabilities for an interesting season of hockey are good.

C.G.E. TEAM RETAIN CUP

Play Superior Football To Defeat Marmora Crew 5-2 on Latter's Grounds.

MEET FIRST HOME DEFEAT.

MARMORA, Oct. 29 (Examiner Correspondence).—The C.G.E. football team of Peterborough proved superior in their game with Deloro at the latter place on Saturday afternoon, winning deservedly by 5—2 and the C. G. E. Challenge Cup which once more went a-begging is again retained by them. The games was played on a ground none too conducive to classy football, but the keenness of the air incited vigorous and interesting play.

It was the third meeting of the teams and the result means Deloro's first home defeat.

Brooks kicked off for Deloro and play for ten minutes consisted of end to end rushes. Eventually two corners came to Peterborough in quick succession. Both were taken to no advantage, but on a succeeding rush the ball hit the cross-bar and the lively Lovat scored. Deloro next took up the attack but weakness in front of goal kept them from scoring. From a corner which was awarded the homesters, W. Brown sent in one of his good shots but Bolton proved too sound and cleared well. Kelly was temporarily hurt in collision with Nicholson but stayed in the game. Cousins tested Bolton with a splendid shot which the latter nicely saved.

A. Mitchell missed an open goal when play was taken to the other end. Regan made several good saves before the pressure was relieved. Then Deloro rushed the Peterborough goal, and in a scramble Brooks secured possession to beat Bolton with a shot which gave the latter no chance.

Play remained in midfield as the half time whistle blew two minutes later. Half time score: C.G.E. 1, Deloro 1.

In the second half the home forwards failed to get away on the start and C.G.E. pressed. Then Deloro's turn came, but the attackers seemed to be unsteady in front of goal. Again the visitors came back and Regan was kept busy. After a corner had been unsuccessfully taken by Peterborough, Deloro broke away and were awarded a penalty. Hart failed with the kick. A. Mitchell shortly afterwards broke through the home defence to place his team ahead. Deloro almost equalized a few moments later when J. Mitchell, with great agility, sent the ball from the goal mouth as Bolton was apparently beaten. The C.G.E.'s again pressing, Lovatt scored with a well-placed shot. From the kick off, Deloro rushed and Brooks headed through. Lovat scored two more goals for the winners before time was called, in between which Brooks was unsuccessful with a penalty kick.

Ten minutes before the game closed Westwood received a nasty smack in the face.

Final score: C.G.E. 5, Deloro 2.

The teams:

C.G.E.—Goal, Bolton, backs, Westwood and J. Mitchell; half backs, Laidler, Mann and Blowers; forwards, G. Clark, Lovat, A. Mitchell, Carmichael and Buchan.

Deloro.—Goal, Regan; backs, Murray and Nicholson; half backs, Savage, Kelly and Hart; forwards, Andrews, E. Brown, G. Brooks, W. Brown and Cousins.

Referee—J. Clark, Peterborough.

TIGERS CLINCH RUGBY HONORS

Trim Argonauts in Bitterly Fought Struggle By One-sided Score 14-2.

PLAY GOOD FOOTBALL.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— Tigers took a strangle hold on the inter-provincial championship honors on the home grounds Saturday when they trimmed Argonauts in a bitterly fought struggle with a score of 14 to 2. The game, for all its one-sided score, was a brilliant exhibition. So much so, that the crowd of more than 8,000 fans seemed not to mind the drizzling rain which continued throughout the entire piece. So many incidents of an exciting nature occurred that the possibility of being drenched was entirely ignored. Stands without covers made conditions the same for all the patrons.

Not until half way through the final period was the crowd of Hamilton rooters satisfied that a victory was in the grasp of the yellow and black force. The score at that time was 8 to 2. Argos threw everything they had into their endeavors. With play in their territory, two successive attemtps were made to force a break that would have given them a touchdown, which, together with a convert, would have tied up the score. Onside kicks were ordered. The first one, though not successful, cost them no ground. The second proved disastrous. Simpson, fleet outside wing for Hamilton, grabbed up the loose ball and after dodging three or four tacklers, had on open field to negotiate. The touchdown was neatly converted by Bert. Gibb, captain and half-back.

Due To Wing Line.

Thanks for the home team's win were largely due to the wing line, which was much superior to that of the visitors, both offensively and defensively, its greater experience being evident at all times. Argos' younger players showed great determination, however, and were at no time prepared to give up the battle. They were just that good that, when danger threatened most, they were able to prevent major scores on all but one occasion. That was in the first period when Gibb, on his second attempt from 10 yards, got over for a try. Prior to that, Welch had booted a high one far back of the Oarsmen's goal and Turville had been forced to rouge.

These six points constituted the first quarter score.

Helped materially by the stellar footwork of Turville, the Scullers were first to score in the second frame. His long hoist to Welch resulted in a rouge. Not to be outdone, Welch booted one a short time later to Turville. The latter missed the catch, but the ball went into touch in goal. The continued good work of the Hamilton wing was regularly counteracted by Turville's kicking but, eventually, Rodden's men again got in position for Welch to let go another healthy drive to Turville, who tried desperately to run it out but was forced to concede another point. The half time score was 8 to 1 in favor of the Bengals.

Good Defense.

Finding attempts to crash through the line frustrated by the powerful defense of the Tigers, the Oarsmen tried on numerous occasions to gain distance with extended end runs. The chances the backfield men, Turville, and Chantler, took with the ball had the fans gasping. Rarely did they meet with success of any magnitude. More often the opposing wing men broke through and forced the ball carriers to take losses, there came an occasion, however, when the visitors got within striking distance for Turville to boot a high one to Gibb, who had to rouge.

This was the only score of the period. The means by which Tigers got their additional points have already been explained.

Outstanding for the Hamilton team was the tackling of "Cap" Fear, the booting of Welch and the forays through the line of Boadway, Wright, Small and Gibb. Simpson and Veale did some fine tackling while the duties of snap were looked after in the usual able style by Ernie Cox, who again missed being in very few plays.

Turville and Chantler formed a fine combination on the Toronto rear division, but the former was worked on too much, it seemed. In the early part of the game and his kicking in the later stages suffered a little in comparison to that of Welch, for Tigers. Irwin did some smart tackling for the losers while the work of "Firpo" Brown easily stood out above that of the other plungers. Hutchinson proved an able ball carrier and shone as a tackler.

Walter Hagen Wins Further Golf Honors

ST. LOUIS, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Walter Hagen, British open golf champion, defeated Johnny Farrell, American titleholder, five and four in the fifth and final 36-hole match between the pair to decide the unofficial world's golf championship at the St. Louis Country Club on Saturday.

Starting the afternoon round four down, Farrell was pressing and hooking his drives while his putter also failed to work satisfactorily. Hagen played a steady game.

DE LAVAL WINS AT LAKFIELD

Defeats Cement Company in First Game of Softball League Double-header.

BRIDGENORTH WINS SECOND

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 29 (Examiner Correspondence). — Owing to the numerous counter attractions the crowd was not as large as usual at the "double header" on Friday night. The games were played quickly and the delay was short between games. After Tuesday night's rather stormy session these games were like a Sunday school picnic, as all was peace except for the applause, which was all that could be desired.

The first game was between the Cement Company's nine and the De Laval aggregation and resulted in a win for the visitors. The basket social which was the outstanding event of the night apparently took a heavy toll from the Cement team, as several of the regulars were missing and the team played in hard luck all through. The De Laval team were on their toes and played a snappy game, piling up the runs. Ken Miller was their "Babe Ruth" with two home runs. Messrs. Frank Payne and Earl Armstrong guarded the plates and bases respectively. The line up was as follows:

Canada Cement.—E. Douglas, p; T. Briant, c; C. Maracle, 1b; D. Hill, r ss; L. Sabattino, 1 ss; E. Green, 2b; J. Sabattino, 3b; John Charlton and W. Hamblin, field, B. Elewett, sub.

De Laval.—F. Dyer, p; R. Dyer, c; R. Miller, 1b; E. Woodhouse, r ss; B. Jones, l ss; H. Stanley, 2b; R. Evans, 3b; K. Miller, lf; T. Griffin, rf; Northey and J. Cooper, subs.

The score by innings was:
Canada CementCo. . . ..100001002— 4
De Laval.. . . . . ..50323310x—17

The second game between Bridgenorth and the High School resulted in a victory for the former team. The High School team was minus several stand-bys owing to illness which prevented at least three from being present. With several new players, who had never had a try-out the team was handicapped, but they maintained their "esprit de corps" and pluckily played the game, winning the respect and commendation of their opponents and the audience. "A plucky bunch of kids," said the Bridgenorth manager.

Mr. Frank Payne was plate umpire and Mr. Clayton Maracle at the bases. Connors scored a home run in the fourth and Bradshaw scored another in the ninth.

The line up was as follows:

Bridgenorth.—L. Forsyth, p; E. Connors, c; H. Dormer, 1b; M. Wilson and E. Baker, ss; W. Shearer, 2b; H. Bradshaw, 3b; Griffin, rf; D. Jopling, lf; M. McWilliams, sub.

High School.—Clayton Fitzgerald, p; George Wannamaker, c ; Harold Schwark, 1b; R. Moore and D. White, ss; E. Kemp, 2b; Donald Dever, 3b; Holley Jewell, and Jack Nicholls, field; E. Gionnini, sub.

Score by innings:
Bridgenorth.. . . . . .60248 0 132—26
High School.. . . . . .10030,10,010—15

THE FILM SENSATION OF THE YEAR!
RETURN ENGAGEMENT
'RAMONA'
— with —
DOLORES DEL RIO

Miss Geraldine M. Collins
Will again Sing "Ramona" at the Evening Performances.

THURSDAY - FRIDAY - SATURDAY
Mademoiselle from Armentieres

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

THE RETURN ENGAGEMENT OF "RAMONA" OPENS AT THE CAPITOL TO-DAY. PICTURE WILL BE PRESENTED EXACTLY AS ON THE FORMER ENGAGEMENT WITH MISS GERALDINE M. COLLINS SINGING THE THEME SONG OF THE PICTURE.

To-night at 8 o'clock the Capitol will present the film sensation of the year, "Ramona", for the second engagement inside of a few weeks. This great picture which has shattered attendance records everywhere, will be presented exactly as at the first engagement with Miss Geraldine M. Collins singing the theme song of the production.

"Ramona" was written by Helen Hunt Jackson with a purpose. She did not know at the time of writing the story, that it would go down in history as one of the great American classics.

And Edwin Carewe, the director of "Ramona," has given the story to the screen in such a manner as might be well termed "screen classic." This produced has abided by the story—so vital a matter in a case of this sort. It was Carewe, too, who directed "Resurection."

"Ramona" is a tale of early California—the days of the Mission Indians—their trials and their tribulations. And "Ramona" came into being during that period. The story is filled with love interest. Mrs. Jackson, while probably not fully realizing it at the time drew one of the most beautiful love stories in American literature when she penned this tale of the half-Indian maiden who is in love with two men, one of them the Indian, "Alessandro," played on the screen by Warner Baxter; the other, "Felipe," the Spanish Don, Roland Drew.

To Edwin Carewe should go another triumph and notch in his belt of directorial conquests and to Miss De Rio should go the unstinted praise that is due only a great artiste. Her portrayal of the Indian maiden was divine and in some instances even surpassed her remarkable characterization in "Resurrection" which proved once and for all that this Mexican beauty was in the film world to stay as long as she might choose.

Others in the cast were equally good in their characterization and included besides Baxter and Drew—Vera Lewis, Michael Visaroff, Carlos Armor, John T. Prince and Mathilde Comont.

AT THE REGENT.

"COULDN'T BE DONE" BUT HERE IT IS

When Carl Laemmel, president of Universal, announced his intention of producing "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," starting to-day at the Regent Theatre, loud laughs echoed from the hills of Hollywood.

The wiseacres of the film profession vetoed the rumor with a knowing grin, pointing out that the project was ridiculous on its face. In the first place the French government would not permit the ancient cathedral to be used for a movie set and the immense edifice would be too expensive to reproduce. Why, it would cost a mint.

The literary know-hows added their smiles to the congress of unofficial judgement, saying that the story of Notre Dame could not be picturized. Firstly, there wasn't an actor in the world who could portray the monstrous, distorted creature known as 'The Hunchback,' and besides the immortal story of Hugo was too bloodthirsty, too gruesome and too much taken up with religious partisanry to make an acceptable popular film.

To make a long story short, the wiseacres were just exactly fifty per cent. right in saying that the film would cost an awful lost of money and couldn't be done. It did cost a million and a half, but it was done.

And the prophets who predicted failure for the quest of an actor capable of playing the unusual role of the Hunchback were nearly right, for it is doubtful whether there was more than one living actor who could have done it. But in Lon Chaney was found that one. His portrayal of "Quasimodo," the misshapen bell ringer of the great cathedral, has received the laudation of five continents.

After these two greatest obstacles had been overcome, the "blue pencil" was used sparingly on the story and parts deleted which were too gruesome and horrible for popular entertainment, as were those portions of the tale that might prove objectionable to any religious denomination.

As a result the world has been given a super-picture that has been acclaimed in many quarters as marking the zenith of motion-picture production.

Greater London has ncreased in population by more than two millions since 1889, when the London County Council came into being.

A new invisible ray which increases by 20 times the distance over which the human eye can see, and is equally efficient in fog, is being tested in England.

Ottawa Lineman Is Suspended From Game

MONTREAL, Que., October 29 (Canadian Press). — "Big Boy" Radley, hefty lineman with the Ottawa Big Four football squad, will play no more rugby in Canada as far as Referee Hal Degruchy is concerned. In Saturday's game at the M.A.A.A. grounds between the local interprovincial squad and the Senators, a fight broke out between Radley and Dr. Al. Blair, Montreal quarter. The melee started to spread to other players, and Referee Degruchy rushed into the middle of the fray to separate Blair and Radley. The latter momentarily lost his head, and struck the referee a stiff blow on the face, and looked as if he was going to repeat the act, when cooler heads from both sides intervened and led the pugnacious Ottawa youth to the sidelines.

Referee Degruchy immediately announced that Radley was out for the game, the season, and for life as far as he was concerned.

Blair received a five-minute penalty for his part in the affair.

After the game, Degruchy stated that he had nothing more to say, but that Radley would draw a life suspension for his attack upon an official during the course of a game.

INTERMEDIATES IN TIE FOR LEAD

Young and Dinisen Made Long Runs To Pave Way For P.C.I. Victory.

PLAY FAST RUGBY.

In a close, hard fought battle the P.C.I. Intermediates defeated the heavier Bowmanville boys and are now tied for first place. P.C.I. played a faster, more open game and shoved the play into Bowmanville territory, but seemed to lack the punch to score. In the second quarter, P.C.I. opened up with several fast plays, to work the play into Bowmanville quarters. Dinesen intercepted one of Bowmanville's onside kicks to run twenty-five yards up the field, but was tackled just outside the touch line. Doukas plunged over for the touch, which Young failed to convert. The second quarter ended with the play see-sawing up and down the centre of the field. P.C.I. ended the half when Dinesen kicked for a point, making the score, 6 to 0.

Second Half

Bowmanville opened the second half by crashing into P.C.I. territory. Bowmanville plunged repeatedly and sent James over for a touchdown. James converted his own touch to tie the score, 6 to 6.

P.C.I. steadied down a bit, Doukas and Clayton plunged nicely, while Ward's tackling was supreme. Buckley and James were the best yard gainers for Bowmanville, while Cowan was the outstanding tackler.

In the fourth quarter P.C.I. again did the pressing and Mackey kicked two rouges. Young, who had made several good runs, went around the end for fifty yards, but was brought down on the Bowmanville 5-yard line. P.C.I., however, failed to score. The game ended with the score 8 to 6 for P.C.I.

P.C.I. and Bownmanville H. S. are now tied for first place, making another game necessary. The line-ups were:

P.C.I.—Snap, McWilliams; insides, Legon and Clarke; middles, Doukas, Fraser; outsides, Ward, Wagar; quarter, MacKay; halves, Young, Dinesen; flying wings, Clayton and Hamilton; Subs., Braund, Best, Gaul, Irwin, Waddell.

B.H.S.—Snap, Mitchell; insides, Greenaway, Minore; middles, Buckley, J. Vanstone; outsides, Cowan, Billet; quarter, James; halves, Colmer, Chandler; flying wings, Dewitt, Adams; subs., Sleman, Gunn, Tunney, Cryderman, Cameron, M. Vanstone.

Umpire, Rowan. Referee, Legon.

CANADIANS TURN TO FLORIDA FOR A CAREFREE WINTER SEASON

Semi-tropical Florida is again drawing large numbers of Canadians for the winter season. It is becoming mere popular every year—principally because it is so near, its climate is so inviting, and it offers such an array of interesting sports and pastimes peculiar to that part of the country.

Where else but Florida can one enjoy better, such an exciting novelty as Tarpon fishing..or aquaplaning..or speed boating..or polo. Where else can one motor for miles through avenues shaded by graceful palms — by great citrus groves of ripening oranges and lemons—or along the shore of the Atlantic. There's golf, too—all winter long.

Arrange now to spend your winter months in Florida—any Canadian National Railways Agents will gladly supply you with information about rates, routes and its resorts.

Scotland Scores Thirty-Third Victory Over Wales In International Matches

GLASGOW, Scotland, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Scotland scored its thirty-third victory over Wales in international soccer matches on Saturday by four goals to two, in the presence of 65,000 spectators at Ibrox Park. The Scottish team was much the better on the day's play, though Wales were the first to score. Remarkable goalkeeping by Gray, the Manchester City international, prevented the score against Wales from being greater.

The Scottish forward line, consisting of Jackson (Huddersfield Town), Dunn (Everton), Gallacher (Newcastle United), McPhail (Rangers), and Morton (Rangers), were quicker and much more clever than the Welsh first line. McMullan was also a tower of strength to the Scottish team.

Gallacher did the hat-trick, netting twice in the first half and once on a pass from Dunn in the second. Dunn scored Scotland's other market. For Wales, W. Davies goaled after the Scottish forwards had messed up a pass in the first half and again in the last phase of the match.

WEST POINT IS LEADING CONTENDER FOR RUGBY HONORS

"Red" Eagle Stars As Army Team Eliminates Yale University.

HARVARD BEAT DARTMOUTH.

Cadets Have Yet To Face the Strongest Opposition in Nebraska and Stanford.

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Editor.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—(A.P.)—As great a collection of individual exploits as the gridirons of the east, south and west have known in some time has cleared the autumn air, revealing the outstanding college football championship contenders in bold relief against a drab background of shattered hopes.

Thanks to the prowess of "Red" Eagle, whose flying feet blazed a trail of defeat for Yale, West Point's battered but triumphant eleven has moved another notch toward eastern as well as national honors. Red himself is well along the trail that leads to all-American recognition after those twin dashes of 52 and 72 yards for touchdowns that thrilled Saturday's biggest football crowd, 76,000 in the Yale bowl.

The Army now has the unusual distinction of trimming Harvard and Yale on successive Saturdays, by decisive margins. This achievement stands out all the more as a result of Harvards stunning overthrow of Dartmouth in an upset that ranks with Navy's defeat of Pennsylvania.

The Cadets still have Notre Dame, Nebraska and Stanford to face, anything but an easy prospect since the latter pair right now look to be the strongest in their respective sections.

Ken Strong, sage of the New York University scoring juggernaut, accounted for 23 of the team's 47 points against Colgate in another game that was surprisingly one-sided. Nebraska's greatest fullback, Blue Bowell was the big gun in an attack that smashed Missouri's "Big Six" title hopes by a score of 24 to 0.

These luminaries all lived up to advance notices, justifying the blast of the ballyhoo, but at Iowa City the spotlight reserved for McLain and Ragurski, Iowa and Minnesota's fullbacks, shifted to other stars. Iowa won this titanic "Big Ten" struggle by a single point margin, 7 to 6, with two substitutes compiling winning points after Fred Rovde had ran 31 yards for Minnesota's only score in a last period flourish.

Three Eliminated.

The net results of the last October gridiron whirl cut down the contending field appreciably. Dartmouth, Yale and Pennsylvania skidded abruptly from the eastern peak as Army moved along at a swift pace, followed by New York University, Carnegie, Georgetown and Boston College. All five of these eastern teams have spotless slates and impressive records. Two of them, Georgetown and N.Y.U., meet in New York next Saturday in a battle between two of the country's most formidable scoring machines.

Ohio State, Iowa and Illinois, the 1927 champions, survive the "Big Ten" grapple. They are the only teams neither beaten nor tied.

Nebraska looms now as the Big Six favorite in the Missouri Valley group, while in the Southern Conference area, Tennessee Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, Florida and Clemson—all triumphant last week over conference rivals—are setting the pace for the big field.

The lull in the Pacific coast conference race was costly for California, which provided another big league victim for the San Francisco Olympic Club, while Stanford and Southern California beat minor rivals in polishing up for the big battle this week.

ALLEY CHATTER

By PIN BOY.

The Lockworks' six team league is rolling along at a merry rate and judging from the amount of pep and enthusiasm shown last week in their third league fixture, this gang are certainly getting their money's worth.

Tom Baginall of the Foundry team was the 'Lou Gehrig' of the night with a single score of 274 and also carried off high three by totalling 663 in his trio of games. These nice scores helped to put the skids under the Assembly Room, who rambled home on the small end of a three to nothing result, the winners having a majority of 200 pins in total pinnage.

The battlers in the City League bowling loop are displaying a brand of friendly rivalry that will simmer down to some very keen competition as this group seem to have among its members most of Peterborough's best; one high three record of 851 being already chalked up for three games.

When it comes to consistent bowling, Joe Marsden of the Big Five is perched on the top rung of the ladder as a result of the following scores which he made on Thursday last—299, 239 and 318, which amounted up to the staggering total of 851 and is a high three record mark that will probably stand for the rest of the season.

Owing to the non-appearance of Gordon Matthews Rotarians, the Peterborough Royal Furs had to battle it out alone, winning the games by default, although Walter Firth was hitting them hard with scores of 298 and 760.

The LeBarr quintette suffered disastrously in Thursday's game, losing the whole issue of four points to the Big Five who have hit their stride in first-class form, Joe Marsden setting a new high three record of 851 pins.

Crescent Ball Club gained one point in their three game duel with the Lawn Bowlers, winning the one game by a margin of seven pins and losing the second by only 3. Lawn Bowlers' win netted them 3 points. Freeman for the winners was high with 280 and G. Fallon had high three, 686.

Cleaning and pressing must be conducive to good bowling, at least so it seems in the case of Dave Grant who has been chalking up strikes all season with a regularity that is amazing and is the go-getter on the Super-Six team who lost three points to the K.R.B's, Grant having both high single and high three, 271 and 729.

Bredin's Bread cleaned up on the Bowlrites which places them at the top of the League, but owing to the latest reports the losers have entered a formal protest. Most of the Breadmakers showed nice form, Bud Weese and L. Anthony making 669 each, while Steve Elliot did the heavy work with 256 and 694.

Tractional Motors No. 1 will soon be at the top of their group if able to keep up the good work, having won two more from the Pirates in an exciting battle that was remarkable for its consistent scores. Mildred Vase showed up the best with scores of 202 and 485.

Meteors No. 2 walked over the Insulation team rough shod, tkaing every game and swamping the losers by over 500 pins in total pinnage. M. Todd gained the decorations with a single score of 269.

Meteors No. 1 were almost as lucky as No. 2 team and copped two out of three in thier argument with Insulation No. 3. Muriel Ashmore was high for the second time in two weeks, making 427 for three, a margin of one pin over Miss Spencer on the Insulation team. Madeline Redman had a high single score of 198, fifty pins more than any other member on either team.

It seems that the Automobile dealers have the bowling bug in their bonnets once more and are anxious to secure the beautiful trophy that at present is gracing the counter in the Duffus Alleys. It is reported that Ev. Robinson summoned all his chiefs around him on Friday night last to hold a pow-wow with regards to the prospects of a good season. There is no reason why this gang cannot organize a red-hot league as last year's six team group was certainly a pleasing success.

The Peterborough Canoe Makers have formed a six team Inter-shop league also and bowled the opening games of their schedule when they worked the pin boys to a frazzle on six alleys.

The girl's office section in the C. G.E. League completed another perfect night on Thursday last when the six teams bumped the pins for the third time. Orioles trounced the Canaries in the three games. Miss Wallace making 536 for high three which was high for the night and was pretty smart bowling in a league game for the weaker sex.

Bobolinks took the Redwings by surprise by some spectacular pin bunting, winning two out of three. Miss Corkery carried off the silver with 205 score in a single which was also high for the night. Miss Timm collecting high trio with 435.

A. V. Lillow of 330 George street, is offering one pair of ladies satin mules to the fair one who can pile up the highest score in one game during the month of November, while Maher & Wesley, Charlotte street., Clothiers will present the gentleman who makes the highest score for three consecutive games with a five dollar hat, so we can rest assured that there will be some rather strenuous pin busting uncorked by the local sheiks and shebas during the next month.

Victors Show Superior Combination Work To Win From Local Team.

GARNETS LACK PRACTICE.

Grove school boys defeated P.C.I. third team 3.2 in a hard fought game on the former's grounds. The teams were evenly matched, the Grove boys showing the value of experience and practice. The P.C.I. team made up in spirit what they lacked in experience.

There were no outstanding features during the game and the final score going in favor of Grove.

P.C.I. lineup was—Snap, A. Waddell; Supports, Westbye, McKone; Insides, Weldon, Wainman; Middles, Wright, Payne; Outsides, Blagrave, Dearborne; Quarter, Kirkwood; Halves, Cheu, Hetherington; Flying wings, Cadd, Borbridge; Subs., Stevens, Wool.

UNCLE WIGGILY

To-day's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CRANBERRIES.

(Copyright, 1928, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Well, Uncle Wiggily," squeaked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one morning as the rabbit gentleman started hopping away from his hollow stump bungalow, "I suppose you are going adventuring?"

"I hope I may find an adventure," spoke Mr. Longears.

"So do I," said the muskrat lady housekeeper. "And while you are looking for an adventure for yourself you might do me a favor."

"I shall be most happy," Uncle Wiggily answered with a low and polite bow from his tall, silk hat. "What may I do for you?"

"See if you can find any cranberries," answered Nurse Jane. "In about a month it will be Thanksgiving and we shall want some cranberry pies and tarts as well as some sauce to eat with the roast carrots. Cranberries ought to be ripe now and if you will find a swamp, or bog, where they grow, you can gather some now and I will make a pie. Then, when Thanksgiving is almost here, you will remember where the cranberry bog is and can hop there and get a lot more."

"I'll do that," said Uncle Wiggily. So, having put his tall, silk hat on his head, he twinkled his pink nose and hopped away. Over the fields and through the woods he went, looking for an adventure, and soon he reached a low, swampy place, sometimes covered with water when there was much rain.

But now the bog was dry and covered with sand in which grew many low bushes with glossy, green leaves. Amid the leaves gleamed some dark red dots.

"This is a bog," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, "and those red spots must be cranberries. I'll look to make sure."

Truly enough, Uncle Wiggily had found some cranberries. The low bushes were laden with them and Mr. Longears saw that there would be plenty for Thanksgiving, and also enough to pick some now so Nurse Jane could make a pie.

Uncle Wiggily found some cranberries.

"I'll gather some before my friend Mr. Stubtail, the bear gentleman, comes here to eat a lot of them," thought Mr. Longears. For bears, he knew, often ate raw cranberries, as they very much liked the sour taste.

Having nothing else in which to put the cranberries he picked, Uncle Wiggily took off his tall, silk hat and soon it was filled with the dark red berries, some being mottled with white. They were about as large as small marbles and were glossy and hard.

"What a lovely lot of cranberries," said Mr. Longears to himself as he looked at the hat which was filled. "Nurse Jane can make many pies with these. Now I think I'll set my hat down here on this stump and hop to the far end of the bog to see how many berry bushes there are. I think there will be enough so Mr. Stubtail may have what he wants."

Uncle Wiggily was very kind this way and soon he was hopping over the bog, or swamp. Cranberries grow best in bogs, you know, and in winter the bog must be covered with water so the bushes will not catch cold and freeze. Covered with a coating of ice, the bushes will live until summer comes again.

The rabbit gentleman found so many cranberries that he knew if Mr. Stubtail ate them for a day and a night there would still be plenty left for Nurse Jane. So Uncle Wiggily hopped back to pick up his hat full, but, lo and behold! When he looked for his hat of cranberries it was gone! It was not to be seen!

"Dear me!" said Mr. Longears. "Where are those cranberries?" But though the wind murmured in the bog it did not answer.

"I hope the Fox or Wolf didn't come along and take the cranberries away," said the rabbit.

Just then, all of a sudden, plop! A cranberry flew through the air and hit Uncle Wiggily on his nose.

"Oh!" cried the rabbit gentleman, "Oh, dear!"

Then, all of a sudden, plop! Another cranberry flew through the air and struck the bunny gentleman on his left ear.

"Why, this is most surprising!" exclaimed the rabbit. "These must be magical cranberries! Unless the bushes themselves are throwing them at me because they didn't want me to pick any."

Then—"Plop!" A big cranberry hit Uncle Wiggily in the eye.

MOUNT ROBSON

The summit of Robson pass is a broad gravel flat extending between Adolphus lake on the Alberta side and Berg lake in British Columbia, the two lakes lying about a mile apart. In no other pass in the Rockies does one mountain so dominate the entire landscape as does Mount Robson. Its enormous mass (altitude, 12,972 feet) towers 7,532 feet above the summit of the pass at such close range as to literally overshadow it.

'WHEN DO WE EAT?' FOR OUR BODIES' SAKES

NOT often, these days, unfortunately. Instead, we eat for our appetites alone. That is why you will find rich and poor alike suffering from actual undernourishment and the many serious illnesses to which this condition so easily leads.

It's the fault of our modern foods. Most of them are so "highly refined," so skillfully prepared to tempt our appetites, that nourishment has become a negligible quantity.

A man who had himself been a victim of the deficiency of modern diet set about to originate one food which would correct this deficiency. He created Grape-Nuts.

Grape-Nuts, made from whole wheat and malted barley, supplies in easily digested form these five valuable elements; dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron for the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bone; protein for muscle and body-building; and the very essential vitamin-B. A wealth of precious nourishment. Yet he made Grape-Nuts so delicious that you'll want to eat this healthful food for its flavor alone!

Enjoy the deliciousness and healthfulness of Grape-Nuts beginning to-morrow. Ask your grocer for it. It's wax-wrapped. And ready to eat from the package, with milk or cream. Grape-Nuts costs less than one cent a serving—for four teaspoonfuls is enough.

Your Teeth Require Exercise!

Doctors and dentists are constantly warning us that we must eat some crisp foods that require chewing. The crisp kernels of Grape-Nuts must be chewed—and their pleasant "crunchiness" and delightful flavor tempt you to chewing. This starts digestion in the mouth—where it should start.

Pools Again Prominent On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Marking up of the call money rate from seven and a half to eight per cent. slowed up resumption of the upward price movement in to-day's stock market. Flurries of profit-taking swept through the list, but offerings were well absorbed. Pools again played a prominent part in the day's operations, lifting more than a score of issues to record high levels on gains running as high as ten points.

With the market apparently paying little attention to the recent high increase in broker's loans and high call money rates regarded as temporary, operators for rise had little difficulty in attracting an outside following.

Motor Products, which was weak on Saturday, rallied twelve and a half points. K. H. Macy ran up nine and a half points to a new peak at 181½, and Radio ran up more than six points to a new top at 242¼. American Telephone, Western Union, Industrial Rayon, Atlantic Refining, Montgomery Ward, Case Threshing, Hudson Motors, Adams Express, Commercial Solvents and A. M. Byers all sold four to six points higher.

High grade rails took a more prominent part in the upswing, Delaware and Hudson, Pittsburgh and West Virginia and Canadian Pacific all selling 5½ to 7 points higher. St. Louis South-Western attained a new peak price for the year.

Trading Is Dull, Prices Irregular

TORONTO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Trading was dull on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day when compared with the hectic days of the past two weeks. Prices moved irregularly and most of the trading was on the curb section. Oils and liquors were dominant issues on the board. British-American Oil advanced ¾ to 48¼, and Hiram Walkers was up a point at 85. Seagrams in brisk trading moved up 1¼ to 23, International Petroleum was up a half at 44⅝, Imperial Oil ⅞ at 84⅝, and Supertest Petroleum a point at 28½. International Nickel showed a noticeable falling off in activity, but advanced 2½ to 176. Cockshutt dropped 1½ to 30 and Abitibi was down two at 41½.

Wheat Opens Strong, Later Shows Re-action

CHICAGO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — Fluctuating rapidly wheat prices here averaged lower to-day in the early dealings, the chief adverse influence was the fact that Liverpool wheat market proved relatively unresponsive to Saturday's sharp advance on this side of the Atlantic. Opening unchanged to 1 lower Chicago wheat afterwards scored moderate gains, but then reacted all around. Corn, oats, and provisions showed firmness, with corn starting at ¼ to 1 advance, and subsequently holding near to initial figures.

Wheat, December 117⅝, March 122¼. Corn, December 81⅜, March 84½. Oats, December 43⅜, March 44⅝.

Prices Slightly Firmer On Standard Exchange

TORONTO, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press).—Considerable irregularity developed in trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day and while prices were slightly firmer in the case of most of the active issues, numerous slight declines were scattered throughout the list. Interest in Noranda was maintained throughout the mornin, stock reaching high point of 58.60, after which it sagged to 57.25, where it show net loss of 25 cents. Jackson Manion, which was extremely active last week, was almost neglected, but showed gain of 4½ at noon at 68. Sudbury Basin was in demand to-day, selling up to 7.85 for a gain of 55, while Sherritt Gordon on transactions totalling more than 40,000 shares was up 25 at 7.10. Lake Shore advanced twenty cents at 21.00. Malartic was the leader in point of activity, 46,000 shares changing hands, but the price decliner four to 1.18. Pend Orille was down 50 at 12.25.

News From the Mines

Through Selloway, Mills & Company

Wright-Hargreaves.

A despatch from Kirkland Lake states that Wright-Hargreaves have 200 feet of high grade ore on the 1,250 foot level east claim.

Ritchie.

Ritchie Gold Mines have started operations for the sinking of their new shaft.

It will be remembered that Ritchie some time ago by trenching and careful preliminary surface work uncovered a strong and well defined vein with an indicated length of approximately 2,500 feet. The present new shaft will be sunk to a depth of about 550 feet, and a level established at the 500 foot horizon. Underground exploration will be conducted from this level.

Noranda.

A telephone message from our field man in Rouyn states that the pulverizer motor in Noranda's coal pulverizer started last night at 9 o'clock, and that the furnace at 1 a.m. was sufficiently heated up to start smelting operations.

International Coal and Coke.

The International Coal and Coke Company Ltd. have declared a dividend of 2 per cent. on the capital stock, payable on the first of December next to shareholders of record at November 10th, 1928. The books of the company will be closed between the 10th of November and December 1st, inclusive.

Rufus Argenta.

The following wire has been received by the Vancouver Stock Exchange from Ned Fred Ceill, treasurer of Rufus Argenta:

"Rumor circulated in Vancouver that John F. Duthie has abandoned option on Rufus Argenta absolutely untrue and without any foundation. Conditions forced stopping of work, but everything prepared for early start in the spring, and ample funds on hand for that purpose."

Big Demand for Red Metal.

Demand for export copper from foreign sources continued unabated Saturday after Copper Exporters, Inc., had advanced the price a quarter cent a pound to 16 cents a pound, a new high record for the year, which brought the export price to a parity with domestic quotations of 15¾ cents. The red metal still continues scarce within the country and domestic fabricators who are unable to obtain their needs are expecting another advance of a quarter cent a pound at any time.

Now that Noranda are negotiating for disposal of their blister copper the present advance in the red metal is of special import in that it is now certain that Noranda will obtain a much better contract than they had with the British Metals Corporation. Incidentally a quarter of a cent advance means an additional $125,000 a year to Noranda. The metal has now advanced nearly 3 cents since Noranda started their smelter operations, or an increase in value of the present capacity of $1,500,000 a year.

Jackson-Manion.

Saturday's Mail & Empire has the following to say re Jackson-Manion's slump which speaks for itself in that it is a challenge to the directors to issue a statement which will clarify the situation:

"Liquidation of Jackson-Manion Mines on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange in the past three days has amounted to more than 725,000 shares, a remarkably large figure, when it is considered that no definitely bearish reports have been published. Many rumors have been in circulation, many of which were of a ridiculous nature. It is definitely asserted, in reply, that reports of the ore being cut off by granite at depth are not founded on knowledge of conditions, as no drill holes have ever been put down to the levels mentioned. Likewise, the vendors' pool stock is not being distributed and cannot be exchanged for the units for at least four months yet. It is common knowledge that a private examination of the property was made late last week by Charles Kaeding, who, as stated previously, returned to the city on Wednesday morning. The nature of his findings has not been made public, his sampling crew not having completed the work. In view of the action of the stock since mid-week, the Street feels that the directors should issue some statement on the situation at as early a date as possible."

Vipond.

Although ore reserves are lower and value of production is off, a statement just issued by Vipond Consolidated Mines for the year ending July 31st shows a better net profit than for the previous year. This improvement was due to more efficient milling methods and to a higher grade of ore. From 86,727 tons of ore $646,896 worth of bullion were produced, averaging $7.46 per ton. Cost of production amounted to $5.44 per ton milled as against $5.76 in 1927. Operating profit for the year amounted to $185,930. Net assets of the company amount to $400,000. Ore reserves at July 31st were 116,905 tons valued at $890,000.

The consumption of tin has increased enormously with the popularity of silk and artificial silk.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

A despatch from Rouyn is to the effect that the pulverizer motor in Noranda's coal pulverizer started last night at 9 o'clock, and that at 1 a.m. the furnace was sufficiently heated to commence smelting operations.

Recent prospecting on the Stewart-Abate properties in Beatty Township has revealed a highly mineralized area with many quartz stringers, and clearly defined quartz veins which are now being opened up and shot into.

The area is about 200 feet south, and paralleling the No. 1 vein which has an average width of three feet, and has been opened up for a distance of 518 feet. Good values have been opened up for a distance of 518 feet. Good values have been obtained in sampling. The shaft on this vein is now down to a depth of 110 feet. An Additional 80 acres immediately adjoining on the west and in line of strike of the present vein systems has been staked for the company.

R. Schurman, C.A., secretary-treasurer of the Rouyn-Kennecott Mines, has just returned from New York, where the directors were in conference with an influential group with whom arrangements are being made whereby Rouyn Kennecot Mines' treasury will be supplied with sufficient finance for all requirements, and who also are taking immediate steps to list the stock of the company on one of the New York exchanges. The foregoing arrangements with this financial group were after an intensive investigation. The directors express confidence that through and under the new financial arrangements that the company chances of success will be enhanced. Another factor to support this is that the South Dakota properties of the company, where a large tonnage of ore is already said to have been blocked out and where a mill is already erected requiring only a small expenditure to bring it into production.

Information from Amos is to the effect that a progress report on Malartic is expected to be released shortly and that this will be decidedly favorable. Also that recent surface work on the east part of the property has opened up new ore.

It is stated that J. Y. Murdoch, president of the Noranda Mines, and other officials of the company are meeting Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Mines, and his assistant L. A. Richard, Deputy Minister, and A. D. Dufresne, Superintendent of Mines, at the Noranda property on Monday.

It is reported that Ribago will resume work on its original Quebec holdings.

CANADA CROSSROAD.

Vilhajmar Stefansson, the explorer, now touring Canada, who predicts that Canada will be the crossroad of the air between Europe and the United States. He says that if transatlantic fliers desire to avail themselves of the shortest course between Europe and the United States, they must fly across Canada. This, he said, would entail flying over Arctic ice and he declared that the northern route was much to be preferred.

ONE BOX ENDED HIS SUFFERINGS

Serious Bowel Condition Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. PAGE

Mr. James Page of Cabano, P.Q., was in a very dangerous condition. The Constipation from which he had suffered for five years was undermining his whole system. It was not only ruining his digestion and poisoning his blood, but had also brought on painful piles. Various treatments failed to help him until he tried "Fruit-a-tives," made of intensified fruit juices combined with scientific medicinal ingredients. "One box of this wonderful medicine," he writes, "gave me complete relief. 'Fruit-a-tives' gives results as nothing else does, and I sincerely recommend it to every sufferer." Try this great medicine. 25c. and 50c. a box—at dealers everywhere.

GIANT SHIP

trip in a markedly easier manner than the Western voyage.

Conditions Vary

HAMBURG, Germany. — Varying weather conditions over the Atlantic face the air liner Graf Zeppelin on her homeward journey to Friedrichshafen.

While the more southerly course than the normal Great Circle route would carry the ship into more favorable areas, the northern route has the advantage of a strong tail wind which would enable the Graf Zeppelin to make good time.

Near Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda.— The Graf Zeppelin was reported 100 miles south of Halifax at 11 o'clock this morning Bermuda time, steering directly for Cape Race according to a message received here from the Cunard liner Laconia. She reported that the dirigible passed over her flying low and requested her position, which was given. The weather was fine and clear.

Prepare for Return

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany.— The home port of the Graf Zeppelin to-day was preparing a festive reception for the return of the giant air liner.

The entire staff of the Zeppelin works and landing crew have been ordered to stand by from six o'clock Wednesday morning, for it is estimated that Dr. Hugo Eckener will be able to make a rapid flight on the return trip of between fifty and sixty hours. Meanwhile everyone's eyes are glued on the weather charts, and latest reports on the progress of the trip.

Around the City

With the colder weather of the past couple of days, Peterborough merchants have experienced a greatly increased trade in winter use commodities, according to several who have discussed the matter with an Examiner representative.

T. M. Barrie, of Barrie's Ltd., this morning stated that there has been a distinct acceleration of business in furs, and others have said the same of winter clothing, shoes, etc.

On Saturday evening at 8:23 the fire department was called to 188 lock street. No damage was done. The fire being caused by a back draught from the furnace.

WEDDING BELLS

KING—HUFF.

The marriage of Dorothy Marion, daughter of Mr. G. Edward Huff and Mrs. Huff, of Toronto, formerly of Peterborough, to Captain Edmund Ott King, son of Dr. Edmund King and the late Mrs. King, was solemnized at Bloor Street United Church, Toronto, on Saturday evening at 7 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. George Pidgeon. The church was prettily decorated with yellow and pink chrysanthemums, oak leaves and palms forming a background. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin in basque style, with a long train of the same material, lined with shell pink chiffon. Her veil of silk net and Chantilly lace was arranged in cap shape and caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of yellow roses and lily of the valley. Her only ornament was a diamond and sapphire brooch, a gift of the groom. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Huff, as maid of honor, in rose taffeta, and Miss Mercedes Rae as bridesmaid, in blue taffeta. Their frocks were fashioned alike in period style, featuring the uneven hemline. Their hats and shoes carried out the same color scheme in a deeper shade, and they carried colonial bouquets of blue and pink cornflowers. The flower girls were Jane Wheeler and Pruduce Reed, nieces of the groom, who were frocked alike in pink and blue frilled tulle, with bandeaux to match. Their flowers were small colonial bouquets. The groom was attended by Mr. A. L. Pidgeon as best man. Mr. Dane Mackendrick, cousin of the groom, Mr. Harold Huff, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ernest Gill were ushers. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was decorated with pink and white pompom 'mums. Mrs. Huff, mother of the bride, received, wearing a gown of ink blue transparent crepe, trimmed with steel lace and a grey velour and lace hat, and a corsage bouquet of Sunburst roses. Mrs. Wheeler, sister of the groom, who received with Mrs. Huff, wore a gown of beige georgette, with a corsage of violets and roses. Later the bride and groom left by motor for Washington and New York, the bride travelling in a blue ensemble with matching hat, shoes and bag. On their return they will reside in the Farnham Court Apartments, Toronto.

OBITUARY

TIMOTHY TWOMEY

The body of the late Timothy Twomey arrived to-day at 12 o'clock and was taken to the home of his brother, Morris Twomey, at Ennismore.

JAMES MORRISON.

There passed away in the village of Lakefield yesterday, James Morrison, at the age of 87 years. He was born in Ireland, and came to Canada at the age of 7. He lived for a time near Cobourg, and has been a resident of Lakefield for the past 45 years. He was married, but his wife died 40 years ago. He is survived by two sons, Bert of Sudbury and Harry of Northern Ontario; one daughter, Mrs. C. O. Northey of Lakefield, also one brother, Hugh, and two sisters, Miss Jennie Morrison and Mrs. Featherson of this village.
He was a member of the Canadian Order of Foresters, and was for many years connected with the local Orange Lodge. He was a Conservative in politics.
The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the family residence, leaving at 2.30 for the Lakefield Cemetery. Rev. T. M. Wesley will officiate.

JOHN McCOY

The death took place in Toronto on Sunday, October 28, of a pioneer resident of Peterborough in the person of John McCoy, who, for sixty-five years, has resided in this district. It was only within the past couple of years that he went to Toronto. He had been ill for some time, and passed away at the age of eighty years.
Left to mourn are his sorrowing widow, three daughters and five sons, namely, Mrs. Charles Clute, of 46 Albert street, Peterborough; Mrs. Edward Wolfe, living in Essex County; Mrs. T. Corbett of Toronto; Joseph and Fred of Toronto; William and Frank of Detroit, and L. McCoy of Peterborough.
The remains will arrive on the noon train Tuesdsay, October 30, and the funeral will take place on Wednesday, October 31, at 9.00 a.m., from 276 Hunter street west to St. Peter's Cathedral and St. Peter's Cemetery.

Mr. Stinson is to deliver the address for the occasion.

POWER FIGHT WILL START IMMEDIATELY

Two Large Companies Trying To Get Control of St. Lawrence Power.

PUBLIC HEARING

Return of Prime Minister Hastens Action, Both Companies Apply.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 29.—(Special to Examiner).—With the return of the Prime Minister to Canada, the decks will shortly be cleared for action on the biggest power fight in the history of Canada, when the major power groups in Quebec, the Beauharnois light, heat and power Co., and the Shawinigan-Montreal Power group will oppose each other at a public hearing on the application of the former interests for the right to develop the all-Canadian section of the St. Lawrence from Lake St. Francis to Lac Prairie basin. The date for this public hearing has not yet been set, but it is understood that one of the first considerations of the cabinet, following Premier King's return to Ottawa will be to provide for this hearing.

The Beauharnois people have had their application for the development of this stretch of the St. Lawrence as a power project before the government for some time. Last week the Great Lakes and Atlantic Canal and Power Company filed with the Deputy Minister of Public Works at Ottawa their formal objection to the Beauharnois project.

The Great Lakes and Atlantic people present their major considerations as objections to the Beauharnois scheme. They claim that they have a prior right to the development, and substantiating any point they present a lengthy review of the history back of the several undertakings on Transportation and Power Ltd., The Confederation Canal and Power Company, and the present company, claiming that for over quarter of a century they have been developing the scheme, while practically ready to be proceeded with in 1914, was held over on account of the war. They show that a great deal of survey and development work was done and much of the property right involved secured.

PETERBOROUGH MALE VOICE CHOIR.

The members of the Male Voice Choir, ladies and gentlemen, had a splendid practice last Tuesday evening, about eighty choristers being on hand. All members are requested to be present to-morrow (Tuesday) at 8 p.m. sharp. The sections are doing speedily built up, the only weak part at present—the tenors— hoping for a larger influx to-morrow night.

GATES BROKEN.

Careless Motorist Backs Into Canadian National King Street Gates.

A careless motorist smashed one of the C.N.R. gates at the corner of King and Bethune Streets last evening. The gates were drawn up in position and the motorist, in his efforts to turn around, backed up onto the buttress with a shock sufficient to break the arm. The gateman hurried down from his tower, but the motorist stepped on the gas and escaped before his number could be taken. The gate was repaired to-day, and is in active service again, but a new one will likely be necessary.

Telephone Operator Finds Bride-Elect

A local citizen was loud in praise this morning of the kindness shown by a member of the Bell Telephone staff, one of the "Centrals" who took a lot of trouble last evening to get a long distance connection through.
A bride-elect, travelling all the way from the Old Country to Canada, where sundry pleasant preparations had been going forward for her reception, and with a wedding scheduled for Thursday of this week, was compelled to go into a hospital at Quebec, owing to a throat and ear infection. Her anxious friends here did not know what hospital to enquire from and enlisted the aid of "Central" who made enquiries for them and got them in touch with the proper authities.

NEVILLE SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

NICKEL MERGER IS ANNOUNCED

International Nickel Of Canada to Combine With N. J. Properties

Companies Decide To Have a Recapitalization of International's Stock in Order To Permit Acquisition of Assets of the New Jersey Corporation.

STOCKHOLDERS TO RECEIVE ONE SHARE OF STOCK FOR SIX OF COMMON IN OTHER COMPANY

New Plan Is Virtually Agreed Upon—No Terms Definite As Yet For Requiring of Mond Interests By the New Company.

NEW YORK, October 30. — As a preliminary to the proposed merger with the Mond Nickel Company, Limited, the International Nickel of New Jersey took steps yesterday to transfer ownership of its properties to the International Nickel Company, Limited, of Canada. The New Jersey company is a holding company, owning all the stock of the Canadian company.

The plan, which has been virtually agreed upon, calls for the consolidation of International Nickel and Mond Nickel properties. It is expected that International Nickel of Canada will be the agency through which the merger will be accomplished. Since International Nickel and Mond Nickel control more than 90 per cent. of the world's supply of nickel, the merging of the two might conflict with the United States anti-trust laws, it has been pointed out unofficially in Wall Street.

Recapitalization Planned.

It is planned to recapitalize International Nickel of Canada in such a way as to provide for the exchange of one share of its 7 per cent. cumulative preferred stock for each share of 6 per cent. non-cumulative preferred of the New Jersey company and six shares of no-par common of the Canadian company for each share of no-parvalue common of the New Jersey company. The plan from the point of view of the stockholders is the equivalent of a six-for-one split-up of that company's common stock. International Nickel of Canada, which will become the parent company, has agreed to make the exchanges on the foregoing basis subject to the plan being declared operative, it is understood.

A letter is being sent to preferred and common stockholders of the New Jersey company, signed by Charles Hayden, chairman of the board, and R. C. Stanley, president, notifying them that, as in the case of their company, the capital structure of the Canadian company may be increased by due corporate action in the event it is determined that additional stock should be issued to continue the company's present rapid development, and further growth. Such an increase, it is assumed in Wall Street, is contemplated as part of the plan for acquiring the Mond Nickel Company's properties.

Further Exchange of Stock.

No official announcement has yet been made of the terms under which it is proposed to acquire the Mond interests. It has been reported, however, that the transaction will be carried out through an exchange of stock and possibly other securities of International Nickel of Canada for the securities of Mond Nickel.

A deposit agreement has been prepared, dated October 30, with Mr. Hayden, Mr. Stanley, and J. W. McConnell as a committee, and with J. P. Morgan & Company and the Royal Trust Company of Montreal as depositaries, providing for the carrying out of the plan for the exchange of stock of the two International Nickel companies.

Application for Listing.

It is expected that application will be made to list certificates of deposit on the New York, Toronto, and Montreal Stock Exchanges. Application will be made to list the stock of International Nickel of Canada on these exchanges as soon as the exchange plan is made effective, it is understood. Deposits must be made on or before November 30.

It was said to-day that the proposed shift in the relative positions of the two International Nickel companies will not mean any change in the executive personnel. The present officers, directors and members of the executive committee of the New Jersey company, it is expected, will assume substantially corresponding position in the Canadian company.

SELLING STORY

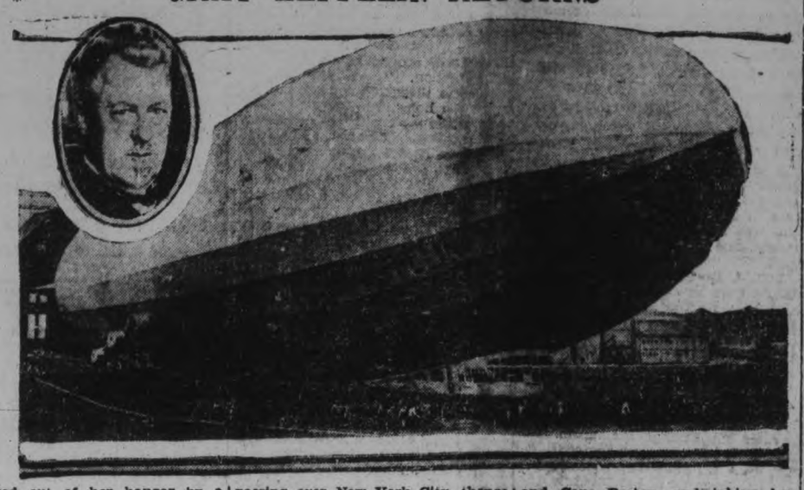
GRAF ZEPPELIN RETURNS



Walked out of her hangar by a ground crew shortly after 1 a.m. on Monday, the huge German Zeppelin took off on her homeward journey with a full complement of crew and passengers. Nosing into the air, she headed northward from Lakehurst, passing over New York City, thence over Rhode Island and Cape Cod. ABOVE are shown the dirigible, with her commander, Dr. Hugo Eckener. The leviathan of the clouds will probably follow the great circle route over a part of Maine, Nova Scotia, and Cape Breton, and taking her final land bearings from Newfoundland, will head out seaward. Her next landfall will probably be Ireland, and passing eastward will probably cross England, and North Sea, directly to her destination, Friedrichshafen.

STORM AREAS IN VICINITY OF BIG SHIP

Graf Zeppelin Winging Its Way Along Northern Steamship Route.

ABANDONS COURSE.

Better Time Is Expected On Return Trip, Averaging 70 Miles an Hour.

BERLIN, October 30 (Canadian Press).—Dodging storm areas but aided by strong tail winds, the homeward bound German airship Graf Zeppelin was today winging its way over mid-Atlantic, along the northern steamship route. At 7.00 a.m., eastern standard time, it was 500 miles north-east of Cape Race, according to a message received by the Marconi Company at Cape Race.

Although the ship was forced to abandon the direct eastern route to Central Europe for a more northerly course, indications were that much better time was being made than on the trip West, which took 111 hours 38 minutes. Part of the time she was averaging 70 miles an hour, and experts stated that at times she touched 100 miles an hour.

It was during the night that Dr. Hugo Eckener changed his course from the route leading to the Azores to take advantage of more favorable wind conditions to the north.

Reports from the ship stated that there was a strong wind, but that all was well on board. Weather reports to-day were not too favorable, and there was every likelihood that a gale would pursue the giant craft during the whole voyage.

Professional Stowaway.

WICHITA, Kansas, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—When Clarence Terpune travels, as he often does, he travels in class. The venturesome, 19-year-old St. Louis stowaway on the Graf Zeppelin timed his debut in stowing away on the ocean trip to coincide with the maiden voyage last year of the liner Malolo, the Matson Navigation Company's "Floating Palace" plying between San Francisco and Honolulu.

Mrs. Lucille Woods, Terpune's sister, said Clarence was caddying in San Francisco when the liner arrived there from the eastern shipyards. She said he stowed away and was not discovered for several days. Then, as yesterday, when he was found on the German dirigible, he was put to work to pay for his passage.

Another time he stowed away on a ship bound for Alaska, but was unfortunate enough to pick the last boat of the season and had to spend the winter there.

He perfected the business of stowing away to travelling from one golf tournament to another. He has been a professional caddy since he was 10 years old, and has caddied from coast to coast.

Follow 46th Parallel.

HAMBURG, Germany, October 30 (Canadian Press).—On the basis of reports of Atlantic weather to-day, experts here believed that Dr. Hugo Eckener would try to skirt along the 46th parallel of north latitude in the Graf Zeppelin. This parallel passes through North Sydney, Nova Scotia, and Rochefort, France. If he followed this course Dr. Eckener would avail himself of favoring winds and yet not risk encountering with storms.

A radio report received from the Mauretania, placed the position of the Zeppelin at 500 miles east of Cape Race. This would indicate that the airship was swinging south again to take the course along the 46th parallel as was expected by aviation experts. This course would lead the craft to Central Europe.

Amazing Confessions Are Expected by Man Behind Chicago Bars

Men and Women Flocked To Young Neville's "Inside Market Information — Promised 500 Per Cent Profits To Investors.

HE IS SENTENCED TO FROM ONE TO TEN YEARS; LAWYERS HAVE APPLIED FOR A NEW TRIAL

Alleged Women Victims Tell Amazing Stories of Their Dealings—Outlined Wonders At His Home in Bobcaygeon.

(Special to The Examiner.)

CHICAGO, Ills., October 30. — Amazing confessions of shady financial deals comparable only to a Miami hurricane, are to "blow the lid off Toronto" in a few days, according to a man behind the bars in a Chicago jail and his lawyer.

The prisoner is John Nelles George Herbert Neville, alias Lord Neville in New York and Chicago and Edward Montague in San Francisco. The lawyer is Andrew Mitchell, counsel for the Sanitary District of Chicago, Professor in the Chicago Law School.

Men and women came to Neville's "inside market information" and his "market busting pools" like flies to sticky paper. Members of the House of Lords listened to his "line of information," and might just as well have taken hashish. They dreamed with him, dined with him, and signed with him. First of all he told them the story of his life. Then he unfolded the tale of 500 per cent. profits. Even hardened financiers and male disillusioned divorcees were toppled. Professors, school teachers, nurses, society queens, hotelkeepers, storekeepers, bankers, manufacturers, scientists wakened up at last and realized that it was the morning after the night before.

Three women, at least, thought they were his wife. Two at any rate were mothers to his children, it is said. To one middle-aged woman in Chicago he hints a proposal. To one beautiful and intelligent young lady here for certain, he actually did propose and was accepted. Out of England, they say, he took $1,500,000, out of Toronto $500,000, out of New York $500,000, out of Detroit $250,000—and all this before he was 27.

Sentenced to Joliet.

Neville had been sentenced to from one to ten years in penitentiary. Harry S. Ditchbourne, assistant State Prosecutor, born a Canadian, with relatives in Toronto, who marshalled the State's case, explained that such a sentence meant six years and three months, counting off time for good behavior in Joliet Penitentiary, the present domicile of Leopold and Loeb.

But Neville is still in the County Jail. He has not gone to Joliet, because his lawyers have applied for a new trial, to be heard next Friday, and should the application be refused his counsel intends to appeal the case.

His alleged woman victims tell amazing stories of their dealings with Neville. One of them, who had been promised marriage, says he outlined to her the wonders of his home at Bobcaygeon. "He said he gave Hon. Mrs. Welsh Lee, his secretary, something like $50,000 a year, and that he would pay her far more than that before he would lose her.

"He showed the family crest on his watch, and said he was descended from a nobleman in England. He said his mother was a French woman. He explained his being so dark by being half French and half English. He changed suits about four times a day. He had large diamond tie pins. He wore all-silk hats and long coats on Sundays, and dressed for the opera and dinner. He hired limousines to take me riding in, and sent gorgeous flowers."

Wanted in Massachusetts.

The police authorities of Springfield and Boston, Mass., are interesting themselves in the present proceedings in Chicago against John Neville.

The Massachusetts authorities believe Neville to be the clever swindler who cut a considerable swath with society women in this section of New England and unloaded several hundred thousand dollars worth of worthless stocks. The Massachusetts officials have been severely handicapped in securing indictments and completing their investigations owing to the unwillingness of the society women to become publicly connected with the case.

GRAIN TRADE REACHES PEAK ON RAILROADS

Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways Carrying Grain To Capacity.

SPECIAL CAR.

C.P.R. Carried 75,000 Daily Last Week, C.N.R. 59 Trains.

Transportation of grain shipments has reached its peak on the local lines and both lines are carrying to capacity. The elevators are full at Midland, Goderich, Port McNichol, and Owen Sound; Montreal at the other finds it difficult to load the boats fast enough. The lake boats are piling the grain up in big elevators at the ports on Georgian Bay and the grain is being conveyed as swiftly as possible over the railroad lines to Montreal and Halifax; but at both points of transhipping there is delay and the grain piles up in spite of titanic efforts of speed.

James Anderson at the C.P.R. in an interview with The Examiner said: "We have eight to ten trains going through Peterborough daily carrying about 60,000 to 75,000 bushels of grain every day." The C.P.R. have one test car called a "Hopper" car that carries 2000 bushels of grain and makes the round trip from Port McNichol to Montreal every four days. Mr. Anderson said that business was good and the local firms the Quaker Oats, the Cereal and the others are getting in large shipments of the Western bumper grain crop.

The C.N.R. showed The Examiner conditions exactly the same as they existed on the ther line. The C.N.R. are rushing the grain over the local lines as fast as the cars can be filled from the great Tiffin elevators at Midland. Last week fifty-nine grain trains passed over the local lines with about forty cars to train and each car carries and average of 1000 bushels of grain. Seven grain trains passed through Sunday.

The big Tiffin elevator at Midland is one of the main links in the tremendous job of carrying the grain to the sea ports. There are two huge elevators, each handling about 30 million bushels of grain each year. A car is loaded in five minutes and there is no shovelling, all the work is done by electricity.

COLLEGIATE NOTES.

To-day there arrived inspectors who are inspecting the vocational section of P.C.I.

The Director of Technical Education for the province, D. A. Campbell, is ill, and unable to be present.

The inspectors present are: Mr. Rutherford, Assistant Director; Mr. Campbell of the Toronto Normal School; Miss Hammill, Inspector of Household Arts Department.

These Inspectors will probably remain for the balance of the week.

Some difficulty was experienced yesterday at P.C.I. with the furnaces, but since the man from Toronto has arrived and adjusted them, everything is in tip-top shape again.

The main cause was that the air was not being properly distributed to the furnaces.

Third Company of Fourth Machine Gun Battalion Hold Annual Dinner.

NOTABLES PRESENT.

Winner of Empire's Most Coveted Decoration, the Victoria Cross, Speaks.

Another triumphant chapter was written into the history of the Third Company, Fourth Canadian Machine Gun Corps last evening—war time days of sacrifice and glorious deeds were recalled in stirring song and address—and that splendid esprit de corps that has held in comradeship so fine, the Peterborough company, gained fresh impetus, when the men of the company, and military men from sister units throughout the district gathered in the Downyflake dining hall on the occasion of the annual company dinner. They did more than that—they honored, in silent toast, their fallen comrades, and in proud address the traditions of the Dominion.

The 1928 dinner gathering was a triumph for those officers and men who planned it, and while it formed a solemn link with the past, it was happy in its quality of sparkling humor and in the optimistic note which it sounded for the future of the corps, the Dominion and the Empire. The company was honored by the presence of such men as Colonel E. E. Snider, V.D., O.C. 9th Infantry Brigade; Colonel W. B. Anderson, C.M.G., D.S.O., D.O.C. of Military District No. 3 Kingston, and a winner of the Victoria Cross in the person of Captain W. L. Rayfield, of the far-famed "Black Devils" of Winnipeg, and now of Pontypool. Representative of other local units were Lieut.-Col. Dalton Johnson, ex-Commanding Officer of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons; Captain H. Mason, Lieutenants E. Sheehy, F. G. Stinson of the same unit; Lieut.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D, Commanding Officer of the Peterborough Rangers; Major M. H. Park, second in command of the Rangers; Lieutenant B. Park, Lieut. Parsons, of the Rangers! Captain Jamieson, Cadet Instructor of Peterborough Collegiate Institute Battalion; and Q.M.S.M. T. Thomas.

A Loyal Turn-out.

The turn-out of the Machine Gun Corps men was a most gratifying one, and with Major H. Dodds, D.C., presiding, the very successful occasion began with invocation by Colonel Snider. Briefly, the program followed was in this order:—

Invocation.
Toast—"The King."
Solo—E. Vernon Morphet.
Toast—"Canada's Soldier Dead," Colonel W. B. Anderson, of Kingston.
Toast—"The British Empire," Lieut. S. M. Ward of the Machine Gun Corps. Response, Lt.-Col. W. Gordon Hall, V.D.
Sketch—E. Vernon Morphet and Jack Primeau.
Toast—"Our Guests." Proposed by C.Q.M.S. A. Nichols of the Corps. Response, Col. E. E. Snider.
Introduction of Capt. Rayfield, V.C., by Lieut. James Turnbull of the C.M.G.C.

TWENTY-SEVEN APPEALS FILED

Court of Revision Meets To-morrow Night in Council Chambers.

8,429 ASSESSED.

With the Court of Revision scheduled to open to-morrow, Wednesday evening, at eight o'clock in the Council Chamber, only twenty-seven appeals against assessment had been filed at the City Clerk's office this morning.

This, according to City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, is a remarkably small number of appeals when it is considered that the total number of assessments was 8,429.

Duke Of Montrose Wants Home Rule

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 29 (Canadian Press Cable). — The Duke of Montrose, Hereditary Sheriff of Dumbartonshire and Lord - Lieutenant of Buteshire since 1920, demanded home rule for Scotland when speaking last night at a National party demonstration here. His Grace referred to the recent election at Glasgow University, which resulted in Premier Stanley Baldwin being elected Lord Rector by a narrow majority over the Nationalist candidate, and expressed the opinion that the Premier would be the last "English politician" to be Lord Rector of the university.

Lunchless Work Day Is New Paris Idea

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Establishment of a continuous seven-hour business day with elimination of luncheon is the latest idea for efficiency and economy.

The plan is the working day shall begin at 10 o'clock in the morning and end at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

All workers would be expected to eat before 10 o'clock enough to last them through the seven solid working hours. Arguments listed in favor of the proposal are:

Economy in heating and lighting through elimination of early morning and late afternoon hours. Relief of congestion in the metropolitan area, as many workers would move their residences into the suburbs. Better work through elimination of the noonday interruption.

HENRY CASE BEFORE COURT

His Honor Judge Huycke Reserves Judgment After Hearing Case.

CLAIMED $1,000

A second action within the period of one year was brought by Russell Henry against his brother, Ernest Henry, which was tried yesterday before His Honor Judge Huycke, at a special sitting of the County Court.

The action was brought for an accounting of the partnership affairs, the plaintiff alleging that the defendant was indebted to the partnership in a sum amounting to approximately $1,000.00, and that the partnership was indebted to him for advances made.

The defendant contended that the issues were disposed of in a trial between the two brothers about a year ago, and that the plaintiff had no right to bring a second action. This was the main argument and defence for the defendant.

After a full day, judgment was reserved.

No witnesses were called on behalf of the defendant. At the trial a year ago, between the same parties, in which Russell Henry was also the plaintiff in an action against his brother, Ernest Henry, judgment was given for the defendant for $1,150.00. An appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of Ontario from this judgment and the judgment was varied, allowing the defendant $168.00 instead of $1,150.00. The plaintiff brought this action, alleging that the defendant Ernest Henry was indebted to the partnership in regard to matters not dealt with at the previous trial.

Graf Will Arrive Home On Thursday

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—Officials of the Zeppelin works, taking account of the gales which the Graf Zeppelin has been fighting, estimated that the ship would not arrive before Thursday morning. At best, they think the air liner might reach Germany by darkness on Wednesday, but would then be forced to cruise throughout the night.

PRIZE WINNERS ARE PRESENTED WITH MEDALS

Numbers Are Well Received By Large Audience in St. Paul's Church.

FINE CHORAL SINGING.

President J. John, of Kiwanis Club, Presides at the Concert.

Possibly never before in the history of this city was a program of music heard like the one offered last night in St. Paul's Church. It was unique in many ways, but the outstanding factor was the diversity of entertainment. To be able to hear a band, with all its full-voiced brasses, two orchestras, with their wood winds and strings; and massed choirs of two and three churches, whose members filled the large choir loft to overflowing, along with a varied assortment of solo numbers, both vocal and instrumental, does not often fall to the lot of the concert-goer, and it is only St. Paul's Church, with its large auditorium, that could accommodate such an assemblage of musicians. The program was a lengthy one, but it was noticeable that applause for the final numbers was just as enthusiastic as for those that formed the initial efforts.

It was the occasion of the grand concert, under auspices of the Kiwanis Club, by the gold medallists and first prize winners at the recent Kiwanis Musical Festival, held in connection with their Produced-in-Canada Fair at the Armories, and it was attended last night by people numbering between seven and eight hundred, forming an appreciative audience in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. Owing to the length of the program and the number of selections offered, it was impossible to include all the prize-winners in the concert, therefore first prize-winners in representative classes were chosen.

Every number was well received and rendered with splendid effect. Possibly the outstanding selections regarded from the point of view of numbers and volume of tone, were the larger events coming toward the end of the program, in the orchestral, band and massed choir renditions. In this section, Trinity Church orchestra and the Symphony Orchestra, both led by R. Gliddon, played some outstanding music, the latter organization giving a particularly pleasing demonstration of skilful playing and rounded, smooth tone. This faculty of smooth, pleasing tone is always a feature of music directed by Mr. Gliddon, and has a wonderfully attractive effect. Another notable effort was that of the Rangers' Band, directed by Lieut. Peryer.

Superb Choral Singing

The choral selections were lovely. St. Paul's Choir sang Sullivan's "O Love the Lord," with the second prize winner, St. Andrew's Choir; while a trio of choirs, composed of St. Paul's, Trinity and George Street Church organizations, sang "Through the Day Thy Love Has Spared Us," and the anthem, "Judge Me, O God," by Mendelssohn, was sung in superb concerted tone by the choirs of St. Paul's and Trinity churches and the Choral Union. These were magnificent demonstrations of ensemble singing. They filled the big edifice with soaring harmony.

Solo numbers were equally effective. A remarkable demonstration of memorizing was given in the playing of the lengthy and difficult test

RECORD PARADE IS EXPECTED

Motorists Asked To Refrain From Parking On George Street After 7.45.

STARTS AT 8 P.M.

Everything is in readiness for the orderly celebration of Hallowe'en to-morrow night. It is expected that not only this city will be represented, but that hundreds from the surrounding district will be visiting the city both in costume and as spectators.

The police department are asking that cars do not go on George street from McDonell to Charlotte, on Murray from George to Aylmer, and on Brock street from George street to Aylmer, so that spectators may see the parade from the street.

If every one behaves as well as during the past two years' celebrations, no damage to property will have been done, and yet everybody will have had a fine time.

OPPOSITION HAVE MAJORITY OF THREE

Six Out of Thirty-seven Constituencies Heard From in Newfoundland Election.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—The opposition party of Sir Richard Squires, former Premier, had a majority of three over the United Newfoundland party, led by Premier P. C. Alderdice, when complete results from 6 out of 37 constituencies were received to-day. Polling in the general election took place yesterday. H. N. Burt, Minister of Posts, was defeated in Port De Grave, and W. J. Walsh, Minister of Agriculture in Harbor Main. Owing to a large number of seats yet to report the result is still uncertain.

STOP STREET BY-LAW IS GIVEN THIRD READING BY COUNCIL

Highway Authorities Endorse the Plan For Campbellford's Stop Streets.

COUNCIL MEETS.

New Signs Are Being Erected and Streets Are Designated.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30.—(Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Stop streets and through streets became a legal institution in Campbellford last night. The council met for a brief session in the clerk's office and the chief item of business was to pass the third reading of the by-law which would make the stop street signs legal. For motorists and drivers of any brand of vehicle to fail to observe these signs from now on, will leave the person found guilty, liable to a penalty for breach of the local traffic regulations.

For many months there has been more or less agitation for and against the institution of stop and through streets. Certain intersections within the town limits have been described as dangerous and during the past season, there have been motor accidents ranging from minor affairs to crashes of more major proportions at various intersections throughout the town. With the arrival of the four miles of paved streets, the council were agreed that something would have to be done to prevent accidents. Electric stop and go lights for the two main intersections were recommended but deemed unsuitable and also inadequate. The lights would not serve any other than the one corner and others were urgently in need of some precautionary measures. Stop streets appeared to be the only logical solution. Several weeks ago twenty nine signs were ordered. These arrived several days ago and the work of erecting them has been in progress for the past three days. Last night the council met and passed the third reading of the by-law as approved by the department of Public Highways, Toronto, and the signs automatically come into force. Each sign is lettered on both sides. On the side leading on to the through street, there is the wording, "Stop. Through Street." On the reverse side, that leading onto the stop street, is the name of the street.

Through Streets

Generally speaking, all streets leading onto paved streets are stop streets. The main through street begins at the town boundary on the Hastings road and continues along Sebastapool street across the bridge along Bridge street to the top of the hill where Centre and Booth Streets intersect Bridge and thence along Centre street to the boundary line on the Stirling Road. All streets including paved streets leading onto this traffic thoroughfare are stop streets.

Motor car drivers who have been about town during the last few days have watched with interest the erection of the signs. There was little trouble where they were concerned. The people from the rural districts and from other towns who were not aware that the signs were being erected were the ones who were found running out on the stop streets without making the usual pause to see that their way was clear. Chief Light spent a busy day on the main corners stopping motorists and drawing their attention to the signs. Most of them were greatly surprised. They, apparently had driven through Campbellford for many years and were accustomed to the old law. Few were angry, simply taking the chief's warning in good part and promising to watch for the signs in future. Chief Light does not anticipate any trouble enforcing the new by-law. He stated this morning that he would be lenient with offenders for a day or two till the drivers had time to become aware that the signs were in force. After that he expressed the opinion that he would strictly enforce the order.

All members of the council were present with the exception of Reeve Bygott, councillors Wilkinson and Stone.

Rockefellers Give $1,000,000 For Religion; Endow Teaching Of It At Chicago University

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—In a ceremony of impressive dignity, the University of Chicago chapel, the gift of John D. Rockefeller, was dedicated on Sunday, "that religion pure and undefiled may dominate all our lives, even as this structure rises above the halls of learning and bestows on them its beauty and its strength."

That the spirit of religion may grow and flourish among the students of the university, an endowment fund of $1,000,000 has been established by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Foundation.

Announcement of the endowment was made by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., president of the foundation commemorating his mother, during the service, at which he represented his father.

In keeping with the destiny of the chapel, which is to serve not one sect alone, but all who wish to come, the ideal of religious tolerance was expressed again and again throughout the service. On this theme Mr. Rockefeller said:

"If Christ were on earth to-day I think there would be but one religion, and the basis of that religion would be love for God."

His address embodied implicit confidence in the perpetuity of the spirit of religion, a warning of the dangers of skepticism, hope for tolerance in religion, and closed with a tribute to his parents.

There are those who tell us that religion is dying out," he said, "that there is no place for it in this modern world. While this may be true of some forms of thought and practice that have been called religious, nothing could be further from the truth if one is thinking of the religion of Jesus Christ."

LADIES HOLD QUILTING BEE

Three Quilts Are Made For Citizens Who Lost Their Home.

COURT OF REVISION.

(Examiner Correspondence).

APSLEY, October 30. — About twenty-five ladies attended a quilting bee at the home of Mrs. W. Lean on Wednesday, for the benefit of Mr. and Mrs. W. Earnshaw, who had the misfortune to lose their house and contents by fire about a month ago. The women brought the materials for the work with them, and as a result of their industry, three quilts will be presented to Mrs. Earnshaw. The event was sponsored by the Ladies' Committee of the Red Cross Branch here. The workers, with their gentlemen friends, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Lean to a most enjoyable dance in the evening. John Coones supplied the music.

Personals.

His Honor Judge Huycke was in Apsley on Thursday holding a Court of Revision. A number of appeals were heard and disposed of.

Mrs. Dean moved into her new residence, which has just been completed, on Friday. Mrs. Esau Tucker, a former resident of this township, but who has for the past few years made her home in Lindsay, has purchased Mrs. Dean's former home and will take possession at once.

A number of men are engaged on Mr. Wagner's rat farm, erecting wire fencing, etc. The owner's house is almost completed.

Mr. William Earnshaw is making rapid progress on his new house, which is being built on the site of the one which was burned down a few weeks ago. He expects to complete it within a few days.

Mr. Frank Tanher was in Toronto this week attending a medical board for examination, with a view to claiming a pension for wounds received in France.

Miss Hamilton, who is in charge of the Ontario Branch of the field nursing department of the Canadian Red Cross Society, is spending a few days at the Red Cross Hospital.

The annual masquerade party, which is the event of the year for Apsley, is being held in the Parish Hall, on Friday, November 2. It is expected that there will be a crowd from Lakefield and Peterborough, and everyone is assured of a good time. The grand parade for judging the costumes will be held at 10 p.m.

Madoc

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Oct. 30.—Mrs. W. F. Hart, formerly Edith Harris, of Elgin street received for the first time since her marriage on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Hart, Miss Lilian Hart and Mrs. Wareham Harris assisted her. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers. Mrs. F. Jenkins and Mrs. Galvin Wallbridge presided in the tea room, assisted by Mrs. C. Moon and Mrs. J. B. Hough.

Mr. Gordon Munroe has purchased the house and lot at the corner of Livingston avenue and Durham street, formerly owned by Mrs. L. Cross of Belleville. Mr. Munroe is at present busily engaged in removing trees and lilac bushes and levelling the front of the lots in preparation for extensive improvements. A service station will be erected here shortly.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30 (Staff Correspondence).—Mrs. Glenn A. Wood of Syracuse, N.Y., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Atkinson, Rear Street.

About fifteen members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young People's Society motored to Port Hope on Saturday afternoon, where they attended a convention during the afternoon and remained for the banquet, which was served at six o'clock.

KIWANIS CLUB VISITS CAVAN LADIES SERVE FOWL SUPPER

Basement of Hall is Decorated With Orange and Black Streamers.

INTERESTING PROGRAM.

President of Institute Is Thanked For Excellent Meal Served To Members.

(Examiner Correspondence)

CAVAN, Oct. 30.—Members of the Peterborough Kiwanis Club and their wives spent a pleasant social evening last Friday, when the Cavan Women's Institute catered at a banquet held in the Cavan Community Hall.

The basement of the hall, where the banquet was served, was decorated with orange and black streamers, witches, black cats and other decorations appropriate to the Hallowe'en season. The windows were decorated with orange and black streamers and the table decorations were also carried out in this color scheme. Pumpkin jardiniers held bouquets of marigolds. Fruit dishes filled with apples and grapes added to the attractiveness of the supper tables. Full justice was done to the menu and a merry time was spent over the banquet.

Mrs. J. W. Perrin and Mrs. David White were in charge of one table and Miss B. Touchburn and Mrs. Edgar Fallis were in charge of the other one, while a bevy of girls were waiters. The waiters and ladies in charge wore yellow and black caps and aprons blending with the decoration scheme of the tables and room.

Interesting Program.

After the banquet the Kiwanians and their wives went to the auditorium while the table were again spread for the members of the Institute and their families.. J. John, president of the Club, made a genial and efficient chairman. G. F. Liddle presided at the piano and led in community singing of old time songs which were thoroughly enjoyed. After the singing, Mr. John invited the Rev. F Carpenter and J. A. McKone to take their places on the platform. The Kiwanis Band gave a number of musical selections. The following is the program:

Mr. V. Hunter and his sister, Miss E. Hunter sang a duet entitled, "Tis Love That Makes the World Go Round."

Solo—"When Young Men go Courting", Mrs. G. Liddle.

Banjo solo, Mr. Clarke.

Mouth Organ Solo, Mr. S. Dobson, who also did some marvellous stunts with this instrument.

Solo, Mr. Richard Matchett. This solo was noted for its brevity.

Recitation, Mr. John.

Solo, Mr. E. V. Morphet.

"Reminiscences of Boyhood Days on the Farm", Mr. Arthur Reddit.

Duet, Mrs. A. Kenendy and Miss Hunter.

Thanks President.

Joseph Wearing was given three minutes in which to make an address. He made an excellent short pithy speech, commencing by asking the president of the Institute, Mrs. R. M. Howden, to come forward, that he might, on behalf of the Kiwanis Club, tender thanks to the president and members of the Institute, for making it possible for them to have such a pleasant evening. Mr. Wearing pointed out that such evenings as these tended to bring the city and country people together and helped them to gain a better undersanding of the problems confronting both. Life's problems for city and country people are much the same, so that they must pull together to make a greater and better Canada.

Mrs. Howden thanked the Kiwanians and expressed the pleasure of the Institute in entertaining them. Rev. F. Carpenter also expressed appreciation of the work being done by the Kiwanis Club for underprivileged children. He added a word of praise for the good supper served and on behalf of the people of Cavan and the Women's Institute, expressed appreciation for the splendid program and good supper.

After the program, music for dancing was provided by Jack Marshall.

COMMITTEE STILL ACTIVE

Citizens' Body Causes Trouble With Natives in Samoa.

PASSIVE RESISTANCE.

LONDON, England, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press Cable).—The League of Nations mandates' commission, yesterday commenced examination of the New Zealand Government's report on the administration of Western Samoa, for the year ending March 3, 1928. Sir James Parr, High Commissioner for New Zealand in London, was present and was assisted by Major-General Sir George Richardson, retired Administrator of British Samoa. Sir George, in reply to questions, explained that the so-called citizens' committee still existed secretly and was in touch with C. P. Nelson, one of the several European agitators recently deported from Samoa. This committee, he said, still contributed to the disaffection of the natives by spreading false news. Sir James Parr stated that the situation had improved during the first six months of his term. Order was maintained and the courts were being obeyed, but the administration had to deal with a kind of passive resistance in the form of refusal to pay taxes, he said. He added that the mandatory power was going the limits of its patience, before resorting to stronger measures.

CATTLE SALE BIG SUCCESS

Cows Bring $95 and Sheep $18 at Gayton Kimble's Sale.

CROPS OUT.

KING'S WHARF, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—Gayton Kimble held a very large and successful sale of cattle and sheep at the Fair Grounds, Bobcaygeon, last Thursday. There were about 150 head of cattle and 70 sheep. The two-year-olds sold from $75 to $85; 18-months'-old cattle sold from $40 to $50, and calves at $30 each. A few cows sold at $90 and $95. Lambs sold at $10 each and sheep at from $15 to $18 each. There was a very large crowd present from distant points, and buying was brisk. George and Ted Jackson of Port Perry were the auctioneers.

Roads Bad

The roads around here are in very bad condition. There are several water cuts through the road, and in places the holes are two feet deep which make the roads very dangerous for travelling. Flynn's swamp is flooded, as in the Spring, and water outs across the road.

A few fields of buckwheat had to be left as it was so wet it could not be cut.

Potatoes in general are a poor crop. Those grown in clay ground seem to have a great many rotten ones among them, but those grown in sand ground are a splendid crop. Other vegetables seem to be a poor crop, and if the wet weather continues, people will not be able to get their turnips out.

Scarcely any plowing has been done because the ground is so wet. Water is lying on the fields just as it does early in Spring.

Personals

SIGNS AND POLES MAR CITY STREETS

Architect Says Toronto is Vulgarized By Ugly Street Features.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—Contrasting Toronto with London and Paris, John M. Lyle, local architect, who, recently returned from a trip to Europe, told the Retail Merchants' Section of the Toronto Board of Trade that this city is not up to metropolitan standards and is "vulgarized" by its "forest" of poles, transformer boxes and projecting signs in the streets. These things give Toronto a "country-town" appearance, Mr. Lyle said. He emphasized the importance of business buildings being attractive outside as well as inside. While the merchants of this city understand the value of advertising and know how to have their windows dressed attractively they do not seem to realize that it is just as important to have good looking buildings situated in a good shopping area, Mr. Lyle said.

TRUCK DRIVER FOUND GUILTY

Jury Returns a Verdict of Manslaughter in Alvin Dick Case.

BRAKES POOR

SANDWICH, Ont., Oct. 30 (Sanadian Press).—Alvin Dick, Windsor truck driver, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury at the assizes here in connection with the death of Joseph Jackson, Cottam farmer, who was fatally injured July 5, on the Provincial highway near Cottam, when a five-ton truck driven by Dick ran from behind into a string of vehicles drawn by a tractor which Jackson was walking beside.

According to traffic police evidence the brakes on Dick's truck were in poor condition, at 25 miles an hour requiring 93 feet before stopping with the service brake, and 69 feet with both service and emergency brakes full on.

Sentence is to be pronounced later at the assizes. Jackson is survived by a family.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Barker of Picton, spent Friday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Baker.

STUDENTS GATHER IN ASSEMBLY HALL

Collegiate Orchestra Was Heard For Firs tTime Yesterday Morning.

Now that all the students of the PeterboroughCollegiate Institute can assemble together in the morning for the opening exercises in the new Assembly Hall, a closer feeling among the student body and a better school spirit is developing.

Monday for the first time the school orchestra played the music for the songs. The three captains of the rugby teams weer called to the platform to tell their version of the game in which their team played. All these things are combining to give P.C.I. a bigger pride in their school, and a stronger school spirit.

The projection machine used to cast the songs on the screen is in readiness and the screen itself is already in position and very soon the students will be able to sing the songs from the screen.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, October 30. — Pressure is high over the greater part of the continent, and the weather has been fair and cold from Saskatchewan to the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Showers have occurred in some sections of the Maritime Provinces.

THE WEATHER

There was a decided sharpness in the air this morning, reminiscent of winter. The temperature was down to 15 degrees, much the lowest to date. No one knows when winter will come in earnest; as an average date, there is usually a general "freeze-up" about November 15. Then comes a month of broken weather. About December 15, winter may be said to be due. Much depends on whether our fall rains are late. It is claimed that winter never comes until the swamps are full. They are full (and more than full) at the present time. The stage is already set. Wild geese and other birds, that have spent the season in the far north, are journeying southward, at an earlier date than usual. Everything foreshadows an early winter. Will it come? The future will tell.—W. P.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bateson, and two children, Bobby and Margaret, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Raper, for the week end.

Miss Margaret George, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. George, Anne street, has gone to visit her sister, Mrs. J. Brenton, Port Hope, for a few days before returning to her home at Greeley, Colorado.

John Deyell, who is at present living in Mrs. Lowery's house on Main street, has purchased a house on Bank street, east of David Hall's, and intends moving into his new home in the near future.

The Womens' League of Grace Presbyterian church, is giving its annual fowl supper in the Armories on Tuesday, October 30, beginning at 5.30 p.m. and continuing until all are served. A play, "Kentucky Belle," by the Morrish Dramatic Club, will be presented in the Town Hall at 8 p.m., and promises a fine entertainment as a climax to the supper.

Mr. and Mrs. Mumford have moved to the house on King street owned and recently vacated by H. Russell; they have been residing on Centre street, next J. Abbott's home.

Mrs. Walter Wright, and baby girl, of Peterborough, are visiting her parents, Councillor T. J. and Mrs. Lang.

Mrs. Charles McNeil, the retiring treasurer of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of Saint Thomas church, had a surprise visit at her home last week from the officers of this organization, when they presented her with a beautifully bound prayer book as a token of their esteem, before their departure from the village for the winter months, and possibly for a longer period of time.

The address, which was read by the secretary, Mrs. E. Whyte, made particular reference to the very efficient service Mrs. McNeil had rendered as treasurer of the W. A., and expressed sincere regret because of her resignation from the ofice, and of her removal from the community. Miss Annie Armstrong presented the gift, and the recipient, though taken decidedly by surprise, replied suitably. Mrs. J. A. Vance has been elected to fill Mrs. McNeil's position in the missionary organization.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERT JOINS ADVERTISING SERVICE COMPANY

Hon. Duncan Marshall Will Direct Agricultural Markets Advertising.

DISTINGUISHED RECORD.

Has Been School Teacher, Publisher, Live Stock Breeder and Cabinet Minister.

HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

It is a significant and happy indication of the great progress Canada is making when an advertising agency seeks out a noted agriculturist, with years of experience in every phase of farm life throughout the Dominion, to direct its endeavor to better understand and to co-operate with the important and ever-growing business of farming.

Recently, the Hon. Duncan Marshall, after rejecting numerous opportunities offered in the United States, joined the Advertising Service Company Limited as director of its agricultural markets advertising department.

Commencing life on the farm in Bruce County, Ontario, Duncan Marshall later taught school for four years; graduating into journalism and stepping from that into public life. He has served agriculture with outstanding distinction. Blessed with a marvellous physique and boundless energy, he has crowded into comparatively few years perhaps the greatest individual contribution for the betterment of life on the farm.

Duncan Marshall's journalistic career commenced in Ontario and concluded in Alberta. Five years after arriving in Western Canada to take over the management of The Edmonton Bulletin, and while still a younger man than many just commencing their careers, he entered public life and shortly afterwards the Government of Alberta as Minister of Agriculture, which portfolio he occupied for twelve years.

In that position he gained nation-wide recognition because of the helpful farm legislation which he sponsored. The system of Agriculture schools of Alberta in his regime soon became recognized as the model system on the Continent, and under his direction the cream and butter production of that province took the leadership among all provinces in quality.

In livestock breeding, Mr. Marshall was highly successful. On his farm at Olds were bred some of the finest shorthorns ever produced in Canada. As an exhibitor he was also successful. Matchless Dale, an outstanding shorthorn breeding bull, was one of his notable prize winners.

In 1922, as Commissioner of Agriculture for the Dominion, Mr. Marshall carried the burden of the Cattle Embargo discussion with the British Government. These he concluded to the satisfaction and profit of live-stock breeders in Canada by having this embargo removed. Due largely to Mr. Marshall's efforts, livestock breeders now enjoy the exclusive privilege of shipping cattle on the hoof for finishing into Britain. No one with less knowledge of the livestock industry in Canada, or with less ability, courage or determination, could have accomplished such an undertaking in the dying hours of the Lloyd George government.

The Hon. Duncan Marshall enjoys a most enviable reputation as a public speaker and lecturer on agricultural subjects, and an address of his upon Scotland and Scottish institutions is regarded as a masterpiece. He has remarkable powers of description and can quote Burns and Scott with amazing fluency.

A big success in the advertising business is predicted for Mr. Marshall, for he takes to his new work a splendid journalistic experience, an intensive knowledge of agriculture and a thorough understanding of Canadian conditions and Canadian people. Advertising Service Company Limited are to be congratulated upon securing the services of so able a man to direct their farm market advertising.

POLICE OFFICER DIES.

Inspector William Wallace of the Toronto police force, and one of the best known police officials on the continent, who passed away in his sleep on Thursday. He was an outstanding criminologist and served on the executives of many national police associations. During the war he served with the federal government investigating alien cases. In his experiences of 38 years in harness he encountered many famous criminals. One time in a fight with a bad gang he had his jaw broken.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 12, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hopes, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's food." —ARTHUR SKILES.

(Address on request.)

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario.

WINNIPEG BIG RAW FUR MARKET

Primary Market in the Dominion of Late Years.

WINNIPEG, Man. Oct. 30.—(By the Canadian Press)—Independent trading in raw fur in Winnipeg dates from 1870, the year the Dominion Government took over from Hudson's Bay Company the administration of law and order in the great northwest territories, also the year of the first railway in Winnipeg, according to the Manitoba Free Press. The Free Press quotes a local fur dealer as saying that this city has been the main primary raw fur market in Canada during the past 11 years.

The fur-trading activity of the northwest was practically controlled by the Hudson's Bay Company prior to 1870, the company having eliminated competition, to a large extent earlier in the century. Until that year a large part of the company's duties lay in the administration of law and order, as stated. With the advent of the railway traders and fur buyers from Eastern Canada and the United States began to find their way into this section of the Dominion, with the result that instead of the fur trading being confined almost exclusively to the Hudson's Bay Company, as had been the case, independent trading began and developed greatly in the course of time.

"Shipments of raw fur are attracted to this market from traders and trappers throughout the northwest, from the international boundary to the Arctic circle and beyond," says the Free Press. "Buyers from the great centres of this continent and Europe attend the Winnipeg auction of raw furs regularly and take up large quantities of northern skins for their principals in New York, Montreal, Chicago London and Paris. Climatic conditions in Canada also result in a large domestic consumption of fur. Manufacturing and retail furriers dyers and dressers are all kept busy catering to the needs of the Canadian public. There is also a considerable export business in manufactured goods to which the evergrowing tourist traffic is contributing."

REPAIR ROAD.

Work Is Under Way Fixing the Road Around Second Island Bridge.

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence). — Interested cottagers will be pleased to know that the work of repairing the road, both sides of the little bridge leading to the second road is under way; John Gearneau having the contract. This road has been in a terrible condition for a long time and at times impossible for cars to pass through. Cottagers owning garages on the island have had to leave their cars on the east side and wade through the mudholes. Quantities of stone are being drawn to fill in for a foundation, then gravel will be drawn to finish the road. Those who have been approached concerning this work are eager to see the road made passable.

A RECORD VOTE EXPECTED.

If the registration figures are to be taken as any criterion, the vote polled in the United States presidential election on November 6 will assume record proportions.

Registration has been completed, and it has been discovered that the number of men and women who have declared their intention of voting is greater by some fourteen million than the total registered four years ago.

Altogether 43,000,000 voters have registered and are eligible to cast a ballot, and if the percentages of other elections are maintained, some 35,000,000 will exercise their right as voters.

As a usual thing about a fifth of those who have taken the trouble to register do not use their ballots after all, and a surprisingly large number of potential electors do not even signify their intention of voting.

The vote, however, will be very large, indicating a very unusual interest in the contest and adding somewhat to the difficult of making an accurate and reliable forecast of the probable results.

NO CROWDING HERE.

The annual report of the Peterborough County Jail, just made public, shows that while some districts in Ontario may have found the jail accommodation insufficient, this condition certainly did not apply to Peterborough.

The report shows that the largest number of prisoners in the local jail at any one time during the year was 16, while on occasions there was but one prisoner confined in the institution.

These figures are reassuring and justify the statement that the people of this district are on the whole well-behaved and law-abiding to a degree that is not reached in some other parts of the Province, if the stories of crowded jails can be accepted as true.

Altogether 104 men and 7 women served terms of imprisonment in the local jail during the year—a low number in comparison with the totals recorded by many other county jails in Ontario—and many of these were confined as vagrants.

THE PRIZE WINNERS.

The bringing together of all the prize winners in the musical competition of the Kiwanis Produced-in-Canada Exhibition was a very happy idea, and last night's most successful concert will prove a splendid stimulus to the city's musical development.

The fact that all the winners were given an opportunity to take part in the program helped to emphasize the impression created by the competitions themselves, that Peterborough possesses an unusual amount of musical talent and the teachers necessary to develop that talent.

A community that can display at one function such an outstanding list of artists is to be congratulated, particularly as the impetus that has been given to musical education by local successes at the Canadian National Exhibition and by the Produced-in-Canada competitions can be counted upon to further increase the interest in music and to inspire in young people a desire to study and improve.

Last night's program was a credit to the artists taking part and to the city as a whole.

EVERYBODY'S PARTY.

In connection with The Examiner's Hallowe'en party parade it may be well to draw attention once more to the fact that the police department is requesting automobile owners to refrain from parking their cars along the route of the parade, and also to leave the intersections open for emergency traffic.

Co-operation in this respect will greatly facilitate the holding of the parade and make conditions more pleasant for everybody, and The Examiner is confident that the courtesy of Peterborough's car owners can be depended upon.

It should be remembered also that when the parade is over there will be music for dancing in the Armouries, and it is hoped that the occasion will be as enjoyable and the crowd as well-behaved and orderly as was the case in other years on Hallowe'en.

It is everybody's party, and The Examiner hopes that citizens generally will participate both in the parade and in the dance that will follow.

We believe that such a jollification not only does away with the mischief and damage formerly associated with Hallowe'en, but it serves another important purpose of developing a neighborly community spirit that is in itself worth while seeking.

FUN AND MISCHIEF.

(An Editorial for Young People)

Next Wednesday is Hallowe'en, and already preparations are being made to celebrate the event. It is an evening of fun and merrymaking, when young people set out to enjoy themselves in their own way, and when older folk look leniently on their antics. No one would want to be a wet blanket and prevent their games and parades and comic disguises. A "good time" is necessary now and again, and so long as revelers behave themselves and respect the rights of others, there can be no objection to the jollifications. Unfortunately, they do not always do this, and the consequence is that when Hallowe'en comes round, one reads in the papers of measures being taken to prevent annoyance and damage caused by those unthinking youths who consider it to be funny to destroy property and make a nuisance of themselves generally. It is easy to enjoy oneself without getting into mischief, though mischief is often mistaken for fun. As a matter of fact, mischief is seldom funny; it is usually as silly as it is wrong. Horseplay is not humor.

The fault with young people who make themselves objectionable on Hallowe'en is that they abuse the indulgence accorded them. The old saying, "Give him an inch and he takes a mile," illustrates the kind of mind which prompts such inconsiderate actions. It is pure selfishness. Nothing else matters, so long as one has a "lark." But thee "lark." But the larks are dangero lead to very regrettable results, and they are generally hard to justify. So let this Hallowe'en be free from incidents which will spoil its memory afterwards. Let the sprees be innocent ones; they need be none the less amusing for that. Think of others, and do not mistake the good nature which prevails on Hallowe'en night for license to do what one likes, without regard to other people. It is good to have fun, but no self-respecting fun-maker derives pleasure from bringing discomfort to others. Make it a merry, but a sane Hallowe'en.—Hamilton Spectator.

U. S. ISSUES.

If the people of the State of New York are as bitterly opposed to the St. Lawrence waterways scheme as they are reported to be, it is difficult to see how they can do anything else but reject Mr. Hoover's appeal for election to the presidency of the United States.

Mr. Hoover is out and out for the St. Lawrence scheme. Governor Smith, on the other hand, was a strong opponent of the idea until he accepted the Democratic nomination for the presidency. The larger responsibility has caused him to announce that he is prepared to "restudy" the St. Lawrence plan from a national, rather than a State, standpoint. However, friends of the St. Lawrence know that Mr. Hoover was strongly in favor of this development long before he became a candidate for the White House, and of Mr. Smith's attitude, at the best, they must be doubtful.

* * * *

Speaking in the Republican interest at Kansas City, Mr. Dwight F. Davis, Secretary of War in the Coolidge administration, seems to have confined his address largely to an appeal to the Middle West to support Mr. Hoover because of the latter's advocacy of the St. Lawrence project. No one in the United States, Mr. Davis declared, knows more about waterways, has a better understanding or is an abler champion of the development than the Republican candidate. "Every advocate of waterways," the Secretary added, "owes a debt of gratitude to Herbert Hoover. Governor Smith has bitterly opposed the St. Lawrence waterways. As early as 1920 he wrote of the 'impracticability and absurdity of the plan, which I am confident will ultimately be defeated.' Do the people of Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Montana and Minnesota want to trust this development to a man who has consistently and bitterly opposed it until he became a presidential candidate, whose State has a selfish interest in fighting it, and who called it impracticable and absurd? If so, let them vote for Governor Smith. If they realise their own best interests they will have to trust it to one who has always favored it strongly, who has consistently championed it, who has earnestly fought its battles, and that man is Herbert Hoover."

There is no getting away from the logic of this argument. Mr. Hoover is for the St. Lawrence plan now and he was for it before he accepted his present responsibilities. Governor Smith has yet to announce that he is in favor of the St. Lawrence and certainly he was against it before he took the Democratic nomination for President. That is the situation. At the same time, as we have pointed out, Mr. Davis' argument is an excellent reason why New York, with its 45 electoral votes, should go for Mr. Smith, assuming that the Secretary of War is correct in arguing that New York has good reasons for opposing the St. Lawrence plan. In other words, New York, if it hopes to defeat the St. Lawrence, has a better chance of accomplishing that end under President Smith than it would have under President Hoover.

* * * *

Purely from a vote-getting standpoint, of course, it would be better for Mr. Smith to win New York than to carry the polls in several Western States that, altogether, have less representation in the electoral college than the commonwealth of which he is Governor. At the same time, one cannot lose sight of the fact that if Mr. Smith is unacceptable to the Middle West on the St. Lawrence waterways issue—and certainly it is difficult to see how he can be otherwise—there are things in the Smith platform that commend him to the suffrages of the people of that area of the United States. He has, for instance, indicated his attachment to the principle of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill which was vetoed by President Coolidge after it had been passed by Congress. Whatever one may think of the general principle of farm relief, the fact remains that the McNary-Haugen measure is popular in the West, that a Republican administration has knocked it out, and that the present standard-bearer of the Republican party announces his support of Coolidge policies and assures the country that he intends to carry along in the Coolidge way. This means, of course, that under President Hoover the McNary-Haugen idea would get no farther than it got under Mr. Coolidge. Against this, the country is offered a Democratic candidate, who accepts at least the principle contained in the ill-fated measure.

There is still another point that Mr. Smith has to offer, and that is his advocacy of public control of waterpowers. To this Mr. Hoover is flatly opposed. He believes in private ownership and sets the Smith idea down as "socialism." On the same basis of course, the Ontario Hydro movement is socialism, yet the fact remains that it came into being under a Conservative administration and has enjoyed the almost undivided support of three major political parties. Mr. Smith is advocating that the United States adopt, with respect to its waterpowers, the very attitude adopted by Ontario in respect of Hydro. Yet Mr. Hoover labels this plan "socialism" and tries to dismiss it in this way. In his Boston reply to the Republican nominee Governor Smith made the effective argument that the cry of "socialism" was a stock affair with the American power trust whenever it saw anyone attempting to encroach on its preserves.

The whole situation is extremely interesting and perhaps the liveliest point of all is the Governor's home State. If New York is solidly against the St. Lawrence scheme, Mr. Smith's vague attitude of the present and his hostile attitude of the past should help him there. If, on the other hand, his unsatisfactory position in the St. Lawrence matter is dangerous in the Middle West, which wants the St. Lawrence developed in order to save money on its wheat shipments, this may be counter-balanced by the greater popularity of the Governor's appeal in the way of farm relief and public ownership of power.—Border Cities Star.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Oct. 30. — Outside buyers are picking up cattle at steady values. Their operations are giving a good tone to the early market. Packers have still to make their buy. A slackening of the market is evident after purchasers of small lots have filled their requirements.

Some morning sales of choice butcher steers made at $9.75 and heifers at $9.00 to $9.50. Heavy steers are slow. Most of the run is of poor quality.

Stocker and feeders are in demand. Some good stocker steers were bought at $9 to $9.75 billed through.

Baby beeves are selling steady at last week's levels. One real choice brought $14. Most of sales are at $11 to $13.

Few weighings of cows have as yet been made. Choice cows are $7.50 to $8. Canners are $4.

Choice butcher's bulls are $7.50 to $8. Heavy bulls are $7 to $7.50. Trading so far has been slow.

A Thought

LAUGH AND LIVE LONG.

Thackeray truly remarked that the world is for each of us much as we show now ourselves to the world. If we face it with a cheery acceptance we find the world fairly full of cheerful people glad to see us. If we snarl at it and abuse it, we may be sure of abuse in return.

The discontented worries of a morose person may very likely shorten his days, and the general justice of nature's arrangement provides that his early departure should entail no long regrets.

On the other hand, a man who can laugh keeps his health, and his friends are glad to keep him. To the perfectly healthly laughter comes often. Too commonly, though, as childhood is left behind the habit falls and a half-mile is the best that visits the thought-lined mouth of the modern man or woman.

People become more and more burdened with the accumulation of knowledge, and with the weighing responsibilities of life, but they should still spare time to laugh. Let them never forget, "that a smile sits ever serene upon the face of wisdom."

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press).—The export trade in grain here today was very quiet on account of the fact that English importers did not respond to the higher prices asked by local exporters.

A feature of the local cash grain trade was the demand for American corn and sales of two cargoes of about 100,000 bushels of No. 3 yellow were made at 19c per bushel over the Chicago December option, C.I.F. Montreal, and several cars of cool swept sample corn at 12c per bushel over the same option. There was also af air demand from country buyers for car lots and on the whole the market was moderately active.

Owing to the strength that developed in the Winnipeg cash wheat situation a stronger feeling prevailed in the local spring wheat flour market and values were marked up ten cents per barrel. The demand was fair. Prices for winter wheat grades were unchanged.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were firmly maintained under a good demand. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was fair and prices were steady.

An advance of two cents per dozen in the price of fresh firsts was the feature of the egg trade which continued active. Receipts were 217 cases.

Imported beans again sold at $4.75 per bushel for choice white hand-picked grades.

There was no actual change in prices for butter today, but the undertone to the market was strong owing to the small supplies coming forward and the good demand. Receipts were 81 packages.

Cheese prices were again declined fractionally which was attributed to the lower values ruling in the country. A moderate trade was done with local dealers. Receipts were 3,414 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—(Associated Press).—Rains in Argentina gave a black eye yesterday to the bull side of the wheat market. Despite temporary fresh advances based more or less on persisting fears of drought damage to the Argentina crop, Chicago wheat values developed a general downward trend, increased by 3,471,000 bushels enlargement of the United States wheat visible supply, making the total the highest ever known.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, ⅝c to 1¼c net lower, with corn unchanged to ½c up, oats unchanged to ¼c off, and provisions varying from 12c decline to a rise of five cents.

From the outset yesterday friends of higher prices for wheat were handicapped by the fact that the Liverpool wheat market was showing evident reluctance to follow the sharp upturn which values had scored Saturday on this side of the Atlantic. Supplementing the bearish effect here of comparative weakness at Liverpool was talk on the part of various trade leaders that selling on rallies would be preferable to new buying after seven cents advance. Meanwhile, emphatic denials of drought damage in Argentina were being circulated and advices at hand said there had been general rains over Argentine wheat territory.

Lowest prices of the day in the wheat pit came after announcement of domestic visible supply figures showing that United States stocks of wheat in sight are now at the huge total of 133,224,000 bushels, against 86,290,000 bushels a year ago. Besides, favorable crop comments from Australia continued, the amount of wheat on ocean passage was larger, and export demand remained slack for wheat from North America. On the other hand, price declined yesterday were in the face of a detailed statement from the United States department of agriculture indicating that because of frosted kernels 25,000 to 30,000,000 bushels of wheat in the Canadian prairie provinces might grade as only fit for feed, and that between 130,000,000 and 140,000,000 bushels is likely to prove no better than no. five or no. 6.

Predictions of rain or snow over most of the corn belt gave firmness to prices for corn future deliveries, notwithstanding two cents to four cents drop in the cash corn trading basis. Arrivals of corn in Chicago today were larger, 399 cars. Export sales of corn today were estimated at 100,000 bushels. Oats sympathized with the action of corn futures.

In the main, provisions were firmer, responsive to higher quotations on hogs.

BUTTER AND EGGS.

TORONTO, October 30. — The measure of business in the local outter market yesterday revealed some improvement over last week's quiet trend and jobbers for fresh supplies and a brighter market outlook for the balance of the current session. Although spot market conditions moved at a quicker pace, there was no quotable change in prices, which at the opening were steady with the previous week's close at 39c to 39½c per pound, for finest creamery solids.

Dealers in cheese reported that it was hard to get buyers for new cheese, and consequently this division of the produce market shows very little change from a week ago. The movement was dull all day and the quotable range on spot was unchanged from Saturday at 21½c to 22c per pound for No. 1 large, colored, paraffined and Government-graded. Sales at country cheese boards were made at prices which show a reduction from previous sales, but owing to the continued limited demand from all sources, the easier feeling outside has had little effect in the local situation.

An active trade was done in all grades of fresh and storage eggs and values of strictly fresh were well maintained at late advances. Withdrawal figures in United States markets for storage eggs this season are still causing disappointment.

In Munich, Germany, a policeman who sees a pedestrian throw paper or fruit-skin on the pavement fines him a set amount on the spot—and gives him a receipt for it.

VALUABLE ORIENTAL WARE

Above are photographs of some of the valuable pieces from the collection of the late Dr. Fan Hoo Koo, which are soon to go under the auctioneer's hammer in Toronto. TERMINAL CITY UNDER CONSTRUCTION

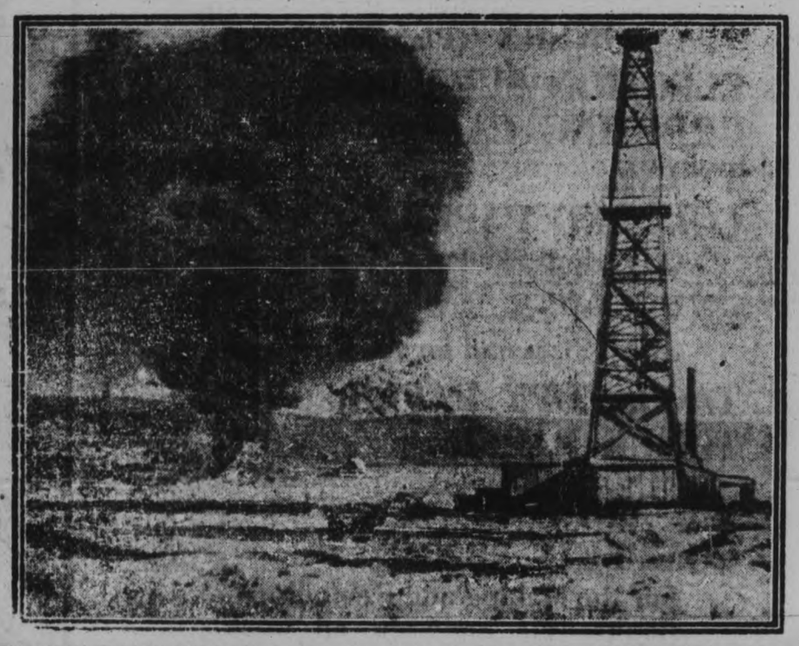
Government engineers have started to lay the foundations of Canada's most northerly city, Fort Churchill. A tented town has already arisen—and temporary buildings have been erected where the Churchill river runs into Hudson Bay. Here are some pictures of the development of Fort Churchill, Canada's outlet in Hudson Bay. The layout is set out on a map background, which indicates the route by water from Montreal to Fort Churchill. No. 1 is the tented town of Fort Churchill. No. 2 depicts moving material by sea from Port Nelson, with a lighter at Churchill harbor; No. 3 is the loaned Irish Free State ocean-going tug, Dainty, starting her long voyage to Hudson Bay; No. 4 the iron huskies of the north, two caterpillar tractor trucks hauling a steam shovel.

AN OIL WELL COMES IN



This picture of Royalite No. 8 was taken just as the well blew in. In the Turney Valley field of Alberta the oil men declare that a well that "comes in black" will be a good one and their adage certainly has held in this case for when the spouting fountain of black gold was capped and measured it showed 17,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day, yielding about 200 barrels of high-grade naptha daily. That was last spring. In August, No. 8 produced 7,809 barrels of crude naptha, averaging 252 barrels a day, thus ranking second among Imperial Oil's Alberta producers, its record being exceeded only by that of Royalite No. 7 with a total of 489 barrels a day.

The English girls believe their Canadian sisters are inclined to use of rouge and lipstick to an extent greater than these beauty helps are used in England and they credit their own fresh complexions to outdoor living. The girls have formed a favorable opinion of the Canadian young man. They deplored the fact that those in charge of their itinerary had not seen fit to give them the opportunity of acquiring more first hand knowledge. "The Canadian boy," one of them said, "is quite different from ours. He is more forward in his attentions."

NEW METHODS OF EXPLORATION

Where Roald Amundsen and Capt. Robert Falcon Scott battled their way to the south pole with the aid of dog team and pony, Com. Richard Byrd and Sir Hubert Wilkins will rely upon aeroplanes to help them tear from the Antarctic its secrets. The American is already committed to an air flight to the pole. The Britisher has not yet mentiond the pole in his published plans but it is not impossible that a friendly race may develop for the honor of being the first to reach that point by air. The map gives a perspective view of the bottom of the world. Byrd's four supply boats are now on the Pacific ocean on their way from the United States to Dunedin, New Zealand. Wilkins is approaching the Antarctic from the opposite side of the world. His present plans then call for a 2,000-mile non-stop trip by plane along the unexplored coast line of Antartica, with his objective on the Bay of Whales somewhere near Byrd's base camp. The map also shows the routes followed by Amundsen and Scott in reaching the pole. Byrd will set up his Antarctic village somewhere near the Norwegian's old Framheim camp and will follow his polar route in part at least.

MISSION BAND HOLDS MEETING

St. James' Group Entertain Eighty Children and Friends.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Mission Band of St. James' United Church held an open meeting Saturday afternoon in the Sunday School hall, which was very successful in every way. There were about eighty children and their friends present. The hall was prettily decorated with Hallowe'en colors. The older girls of the Band deserve great credit for their work.

The afternoon's entertainment was strictly missionary and was very much enjoyed by all present. A short meeting with all the officers in their places, preceded the program. "Jesus loves the little children" was sung followed by prayer by the superintendant.

Two scripture lessons were read by Edith McLaren and Thelma Mclaren. Sentence prayers were offered by Dorrie Elliott, Margaret Patterson and Dorothy Drysdale.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary and after a short discussion, the afternoon's program began and consisted of piano solo, Miss Eileen Rose; Reading, Edith Patterson; song, Aileen Doig and littl Audrey, her sister; piano solo, Donald McIlwain; song, the little McAdams' sisters; reading, Lillian Thomas; song, Geneva Sedgwick; violin solo, Arthur Copson; song, little Jack Williams; duet, Jean Rose and Eleanor Gibson; solo, Dorothy Dudgeon.

Mrs. Dudgeon was the speaker during the afternoon and the children listened attentively throughout her address.

The monthly offering from the Sunshine Bags amounted to $5.40 and six new members were added to the roll.

Mrs. Woodley, treasurer of the W. M.S., closed the meeting with prayer.

Refreshments were served, all the children doing justice to the good things provided.

Mrs. W. Rose acted as general convenor with some of the older girls of the band as helpers and were: Alma Welch, Dorothy Drysdale, Jean Rose, Eleanor Gibson, Mabel Copson, Dorothy Dudgeon and Edith Patterson; Supt., Mrs. Elliott; Assist., Supt., Miss Ritchie.

As a user of the telephone, France comes 25th in the list of nations; she is now below Japan, Iceland and the Hawaiian Islands.

ANNIVERSARY HELD AT MADOC

Rev. Wilson, of Napanee, is the Special Minister for the Occasion.

SPECIAL MUSIC.

MADOC, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The anniversary services of Trinity United Church of Madoc were held last Sunday.

The children gathered early for Sunday school. There was a good attendance and hearty devotional exercises preceded the study hour. The Sunday school room was beautifully decorated with pumpkins and Hallowe'en colors of yellow and black. The closing exercises contained a detailed statement by the superintendent, James Keene, of the plan and purpose of the temperance crusade; an announcement of the prizes offered by the local W.C.T.U., the provincial W.C.T.U., and Dominion prizes by Dougall and Sons of Montreal; also an announcement for the standard training school for Madoc and Elzevir Sunday School Association, to be held at Hazzard's Church from November 21 to 23, inclusive.

Morning Sederunt

The morning service of worship was attended by a large congregation. The church was decorated for thanksgiving service with Autumn fruits, sheaves of corn and beautiful potted plants. The organist for the day was Miss Ramsay of Belleville, with William Scrutton of Madoc as violinist. Rev. Mr. Wilson of Napanee had charge of the services and a well-trained choir assisted in the inspiring service of song, sermon and worship. The anthem by the full choir was "Praise Ye the Lord," after which a beautiful violin solo was given.

Rev. Mr. Wilson in his talk to the children, illustrated "Temper" by a pocket knift, and stressed the point of their controlling their temper, because when lost, it is not good for anybody.

The message of the morning was from Psalm 18: 29-31, and the theme, "The Meaning and Purpose of Life," a great and wonderful message not easily forgotten. The speaker spoke of the unfulfilled ambitions and desires which made for purpose in life. You can have what you want if you are willing to pay all the price. God's laws broken always bring certain punishment. Desires fulfilled do not always bring happiness, but happiness may be gained in the earnest struggle for the higher level. It is the unfulfilled desires and aspiration of our hearts that lead us to all conception of new and higher purposes.

Evening Service.

For the evening service, the pastor, Rev. G. W. River, B.A., B.D., was able to be present, he having taken the work in Napanee in the morning. Rev. T. G. Marshall and some of his congregation of St. Peter's Church, were also present. Their evening service was withdrawn on account of the anniversary services. At 6.30, Miss Ramsay delighted the assembling congregation with an organ recital of splendid technique. The men's quartette, Messrs. Hawthorne, Ross, Gillespie and Wellman, sang, "We Have Heard the Joyful Sound." The anthem by the choir was beautifully rendered, "The Night Winds Are Sighing," Mr. Colin Ross being soloist and the full choir joining in with "Jesus Saviour Pilot be."

The message for the evening was given by Rev. Mr. Wilson, the theme being "Christ As a Saviour," John 4:13, dwelling on the age-long quest for redemption, which is just as true now as in the long ago.

Miss Ida Bronson of Stirling sang with good effect, "Be Still and Know That I am God." The anniversary services have left behind one of those "pictures of memory" not soon forgotten.

Stop Snow Drifts By Special Fence

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—About 12 miles of the most heavily travelled main roads in various parts of the Province of Alberta will be fenced under government auspices against snow drifts, the sections chosen for the fencing being those which gave most trouble last winter. Snow fences are not new in Alberta but this is the first time for the government to undertake the erection of such structures, the work being in connection with the anti-snowdrift campaign of the public works department. The kind of fence decided upon as likely to prove the most serviceable is the picket and wire-twist type, which will be erected with steel posts and will be placed on private land at a distance of about 60 feet from the middle of the road. The fences will easily be removed in the spring. Four carloads of fencing material are now on the way from eastern manufacturers.

Warsaw

(Examiner Correspondence)

WARSAW, October 30.—Rev. H. B. Herrington dispensed Sacrament at Zion, Bethel and Warsaw United Churches on Sunday. At Bethel there was a large number present, but it is seldom that Warsaw Church has such a small turnout. Mr. Herrington read the announcements of the services to be held in the United Churches in Peterborough, during the week beginning November 4. Henry Batten sang "This Way."

W.M.S. to Meet

The W.M.S. will be held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herman Payne.

The last silo in this district was filled on Monday. Some of the corn was in bad condition owing to the continued wet weather.

Fall roots are being brought in as quickly as possible and many fields of turnips have been topped. It is the custom of some people to allow calves in the fields to eat off the tops. One field was noted in which both calves and pigs were allowed in the field.

Personals

Mr. W. Aitwen and his bride of New York, arrived in Warsaw on Thursday evening, for a short visit. They are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Payne.

Mrs. R. W. Payne spent Sunday with her sister in Belleville.

Rev. Mr. McLean preached in the Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening. It is not known when Mr. McClarry will return.

Zion will hold its anniversary services on Sunday, November 4.

"FEW CROSSES"

Company, Fourth Machine Gun Corps, Colonel Anderson proposed the toast to Canada's soldier dead, and as he did so, he coupled with it, an emphasis of the need for preparedness. "It is our duty to hand down from them to you younger men, the torch," said he, "so that you will be prepared to fight if and when the time comes—pray God it never will.

"There have been many glorious episodes in Canada's history since the war of 1812-14, but the most glorious of them all has been the part played by the Canadian Forces during the Great War. And so, I ask you to stand for two minutes of silence and then, to drink with me, 'To Canada's soldier dead'."

The British Empire.

The story of a Scotchman who came to Toronto from Boston rather than trade his citizenship in the British Empire for citizenship in the republic was Lieut. S. M. Ward's contribution in proposing "That we drink to the Empire, may she live long and peacefully."

In response, Lieut.-Colonel W. Gordon Hall carried his auditors back to the days of history when the peoples of the British Isles buried the hatchet and the Empire began to spread. "Today," he pointed out, "there are many colonies and Dominions within the Empire, and peculiarly, the destiny of that Empire is guided by the English-speaking people. Yet the colonies have been given privileges of self-administration and have become more loyal to Britain, and it is up to us to play the game in peace as in war, applying that principle not only to our Empire and country but to our own community. We want industrial contentment, and to have it, we must be soldiers in civil life to promote our country's welfare."

"Our Guests."

Briefly, yet sincerely, C.-Q.-M.-S. A. Nichols proposed the toast to the guests of the corps, and, in reply, Colonel Snider referred to the local company as one of the features by which he became impressed with Peterborough. To the younger men, he expressed the belief that many of them had followed up what they had learned in school cadets. In conclusion, Colonel Snider thanked the Machine Gun Corps for its courtesy and fine entertainment of the evening. The "gang" burst into song, "Keep Your Head Down, Fritzie Boy," with Captain Evans of Havelock leading.

V. C. Winner Introduced.

One honored guest was introduced during the evening whom all present were pleased to welcome as a hero—Captain W. L. Rayfield, V.C. To Lieut. James Turnbull fell the honor—his words vividly described the heroism of Captain Rayfield. Said he:

It is not often that the 3rd Company C. M. G. C. has the privilege of entertaining one of those men whose deeds made the C.E.F. both feared and loved wherever they fought. A man whose name stands in Canada's hall of fame along with some 60 other Canadians whose indomitable courage, conspicuous bravery and devotion to duty has earned for them the most cherished possession known to the British Army—the Victoria Cross.

It was in those stirring days in September, 1918, when Canada's sons were accomplishing what was considered an impossible task — that of smashing the Hindenburg line. If you had been with the 7th Infantry battalion, just east of Arras, you would have seen what appeared to be an ordinary bunch of soldiers, but in that bunch was a private who before that show was ended was destined to place his name with the bravest of the brave and bring honor to his regiment.

During the advance his company was held up by the stubborn resistance of a large party of the enemy. Ahead of his company he rushed a trench, personally bayonetted two of the enemy and taking ten prisoners. Later—though under constant rifle fire—he engaged an enemy sniper who was causing many casualties, and then rushed the section of the trench from which the sniper was operating, and so demoralized the enemy by his coolness and daring that thirty others surrendered to him.

Again, regardless of his personal safety, he left cover under heavy machine gun fire and carried in a badly wounded comrade. By his devotion to duty on that day, and his tenacity, he proved an inspiration to all ranks.

Mr. Chairman, I have great pleasure in introducing to you that gallant gentleman, Walter Rayfield, V.C.

Few Awarded, Many Earned.

Typical of the man, was the reply of that splendid soldier. "It has been a pleasure for me to come here to meet you all, and I hope it will be my privilege again in the future. I would like to say a few words about the Victoria Cross. You hear a great deal about the Victoria Cross and what it represents. While I have been so honored, I would give the credit to the battalion for this reason that while few were awarded, many were earned.

"Like Colonel Snider, I am a believer in cadet training. Many people have the wrong idea—that it instills in the mind of youth a militaristic spirit, but that is not so. It does no harm, and much good, for while no sensible person wants war, it behooves us to be prepared. The step from the cadet corps to the Militia is a good one, you young men, and while you may never be in a war, you will always be prepared for eventualities."

Captain J. A. Dewart.

Captain J. A. Dewart, 2nd in command of the local Machine Gunners, drew an interesting word picture of the Canadian Expeditionary Force—its mobilization, growth and part in the Great War of 1914 to 1918, and its present status as the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice draws nearer. He spoke of Canada's immediate response to Britain's need, of the tradition-making first battle of Ypres, Passchendale, and other Canadian triumphs, and of the Canadian army of 1918, when it had earned for itself the proud title of the finest force of all the allies.

Captain Dewart pointed to the lessons that the war had taught—of the necessity for preparedness and finally of the challenge to the men of to-day to co-operate in achieving the same success in peace that they did in war time.

Entertainment and Humor.

Supplying that much-to-be-desired quantity and quality of entertainment in song and in humor, was Lieut. James Turnbull, song leader; John Crane, accompanist; E. Vernon Morphet and Major Maurice H. Park, soloists; A. J. Reynolds and Jack Primeau. The "had to be seen and heard to be appreciated" label well describes their offerings, and at the close Lieut. Heron thanked the guests and artists individually for their presence at the dinner.

"O Canada" was sung and the 1928 Machine Gun Corps dinner was over.

VEEDOL USED ON GRAF ZEPPELIN

Big Plane Uses Veedol For Lubrication of Five Engines.

STANDS TEST.

The five Maybach engines of the Graf Zeppelin are built to operate both on liquid and gaseous fuel Perhaps one of the most serious problems connected with the use of "Blaugas" fuel was that of lubrication. Every gasoline, being a product made of fuel or crude oil has some lubricating quality, whereas "Blaugas" is absolutely dry and, therefore, brings no lubricant to the valves, pistons and cylinders. The quality of the oil is, therefore of the greatest importance. Samples in bulk were offered or sent by practically every lubricating oil manufacturer in America and Germany. Those submitted by German firms has, of course, a preference, but after tests on the dynomometer in the Maybach plant, and actual flight tests in the ship, Veedol, was selected on points of merit and quality. The Tidewater Oil Company, manufacturers of Veedol, also took over the supply of necessary liquid fuel, of which Graf Zeppelin will carry between eight to ten tons. Two or three tons of Veedol Oil will also be stored in tanks of the great ship. The balance of the propelling fuel will consist of about 30,000 cubic meters of the famous "Blaugas", a saturated Hudrocarbon gas mixture. Every cubic meter of this gas contains as man BTU's (heat units) as one kilogram (2.21 lbs.) of gasoline. In other words, if liquid fuel only was to be carried, more than thirty tons additional weight would have to be lifted necessitating about 27,000 cubic meters more of hydrogene gas to lift the "Graf Zeppelin."

Maybach-Zeppelin engines, which firm is represented in Canada by Diesel Power Ltd. of 129 Adelaide St. W Toronto.

Engines: 600 H.P. to 1600 R.P.M. at sea level; 550 H.P. at 1600 R.P.M. at 700 feet elevation. Weight, 2,450 pounds.

Engines made 1000 hours non stop test under full load with Veedol.

A pleasant evening was spent at St. Luke's Sunday school last Friday evening, when the 2nd Peterborough Boy Scout troup held its regular meeting. It was after flag break that W. H. Dickin gave a most instructive and interesting talk on First Aid, the study and application of it under varying circumstances. Assisting him were Patrol Leaders Peters and Nohins who demonstrated the method of treating fractures, resuscitation and the fireman's lift.

Mr. Dickin also called the boys' attention to the expected activities of the scout troops during the coming year, the first of which will start on Saturday next.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Dickin was accorded a hearty scout yell, and after this the game of "fighting cock" was played, the victors being Scout Milliken of St. Luke's and a visitor from St. John's. Morse signalling was also taken up during the evening.

There were other games and camp fire and singing that ended with O Canada, and Scout silence.

O hand during the evening were two of the troop committee, namely Mr. Lee and Mr. Carpenter, also Warren Turner and five boys from St. John's. John Hill passed in his tenderfoot test and the boys were given notice of a meeting in St. John's church on Friday next when a troop will be formed, sponsored by the 2nd troop.

A report was received during the meeting of a deed by Scout Willis, worthy of mention. Notice of this was duly sent to Headquarters.

A special wireless code has been compiled for use at sea in obtaining help in treatment of illness from medical men in other ships.

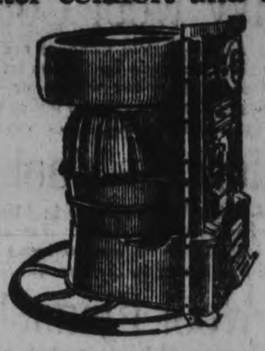
HI SAY, OLD DEAR!

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—A member of the firm of Selfridge & Co., Ltd., has returned to dear old London quite impressed with America and its hotels. It is said that "his astonishment knew no bounds" when by pressing a button in his hotel room he saw a bed gently depositing itself in the "sitting room." He found time to compliment American girls, however: "There aren't any floppy girls in America. All are so well-tailored—dressed much better than English girls."

The Treasure All-Cast Furnace gives greater comfort and longer life



HOME heating with the Treasure Furnace ends the troubles caused by old, worn out heating plants.
The Treasure Furnace doesn't wear out. It is rustless, dustless, burns any kind of coal, coke or wood, insures proper combustion of fuel and gasses, gives more heat—and takes less attention!
It is an all-cast iron furnace. No rivetted joints. No buckling or warping. No leaks—it's just the heating plant you want to enjoy, clean, reliable, even heat all next winter. You'll end the season with a substantial fuel saving into the bargain.

OBITUARY

MRS. FERGUSON.

(Examiner Correspondence)

MADOC, Oct. 30.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Ferguson which was private, took place on Friday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Pringle, Davidson street.

The services were conducted at the home by Rev. G. W. Rivers, B.A., B.D., and interment was made in Lakeview cemetery.

CATHERINE M. BLAKE

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 30 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — The funeral of the late Catherine M. Blake was held from her late residence Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. Service in the United Church was conducted by the Rev. R. C. Tait, assisted by the Rev. L. M. Smith. Interment was in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The pall bearers were Thomas Sampson, John Jeffs, Charles Montgomery, Frank Fairman, Wilbert Reid and Roy Sweet.

The late Mrs. Blake was in her sixty-fifth year and had been in failing health for some months. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stafford, and although of Irish descent was born and lived her entire lifetime in Ontario. For twenty-four years she had been a resident of Campbellford. Her passing brings sorrow to a large circle of friends, many of whom were present to pay their last respects at the funeral service.

The late Mrs. Blake is survived by her husband, three daughters, Mrs. Clint Heath and Mrs. Dunbar of town, and Mrs. W. Hughie of Peterborough. There are also five sons, Harry in Toronto, Charles in Oshawa, and Walter, Fred and Manley at home.

JAMES GARDNER.

In the death of James Gardner, which occurred on Tuesday last, at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, this community mourns the passing of one of its most respected sons. His death followeod an operation for an enlargement of the thyroid gland, which was performed at the hospital on Monday.

The late Mr. Gardner was a descendant of one of the pioneer families of this district, his father, the late Henry Gardner, having been among the earliest settlers of the township. He was 62 years of age in January last and was the youngest of his family, of whom four (two sisters and two brothers) survive, namely: Mrs Humphries of Dummer, Mrs. Ebenezer Jenkins of Asphodel, and George and Joseph of Norwood.

He was married 37 years ago to Sarah Kingsley, daughter of the late Paul Kingsley, of Dummer, who was also among the early pioneers of this district.

Besides his widow he is survived by five daughters, namely, Mrs. George Buchanan of Dummer, Mrs. Joseph Humphries of Norwood, Mrs. Wm. Ball and Mrs. Clarence Ellingson of Los Angeles, California, and Eva of Peterborough. Also one grandson, Everett Buchanan.

The late Mr. Gardner was a member of the United church. Up to the time of union he belonged to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and was one of the esteemed office bearers, for years a member of the board of managers, and later a member of the session, and was also honored with the appointment of representative elder to presbytery.

Up until two years ago the late Mr. Gardner was engaged in farming, residing on lot 19 in the 7th concession of Asphodel. On retiring, he and Mrs. Gardner spent last winter in California with their two daughters, returning and taking up their residence in Norwood in the spring.

The funeral took place from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Joseph Humphries, Helen street, Norwood, on Friday, the 26th, among about three hundred friends and neighbors who came to pay their last respects to their highly respected neighbor.

The touching funeral service was conducted by Rev. R. F. Stillman, during which Roger McMillan sang that beautiful hymn, "O Shelter in the Time of Storm."

The Masonic service was conducted by the Norwood lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 223, of which the deceased was a member for many years.

The flower covered casket was carried by six brother members, namely: F. Pearce, E .C. Squire, John Weir, Geo. Elliott, Franklin Webster and Alexander Ross, to Norwood cemetery for interment.

The grave was covered with many beautiful wreaths and flowers, tesifying to the high esteem in which he was held by all who knew him, and whose loss they greatly mourn.

ROBERT ALLEN

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 30 (Examiner Correspondence).—The funeral took place at 9 o'clock on Saturday morning of the late Robert Allen from St. Paul's Church.

Rev. J. J. Garvey sang the Requiem High Mass, and the church was crowded to capacity with friends and neighbors who admired and respected the deceased in life and honored him in death.

Father Garvey spoke briefly, but with a great depth of feeling, taking as a text, "Man knoweth not his own end," from the Book of Ecclesiastes." This text was specially appropriate on this occasion when a man was killed in so sudden and horrible a manner and one cannot help wondering just why it should have happened so. We know God as being wise and merciful to man and we know that with God are no accidents and that all is ordained by Him in His infinite wisdom to fulfil some great purpose. Death is inevitable and all we who are descendants of Adam must some day face death. Life is given to us to prepare for the day when we shall stand before God and be judged for our own works. This man was a faithful and devout worshipper in God's house, a kind and loving father, a neighbor and friend who was regarded with affection and esteem and one wonders why he should be taken and those who are wasting life left, but if we venture an opinion we might say that it is as a warning to these to forsake evil and remember their duty to God and their fellow men. For this man we have no fears for while, like all sons of Adam, he had human weakness, his Godly life, his faith in his God, and his obedience to the commandments of God, assure us that his future is assured that he will reap the reward of the just. Let us not forget him in our prayers.

As the cortege left the church there was scarcely a dry eye for, although a quiet man, Mr. Allen was exceedingly well thought of, and the tragic manner of his death touched every heart; and the family, bereft of both parents in such a short time were the objects of the sympathy and prayers of the whole congregation. The pall bearers were Messrs. Edward Allen, James Allen, Robert Allen, Thomas Whibbs, William Devlin, and John Torpey.

Interment was made in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, Douro.

WILLIAM LOWERY.

MILLBROOK, Oct. 30.—William Lowery, whose death occurred suddenly at Pasadena, California, on Thursday, October 25, was the eldest son of the late Reid Lowery, and Mrs Lowery, and was born in Cavan Township, the family homestead being on Fallis Line. A few months ago deceased contracted a severe cold, from which recovery was never fully made, and which finally developed into pneumonia and resulted fatally.

The immediate survivors are his wife and three children, the youngest being but five years of age; his mother, Mrs. R. Lowery, of Fallis Line; three sisters: Mrs. B. Parker of Los Angeles, California; Mrs. L. Johnston, Oshawa, and Miss Edna at home; three brothers: Charles of Perrytown, Fred of Millbrook, and Norman of Oshawa.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mrs. Lowery, and the other members of the family, in their sad bereavement.

BILLIONAIRES MEET

Seven millionaires at New York head table. At a dinner given jointly by the Institute of American Meat Packers, Columbia University, the New York State Chamber of Commerce and the New York City Merchants' Association, seven captains of industry were honored guests. Their total wealth is something like $10,000,000,000. And not on eof them was a university graduate. All began as poor boys. Four of them did not finish high school. Two others, Cyrus H. K. Curtis (7), and Glenn Curtis (5), were invited but could not attend. Those present were: (1) Henry Ford, for automobiles; (2) Charles M. Schwab, for iron and steel; (3) Thos. A. Edison, for invention; (4) Orville Wright, for aviation; (6) Julius Rosewald, for merchandising; (8) George Eastman, for photography, and (9) Harvey S. Firestone for rubber.

ACTIVE PROGRAM FOR CONVENTION

Annual Meeting of Liberal-Conservative Association To Be Held November 21-22.

TORONTO, October 29 (Canadian Press). — A program bristling with subjects of interest to all Canadians is assured for the annual meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Ontario. The meeting is scheduled for November 21-22, and includes in the subjects for discussion matters not only of political import, but of social welfare also. The forenoon on the second day will be devoted entirely to the place of women in politics, the state and the home, and 17 women from all over Ontario will discuss problems intimately related to the general good of the community, and particularly as they affect women and the growing generation.

During 1925-26 the total number of crimes in London (population 7,476,168) as 15,662, compared with 333,083 in New York (population 5,924,179).

ALL'S WELL ON BOARD GRAF

Radio Respatches Report Airship North-east of Cape Race, Newfoundland.

ARRIVE HOME WEDNESDAY.

FREDERICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—A radio message received from the Graf Zeppelin at 9.30 a.m. to-day, 3.30 eastern standard time, said that at 6 a.m. the airship was 250 miles north-east of Cape Race, Newfoundland. All was well on board. There was a south-easterly gale. The airship was heading south-east, despite prevailing weather conditions, along the North Atlantic steamship lane. Director-General Col. Smann of the Zeppelin Works said to-day that he counted on the arrival of the airship late Wednesday afternoon.

BUCKWHEAT OUT.

Farmers Find It Impossible To Get Grain Dry Enough To Draw In.

(Examiner Correspondence)

DOWNEYVILLE, October 30. — There are a few fields of buckwheat still out. It seems almost impossible to get it dry enough to draw in.

The roads around here are in very bad condition and motorists find it difficult to travel on roads if they are not familiar with them.

Most of the garden crops have been taken up and were fairly good, except turnips which seem to be small.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XIX.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM returns to London from the United States, where he has contracted a secret and unfortunate marriage, to help wind up the affairs of his younger half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW. In Switzerland he meets Julie Farrow, through his friend, LOMBARD, and makes love to her with the intention of spurning her in revenge for her treatment of Rodney. But, after he realizes that he really loves her, he finds out that she is a cousin of the JULIE FARROW whom his brother loved. He tells her the truth—of his mistake, and that, because of his marriage, he cannot marry her. He meets her later in London, to find that she is leading a wild, gay life, and is apparently heartless.

Bim bolted the door and came back into the room. Julie had lit a cigarette, but it had gone out again, and she was leaning back amongst the cushions, her eyes closed, her mouth drooping in dejected lines.

Bim stirred the fire into a blaze.

"Who is he?" she asked.

Julie opened her eyes.

"Who? Oh, Schofield.' I don't know. He was there tonight and he seemed rather like a fish out of water, so I took compassion on him. Not very interesting, is he?"

"I thought he was rather nice."

Julie laughed in derision.

"Rubbish! He's not a bit your sort."

"Perhaps not, but all the same I thought he was nice. Julie, you look fagged out."

Julie at once sat up with a great show of energy.

"I'm not. I'm as fresh as a lark. We had a splendid time. I danced nearly all night."

Bim said nothing.

"Doris was there, and Marco," Julie rattled on, "and the Heal boy and all the usual crowd."

"Nobody very exciting then."

"No, at least—oh, yes!" A little flame lit Julie's weary eyes. "There was one rather exciting person. Guess?"

"I couldn't."

"Think of the most unlikely person."

"I can't."

"Giles Chittenham."

"Oh!"

Bim avoided looking at her friend, and Julie chattered on.

"Yes, he brought his mother. She's rather sweet. She'd never been to a night club before, and she thought it was all too wonderful!" There was a note of scorn in her voice. "She didn't like me, though, but she tried hard to be polite."

Julie sighed and leaned back once more against the cushions. "It's queer!" she ruminated. "Once upon a time I should have been just the sort she would have liked! It only shows how changed I am."

There was a little silence.

"And—Mr. Chittenham?" Bim asked tentatively.

"Oh, charming as ever!" Julie said airily. "I danced with him once or twice—once, I think! I asked him to come and see us some evening."

"Julie!"

"Well, why not?" Julie opened her eyes defiantly. "It will be nice to have a fresh man to go out with."

"To go out with!"

"Why not? He's good looking, and well off." Julie laughed again. "And his mother is so horribly afraid that I've got designs on him!"

Bim rose to her feet with a little shiver.

"I'm going to bed," she said.

"All right. Pleasant dreams and thank you for waiting up."

Bim got as far as the door, then she came back.

"Julie!"

"Well?"

"Don't be a little fool, Julie, dear."

"I don't understand."

"I mean—about Giles Chittenham. When we left Switzerland you said you hated him, and that you hoped you would never see him again. I don't know why—I don't want to know—but—"

"I don't know why, either," Julie interrupted ruthlessly. "I think he's quite nice. If he asks me to go out with him I shall most certainly go."

She leaned forward, holding her hands to the fire.

"I wish you wouldn't remind me of what I used to be," she said, speaking rapidly. "I'm changed, quite changed. I used to be such a fool—priggish, unsophisticated! But that's all gone now, and I'm much happier."

"Happier!"

"That's what I said," Julie said defiantly.

Bim stood looking at her for a moment, then with a little helpless shrug she turned away.

"Well, good night!" she said again.

"Good night."

The door closed between them.

Julie stayed where she was, her eyes fixed on the fire.

"Changed, quite changed," she told herself fiercely. "I don't care about anything any more. Nothing can hurt me. I'm just going to take what I can get—I'm just going to get the most out of life. Jewel is quite right. What's the use of trying to go straight and be what people call good! It's much better not to care for anyone—not to care—" The thought snapped, and she bit her lip hard and closed her eyes as if in sudden pain.

"I'll make him suffer—I'll make him suffer," she whispered. The dividing door opened again.

"Aren't you ever going to bed?" Bim asked anxiously.

"In a minute," Julie started up. "I want to show you a new step of the Charleston. No, don't go—let me put the gramophone on."

"At this hour? You'll wake everyone in the flats."

"What does it matter?" Julie asked derisively. "It'll soon be time for everyone to get up anyway."

She found the record she wanted and wound up the gramophone.

"This is it Bim, look! You're not looking!" She pushed a chair out of the way and danced slowly up and down the room, her pretty feet exaggerating the step, her slender arms waving.

"What do you think of it?" she asked. "Isn't it cute? I'll teach you how to do it tomorrow—"

"No, thank you."

"Why not? It's easy! Don't you like it?" Julie came to a standstill close to Bim.

Bim looked her straight in the eyes pityingly.

"I think it's horrible," she said with a shiver.

Julie's pretty mouth twisted as if she were going to laugh, then suddenly she covered her face with her hands.

"You're right," she whispered. "It is horrible—everything in life is horrible." And she began to sob.

* * *

It is strange how a chance twist in the wheel of fate may change one's whole life, wrenching it from a dull uninteresting pathway into an environment so utterly different that it leaves one breathless and bewildered.

Some such thing happened in the life of Lawrence Schofield when fate threw him across Julie Farrow's pathway in the Faun Cafe.

Schofield was a widower. His wife had been neurotic and fretful, and for eleven years she had done her best to crush every instinct of joy and cheeriness out of her husband's heart. If she had lived, Schofield would have settled down into the type of man who is content to come home, put on carpet slippers and never speak unless he is spoken to, but fortunately she died, and with her death the whole of Schofield's life seemed to alter. It was as if the fog of wretchedness which had clouded his outlook were suddenly swept aside, allowing the sun to burst through.

The day after his wife's funeral some remote uncle considerately departed to another world and left him a fortune, and a fortnight later Schofield said goodbye to his old life for ever, sold every possession which reminded him of his martyrdom, and came to London.

He was nearly fifty and he could not remember that he had ever had what is called a good time in all his life until that night when some chance acquaintance took him along to the Faun and introduced him to Julie.

To him she was like a creature from some entirely different world. He was not sufficiently versed in modern ways to recognize her reckless artificiality; to him she was a creature of light and happiness; someone who had danced into his life holding aloft a dazzling lantern which he eagerly followed. The short ride home with her in the chill early hours of morning had been a revelation to him, although Julie had talked nothing but the veriest nonsense, and promised nothing, except that when he humbly expressed the hope that they would meet again she had said flippantly:

"Of course! Why not? Ring me up any old time."

He did not realize that it was what she would have said to any man; he thought himself favored of the gods—miraculously favored. Even the momentary jar caused by Julie having forgotten his name soon passed away. He was almost afraid of his exultant thoughts as he left the flat and walked back to his hotel through the silent streets.

He remembered guiltily that his wife had been dead barely a month, and that he had almost forgotten he had ever had a wife—ever lived with that fretful, nerve-wracking woman who had done her best to turn him into an old man before his time.

Tonight he felt younger than he had ever felt. The loneliness which had seized upon him when he first snapped the old ties and came to London had departed as if by magic; life seemed to lie all before him instead of all behind as heretofore. There was something good to live for now that Julie's casual invitation rang in his ears: "Of course! Ring me up any old time."

For the first time he was fully appreciative of his good fortune in having inherited his uncle's money; without it he would not have been able to do any of the things for Julie which he knew he intended to do. By the look of the flat which she and Bim Lennox shared together they did not possess much of the world's goods. Schofield began to remember wonderful furniture he had seen, but in which he had never before been interested; he remembered sparkling gems in jewelers' windows and dainty clothes, all of which his money could buy.

If Julie would marry him . . He awoke from his dream with a start at his own audacity.

Why should she marry him? There were so many other more attractive men in the world. For a moment the thought depressed him, but he quickly recovered, remembering that women were often quite content to marry a man for his money and for the comforts he could give.

When Pain Comes

Two hours after eating

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—and drug store.

THE MIRROR OF THE MODE

By Mary Marshall.

Circular comb worn in new way—with hair brushed straight up and back at one side, and ends curled at the other, held with comb in center.

A state of affairs which a year or so ago a woman usually found embarrassing or discomfiting is now entirely desirable. Far from pitying the woman who is letting her hair grow, we rather envy her. And if we have already gone through the awkward stage of this process we are tempted to have our hair cut again for the mere diversion of having it grow in again.

The other day I saw a number of the new barettes made to be worn at the nape of the neck to keep the softly curled ends of half-grown hair in place. And at a first-night performance at the theater I saw a new circular comb worn as shown in the sketch. The comb and the hair and the lady who wore them I take it were all recent importations from Paris. Still the mere fact that she looked French is no proof that she was, because often in Paris the most distinctly French women we see—true Latins, as we remark knowingly—prove to have come from Chicago or Baltimore or Los Angeles.

This interesting coiffure that I saw was produced by brushing the hair straight at one side with overlapping ends curled at the other side. It looks difficult, but with the up-to-date coiffeurs all things are possible.

From the point of view of the fashionable woman of taste, only those possibilities are desirable which do not distort the natural contours of the head. Hair may be swathed, looped, curled and waved to make those curves look more interesting or more beautiful than they really are, but always, as with good fiction, there must be verisimilitude if not actual veracity.

EASY CHOPPING

When chopping chives, parsley, olives or other garnishes for salads, use a board and cut with an empty baking powder can. It chops easily and well.

SMOOTH SPOONS

When making dumplings, dip the spoon into the hot liquid each time before dipping into the dough. It keeps the dumpling dough from sticking to the spoon and expedites matters.

ZIG-ZAG MODEL

A tight cloche hat, with wider right brim than left, has one side terra cotta, the other brown. The colors join in a zig-zag line from back to front.

PULL-ON GLOVES

Evening gloves, in delicate off-white and soft greys and cream are beautifully made, with no fancy stitching. They are pull-ons.

ICE BALLS

New metal balls are on the market which can be made icy cold and used instead of ice in beverages.

THE WHATNOT

A Place for Little Bits of Everything of Local Interest

By MARION

WINTER is fast approaching in Peterborough. This is the time of the year when the Big Sisterhood and other such organizations are gathering together discarded clothing for needy families in Peterborough.

• • • • • • •

Warm clothing sent to these societies is greatly appreciated, and they find a place for all the clothing that is sent to them.

• • • • • • •

While helping to pack clothing to be given for such a cause, I noticed that some people have a great deal more consideration for their old clothing than others.

• • • • • • •

I know some people who never think of mending their old clothes or replacing a lost button, while others always mend, replace buttons and give them a final cleaning before sending them away.

• • • • • • •

And then again, there are those who just throw them away without a second thought as to whether they will be needed again.

• • • • • • •

I don't think there are many people in Peterborough who wear out their clothes. They are worn a reasonable length of time and then discarded. Perhaps there is no particular place to put them so they hang around until they become faded and moth eaten.

• • • • • • •

Instead of letting this be the case, procure a large box or trunk in which you can put these, after you have tired of wearing them and have had reasonable wear from them.

• • • • • • •

Then when a needy call comes, you will be ready to help some family who is in need of some warm clothing this winter.

• • • • • • •

By way, don't forget to send for this week's help. Of course parties do not stop on Hallowe'en night, so some will still like to get suggestions for the party they are having later on in the week.

• • • • • • •

Some housewives have just housecleaned for the winter season. Generally when housecleaning time comes, we find that a lot of junk has cluttered up the cellar and store room.

• • • • • • •

When we see these piles of junk we ask ourselves why it was kept, for in most cases it is just a pile of junk, kept because we could not convince ourselves in the beginning it was of no use, so it was stored up to be thrown away later on.

• • • • • • •

This is especially true of boxes and bottles. Upon going down cellar we find rows and rows of old bottles, pickle and soft drink bottles, which of course, are of no monetary value.

• • • • • • •

Then in the storeroom we find old boxes and in the attic, old furniture. I do not know why people store away old things like this, but someone has said that it is a sort of mental laziness with some people. They cannot decide or are unwilling to decide what they will do with them, so they are stored away until some future time.

• • • • • • •

Possibly this future time is moving time. Then we are compelled to throw away this junk, which might just as well have been thrown away in the first place.

• • • • • • •

There are many ways to serve ham, but I wonder if you have ever tried using ham in the following way. Chop and season the ham, then warm in a little butter and form into a mound on a platter. Then cover with poached eggs. This makes an excellent luncheon dish.

• • • • • • •

When you are planning window curtains, do not make the mistake of buying them without considering how much it will take for their upkeep.

• • • • • • •

This might seem absurd, because ordinary curtains can be washed and laundered very easily and cheaply. But then there are those made of silk and other materials which cannot be washed. Some curtain materials will not wash, and when they are they will become thick and puckered up.

• • • • • • •

It is not economical to buy curtain which have to be sent to the cleaners. The cost of the cleaning soon becomes more than was actually paid for the curtains in the beginning.

• • • • • • •

A good idea in keeping the curtains clean would be to brush them down with a soft brush every four or five days, or perhaps once a week on cleaning day. This prevents the dust from collecting on the curtains, which it is sure to do otherwise.

• • • • • • •

This would make an excellent addition to the lunch menu for your Hallowe-en party. The following is required to make this which is known as Funny Face Sandwich. Sixteen rounds of Boston brown bread, two inches in diameter, one-quarter cup butter, one-quarter cup pimento cheese, one-eighth teaspoon salt. Cream the butter and cheese. Add the salt and carefully spread on eight of the rounds of bread. On the other eight cut out facial features. Place the cut-out rounds on top the buttered ones and arrange flat on a serving tray or platter. A thimble may be used to make the eyes and a sharp knife for the nose and mouth. Various comical features may be used with little effort.

IN WOMAN'S REALM.

By JEANETTE.

(By Jeanette)

"They played in their beautiful garden
The children of high degree;
Outside the gate the beggars
Passed on in their misery."

That was the fashion of days that are gone. Today, the children of the poor have gardens of their own. And they are no longer "beggars." In the times when one of them "lived in a terraced house and one in the street below," as the old song puts it, there was a sharp cleavage. As Augustus Bridle remarked, in one of his fine articles, written a few weeks ago, and referring to an old song called "The Children's Home;" "the high born child and the beggar touched each other's lives pathetically here below and at last they both died and went to glory; 'For the ways of men are narrow, but the gates of Heaven are wide'."

Bringing this matter of happy childhood down to our own local attention, who has had more to do with alleviation of the woes of poor children than the women of the community? It is true that the Camp for Underprivileged Children and the Rotary Boys' Camp have been sponsored and supported by organizations like the Peterborough Health Association, the Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club. But who thought first of giving these little boys and girls a playground that would take them from the squalid alley, the two-by-four patch of green on the edge of a dusty pavement, or the noisesome back yard? It was the women, and foremost among them, representative of all the women of the city, was the Local Council of Women. Supervised playgrounds, where boys and girls play happily, innocently, carefully, were brain children of this organization.

• • •

The following is a brief account of the vicissitudes attending the steps of an unfortunate lover of art.

She was trying to make a sketch of a public building on a street that is blessed with many children and some curious householders. A stray collie pup that had taken a fancy to her and had accompanied her with stealthy steps, in the manner of a dog going for a walk with a perfect stranger, came along and chewed experimentally at the many-colored paint rags that were part of her equipment.

The day before, a kindly householder had offered her a stool and left it on the verandah. Proceeding to the point of vantage for the best view of the building, she picked up the stool and hurried on. A woman and little girl pursued her for half a block with the evident intention of making her return stolen property, and abandoned their intention with many accusing looks.

A group of women hanging out clothes discussed her loudly, with the strange hallucination of people who often disregard the strength of their own voices, or the keenness of hearing of the listener.

"She's making a sketch of that old school," one yelled loudly to another. "I seen her here yesterday. It's a funny old place to make a picture out of."

A small, mischievous boy approached, carrying a tin can. With sidelong steps, refusing to look at the lady, he meandered slowly along. About four years of age, he had a roving eye and a shock of upstanding hair. He whistled faintly. Finally, coming within heaving distance, he pitched the can at her and fled swiftly, chuckling under his breath.

Half an hour later, he returned, seeking the can, and retrieved it after much stealthy approaching and sidelong rushes of little feet. Standing at a safe distance, he surveyed the painting, "What's your name?" she asked him, softly. There was no response.

"You don't know your name," she twitted him. "I do," he remarked, ferociously and suddenly.

"Well, you can't tell it to me," she teased. "I kin," he countered, swiftly.

"I don't think you know it at all," she remarked. He chortled loudly under his breath and grew red in the face with suppressed emotion. To relieve his feelings, he stood on his head in a pile of sand and waved his legs in the air. At any repetition of the same enquiry, he repeated this performance, chuckling under his breath at a knowledge of suppressed information.

She was near collapse when taken in custody. This, she said, was because the man who had lured her from Chicago had failed to show up for the wedding which was to have taken place here.

GODETS EVERYWHERE

The godet theme never was smarter. New dance sets feature godets in the little panties. A smart new Ninon night gown for a trousseau has a moulded bodice with lace and Ninon godets in the skirt part.

MEDIUM HEELS

Street shoes are favoring lower heels than summer sandals showed. The medium heel of fair proportions, is a great and sensible favorite. Skill in shoecraft makes this heel very smart now.

GALYAK TOUCH

A svelt black felt hat from Paris has little side flaps of galyak that step down in modernistic manner over the ears to form a long back line on the neck.

POCKET SCARF

A grey tweed coat has a scarf collar with oar-shaped end that rounds the neck and hangs slightly below the waist. Its oar-shaped end has a round pocket that buttons shut.

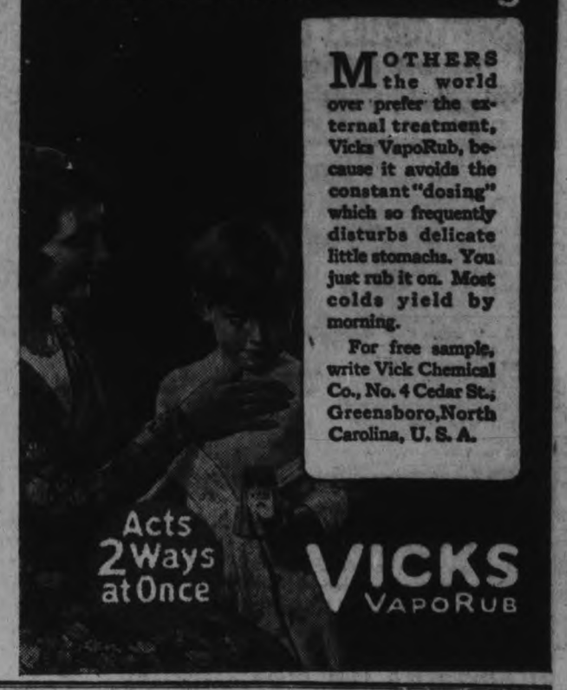
GREEN-BLACK

A black satin frock with circular fullness has a swathed hip-line girdle in English green crepe and a yoke bodice yoke of the same that ties in a large bow at its V-front.

THREE GREYS

Silverwing, pigeon and grebe grey, the season's three new soft shades blend in a chiffon evening gown with tiers shading in the above order.

Children's COLDS Relieved Without "Dosing"



MOTHERS the world over prefer the external treatment, Vicks VapoRub, because it avoids the constant "dosing" which so frequently disturbs delicate little stomachs. You just rub it on. Most colds yield by morning.

"One thing my daughter must be told"

—Says a mother of today

The possibility of offending others is dreaded by thousands of women. Now a discovery which neutralizes odor in sanitary pads frees them from this fear.

HOWEVER carefully she may guard and advise, no mother can protect her daughter from self-consciousness at certain times. If she fears that she is offending others, good times are impossible; light-heartedness flees. That is why mothers and daughters both learn with relief about the latest process perfected by Kotex scientists: Each Kotex sanitary pad is now treated to end all odor. The fears that were once inevitable now disappear.

Shaped to fit, too

Because corners of the pad are rounded and tapered, it may be worn without evidence under the most clinging gown. There is none of that conspicuous bulkiness so often associated with old-fashioned methods. And you can adjust the filler, make it thinner, thicker, narrower—to suit your own special needs. It is easily disposed of, no laundering is necessary. A new process makes it softer than ever before.

Buy a box today . . . 60c for a box of twelve. On sale at all drug, dry goods and departmental stores.

Deodorizes . . . and 4 other important features:

1—Softer gauze ends chafing; pliable filler absorbs as no other substance can;
2—Corners are rounded and tapered; no evidence of sanitary protection under any gown;
3—Deodorizes—safely, thoroughly, by a new and exclusive patented process;
4—Adjust it to your needs; filler may be made thinner, thicker, narrower as required; and
5—It is easily disposed of; no unpleasant laundry.

THE UNLIMITED EXPANSE OF THE MIND

The body of man is inferior to the bodies of many of the animals. He is not able to run as fast as the deer, nor swim as fast as the seal. Although Nature has endowed man with very limited physical capacities, she was kind enough to place within his skull the ability to use the powers of nature in extending his environment. Even a trained athlete can only run at top speed for a few seconds at the magnificent rate of about 20½ miles per hour, yet through the application of his brain upon his environment, man has been able to build automobiles which can travel more than twice as fast as the greatest speed limits of most country highways, and he has been able to build aeroplanes with a speed of 250 miles per hour or even more.

One man's ears cannot hear another man's voice at a greater distance than a few hundred yards and yet, with the use of the telephone and the radio, we are able to hear a voice speaking on the other side of the earth—a wonderful accomplishment of mind over matter. Not content with this, some scientists are even contemplating speech with other planets, providing they are inhabited with intelligent beings.

Our eyes are so constructed that the farther away an object is, the smaller it appears, so that at a distance of two miles apart one man cannot recognize another and yet, with the use of the telescope, we are able to extend our vision as far as the rounded contour of the earth will permit.

When an object is as small as one-thousandth of an inch it is invisible to the naked eye and yet, with the aid of the microscope, we can literally see the bacteria on the back of the flea. No doubt, within a very few years television will be so developed that we will be able to see events happening on the other side of the world. These accomplishments have only developed with the same rate of speed that man's brain has improved.

The complicated structure of the modern sky-scraper is no more developed over the simple hut of the Aborigine than the brain of a modern man is over the brain of his primitive ancestors. The skull now houses knowledge and culture where formerly it harbored superstition and curiosity.

The body of man has neither fins nor wings, but man's brain applied to mechanics has enabled us to stay under water longer and descend to greater depths than can a whale, and we may fly faster and ascend higher than any bird in existence.

If, even within the course of one or two generations, we have seen such a tremendous progress in the conquest of mind over matter, may we not look ward with anticipation into the ure? It is certainly worth while to ollow the laws of Nature for preserving health and life that we may long enjoy the discoveries of civilization and watch for the many new wonders just ahead, but hidden by the veil of the future.

The mind of man is of such marvelous complexity that we should take full advantage of its powers for eternal study and observation. Age should make no difference. From the moment of our first breath to the last but inevitable moment of our life, we should profit from every circumstance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Shoes.

Question: Buddy asks: "How much bigger than the foot should the shoe be? Some say a half inch longer, and others say the big toe should touch the end."

Answer: The toe should never touch the end of the shoe, and the shoe should be large enough to allow a reasonable spread of the toes. This not only helps keep the arches of the foot strong, but tends to keep down the nervousness created through wearing shoes which are too tight.

Bloating From Too Much Flour.

Question: X.Y.Z. asks: "Does flour make blood? I eat as much as a 5-lb. sack of pastry flour a month. I suffer from extreme pains in the pit of my stomach, and am very nervous and bloat a lot."

Answer: I do not wonder that you are nervous, bloat a lot, and have pain in the pit of your stomach if you eat so much flour. Wouldn't it be sensible to leave flour entirely out of your diet for awhile, and use more of the green vegetables combined with such food as eggs, milk, or meat? Try living for a time on the weekly menus published in this column, using some one kind of fruit as a meal in place of those meals containing starchy foods.

No Medicines Recommended.

Question: Mrs. E. W. B. writes: "I am an anemic person and would like to ask your advice. I have been taking your cod-liver oil tablets two months and they don't seem to do me any good. Will you kindly advise me what to do. Am very anxious to gain in weight."

Answer: You must be mistaken, as I do not have any cod-liver oil tablets or any other remedies to sell. If you wish to gain in weight you cannot do so successfully by using any special preparation of food. First, cure yourself of any disorder from which you are suffering, eliminate destructive emotions and then living on a well-balanced diet will bring about the best results. If you stuff to gain you will only bring on such disorders as biliousness and digestive troubles.

LYRICS OF LIFE

WHEN ROVER'S WET

When we go on a picnic, or
'Most any other trip we take,
Like sitting on the sandy shore
Of little brooks or some big lake,
Then Rover likes a stick to bring,
And gets as wet as wet can be,
Then shakes it over ev'rything
Around the place, and mostly me.

Of course dogs never use a tow'l,
They don't know how, they haven't one,
And Rover makes us fairly howl,
For really it's a lot of fun.
He shakes himself right in your lap—
I think the nicest time we had
Was once, when Father took a nap,
He shook himself all over Dad.

Then how we laughed!—Not Mother, though;
She said it wasn't cute or smart.
She said that dog would have to go,
But didn't say it cross-my-heart.
She said she never wanted one;
She didn't mean it, I suppose;
Because a dog's as much of fun,
I think, as playing with the hose.

Why We Do What We Do.

WHY WE SUBLIMATE

By Mehran K. Thomson, Ph.D.

(Author, The Springs of Human Action)

The Freudian psychologists frequently use the term sublimate. They speak of sublimating our suppressed wishes and desires. What they mean is that a person may redirect his impulses into other channels.

A maiden lady, for example, may sublimate her parental instinct by working for child welfare. She might adopt children or work with them and for them in a school, a hospital or an orphan asylum. In the same way a man's tendency towards criminality may be sublimated by becoming an officer of the law and getting his fill of excitement by running down criminals.

Strictly speaking you do not sublimate in the sense of finding satisfaction in something else. After all it is the self, the man that must be satisfied and not any specific wish or impulse. The baby cries for the moon as long as he has his mind concentrated on it and thinks it is quite essential to his happiness. But the moment you divert his attention to a toy balloon he forgets about the moon. He has found something else to take up his attention.

We all sublimate in this sense. When we find that we can't have what we want we shift to something that we can get.

There is need for sublimation or substitution of our unfulfilled wishes and desires because we have so many impulses which are impossible and a great many more that are injurious to ourselves and our reputations. Those which are injurious to our reputation are taken care of by the law courts. Society will not permit us to do many things that we would like to do. These are the things which are prohibited by law.

If we decide to be respectable as most of us do, we are compelled to renounce our anti-social and selfish impulse. This is done by sublimation or substitution. Like all other substitutes it is at best pretty poor stuff. Some will accept no substitute and hence get into worse trouble by running afoul of the laws of health and the code of the land.

He is a wise man who can get along on certain types of substitutes.

Why do you do what you do. Ask Dr. Thomson, write him care of this paper, and send stamped addressed envelope for reply.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, But Do Not Compel

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1928

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Adverse aspects dominate today, according to astrology which reads in the stars certain threatening signs.

Women who confine their interests to private life should benefit, while this configuration prevails, for household ambitions are well directed.

This should be an auspicious wedding date, although there may be a tendency on the part of the husband to rule with an iron will.

Theatres and places of amusement should prosper at this time when there will be a general interest in entertainments of every sort.

The planetary government today is read as likely to encourage dissensions and even bitter fights involving persons of prominence.

High nervous tension may be prevalent and it will affect domestic harmony. Wives should be patient with ill-tempered husbands, while this rule continues.

Farmers and all who till the soil may be affected by the direction of the stars which emphasizes troubles of every sort.

Special care should be taken to protect livestock from disease, for there is a sign read as presaging some sort of an epidemic.

November is to be a month stimulating to business and encouraging to many lines of professional work.

Saturn and Venus seem to presage unusual weather with a recurrence of floods and much cold early in the autumn season.

Florida and certain parts of the west will benefit through the winter for many refugees will seek mild climates.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year of unusual interest. They should be especially cautious about signing legal papers and about writing love letters.

Children born on this day may be inclined to be too carefree. These subjects of Scorpio usually are exceedingly democratic and popular. They should be wisely educated and guided.

Living tortoises with colored precious stones set in their shells are now ousting Alsatian dogs as pets among the "smart set."

UNCLE WIGGILY

By HOWARD R. GARIS

To-day's Bedtime Story

UNCLE WIGGILY'S LITTLE CIRCUS

(Copyright, 1928, McClure Syndicate.)

Uncle Wiggily opened the door of his hollow stump bungalow for Lootie the Leaf Hopper. The little girl bug who had lost her little brother Doodle and who thought she saw a big giant Leaf Hopper out on the rabbit's front porch, skipped behind the door.

"Don't be afraid, Lootie," said Uncle Wiggily, who, as I told you in the story before this one had lost his glasses. "You need have no fear of even a giant Leaf Hopper. I'll fix him!"

"I hope you do and I hope you find Doodle," whispered Lootie.

By this time Uncle Wiggily was out on the front steps. On each side of the door was a sort of bench where those who rang the bell could sit and rest themselves while waiting to be et in.

All of a sudden Lootie flew up on one of the benches and then she buzzed out loud:

"Oh, see! Here's the giant Leaf Hopper and he must have my little brother Doodle for I see Doodle's pants and they're bright red."

"Where?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I mean where is the giant Leaf Hopper?" he went on, for he could see nothing but the bench on which Lootie was perched.

"There," said the little bug girl, and she pointed at—what do you think? Yes, you have guessed it. At Uncle Wiggily's lost glasses! There they were on the porch seat just where he had forgotten and left them. And no sooner had the rabbit gentleman begun to thank Lootie for finding his spectacles than, all of a sudden, another voice cried:

"Oh, I see a giant Leaf Hopper. Oh, he must have caught my sister Lootie. Oh, dear!"

"Why that sounds like Doodle!" said Lootie.

"And that sounds like Lootie!" cried Doodle, for there he was sitting on the porch seat, behind Uncle Wiggily's glasses, while Lootie was in front of them.

Now Uncle Wiggily's glasses were very strong so they would make little letters in newspapers and books seem very large, like giant letters. And when Lootie looked through the glasses and saw her little brother Doodle on the other side, the glass made him seem so large that he appeared to be a giant. And when Doodle looked through Uncle Wiggily's glasses at Lootie, she, too, seemed to be a very big Leaf Hopper.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily when he saw Lootie and Doodle come out from in front of and behind the glasses so each was the regular size.

"Now you are all right, my dears. You have found each other. But tell me, I never saw Leaf Hoppers before. What do you do?"

"In summer," said Lootie, "we hop from leaf to leaf."

"But in winter there are no green leaves here for us to hop around on, you see," spoke Doodle. "So we were thinking of going down South where there is no cold weather, and we started to go to your bungalow to ask our way down South when I saw these funny things," and Doodle pointed at the bunny's glasses.

"I saw them, too," spoke Lootie, "and when I missed you, Doodle dear, and saw you through the spectacles and you looked so big, I thought a giant had you."

Then the Leaf Hoppers laughed and Uncle Wiggily said they might live in the warm cellar of his bungalow all winter and hop from one stick of wood to another until summer came again.

So the Leaf Hoppers did this. And one Saturday it rained so the bunny boys and girls could not go out to play.

"Oh, dear!" sighed Baby Bunty. "What can we do to have fun?"

"How would you all like to go to a little circus?" asked Uncle.

"We would love that!" cried the rabbit children.

"Come down cellar then," invited Mr. Longears. And down in the warm cellar Doodle and Lootie were jumping about from stick to stick like circus acrobats and tumblers. The Leaf Hoppers turned somersaults and pepper-saults and vinegarsaults and cut up so many tricks that the bunny children laughed until they almost cried.

"Oh, what a jolly circus!" shouted Baby Bunty. And before they knew it the rainy Saturday was at an end and it was time to go to bed. They had a wonderful time seeing the Leaf Hoppers' circus.

Senior Rugby Loop Finals May Delay Play-Off

POSSIBILITY OF THREE-CORNER TIE IN O. R. F. U.

Tie in Rugby Union May Change the Present Arrangements.

CAUSES SOME ANXIETY.

Disruption of Schedule For Canadian Union Fixtures Feared.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—There were no upsets last Saturday in the eastern senior football games, but victories by Queen's University and Tigers just about settled the races in two unions. The Ontario Union jam is causing a lot of anxiety, and, with the prospect that there will be a three-cornered deadlock in one of the groups hovering in the offing. Canadian Union and O.R.F.U. heads have real cause to worry and glance with apprehension at the schedules.

Unlike the Intercollegiate Union teams, the squads in the Sarnia-U. of T.-Kitchener group do all their winning on the home grounds, and it's about a twenty-five-to-one shot that this state of affairs will continue to exist. The survivors are scheduled to meet the other group champions in a sudden-death game on Thanksgiving Day, but a tie-up would wreck these plans.

While Tigers have practically made sure of the Big Four title for the second consecutive season, they can yet be tied for the lead. To get into a tangle like this they would have to lose to Montreal and to Ottawa at Hamilton, and the Winged Wheelers would have to win against Argos here. While many believe that the Wheelers will win their last two starts, there are few who imagine that the Ottawa Senators can tame the Tiger in his lair. No stranger thing has ever happened, but just the same breaks are breaks, and football is a funny game at times.

Tigers To Keep Record Intact.

The Bengals are going into the game at Montreal determined to win their tenth game in the last eleven starts in the Big Four. They have no intention of easing the pressure, and they may open up the play—probably will do so—and may thus improve their attack and depart from the safety-first methods that they have relied on to date

Argos will be at Ottawa next Saturday, and if they play up to form will win, but the Senators are in a battling mood, and would dearly love to down their old rivals. Both are in the cellar and one of them wants to get out.

Argos looked like world-beaters in the game against Ottawa here, but they weren't so impressive at Hamilton, Tigers being responsible for the turn of the tide. Argos are well balanced with power distributed almost perfectly. Frank Turville and "Pee Wee" Chantler form one of the best catching and running backfields in senior football, and Bruce Hutchinson and "Pug" Irwin are two of Canada's finest outside wings. Those who minimize gains from scrimmage and claim that all a team needs is a kicker, an airtight backfield and two smart outside wings, have food for thought in the present plight of the Argos, who have won only one game in four starts.

Montreal Has Star Backfield

The Winged Wheelers of Montreal have the best backfield of them all, but they have lost two games, their percentage being .500. Therefore the wing line has at last come into its own. Tigers have crushed all opposition with the greatest wing line that Canadian football has ever produced. This line has not been held even in the last two years, and in the Dominion final against Balmy Beach last fall, Tigers plunged or ran the ends for yards seventeen times, while Balmy Beach moved the yard sticks on three lone occasions. "Pep" Leadleys' inability to kick a heavy, greasy ball was the biggest factor in the defeat of the Bengals. Leadley, who lacked the physical strength of giants like Bert Gibb and "Yip" Foster, never showed to advantage as a punter on a wet field. Tigers had no other kicker available last fall, and therefore on the day's play the better team won the championship.

It might be interesting to recall that Balmy Beach scored six points in the first minute of the game. But from then until the finish the courageous Tiger wing line offset the brilliant gains made by Foster and Moore and outscored Balmy Beach by 6 to 3. For doing this Tigers received not the slightest bit of credit, but facts are facts.

TORONTO MEN TO TAKE OVER CLUB, PRESIDENT SAYS

HAMILTON, Oct. 30.—If a professional hockey team is operated in Hamilton this winter, it will be controlled by outside interests. That is the sum and substance of the situation now, for it has been practically decided that the local men who showed signs of interest have eliminated themselves from the race.

Monday, President King called Percy Thompson over long-distance and asked regarding the possibility of the club going to the post. The latter told the League head that the situation was very doubtful, whereupon Mr. King asked for details concerning the price of the franchise, etc., and told Mr. Thompson he would call back later. This he did, with the information that Toronto men had been secured to take over the franchise.

Mr. King questioned the erstwhile Hamilton manager regarding the possibility of gathering a team together, and Mr. Thompson assured him that he had been offered players by many clubs and thought it possible to secure the strongest team that ever represented this city in the Canpro. loop.

WESTERN TAKEN INTO BIG LOOP

University Will Play Senior Intercollegiate Rugby Next Season.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—University of Western Ontario will compete in senior intercollegiate rugby next season. A new stadium will be erected at the Western oval and will be completed in sufficient time for next year's games. At a meeting of the senior Intercollegiate Rugby union, a recommendation was forwarded to the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic union, which is the parent body, requesting that Western be admitted.

The recommendation from the senior Intercollegiate Rugby union means that Western is admitted The recommendation will come before the parent body as a matter of routine.

McGill, Queen's and Toronto Varsity were unanimous in their decision to have Western admitted to the senior series. Prof. N. C. Hart represented Western and presented the application. He assured the representatives of the other three universities that Western would have a new stadium. Western's admittance to senior rugby will result in the senior intercollegiate teams being active every Saturday, instead of only two of the three teams playing weekly, which is now the case.

FOOTBALL RACES NARROWING DOWN

Queens, Tigers and the Beaches Look Strongest as Contenders.

TORONTO, October 30. — Following Saturday's rugby games, the championship races are narrowing, and, in the Intercollegiate and Big Four unions, it appears as if last year's winners will again be called upon to decide the provincial championship. Though they have yet to meet McGill, Queen's are again conceded the series for the sixth time in seven years, and Hamilton Tigers, needing one game in two yet to play, and still undefeated, have practically cinched the Big Four. The Tigers proved their right to defend the title by winning from Argonauts at Hamilton on Saturday, 14 to 2, when they gave a high-class performance. Although they placed a rejuvenated team, strengthened in the backfield by Bea and Baillie from the minors, University of Toronto were unable to withstand the attacks of their lifelong rivals from the Limestone City, and were forced to accept a 16 to 4 defeat before the largest football crowd of the season.

Ottawa Well Beaten.

The Montreal Winged Wheelers administered a 21 to 0 defeat to the Senators at Ottawa, and will give the Hamilton Tigers a warm reception next Saturday at the Metropolis. While officers were pointing out in the committee room why Western University should enter the senior group, St. Michael's College twelve were defeating the London students on the latter's field, 12 to 9, to win the intermediate collegiate group title.

Kitchener-Waterloo leads the race in their section of the O.R.F.U. with their victory over Sarnia, 10 to 7, at Kitchener, while Camp Borden sent Hamilton Tigers home with a 28 to 3 defeat.

Balmy Beach were idle on Saturday. They meet Hamilton next week.

C.G.E. SHOP LEAGUE

Tool Room No. 1 gained a decisive victory over their fellow die makers last week taking three straight games in a real walk-away manner. George William piled up the wood for a total of 303 points which will stand for awhile as a record in this group. His total of 694 was good also as no other played topped the 600 mark.

Industrial Control No. 2 gained two points in a duel with Tool Room No. 2 that was marked by steady bowling on the part of the winners, especially Batly and Hillier. High score went to T. Heffernan with 221 and high trio to Hillier who scored 549.

Engineers League.

Switchboard No. 2 managed to shake the jinx that has been following them since their first victory and outclassed the Induction Motor Bowlers in two games, and total pinnage. I. McRae for the Switchboard salted away the high single score with 219 but was nosed out of high three by Saltman who made 542, one pin more than him.

A.C. Engineers are also beginning to display their fighting spirit winning two games from the Industrial Control Section which gave them six more points. The gunners in this fracas were Bill Stewart with 227 and W. Cruthers 212 single. Cruthers also made high total for three games, 502.

Bankers' League.

The coin handlers unlimbered their bowling arms again for the second time this season in last week's league fixture. The Montreal Bank won three from the hard fighting Commerce crew who battled right up to the last frame losing two games by a margin of 13 pins and 9 pins which bespeaks some keen competition. 226 pins was high for one game being secured by Robertson, who also collected high three with 339 total.

The Royal Bank took the Toronto boys into camp winning two games and high pinnage, a total of four points although only one of the Royalites went over 200, this being Baird who had 249 and 528 high single and triple.

Dominion Bank Artists cleaned up on the Nova Scotia aggregation in no uncertain manner with a heavy score of 2570 which was high total pinnage for the night. This three game win ties them for second place with the Bank of Montreal. Anderson hammered the little pins for a total of 275, just four pins short of the league record for one game. The three game total record was broken by Anderson, who made 616 pins.

Victoria Defenceman Signs With Maroons

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press.) — Stewart Shearer, husky defenceman with Victorias, Allan Cup finalists last spring, appeared on the ice at the forum yesterday with the Montreal Maroons. He has not yet been signed by the local professional team, but is being given a trial Bill Phillips, substitute centre, is now the only player missing from the pre-season workouts, but he is expected this week.

VIEWS ON SPORT

There will be a meeting of hockey players this week when some important matters will come up concerning a coach.

The local hockey situation is very good when one comes to look it over. Of course there will be no senior team this year. But there is a rosy look to the junior and intermediate prospect. There are a large number of last year's players on the junior team that can still make the age limit.

• • • • • •

Here are some of the good junior players of last year who ought to be good for this season: Bill Cripps, "Pat" Calladine, Hatton, Bernie Jones, Jimmie Gillespie and Terry Hall. Several of these players have already begun to get into shape for hockey.

• • • • • •

The intermediates too have been lining up some of their players, and they should send out no mean team. They have Ted LeBarr, Kenneally, Eddie Williams, Fred Cripps and "Sailor" Maudsley, the left-handed star of the Raybestos pitching staff who is a smart stick handler. Then there are several of last year's juniors who are good enough to move up to intermediate company.

• • • • • •

Belleville has no rink this season and will play their games in Trenton. The Trenton and Belleville juniors are combining in their efforts to form a strong aggregation.

• • • • • •

Oshawa High School defeated Lindsay C.I. 23 to 7 in the Scugog town. This means that Oshawa and P.C.I. are still tied at the top of the heap and makes a play off for honors almost certain.

• • • • • •

Albert College twelve won the championship of Group A of the Bay of Quinte Interscholastic League when they defeated the Belleville Collegiate 20 to 2. They will play off with Picton to declare a winner of the group.

• • • • • •

Benny Leonard, new owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is finding that boxers are not the only athletes who want real money for their efforts. All of his Canadian hockey players but one are holdouts and the whole team is disrupted on the money question.

REGINA RUGBY TEAM LIKELY CONTENDER

Friction Between College Union and Club League Delays Definite Announcement.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 30.—If the Regina Rough Riders are successful in the play-off for the Western Canada football title they will proceed east in quest of national honors. The Western body drew them against British Columbia in the final, but at present the matter is miles up in the air for the Coast team leading the league happens to be University of British Columbia, and they claim they will not meet Regina, but instead hope to bring the winner of the Western Canada Intercollegiate Union to Vancouver for an exhibition game on Thanksgiving Day, the same date as the Western Canada Union scheduled the final at Vaucouver for Regina.

It looks from here as though the Rough Riders will not get another game before they proceed East, for there is distinct friction evident between Western Intercollegiate Union officials and Western Canada Union officials, and this may be the first open display of their feelings.

At the meeting of the Western Canada Union at Regina Saturday the meeting approached the whole question as one of differences in guarantees, but it was only whitewashing the solution, for British Columbia have turned down the proposals again.

Regina will certainly make the Eastern invasion. In fact they have been working toward that goal since early summer. "Howie" Milne has had his warriors drilling steadily night after night, and has the smoothest aggregation of players in moleskins that has ever come out of the West. This may seem necessary to Eastern critics, but it is certainly true.

LALONDE WANTED AS FALLS COACH

Strong Team Will Represent Niagara Falls in Canpro League.

NIAGARA FALLS, Oct. 29.—Newsy Lalonde, now in Montreal, will likely be the coach of the Niagara Falls Canadian League team. He has been made an offer which it is believed he will accept. The Canpro franchise has been transferred from the New York Americans to the directors of the Niagara Falls Arena and it is confidently hoped that a strong team will represent Niagara Falls this season.

Three players have been signed by the new management, they being Harry Quesnell, "Dutch" Cain, and Bill McLeod. Contracts will likely be signed by Paddy Farrell, Paddon, Harold McDougall, Jack Markle and "Butch" Kelterborn within the next few days. Arrangements are being made with other seasoned players, as well as some ambitious amateurs.

Ice making was started to-day in the local Arena and will be ready for practice by Thursday. The Falls pro team will practice at the local Arena.

KING EDWARD BOYS CHAMPIONS

Defeated King George Two To Nil For Alex Kay Soccer Trophy.

WINNERS RECEIVE PENCILS.

King Edward School soccer team won the Alex. Kay trophy yesterday afternoon at King Edward Park from the King George eleven by the score of two goals to nothing, in a splendid game of the scientific code. There was no difference in the teams except that the winners had a more solid defence that held the opposition outside the dangerous area. Hunter had no chance to stop the goals that were scored against him. Calladine, Gardener, Mitchell, and Epps were the best for the losers, while the star of the game was the miniature Todd on the right wing who played the position well. It was from his play that the goals came on each occasion. Then follows the defence carrying the honors in every department. The goal-scorers were Garnett Jamieson and Sam Mackness. King Edward now receive the school championship cup, and each player on the team will be presented with an Eversharp pencil at a later date.

First Half.

Captain Field won the toss from Captain Calladine, and decided to kick into the east ogal. Gardener set the ball rolling for the King Edward boys, who were the first to make headway toward the winners' citadel. They worked inside the defence to get them upset but Miller had to come out of goal to stop Calladine in the nick of time. Price carried the attack back into the East City boys' territory, to witness a poor attempt at goal. Midfield play continued for a while until Gardener forced the issue against the King Edward full backs. Time and again he made openings for his team-mates, but they could not keep pace with his progress. For the next ten minutes King Edward had an anxious time trying to keep the King Edward boys away from the goal. Just before half-time, Price got the better of a close tackle against Calladine and slipped the ball out to Jamieson who beat along the wing, to beat the opposing halves cleverly, then centred to Watkins. The latter tested Hunter with a low drive that the custodian threw out of danger. Boyler punted it back again where a scrimmage ensued in front of goal. Jamieson tackled Todd on the right wing as he missed the upright with an excellent effort. Quick as a flash, King George returned to their opposition goal and held the upper hand until the whistle sounded half-time. No scoring.

Half-Time.

On resuming after the five-minute rest, both teams paid visits to the respective goalkeepers to test the ability of the custodians. Miller grasping a hot drive from Gardener at the side of the post. Lipsett punted back again to miss the crossbar with a long drive that sailed over, very much to Miller's relief. After ten minutes' battling that run from end to end with many exciting moments intertwined between each attack, Todd carried the attack on the right wing into the flag corner where he beat three men in succession. He slipped the ball back to Watkins of the King Edward team who gave it a gentle tip across to Jamieson who run in to meet the cross at the opportune moment to open the scoring. King George replied with a spirited attack that tested the qualities of the winners' half-back line that never faltered. The marked man being Calladine, and it was noticeable during the tussle that Price hung on to him like glue, and this, no doubt, prevented him from being dangerous at any time, of course, the King Edward boy was an artist while in possession of the ball and the close tackling between these two players proved very interesting. Seven minutes to go, Watkins harrassed the opposing defence time and again inside their goal area to get them in a mix-up, although he broke through once himself to test Hunter with a rocket drive that was turned round the post by the custodian. The corner kick brought success to King Edward boys when Watkins centred from the flag post into the goal-mouth where Sam Mackness connected with his left foot to give the custodian no chance to save the quick shot. During the remainder of the game King George endeavored to even up the game, but found Miller unbeatable. King Edward winning by two goals to nothing in one of the best school games played.

The Teams.

King George—M. Hunter, goal; Kimbell and R. Epps, full backs; T. Williamson, C. Lipsett, and E. Mitchell, halves; F. Thornley, S. Williamson, J. Gardner, N. Calladine, and Bill Ellis, forwards.

King Edward—Miller, goal; Thompson and Richardson, full backs; Field, Price and Boyler halves; Jamieson, Mackness, Mowry, Watkins, and Todd, forwards.

RANGERS TEAM SIGN CONTRACTS

Both New York and N. H. L. Squads Start Ice Practice.

SEASON OPENS NOV. 15TH.

NEW YORK, October 30. — The New York Americans started training yesterday at New Haven, and practically the full squad reported. Though they do not start here until November 15, the Americans will open the N.H.L. season in Ottawa on November 15. From there they will go back to New Haven and not appear in New York until a few hours before the first local game.

Every player on the champion New York Ranger team is now under contract. This information was imparted by Colonel John S. Hammond, head of the club, upon his return from Springfield, Mass., where he had gone to line up the last of the hold-outs. Though there never was much doubt that the players eventually would come to terms, Colonel Hammond was anxious to get all of the financial difficulties ironed out as early as possible, so that the team would settle down to its training for its opening game November 18, and there would be no dissatisfaction. The last of the players to sign were Frank Boucher, Keeling, and Paul Thompson.

Training for the champions started in earnest yesterday, according to Colonel Hammond, when the Rangers squad and the Springfield team take to the ice at Springfield. Myles Lane, the former Dartmouth star, is to report to Manager Patrick. Lane is the first United States College star to have been signed by a pro. team. The Rangers, winners of the Stanley Cup last April, are confronted with a tradition in hockey which they want to upset. That tradition is that no winner of the Stanley Cup ever repeated.

ARGOS PLAYERS INJURED IN CRASH

Were Returning From Game at Hamilton and Hit a Parked Truck.

HAMILTON, Oct. 30.—Seriously injured when their car crashed into a parked truck at the beach on Saturday night, three Argo players are in St. Joseph's hospital. The men, who were returning to Toronto after the Argo-Tiger game are: Alfred Stevens, driver; Chester Nichols and William Langridge.

Their injuries consist of lacerations and bruises. The passenger car was knocked from the chassis by the impact and the three men were thrown out. Nichols was stunned by the fall and lay unconscious on the road. He had a narrow escape when he was pulled by a passerby from the path of an oncoming car. Nichols' arm was in a sling as the result of being broken in Montreal a week ago but fortunately his injured arm was not affected. The fact that there was a heavy mist is the only explanation offered for the accident.

BALTIMORE CLUB ON AUCTION BLOCK

International League Club For Sale to Highest Bidder.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 30.—The Baltimore Orioles of the International League will be sold to the highest bidder as soon as an appraisal of the club's properties here can be made, Mrs. Dunn, widow of Jack Dunn, announced yesterday at a meeting of the directors. Charles H. Knapp, executor of the Dunn estate and for fifteen years Dunn's legal adviser, was elected President.

The meeting was attended by Joseph J. Hock of Arundel Corporation; William F. O'Hara, General Manager of the Bowie race course; Fritz Maisel captain of the Orioles; Leo Denon, former Secretary and William Ashton, former Vice-President.

Under the terms of Dunn's will, which was filed several days ago at Towson, Md., Mrs. Dunn was bequeathed his entire estate which includes 998 of the 1,250 shares in the Oriole baseball club.

It is believed Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics and Clarke Griffith of the Washington Senators will bid for the Orioles. Mack had figured in many baseball deals with Dunn and helped the late Baltimore magnate with players and money during the Federal League days here. It is said also that Tris Speaker is interested in the Orioles.

According to Knapp and Mrs. Dunn, there have been no offers made as yet for the purchase of the club. President Knapp said that he would get an immediate appraisal of the baseball holdings—which include the baseball grounds, stands, franchise and contracts of the players, in addition to the grounds opposite the park that were owned by Dunn—and then the company would be open for bids.

The appointment of a manager was deferred until later in the year. According to Knapp, there was little need of electing a man to manage at the present time.

ALL ONTARIO BALL LEAGUE SUGGESTED BY ORGANIZER

National Association President Would Extend Assistance in Organizing Loop.

SIX CLUB CIRCUIT.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 30.—With the annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues but a little more than one month away, President Michael Sexton is inquiring regarding the possibility of organizing an All-Ontario league for operation next spring. He has hopes that such a six or eight club circuit could be organized and in readiness to at least take the initial steps toward organizing at the Toronto gathering of the minor league moguls on December 5.

Fans throughout the Intercounty League especially would welcome the revival of organized ball, having been deprived of it since 1925, since it is admitted that baseball is popular in cycles of about four or five years. Class "C" or even "D" ball could be made prosperous in Ontario under restrictions regarding salaries and proper application of proper business methods, and at the stame time provide rules that would force each club to carry four or five Canadian players.

It was stated last week that George ("Knotty") Lee, scout for the Toronto Leafs, was about to embark on another campaign to reorganize the Michigan-Ontario League, but so far has not been heard of since the funeral of John Dunn, the Baltimore magnate.

It is thought that Lee might sound out the Ontario league idea before reaching out to Michigan cities, though there is an advantage in having the M.-O. revived, as it makes possible to play Sunday baseball aside from the fact that two sets of holidays, Canadian and United States, also are available.

RE-ORGANIZE McGILL TEAM

Tentative Alterations Have Lovering Flying Wing and Smythe in Backfield.

MUST WIN SATURDAY.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—The McGill University senior football squad will resume practices to-day in preparation for their game with Queen's University at Kingston Saturday. The Red team must win in Kingston or Queen's will have added another championship to their long list since the war, and McGill will be just another long campaign away from that title that has eluded them for nine successive years.

Although Queen's will clinch the college title with a victory Saturday, a win for McGill will not definitely settle the Intercollegiate championship. McGill must win both their remaining games to take the 1928 honors. A win at Kingston and a loss to University of Toronto in the final here would create another three-cornered tie.

The Red team is undergoing certain adjustments this week, calculated to strengthen the squad, both offensively and defensively for the important struggle. Although no definite changes have been made, tentative alterations to the line-up have switched Bill Lovering to flying wing and sent Urquhart to outside wing with Don Young. This leaves a place in the backfield for young "Normie" Smythe, who made a sensational showing against the Cadets on Saturday. Tremain and Doherty will complete the backfield and the only other contemplated shift is at snap, where Swabey will be given a trial to relieve Munroe for middle and inside wing work.

Cochet and Wills Lead World Court

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Henry Cochet and Miss Helen Wills head the lists of the "world's first ten" tennis players, named by S. Wallis Myers, British writer and critic of the game, and announced in the current issue of "American Lawn Tennis."

Cochet succeeds his countryman, Rene Lacoste, who was first in 1927, and Bill Tilden, who trails both of the French stars, having dropped a notch. The runner-up to Miss Wills again is Senorita Lili De Alvarez of Spain.

The United States has four representatives in the men's first ten individuals who made it last year. France, on the other hand, has three instead of four, the veteran Jacques Brugnon, having failed to make the grade.

In the women's ranking the United States with three representatives has one less than last year, Mrs. Molla Mallory and Mrs. A. H. Chapin having failed to repeat while Helen Jacobs is the American newcomer.

ASSOCIATION NOW STRONGER

L. E. Edmunds Outlines Views of Present Boxing Situation.

STRONG IN WEST.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Any idea that the National Boxing Association is about to lose power because of dissention within its ranks or the withdrawal of Canadian and some Eastern allies must be revised, according to Leslie E Edmonds, executive secretary of the Kansas State Athletic Commission.

Edmonds, chairman of the N.B.A.'s Legislation Committee and a prime mover in the new regime, believes that instead of losing strength the association actually has gained power by a combination of forces, especially in the Middlewest and South, now under the leadership of Paul Prehn of Illinois.

Prehn was the candidate of the Middle Western boxing interests as a group, Edmonds points out in a statement to the Associated Press, outlining his views of events leading up to the recent N.B.A. convention in Toronto.

The association's refusal to accept Thomas A. Murphy, chairman of the Canadian Boxing Federation, as a Presidential candidate led to Canada's withdrawal from the N.B.A., and negotiations for alliance with the New York State Athletic Commission. Representatives of Connecticut and New Jersey sat in on the negotiations.

"I believe the men now in control of the N.B.A. look on their offices as trusts," said Edmonds. "I believe the N.B.A. will go forward. Its principles are too important to permit the changes in personnel in member States to affect its usefulness. As for the States that are supposed to contemplate secession, the N.B.A. is more important to them than they are to it.

"It will be amusing to us in the West who have pleaded and worked for independence of the domination of the large Eastern States to see the little fellows snuggling up to New York and taking orders, as in the days before the N.B.A. was formed."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

"RAMONA" AGAIN DELIGHTS PETERBOROUGH THEATRE GOERS UPON IT'S RETURN TO THE CAPITOL LAST NIGHT. MISS GERALDINE M. COLLINS, SINGS THEME SONG.

"RAMONA" is at the Capitol for a three day return engagement. This record breaking film sensation again delighted Capitol patrons last night, when it was presented the same as during the initial engagement, with Miss Geraldine M. Collins singing the theme song of the picture.

Two men had eyes that followed Ramona—one, Alessandro, the Indian; the other, Felipe, whom she adored as a brother. But Alessandro it was who carried her off to the land of his fathers. There, life was Paradise. She loved with all the fervid emotion which had been her inheritance from an Indian mother and a Spanish sire. As for Alessandro, the white blossom was the hub round which his universe revolved. Morning, noon, night — always thoughts of Ramona.

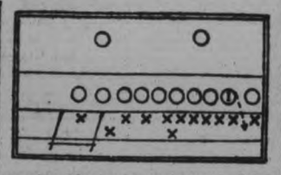
Then came disaster, swooping down on them, a bolt from the blue. Suddenly, the world had become a thing of chaos, ruin. Laughter froze into tears, Death stalked where life had been. In two mightly, cruel gestures Alessandro and the child were gone.

Days passed. Days in which Ramona's mind wandered and with it, her frail little body. Days of burning bitterness. Hours of torment. Minutes of fiery hell. What could come now?

See adorable Dolores Del Rio in "Ramona". Edwin Carewe, the man who directed Dolores in "Resurrection," has never made a finer film than his version of Helen Hunt Jackson's famous novel!

FAMOUS CANADIAN RUGBY GAMES, PLAYS AND PLAYERS

By NICK BAWLF— Former star football, lacrosse and hockey player, now coach at Cornell



"Casey" Baldwin, one of the University of Toronto's rugby immortals performed one of the quickest and brainiest plays ever seen on a Canadian gridiron and with it made a touchdown to tie the score. Whit Lailey converted the touch, thereby defeating the Ottawa Rough Riders 11-9 for the Canadian championship. The score was 9-5 for the Ottawas, a big powerful team, and only a few minutes to play. Varsity was given a free kick on the Ottawa's 5-yard line. Everybody, even the Ottawas, expected a high punt goalwards. "Casey" crossed them. He spread his Blue line across the field and with the toot of the referee's whistle, he simply touched the leather to the toe of his boot and dashed for the last white stripe which he wiggled across for the tieing score. Here is a diagram of the play. The ball didn't have to travel five or more yards forward back in 1895.

The line-up:

Varsity—Fullback, Southam; halfbacks, McPherson, McInnes Baldwin; quarter, Montague; scrimmage, Johnstone, Burnham, Ritchie; inside, Lailey, Davidson; middles, Burns, Ross; outsides, Lash, Reynolds.

Ottawa—Fullback, Dunning; halfbacks, McGee, Raphael, Rankin; quarter Smith; scrimmage, Sherriff Kennedy, Buckham; insides, M. Walters, Ferguson; middles, Pulford, Shillington; outsides, Moore, Lafleur.

Dr. A. W. MacPherson and Frank Burnham, two local men, played on halfback and scrimmage positions respectively for Varsity in this game.

To-morrow—The great Queens-Argo game of 1922.

AT THE REGENT

"THE HUNCHBACK" IS TRIUMPH AT LOCAL OPENING

In producing "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," Carl Laemmle believed it would be, like the book, a work of creative art with the permanence of the ancient cathedral itself and a picture for all days to come.

He expected Victor Hugos immortal classic to be the crowning achievement of the screen —a picture that people would want to see over and over—and in every way his anticipations have been realized, if the enthusiasm of the audience at the Regent Theatre last night is any criterion.

"The Hunchback of Notre Dame" is a cinemagraphic masterpiece in the truest sense of the word. The sets, which include representations of the Cathedral of Notre Dame, the Court of Miracles, Place de Parvis, Palais du Justice, the Bastile and many streets of Paris of the period of Louis XI, are gems of mingled beauty, magnificence, quaintness, and are, above all, genuine replicas of a historic city whose greatness is thus conveyed forever on the silver sheet —the new art of the present and of the future.

But aside from the production itself, never has such a remarkably individual performance been given as that of Lon Chaney in the stellar role of "Quasimodo," the deformed bell ringer of Notre Dame.

piece, a Sonata by Beethoven, by Miss Helen Paton of Pontypool, gold medallis in the open piano competition.

The president of the Kiwanis Club, J. John, acted as a chairman, and discharged his arduous duties in his usual capable and efficient manner. He opened the program with the following remarks:

"We are met to-night for the closing event of the Music Festival sponsored by the Kiwanis Club.

"This festival has only been made possible by the co-operation of the musical interests in our city and those who have kindly come forward and donated medals and shields. To those making these donations I want to say we deeply appreciate your interest and generosity.

"The excellent showing made by the various contestants is a tribute to the work of our music teachers, and it must be a great satisfaction to them to see their pupils attain success.

"Music is one of the avenues through which our civilization is lifted and it is well that our citizens in some way recognize those showing outstanding ability and in sponsoring this Music Festival the Kiwanis Club feel they are rendering a service to the community."

Good Showing

In presenting the various awards, the speakers referred in complimentary terms to the very satisfactory showing made by those taking part and also to the encouragement given to the progress of good music in the community, by Kiwanis Club, in organizing the Musical Festival in connection with their Fair. The splendid array of shields and silver medals presented an imposing appearance on a table in front of the choir loft.

The musical program was interrupted by the presentation, made by Mayor Denne, of a testimonial from the Royal Humane Association of Hamilton. This was made to Miss Wilson in recognition of her courage in rescuing a little boy, Herbert Bowen, from drowning, last July.

The program will be published tomorrow evening.

DIES IN PRISON.

Sixty-two Year Old "Blue Beard" Succumbs While Awaiting Trial.

MARSEILLES, France, Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press.)—Pierre Rey, alias Jerome Prat, 62 year lod "blue beard," charged with the murder of three fiancees, died in prison to-day. The preliminary hearings were held last week. Rey was arrested in Africa after the police found bodies of two women near his villa.

PICTURES SHOW EUROPEAN TRIP

Fred L. Roy Exhibits Films in Reid Street Sunday School Hall.

COMPLETE TOUR.

F. L. Roy displayed for the first time last night at Reid Street Hall, his motion pictures of his summer tour through the British Isles and parts of Europe. He started by showing pictures of his own home, then Montreal and the St. Lawrence river, mid-ocean scenes, views of Ireland, Scotland, England, Belgium, France and Wales.

The program was opened by Rev. David Wren, who called upon Mrs. George King, visiting here from Windsor, who gave two vocal numbers, accompanied by her husband. Mr. Roy opened his part of the program with a short address. He pointed out that he would not be pale to give everything in detail, but would make it as interesting as possible.

Life on board the ship was shown in good detail, especially the crew inspection and a play entitled the "Sahara Tragedy," written and enacted on board. The first country toured was Ireland and the pictures of the Shannon and Killarney were very interesting. Scenes from Belfast, Bangor and the Giant Causeway were also entertaining. From Ireland the party went to Stranrear, Glasgow, and Edinburgh. Interesting pictures here included the cottage of Bobby Burns and his memorial. Scenes in Edinburgh consisted of Holywood Castle, Edinburgh Castle and a Dog Cemetery. The party moved south through England to London where they visited Trafalgar Square, Tower of London and Tower Hill. Mr. Roy was very fortunate in securing pictures of the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace and the horse guard at Whitehall. Pictures of St. Paul's Cathedral and Westminster Abbey gave a good impression of what these places were like.

Scenes On Continent.

From England the party went to Volendam, Holland and thence to Amsterdam. Here he showed quaint scenes of the Dutch people in their native costumes and the Royal Palace. Travelling from Holland, the party went through Belgium, and here they saw the grave and memorial of Edith Cavell. In France the party visited Arras and Vimy Ridge, passing through the Canadian and French front line trenches. In Paris they visited Notre Dame, Eiffel Tower, the Lake of Versailles, the Arc de Triomphe and the grave of the Unknown Soldier. After touring France the party returned again to Scotland where they visited the Firth of Forth, the Warwicks, and the famous golf links of St. Andrews. Some interesting pictures were shown of Loch Lomond, the fishing fleet of Oban and the tides at Elie. Before returning home the party toured through Wales, visiting Conway Castle, Conway Bridge, Little and Great Ormshead and the Bodelwyddan Cemetery and Church where the Canadian soldiers who died from influenza were buried. The party returned to Canada from Liverpool.

The party was under the leadership of George King, formerly of Peterborough and much of its success, Mr. Roy said, was due to him. The large audience present proclaimed it one of the best ever given in the hall.

COUNCIL ERECTS MEMORIAL GATES

Massive and impressive, the new memorial gate entrance to West Nicholls Park, better known as Jackson Park, will soon be completed by city workmen at the head of Monaghan Road. More stately than those at the East Nicholls Park, the new columns are being erected in memory of the late Mrs. Charlotte Jane Nicholls.

Work on the new gate began about two weeks ago, and when completed, two pillars three feet square and twelve feet high exclusive of capstones and electric lighting fixtures will support the main gate. The walls to either side will also have been built up, adding to the massive appearance of the entrance, while on one side will be placed a smaller entrance gate for pedestrians.

The date of completion has not been set, but according to City Engineer Parsons, it will be set for formal opening within the month of November.

REGULARS DEMAND SALARY INCREASE

Half of Cougar Squad Refuse Reduced Wages—Hay Satisfied With Terms.

WINDSOR, Oct. 30.—Just half of the squad that Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Cougars has lined up for early practice is satisfied with the terms offered by Charles Hughes, owner of the Detroit hockey sextette. Railbirds, at the first practice of the team in the Windsor Arena holding out for more money before they will sign their contract, included "Sailor" Jimmy Herberts, whose broad shouldered form ranged centre ice for Toronto Maple Leafs last season; "Puss" Traub, cast iron Cougar defence man and one of the toughest in hockey to get past; "Larry" Aurie and Carson Cooper; indefatigable Detroit right wingers.

Two Cougar defence men of last season and two new forwards for this season made up the four who have already used a fountain pen on one of Charley Hughes' contracts. Big "Reg" Noble and Gordon Fraser teamed up to halt the rushes of Bobby Conners, who has made the Olympic-to-Cougar jump, and Herbie Lewis, former star of Duluth Hornets.

Dolson in Stratford

In the midst of a three-year contract, George Hay, elusive left winger, is included in the list of "satisfied" Cougars, but he was among those absent at the first practice, for he was away on a week-end visit to relatives at Port Elgin. But his signature is offset by the sold-out tactics of "Dolly" Dolson, goalie for Stratford's champions last season, who sits at home in Stratford waiting for the postman to bring a fatter Cougar contract.

Herb Mitchell, manager of the Windsor hockey team, formerly of the Hornets, but soon to be something different, has solved the problem of a goal tender quite handily, having been assured that Abbie Cox will shortly be on hand to take the place. Herb was worried over his goal-tending problem. Last Thursday he sent Abbie a final offer and transportation, ordering him to report at once. He didn't hear from the player, whose home is in Springfield, on Friday or Saturday. So he came to the conclusion that Abbie was holding out, and opened negotiations with Montreal to get "Flat" Walsh.

Transportation Lost

But to-day Mitchell put through a long distance call to Springfield and Cox, instead of having an argument about salary, merely wanted to know what happened to his ticket. The transportation had apparently gone astray. Mitchell ordered him to board a train to-day, if he had to buy a special car, and Abbie agreed. He will be on his way to-night to be here some time to-morrow, and in uniform for the practice on Wednesday morning.

Cox is one of the midget goal-tenders, about the size of Vernon Forbes. He is active as a cat, not unlike the spectacular Forbes in his style. And he is a mighty consistent performer, as his record with the Springfield C.A.L. champions proves.

With the goal-tending question all settled, Mitchell hasn't any worries left. "Happy" Emms, Frank Carson and Gerald Green, the new members of the squad, are all going great guns. So are all the old regulars of last year. One more defence man is still to come from the Maroons, and it is probable that Mickey Roach will yet be with the club, in spite of his reported sale to London.

A Present for You

In order to get the greatest benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, treatment must be continued for some time and not a single dose should be missed.

CHALLENGE OF THE WILD

At this time when deer roam through the forest and the tracks of moose and bear are found along the streams, there is aroused in every hunter an urge, a desire to invade the great North Woods, and there in their natural habitat, match his hunter's skill against the instinct and cunning of these prized forest denizens.

The seasons for big game in Ontario this year are as follows: North of the Mattawa river and the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway to Huron Bay on Lake Superior and south of main line of Canadian National Railway—Oct. 20 to No. 25 inclusive; north of Lake Nipissing and the French River and south of Canadian Pacific Railway main line to Huron Bay—Nov. 1 to N.v. 25 inclusive except that on St. Joseph's Island in District of Algoma, season is Nov. 10 to Nov. 25 inclusive. South of French and Mattawa rivers, Nov. 5 to Nov. 20 inclusive.

Special Hunters train leaves Toronto 10.00 p.m. for Sudbury, Nov. 1, 2 and 3.

Teeth are whiter STILL . .

they are only as Healthy as the Gums

YOU may be in danger of the disease of neglect (Pyorrhea) even though your mirror reveals teeth of flashing whiteness.

Dread Pyorrhea, ignoring the teeth and attacking the gums, swoops down on the unwary. And as a penalty for neglect, 4 out of 5 after forty, and thousands younger, surrender precious health to this foe.

Take this precaution: See your dentist twice each year. And morning and night, every day, use Forhan's. It keeps teeth clean, and restores them to their natural whiteness without the use of harsh abrasives. Also it helps keep gums firm and healthy—the best protection against the attack of dread Pyorrhea.

Forhan's for the Gums is designed for the job. Get into the good habit of using this dentifrice morning and night. And massage your gums daily with Forhan's, following directions in booklet that comes with tube. In tubes, 35c and 60c.

BRITISH ARTISTS' WOOD ENGRAVINGS

Exhibition Now at Ottawa Will Be Seen in Other Canadian Cities.

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 30.—(By the Canadian Press).—A good deal of interest is being manifested in the exhibition of British wood engravers' work now being held at the National Gallery here, the exhibition embracing about 130 works of artists and illustrating the trend among wood engravers and color print makers in Great Britain at the present day. The selection of the prints was made by Herbert Ernest Augustus First, author, associate and member of the Council of the Faculty of Arts, London, England, who according to a writer in the Citizen, "has made the selection with a view to revealing tendencies rather than to displaying any particularly outstanding work of the artists represented."

With reference to the woodcuts the writer in question says: "They stand out conspicuously from the rest and indicate a return to the methods of the early wood engravers, and the abandonment of the polyglot medium of nineteenth century illustrators. And they give more than a hint of the rich possibilities there are in the woodcut used as a form of artistic expression. The contrasts of black and white, mass and line give to the genuine woodcut a beauty all its own."

As to the colored prints, they are more decoratives and have a greater literary appeal, he says, most of the examples shown being charming.

The exhibits will be shown in Montreal, Toronto and other cities in the Dominion.

CANADIAN CLUBS UNITE DOMINION

Edmonton Journal Heartily Commends Clubs' Speaking Tours.

EDMONTON, Alta., Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—An editorial on Canadian Club tours and speaking tours of public men at Canadian Clubs in various parts of the Dominion the Edmonton Journal says:

"The Association of Canadian Clubs last year initiated an experiment that brought good results and that is now to be expanded and it arranged speaking tours of public men through sections of the dominion other than their own. By this means a close bond is established between the provinces and they obtain a better knowledge of one another's problems. In November three members of the Federal Parliament from Nova Scotia are to start on journeys through to the Pacific coast in the course of which they will address a thousand clubs. We cannot have too many such interchanges of visits and the Nova Scotians may rest assured of a hearty welcome in Alberta as elsewhere."

TAUNT COSTS LIFE

Orange, N.J., Oct. 30.—Stanley Cysick, 12, taunted another boy—smaller than himself. He told him he was afraid to fight "fair fists." But the little fellow got tired of being the goat and one day he punched Stanley behind the ear, causing a cerebral hemorrhage and death.

Good horsemen usually make good air pilots, but expert racing motorists do not excel as airmen.

ASPIRIN

Headaches may be swiftly and safely relieved by an Aspirin tablet. A most efficient remedy, and there's no after effect; its use avoids much needless suffering. Try it next time; see how soon its soothing influence is felt. Just as helpful when you have a cold; neuralgia, neuritis, rheumatism, lumbago. Just be certain you get real Aspirin—the genuine has Bayer on the box, and on every tablet. All druggists, with proven directions.

Physicians prescribe Aspirin; it does NOT affect the heart

Aspirin is the trade mark (registered in Canada) indicating Bayer Manufacture. While it is well known that Aspirin means Bayer manufacture, to assure the public against imitations, the Tablets will be stamped with their "Bayer Cross" trademark.

SMALL FIRE BREAKS OUT

Firemen Get a Call To Jay's Cleaners and Dyers.

$3,000 DAMAGE.

Black smoke and flames gave the first indication of a fire at Jay's Cleaners and Dyers last night. The Fire Department received an urgent phone call from a young lady who saw the flames from her window in an apartment close by at about 10.30. The firemen quickly got to work on the blaze but it was after midnight before the flames were fully extinguished.

The damage will amount to $3,000. All the pressing machinery was destroyed and a large quantity of clothing that was in the building in process of being cleaned and pressed. However it was very fortunate that the blaze did not spread from the department where the actual cleaning took place because in that part there is considerable gasoline and other inflammable and expensive materials. The quick work of the firemen prevented any explosion.

The fire with its damage will throw out of work for several weeks the seven employees that worked for Mr. Jay in his growing business.

All damages were fully covered by insurance.

Toronto Oils Lead Making Market Firmer

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—Toronto oils took leadership in the sales on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, giving the market a firm tone. British American Oil was outstanding with 12,739 shares exchanged when the price took a jump to 51 but dropped back to 50½, a net gain of 1¼. International Petroleum gained 1¼ at 46¼, Imperial Oil up ½ to 85½; Service Stations up one to 55, and Service Stations preferred up one at 112. Seagrams was stronger than yesterday and reached 23, a gain of half a point, while Hiram Walker eased off with a drop of ⅛ to 85½. More than 1,000 shares of Brazilian were traded while at noon the price dropped one to 73¾. International Nickel continued its recovery and gained 4½ to 182½. Canada Dredge was up two at 157 and "B" preferred up a half to 109¾. Massey Harris gained ⅛ to 52, and preferred ⅛ to 109.

Wheat Values Sag, After Strong Opening

CHICAGO, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—Wheat values sagged to-day after an opening advance. Revised estimates of the wheat crop in the northern hemisphere indicated the total world crop of 298,000,000 bushels more than last year.

Opening unchanged at ⅝ up, wheat prices hardened a little more, then receded all around to below yesterday's finish. Corn and oats were firm corn starting ⅛ to ⅜ up and then holding near to initial figures.

Wheat, Dec. 117⅜, March 122¼. Corn, Dec. 81⅞, March 84½. Oats, Dec. 43⅜, March 44⅛.

Prices Irregular On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press). — Speculation quieted down considerably in to-day's stock market, with price movements showing more irregularity. Prices rallied at the opening, turned reactionary before mid-day when heavy selling developed in some of the recent favorites and then pointed upward again in the early afternoon.

Call money renewed at 7½ per cent and was in fairly plentiful supply despite calling of about $15,000,000 bank loans for the heavy month-end requirements, including distribution of about $300,000,000 in interest and dividend requirements are expected to keep rates fairly high for the remainder of the week, but an easier undertone is looked for next week. Fresh imports of gold and a reduction of ⅜ of 1 per cent on 180-day bankers' acceptances were regarded as bullish on the monetary outlook. In an effort to maintain bullish enthusiasm, pools were bringing forward a number of recently neglected issues, including the railroad equipments. International Nickel was the outstanding strong spot all day, soaring more than eight points on buying presumbably influenced by the recapitalization plan. Kolster Radio was taken in large blocks at advancing prices.

Stocks Soar Higher With Trading Heavy

TORONTO, Oct. 30 (Canadian Press).—Strength was the dominant note on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange to-day, when a wide range of issues moved into higher ground and trading was very heavy. Sherritt Gordon and Sudbury Basin were leaders of the morning, and both provided trading in excess of 25,000 shares. Sudbury advanced 25 to 8.10 and Sherritt 25 to 7.35, though it later dropped to 7.20 for a net gain of 15.

Noranda was one of the few reactionaries on the list, dropping in heavy selling to $55.00, a loss of 1.75. Hollinger was also down, dropping 25 to 9.25, and Abana was down three at 3.77. Teck Hughes moved up 25 to 8.75, and Wright Hargreaves six to 2.99. Mond Nickel was up 1.20 at 32.70, and Lake Shore 50 at 21.00. Clericy showed a sudden spurt of activity and moved up 6¼ to 25. Malartic in active trading was down four at 1.16, and Newbec was fractionally lower at 34½.

MINING BRIEFS

A Special Service to The Examiner

Newbec

Rumors of Noranda taking over control of Newbec were heard. It will be seen that owing to the presence of several directors of Noranda on the Newbec board that the rumor was easily given credence. A. B. Gordon, president of Newbec informs us however, that there is nothing in this and such steps have not been considered. Engineer Len Smith was in town this morning and some official word on progress should be issued shortly.

Conarium

It is reported that Coniarium made a profit from operations during September, this despite the fact that considerable development work was carried out during the period.

Tough Oakes

It is now stated that Tough Oakes will resume diamond drilling on their Kirkland Lake property and that some $60,000 has been raised by further financing. The mill closed down a few days ago.

Noranda

It is reported that the new shaft at the Noranda is being sunk at a much greater speed than the other shafts. The present depth of the shaft is given as 75 feet. It is understood that President J. Y. Murdoch and several of the companies are now on the property consulting with the Hon. J. E. Perrault, minister of mines for Quebec and his deputy minister.

Frank Carnegie, mine manager of the Bathurst Mines, Limited, operating in the Red Lake area, and which attracted considerable attention because of its "golden sidewalk" surface showing, wires that they have now drifted some 20 feet on the No. 3 vein on the 200-foot level. Assays have not been run yet, but Mr. Carnegie states there is a considerable amount of visible gold showing. Work has started on the foundations of the company's mill. This is a ten-ton stamp mill which will be used to treat the surface showings and gold exposed to date. The main idea is to "get a line" on milling conditions in the camp. Bathurst will be the first producers, thanks for this stamp mill. The wire also states that Tom Bathurst is expected to be in Toronto around the first of November.

It is reported that the plant at the Patterson Copper, subsidiary of the Barry-Hollinger, commenced operations over the week-end. The shaft is now said to be down to a depth of 85 feet from where it will be continued to 500 feet. E. W. Simpson is in charge of operations.

Traders are now talking Sherritt Gordon and it is the opinion on the street that there is something significant going on behind the scenes here. Latest in the way of news was the announcement that the company would not get its railway until a substantial guarantee of tonnage was given, as was the case with the Flin Flon.

The rise of copper to 16 cents a pound represents big profits for the copper producers. This rise is of special benefit to the low grade propositions in the U.S.

News From the Mines

Through

Solloway, Mills & Company

Kootenay King.

Agreement with the Britannia Mining and Smelting Company, ratified by shareholders calls for new company capitalized at $1,000,000, with 4,000,000 shares at 25 cents par. Of these, 1,000,000 shares go to original Kootenay King on basis of approximately 1 share of the new company for ⅓ share of Kootenay King. Remaining shares in escrow in two parcels. First 2,750,000 shares to be handed to the Britannia when they have brought property to point of commercial production, remaining 250,000 shares to be handed to the Britannia when Agreement is fulfilled and on payment of $250,000. The Britannia to have full operating control and commence operations immediately after May 15, 1929. All outstanding payments on bonds, property, development, etc., will be met by Britannia.

Advance in the Red Metal.

Electrolytic copper for domestic shipment was quoted at 16 cents a pound Saturday, an overnight advance of ¼ per cent, and the fifth advance in less than two months. The most urgent inquiry for the metal ever known in peace time developed in September, and the price was advanced during that month from 14¾ cents to 15¾ cents a pound. A lull of two weeks followed early this month, and then the buying was resumed, with the result that copper for domestic shipment advanced within eight days to the present level, through three successive ¼ cent advances.

With the advances foreshadowed by the statistical position of the metal, fabricators have been hastening to cover their requirements for deliveries up to the end of January. Much of the business of the past week was for January delivery, although a substantial percentage of the requirements for the remainder of this year are still uncovered.

Lake Geneva Mines.

Lake Geneva Mines Limited, controlled by the Towagmac Exploration Company, have reached a depth of 25 feet in shaft sinking operations. The shaft is to be sunk to a depth of 250 feet, at which point lateral work will be initiated for the purpose of developing the orebody. The shaft is a two compartment one. Consulting Engineers, Alderson and McKay estimated that there are 70,000 tons of lead zinc ore with an assay value of $20.30 a ton, the ore being 4 per cent. lead, 13 per cent zinc and $1.90 in gold and silver. The ore will be concentrated on the property and shipped to the nearest smelter.

Hollinger.

Recent developments at Hollinger Consolidated should give shareholders considerable encouragement. The Schumacher shaft has now reached its objective of 4,000 feet and lateral work is now under way with three shifts a day. Indications are that this highly regarded section of the property will receive intensive development.

A new and rich vein has been discovered on the 3,100 foot and 3,900 foot levels of the Schumacher property. Exploration and development of this occurrence is being energetically pushed.

Some 500,000 tons of broken ore, recently tied up by backfilling operations, is now available for withdrawal, and should show reflection in the immediate future in tonnage milled and in the value of mill heads. Any considerable development of the vein mentioned above should also have a very favorable influence on mill heads and earnings.

At any rate, the discovery of this vein should be particularly gratifying as it indicates ore at new depths for Hollinger Consolidated.

Newbec.

Our field man in Rouyn reports that the diamond drill hole on Newbec was down to a depth of 385 feet Sunday evening. The favorable ore zone is expected to be reached between the 400 and 425 foot horizon. Something of a definite nature should be forthcoming from the Newbec camp within the next 24 hours as to whether ore is encountered or not.

Calgary Oil Gossip.

Freehold is at 2030 feet. They are still in the upper Bentons and at present are drilling out a bailer lost in the hole.

Seneca are drilling 4875 feet in the Dakotas, and are also drilling up a lost bailer.

McDougall-Segur No. 2 are now reported to be in the lower Kootenays, although nothing definite is known.

Calmont are still fishing.

Advance is drilling at 3660 feet. They do not appear to be out of the upper Bentons.

Mayland according to a reliable report looks very promising. Latest information is that they are still in the Kootenays.

McLeod No. 3 struck lime Saturday. This company now have four wells in lime formation.

Okalta No. 1 looks very good. Offering of treasury stock taken up in full by directors.

DURHAM JURY FREES DRIVER

Small Child is Killed When Hit By Automobile—Jury Summoned.

DURHAM, Oct. 30 —When struck by a car allegedly driven by Harry Kohli, Hespeler, about 4:30 Sunday afternoon on Provincial Highway No. 6, six miles south of Durham, Beatrice Rawn, the 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elsmere Rawn, was fatally injured when in front of her home, and died 45 minutes afterward. A fracture of the base of the skull was sustained by the victim.

Mr. and Mrs. James Johnston, uncle and aunt of the little girl, were driving Beatrice and their own children home from Sunday school, and stopped on the highway opposite the Rawn gate. A northbound car obscured the view of Kohli's car coming south, and neither Kohli nor his two companions noticed the victim and Mrs. Johnston crossing the road until about 30 feet away.

Coroner Dr. D. B. Jamieson summoned a jury, who viewed the scene yesterday morning, and at the inquest held here in the afternoon before Crown Attorney Dyre a verdict of accidental death was brought in.

CAMPAIGN IS PLANNED

Y.W.C.A. Requires $25,000 To Carry On Year's Work.

WANT $1,500

A meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors and committee members was held yesterday afternoon in connection with the opening of the financial campaign.

Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner, president of the Association gave a note of encouragement and enthusiasm to the canvassers. The Y.W.C.A. holds a place of interested and sympathetic friends. Its work is well known near and far and Peterborough 'Y' is proud of its record in comparison with other Canadian Associations. Compared with cities of its size Peterborough has the largest, best equipped all-round Association and as enthusiastic a membership as any city, each department providing means of a four fold development for every girl.

The budget of the Y.W.C.A. is $25,000 and the Association is 94% self supporting, asking the citizens for only $1,500 each year. The Y.W.C.A. reaches beyond its income producing activities, to visit new comers to Canada, assist travellers, welcome girls into its club and its basketball league, assist girls to find employment, provide lectures, socials, educational classes, physical, intellectual, and religious, a well equipped library and is a centre for the girls of the city.

Miss Brownscombe, General Secretary, outlined some points to be remembered in connection with the campaign, asking each to complete lists as early as possible. Many subscribers now send in their cheques by mail and this is much appreciated by the canvassers.

Following the business connected with the campaign, tea was served by the finance committee. Interest, confidence, and a belief in the Association were expressed by members and the hope that the campaign subscriptions would early amount to much more than the objective.

OBITUARY

CHADWICK BLACK.

The death occurred in Toronto yesterday morning of Chadwick Black, father of Philip Black of this city. The deceased was well known in this city as he spent part of each year living with his son. Mr. Black was an old resident of the city of Toronto.

The funeral took place yesterday at McCaul Street Synagogue with Chief Rabbi Gordon in charge and interment was in the McCaul Street Cemetery.

The Chief Rabbi spoke of the deceased as a good, hospitable, noble, charitable man, possessing a good character, and living up to the Old Testament ways and the Jewish religion.

FRANCIS CLEMENT O'SHEA.

The death took place suddenly in Verdun, Manitoba, on Friday, October 26th, of Francis ("Frank") O'Shea, of Winnipeg, a former resident of Peterborough, and a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James O'Shea, of this city.

The late Mr. O'Shea, who was a native of Peterborough and lived here up to fifteen years ago, when he went to Western Canada, met death in a peculiar manner. He was motoring with a man friend on a business trip, when both were overcome with carbon monoxide gas poisoning. They were discovered, apparently asleep, in their car by the side of the road and were left there for some time until the authorities were notified. Had they been removed at once, it is thought Mr. O'Shea's life might have been saved. His friend, who was near a window which was opened slightly, is now in the hospital, in a very serious condition.

Survivors are Mr. O'Shea's wife, at his home in Winnipeg, and one daughter, Frances, also one sister, Mrs. W. A. Shoobert of Ottawa, and four brothers, Oscar, of Rockford, Illinois, Ewart of New York City, and James and Stanislaus, of Ottawa.

The body will arrive in the city on the noon C.P.R. train to-morrow and will be taken to the residence of the late Mr. O'Shea's cousins, the Misses Hurley, at 278 Simcoe street. Funeral services will be held at eleven o'clock on Thursday morning at St. Peter's Cathedral, with interment in St. Peterborough's Cemetery.

Around the City

The Bank of Montreal building, corner of Water and Simcoe streets, is getting a new coat of paint. For the past day or so, workmen have been busy on their scaffolds and when the job is completed the building will be painted a cream color with green window trimmings.

BIRTH.

CAREY.—On Monday, October 29th, at Nicholls Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carey, 87 Princess Street, a son (James Paul).

BIRTH

STOREY.—To Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Storey, 294 Mark Street, October 29, a daughter, Barbara Phyllis.

DIED

O'SHEA.—Suddenly, at Verdun, Manitoba, on Friday, October 26th, Francis Clement ("Frank") O'Shea of Winnipeg, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James O'Shea of Peterborough. Funeral will take place at 11 o'clock on Thursday, November 1st, from St. Peter's Cathedral to St. Peter's Cemetery.

NEVILLE HELPED PARTY FUNDS

Young Ponzi Declares Conservative Party Helped by His Estate

Fixes Approximate Amount of Assets in Toronto at $450,000, With $150,000 Cash—Wants His Creditors To Know the Facts.

MRS. LEE HOLDS BOBCAYGEON HOUSE IN TRUST HAS DOCUMENT TO SHOW HE PAID FOR IT

Charles Grant, of Detroit, Is Considered the Heaviest Loser From Stock Pools of the Young Canadian—Going To Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., October 31 (Special to The Examiner).—"A great deal of money" from the estate of Herbert John Nelles Neville went to the Conservative Campaign Fund, the former Toronto promoter declared to-day here, where he is held in jail following his conviction on fraud charges.

"I know exactly where it came from and where it went, and I can direct people to indisputable documents for proof," Neville told The Examiner."No receipts were ever made for it, and I think my creditors ought to know about it."

To-day the amazing young Ponzi fixed the approximate amount of his assets still in Toronto and vicinity as $300,000. "At least," he said, "there is $150,000 in cash. The total should all be accounted for to my creditors."

John Mitchell, counsel for Neville, declared to-day that Charles Grant, one of the heaviest losers from the stock pools of the young Canadian in Detroit would probably come to Chicago at once to arrange for the financing of a drive for an investigation of the bankruptcy proceedings and records of Neville in Toronto.

Obtain Money.

"We believe there is money there to compensate us for our losses," said Mitchell, "and we intend to inaugurate proceedings to obtain it."

Another statement of Neville's was [illegible] Lee only held the Bobcaygeon house, formerly one of Neville's residences, in trust, and that Neville has a document to prove that it was his money that paid for it.

Six definite names of people were mentioned by Neville. These Toronto and Ontario people, he claimed, had double-crossed him and had sequestered property not belonging to them.

"I wish Grant would come from Detroit," he said. "I'll give him all the proofs. There should be a Royal investigation of these things, but certain people are trying to stall it."

Throughout his evidence in Court, Neville attributed the source of his last hidden assets to Toronto. Taking up the story of his life from the point where he said he had begun to speculate in Toronto, he told of having become associated with Green & Company, then with J. A. Cameron & Company, Toronto.

Owned Firm.

"Did you in your own name own the seat on the Stock Exchange?"

"No, I was a silent partner."

"Did you operate the business on the floor of the Stock Exchange?"

"No."

"Who operated it?"

"J. A. Cameron."

"And were you a partner in that firm?"

"I was complete owner of the firm," replied Neville. "Mr. Cameron was a partner only by virtue of the fact that he was entitled to a share in the profits."

"How did you come to be associated with Mr. Cameron?"

"I went bankrupt in 1925 and had considerable assets. I had organized a pool in the stock market. I had a number of clients or subscribers to the pool. They became very uneasy when it could not be liquidated. They felt they needed protection. And notwithstanding the fact that my assets were far in excess of my liabilities, they had me thrown into bankruptcy.

"I refused to testify at any bankruptcy hearing or to give any information concerning my affairs, because it would have jeopardized the interest of myself, these various subscribers who had thrown me into bankruptcy, and men who were associated with me in the market. Finally, after threatening me with jail and every other device known to man, the trustee in bankruptcy, appointed by the court, agreed to accept $35,000 in bonds to be deposited with the trustee by my friends which protected all the creditors, who had anything to do with this bankruptcy proceeding, and I was allowed to carry on my business at my own pleasure and settle at my own pleasure."

Cameron Acted As Attorney.

"Was that the time J. A. C. Cameron stepped in?" asked State Attorney Ditchburn. "Cameron," replied Neville, "was then employed by me as my attorney. He was or had the reputation of being the foremost bankruptcy lawyer in Canada. At the time he became my attorney, I naturally confided in him all my affairs. I had refused to discuss the matter with any one else. But with my own attorney it was necessary for me to put all my

Barn Fires Increase Loss Shows Decrease

While there were 110 more barn fires in Ontario for the first nine months of the present year, the total loss was over $56,000 less, which would indicate that the buildings and contents were less valuable this year, or that fire protection measures were better, and that more fires were put out before the damage became serious. The barn fire total loss is the only one of the four major classes of risks listed by the Fire Marshal in his monthly report which shows a decrease, dwellings, stores and factories all reporting much more serious losses this year so far than during the same period in 1927.

$10,000 ACTION THROWN OUT

London Mayor's Suit Against Crown Attorney Judd Is Dismissed.

NO LEGAL NOTICE.

ST. THOMAS, Oct. 31.—The action for libel claiming $10,000 damages, taken by Mayor George Wenige of London against Crown Attorney A. M. Judd of Middlesex County, came to a sudden termination at the Assizes for Elgin County here yesterday afternoon, following argument on a motion presented by C. St. Clair Leitch, K.C., counsel for defendant, before a jury which was empanelled in the case.

Mr. Justice Logie dismissed the action with costs, on the grounds that plaintiff had not complied with the statute which requires one month's notice in writing to be given to the defendant before the commencement of such an action, and also that the action should have been heard in the County of Middlesex.

His Lordship said that the matter could be settled by another court (the Appellant Division), and that it would no doubt go there. "I dismiss the action with costs, and leave it to a higher court to say if it will ever be brought to trial anywhere, and, if so, where," he stated.

KU KLUX KLAN ORGANIZERS AT THE PAS

Knights of the Invisible Empire Invade Manitoba's Mining Town.

CARDS SENT OUT.

Mayor Says Let Them Come There Is Nothing to Stop Them.

The Pas, Man., Oct. 31 (Special to The Examiner).—Balked in Winnipeg, the invisible empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, has turned its attention to The Pas. At least three organizers have come from Regina, but it is learned that, to date, their efforts to form a branch here have met with considerable resistance. Reports of near fights with Klan organizers are spreading around town.

Police say they know nothing about them and are delaying action. Barney Stitt, Mayor of The Pas, told The Examiner he had heard indirectly that the Klan had come to town, but declined to discuss the matter until he received more information. "Let 'em come," he said. "There's nothing to stop them."

It is not known whether the Klan has signed any members yet on its first concerted attempt to "clean up" the mineral belt. However, several persons in town have been interviewed with the object of forming a branch, and the organizers have distributed hundreds of cards. One business man predicted trouble would result if the Klan came into the open and tried to start a so-called clean-up movement. The organizers are taking care not to appear in public until a further probe of the general feeling is made and instructions have been received from Western headquarters.

On one side of the cards being distributed is this inscription: "Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan. If interested wire organizer, West Region Headquarters, P.O. Box 363, Regina Sask.; Provincial Headquarters, P.O. Box 1571, Winnipeg, Man."

The other side of the card says: "Principles of the Ku Klux Klan: Protestantism, Racial Purity, Gentile economic freedom, just laws and liberty, pure patriotism, separation of church and state, freedom of speech and the press, restrictive and selective immigration, law and order, higher moral standard, public schools, freedom from mob violence."

HYDRO WINS IN INITIAL BATTLE

Southampton Council Reverses Decision and Will Submit Question To People.

DATE IS SET.

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 31—Hydro won the first round of the Bruce County power battle with invading American private interests when Southampton Town Council reversed its decision of last Saturday and voted 5 to 1 to submit a Hydro by-law to the ratepayers on Nov. 26. Councillor Bell was the only member to vote against the submission of the Hydro-by-law, while his brother, Mayor Bell, did not vote.

Thus will Hydro's 'Battle of Bruce" be fought in a municipality approximately in the centre of the disputed territory, to be watched with keen interest by Walkerton, Port Elgin, Wiarton and neighboring towns and villages whose power destinies are affected. A Province moreover, will await the outcome with keen interest, because Hydro regards this as the greatest thrust yet delivered at Ontario's big public ownership project by the private corporations.

The specific question to be submitted to the electors is: "Are you in favor of securing a supply of hydro-electric power or energy from the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario?"

Big Ship is Reported Near Coast of France

Was Expected Off Nantes This Afternoon — Preparations Being Made For Big Reception To Airmen and Passengers.

RECORD TIME HAS BEEN MADE BY SHIP ON TRIP STOWAWAY IS PROMISED JOB IN GERMANY

LEBOURGET, France, Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press).—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin informed Lebourget flying field late today that she expected to strike the French coast in the vicinity of Nantes about 7 p.m. Greenwich time (2 p.m. Eastern standard time).

Nantes is midway between Bordeaux and Brest on the Western coast of France and is on the direct line to Friedrichshafen.

Speeding over the Bay of Biscay to-day homeward-bound, the Graf Zeppelin was heading straight for Friedrichshafen. The big liner made rapid progress during the night, aided by powerful tail winds averaging 80 miles per hour at times.

German experts estimated that she would probably reach Friedrichshafen about four p.m. (eastern standard time) to-night, completing the homeward trip in about 63 hours, as compared with 111 hours she took in reaching the United States.

The ship was reported many times by steamers, and a message was picked up from her by the British Air Ministry. Latest advices indicated that Dr. Hugo Eckener planned to strike the French coast somewhere in Brittany, with the possibility that he might fly over Paris or even London.

Hearty Reception.

Burghers of Friedrichshafen arose early to-day prepared to give the dirigible Graf Zeppelin a hearty welcome on her completion of the first round commercial flight to America, although she was not expected to arrive much before nightfall. Crowds were coming from all parts of Germany, and so great was their enthusiasm that precautions were being taken for the safety of the passengers of the dirigible, who, it was feared, might be overwhelmed by the impetuosity of the welcome.

Ludwig Duerr, constructor of the Graf Zeppelin, was confident to-day that the huge airship would arrive at her hangar by 10 p.m. (4 p.m. eastern standard time).

Lighting facilities for berthing the air liner at night were inadequate, he said, there being only three comparatively weak searchlights at the aerodrome. He expected, however, to press into service the strong headlights of automobiles to make the landing of the dirigible possible.

The hangar was being decorated with flags and garlands to-day in anticipation of the airship's arrival.

The British Air Ministry announced to-day that a message had been picked up from the Graf Zeppelin indicating that the homeward-bound air liner was over the Bay of Biscay at 11.21 a.m., Greenwick Meridian time (6.21 a.m. eastern standard time).

To Welcome Stowaway.

Clarence Terhune, the American boy stowaway on the air liner Graf Zeppelin, will receive a hearty welcome to Germany, and can have a job if he wants one.

He will not be subjected to molestation by the police whether he receives a temporary passport or not. The Wurttemburg Minister of the Interior advised the Friedrichshafen airport officials to-day. "Treat the blind passenger in the most loyal manner possible."

The Leonhard Teitz Company, which owns a chain of department stores throughout Germany, sent this radio message to Terhune aboard the dirigible, "Offer you immediately job. Wireless your terms and time of arrival."

WATER MAINS WILL BE LAID

Utilities Commission Will Lay Two New Water Mains to C.G.E. Plant.

NEW BILLING

A meeting of the Peterborough Utilities Commission was held in the City Hall at three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, at which considerable routine, but no business of startling nature, was transacted.

A lengthy slate of communications was dealt with, among them being several relative to the Hydro Electric Power Commission purchase of motor generator [illegible] city, and a resolution that the sale be executed was passed at the meeting.

The new form of domestic and electric bill was shown, it being a more simplified one than that formerly in use. A resolution, approving an agreement with the C.G.E., was passed, whereby two new water mains will be laid on the property of that company for fire protection and manufacturing uses.

There was a request from the chairman of the Parks Committee for the election of four new lights, on steel poles and brackets, in Confederation Square. This request will be acceded to in the near future.

Mrs. Ralph Selby Struck By Automobile On Lindsay Street.

EXPECT RECOVERY.

(Examiner Correspondence).

DUNSFORD, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Ralph Selby, an old resident of this place, but who now lives in Lindsay, was severely injured one evening recently by a motor car. While attempting to cross William Street, just near Kent, she was run down and sustained a bad cut in the head as well as several minor scratches and a severe shaking up. Mrs. Selby is in her 82nd year, but remarkably smart for her age. She was taken to the Ross Hospital, where at first her life was despaired of, she remaining unconscious for many hours.

She is somewhat improved, and hopes for her recovery are entertained.

DEVICE IS INVENTED WHICH WILL REPRODUCE SOUND IMMEDIATELY

LONDON, Oct. 31.— (Canadian Press).—The Daily Express said to-day that a device had been invented which recorded sound and reproduced it immediately in full volume and with clarity and accuracy.

A short test speech spoken into the ordinary microphone yesterday came back with startling distinctness one minute after it was finished. It was recorded on a few inches of magnetized wire. No wax, chemical or other fixing materials were needed.

The device can be attached to a telephone and the entire conversation rehearsed immediately after it is finished. The paper said the device was the simplest, cheapest and most practical system of sound reproduction ever invented. It is the development of an invention known to experimenters for 30 years.

PROGRAM FOR TO-NIGHT'S HALLOWE'EN FESTIVITIES

Now For a Good Time, But Let Everyone Play the Game Fair—No Destruction of Property.

With the weather promising to be mild and dry to-night there should be a great crowd in costume and thousands of spectators. The parade will leave the Armouries at eight o'clock sharp, headed by the Rangers' Band, proceed along the route already advertised, and the final judging will take place at Brock Street Rink.

Immediately after the parade the Band will proceed to the Armouries, where there will be dancing until eleven o'clock.

This should be a great night for old and young, with everyone well behaved.

LOCAL HUNTERS PREPARING FOR HUNTING SEASON

Fred Jopling To Head Large Party in Parry Sound District.

AMERICANS IN PARTY.

Eagle Hunt Club Will Not Go On the Trip This Year.

The local deer hunters are packing their kit and cleaning their annual guns in preparation for the long trek to the north woods for the shoot. The deer season opens Monday, November 5, and the large party headed by Fred Jopling of nineteen local and American hunters leave by special car on the C.P.R. Friday. They plan to get to their camp situated in the Parry Sound district, about two and a half miles south of the French River, early so that they will be all ready for the hunt at break of dawn Monday.

The Jopling party is composed of Hugh Hamilton, Frank Owen, George Smith, Joe Aichorn, all of Youngstown, Ohio; Harry Hutchison and Russel Glass, of Cleveland; Thomas Brightman, Will Sherwood, Wood, Tommy Hooper, D. Dobson, Fred Dobson, Sam. McInnis, Fred, Jim, Harry, Walter and Bird Jopling, Clayton Telford and Tom Roberts of Toronto. The Lakefield party, headed by Geo. Spence and Dr. Gibson, will join the Jopling hunters.

The Eagle Hunt Club will not go to the hunt this year, but many of the younger hunters will go to the north.

FAMINE AREA BABIES SLAIN

Relief Authorities Describe the Conditions Existing in Shansi.

FLOODED WITH APPEALS.

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 31.—(Associated Press).—The China International Famine Relief is being flooded with appeals from the famine-strickted districts particularly in Shansi, where, it is declared, "babies are being killed because there is nothing to feed them with, and children are being sold for a mere song."

Thousands of persons are said to be living on the bark and leaves of trees. In addition to Shansi, the famine includes districts in Kwangsi, Suiyan, Hupeh, Hunan and Honan.

A magistrate of Yang Hsien in a letter estimates that there are 200,000 famine sufferers, owing to the drought and the devastations of the "Red Spears," a guerilla organization he situation in Shansi, the magistrate declares, is unprecedented, children being sold openly in the market by parents eager for cash. In Hunan thousands are on the verge of starvation, due to banditry, communist uprisings, the Red Spears and drought.

Mrs. Brown Mallough Found Dead on Chair By Kitchen Gas Stove

House Was Full of Gas When Husband Returns Home at Six O'clock Last Night—Little Boy Was Attempting To Get Supper.

DR. T. G. LOUDON AND DR. T. W. H. YOUNG WERE CALLED BOTH PRONOUNCE LIFE EXTINCT FOR SOME HOURS

Small Son Returned From School at 3.45 and Found Mother Sitting in Her Chair—Placed Shawl Around Her.

Returning to his home, 689 Water Street, at six o'clock yesterday evening, Frown R. Mallough found his wife dead in the kitchen and the house full of gas. Mrs. Mallough was sitting in her chair beside the kitchen gas range, and their small son David was attempting to prepare the supper.

Dr. T. G. Loudon and Coroner T. W. H. Young were called, and both pronounced that life had been extinct for some hours. The fact that the house was full of gas leads to the assumption that Mrs. Mallough died of asphyxiation.

It is said that their small son David, six years old, returned from school about 3.45 and found his mother sitting in her chair. Her hands were quite cold, and he placed a shawl around her shoulders. She did not speak to him, and he thought she was sleeping. He turned on all the gas burners and lit them in order to prepare supper. He then sat in a chair, and feeling drowsy lay down on the floor and fell sound asleep.

Awakening some time later he went to his mother, but she still seemed to be asleep, and he could not awaken her. He went on with his preparations for the evening meal. His legs felt funny, but he spread the tablecloth and cut some bread. Then his father came home, and it was discovered that Mrs. Mallough was dead

Smelled Gas.

Mr. Mallough on entering the home instantly smelled the strong fumes of gas. The whole house was full of gas. He immediately turned off all the gas jets, and all evidence as to which gas burner was leaking was destroyed.

Mrs. Mallough had only returned on Saturday from visiting her parents in Lucknow. She was convalescing from an operation for appendicitis, and had visited her parents for a rest.

Dr. T. W. H. Young is of the opinion that it is a clear case of asphyxiation. It is not likely that any inquest will be held.

The body of Mrs. Mallough was conveyed to Lucknow on the C.N.R. noon train to-day, where [illegible] will take place.

Lorne Macdonald, 20 Lock Street, manager of the Naborhood Shoe Store, is a brother to the deceased.

Brown R. Mallough is an agent with the Prudential Life Insurance Company.

Two Bank Cashiers Frustrate Bandits

ARGYLE, Mich., Oct. 31 (Canadian Press). — Henry Prentiss, cashier of a local bank and his wife are in hospital to-day as the result of an all-night encounter with would-be bank robbers. Two men and a woman called at the cashier's home and spent more than half the night trying to force him to open the bank safe. When told that the assistant cashier, Mrs. Herdell had the combination, the robbers after their breakfast in the Prentiss home, took him to Mrs. Herdell's home. There they met opposition and shot Prentiss in the leg. Mrs. Prentiss is suffering from nervous shocks.

PERMIT ISSUED FOR DWELLING

James B. Brown Will Erect New Dwelling On Benson Avenue.

COST $3,500.

While the total expenditure provided for in eight building permits issued from the City Engineer's Office last week was $2,265.00, the first two days of this week saw that total eclipsed by the first two permits issued, for they totalled $3,700.00. One dwelling and one garage will be built in accordance with those permits.

J. Brown, contractor for James B. Brown, will erect a dwelling on Benson Avenue, which will be 27 feet in length, 21 feet in width, and two storeys in height, and contain six rooms. It will rest on a concrete foundation, and the walls will be of brick veneer exterior, lath and plaster interior, with a finish of pine and basswood. Wood shingles will be used as roofing.

The new dwelling will be heated by means of a hot air system, and will be finished on or about May 1, 1929, at an approximate cost of $3,500.

W. West will build an addition at 622 Park Street to be used as a garage. Concrete will be used throughout, with shingles and asbestos roofing, and the cost will be about $200.00. December 15 has been set as the date of completion.

COAL ASHES RETAIN HEAT

Fire Chief Warns Citizens About Putting Alberta Coal Ashes in Boxes.

Fire Chief Gimblett has issued a warning to those using Alberta coal. The ashes of this coal retains its heat for a long time, and therefore must not be placed in a wooden barrel or box, but in metal containers to be on the safe side.

C.N.R. Earnings

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the week ended October 21st were $6,773,224 as compared with $5,399,135 for the corresponding period of 1927, an increase of $1,374,189 or 25 per cent.

Fifty Years of Church Life Retold

ZION CHURCH CELEBRATES ITS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Church Building Was Erected by Pioneers of East Seymour.

OPENED IN 1878

Only Eight of the Original Members Remain Connected With Congregation.

(Examiner Correspondence)

PETHERICKS CORNERS, Oct. 31. —Zion's fiftieth anniversary celebration, held last Sunday was a decided success. On Friday night there was a supper in Sentinel Hall and from that time until the services on Sunday were over and Rev. C. D. Daniel pronounced the benediction, the celebration was all that could be desired and the event will be long remembered by the people of the community.

The present church building was erected by the pioneers of East Seymour and completed in the year 1878. On October 27 of that year the church was formally opened by a supper. The festival held last Friday night was the first event of this kind held since 1878. No other event such as this will be held for another fifty years. Of those who were united with the Zion congregation when the church was build, only eight remain and these were present at the celebration, and are: Mr. and Mrs. William Petherick, Mrs. Alex Brunton, Mr. and Mrs. David Brunton, Thomas Petherick, John Arnold and Mrs. James Thompson. Another veteran of the congregation, Amos Barnum, has seen forty-four years of service with the Zion group. A list of ministers of the past were prepared by William Petherick and read by the present minister, Rev. F. G MacTavish at each service. Rev. Mr. Dingman was minister at the time of the opening and he was followed by Rev. Mr. Chapman and Rev. Mr. Browning.

List of Ministers.

After the Methodist Union in 1864 the pastors were: Revs. Dunkley, Tucker, Edwards, Williams, Courtice, Metherall, Sanders, Fusee, White, Metherall, Bunner, Hinton, Glover, Dahiel. Mr. Frost, a student, served during the illness of one pastor, while Messrs. Cravy and Anderson were students assisting when the field was linked up with West Seymour. Of the ministers named, only five survive, Revs. White and Bunner of Kingston and Bowmanville are retired, while Rev. Mr. Hinton is at Bobcaygeon, Rev. Mr. Glover at Smithfield. Rev. Mr. MacTavish spoke feelingly of the great work of his predecessors and hoped to be able to carry on the heritage which they handed down to him.

Supper on Friday.

After the supper on Friday night a good program was given in the church, with the pastor as chairman. An orchestra from Campbellford led by A. Hazell, played selections during the program. Beautiful solos were given by Mrs. Glover and Miss Meiklejohn and a much appreciated reading and encore by Donald Lloyd. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Clare of Norham, chairman of the Cobourg Presbytery, who brought greetings from that body. Revs. Glover, Daniel and Hinton also gave addresses.

The Sunday services were in charge of a former pastor, Rev. J. E. Glover. A very large congregation was present at these services to hear their former beloved pastor Rev. Mr. Glover took as his text, Hebrews 11:40, "God having provided some better thing for us that they without us should not be made perfect." He expressed his inability to give the real message of his heart on this important occasion, but struck the keynote of his text in the plea to the present generation to carry out the work of Christ, to build for the furtherance of that work in the future and so make perfect the great foundation of Christian faith, laid by those who had pioneered for Christ in this community.

SHEEP STEALING IN HUNGERFORD

GRAF ZEPPELIN IN MID-OCEAN FACING STORM

Germany Receives Reassuring Message Early This Morning All Is Well.

ONE GALE ENCOUNTERED.

Not Expected To Reach Goal Before To-night or Tomorrow Morning.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 31. — A message from the Graf Zeppelin giving her position at 5.30 p.m. Eastern standard time, last evening as 51.30 north latitude, 26.25 west longtitude, was received at the Zeppelin Works here at 2.25 a.m., local time.

This report confirms earlier radio messages from steamships showing that the dirigible had changed its course from due east to southeast. The new course would have brought her near the position reported by the steamship Westerdijk at 7.15 p.m., Eastern standard time.

Earlier reports yesterday placed air liner far to the north, well in the northern steamship lane, but other messages indicate that she was swinging in a southerly direction headed in the direction of the French and Spanish coast.

During the day the westward bound Mauretania, was in communication with the great ship of the air which is now completing the first round trip trans-Atlantic commercial air voyage.

Another ship, the Gervan vessel Munchen reported the Zeppelin stating that the airship appeared to have completed half of her 4,000 mile homeward journey.

All Is Well

While messages giving the exact position of the dirigible were rare, there was ample word, both directly from the Zeppelin and from other sources that all was well aboard her. Although she had fought a southeast gale for part of yesterday's run, she did not appear to have suffered unduly nor enough to arouse any apprehensions such as on her trip to the United States when a hole was torn in her port stabilizer by the wind.

The difficulty of determining the exact position of the ship was illustrated by conflicting messages received during the day. These messages all agreed in placing the Zeppelin north of the 45th degree of latitude which strikes central France, but differed as to how far north she was. Weather conditions suggested the likelihood that she would strike farther south in the direction of the Spanish coast.

A direct message received at Friedrichshafen late yesterday from the Graf Zeppelin said that at 12:15 a.m. Greenwich Meridian time (7 a.m. eastern standard time) she was in latitude 45 north and longitude 41 west. This placed her approximately 550 miles east and slightly south of Cape Race, N.F.

Averages 75 Miles Per Hour

At this time the ship had won her way through a low pressure area and had entered a more favorable region where she was able to average about 75 miles an hour. All was reported well.

Earlier in the day the Mauretania had reported that she was in communication with the Zeppelin. The Mauretania's first message placed the air liner in approximately the same position as that given by the Graf at the same hour. A later message from the Mauretania, however, gave the air ship's corrected position at this time as 52:30 north and 40:30 west. This would have placed the air liner much further north although about in the same longitude.

While the message from Friedrichshafen gave the more southerly position as coming directly from the Graf Zeppelin, a later message reported by the Marine Corporation placed the Zeppelin in the more northerly position reported by the Mauretania. The message stated that the steamship Catulin had reported sighting the air liner in latitude 52:30 north and longitude 37:40 west at 10:40 eastern standard time. This placed the ship about 730 miles northeast of Cape Race and indicated fair progress from the time of the Mauretania's report.

The ship is expected home tonight. Even then she may not be able to land, but will have to cruise around, possibly as far as Berlin until morning before being returned to her hangar whence she started Oct. 11 on her historic trans-Atlantic voyage.

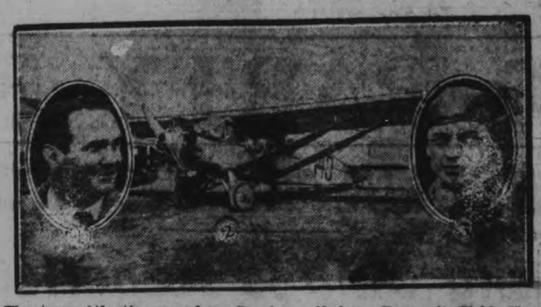
Boy Breaks Leg In Playing Rugby

(Examiner Correspondence)

BETHANY, Oct. 31.— While playing rugby at school during noon hour on Monday, Beverly Dawe, aged 11, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Dawe, had the misfortune to break his leg.

Dr. Hamilton upon examination found rather a nasty fracture and it was thought wise to have Beverly removed to Peterborough Clinic and he was taken there at once, where the bones were set and at present the little lad is resting as well as can be expected.

COLUMBIA IS READY.



The trans-Atlantic monoplane Columbia, which crashed two weeks ago while attempting to take off on a non-stop flight to Rome, was prepared recently for another attempt. Navigator Pietro Bonelli (1) and Pilot Roger Q. Williams (3) said they will hop off from Roosevelt Field, New York. The Columbia (2) has been entirely reconditioned for the flight, carrying 52 gallons less of gasoline than in the previous attempt, which failed because the plane was unable to gain altitude.

ST. ANDREW'S FOWL SUPPER ATTENDED BY HUNDREDS

Excellent Program Is Given By Three Leading Artists at Concert.

300 SEATING CAPACITY.

Clergymen From Neighboring Churches Take Their Places On Platform.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31 (Examiner Staff Correspondence).—Flossie Henson was the first of approximately one thousand persons who purchased tickets for St. Andrew's Presbyterian fowl supper last night. From twenty minutes to six till after eight o'clock the tables in the Sunday School rooms of the church were well filled with both dinner and diners. Much credit is due those responsible for the efficient manner in which the supper was served and for the excellent program which followed. The seating capacity of the tables was three hundred, and it was necessary to re-set them three and some of them four times. The ladies worked with all the skill and despatch at their disposal, replacing the dishes at the empty places while the men carved the fowl and cold meats in a small room off the main auditorium.

The program was presented by three artists, Mrs. Dorothy Stanley Windrim, soprano gold medallist at the Canadian National Exhibition, 1922; Mrs. Fred de F. Free, contralto gold medallist, Canadian National Exhibition, 1928, and Prynce Nesbitt, organist of St. Andrew's Church. Ministers representing practically every congregation in the district were present and conveyed the good will of their congregations to St. Andrew's, Campbellford.

Excellent Program

Mrs. Windrim sang three numbers, "Mighty Lak a Rose" (Nevin), "The Cuckoo," from "More Daisies" (Liza Lehmann), and "Danny Boy, an old Irish air, by Weatherly. Mrs. Windrim's singing was, as usual, very much enjoyed. The flute-like notes of her upper register, coupled with perfect diction and fine control, delighted the audience.

Mrs. Free sang, "Sink Red Sun," by Teresa Del Rigo, and "A Little Coon's Prayer," by Barbara Hope. The latter number was in direct contrast to the first, Mrs. Free singing it with subtle rhythmic effect that were particularly appealing.

As piano solos, Mr. Nesbitt played Durand's Waltz in A flat, and Beethoven's Turkish March. His pipe-organ number was the final number on the program and was greatly appreciated. Mr. Nesbitt's playing shows the result of much concentrated study and not a little genius. He also played the accompaniments for Mrs. Windrim and Mrs. Free.

On the platform were the Rev. D. A. McKenzie, Burnbrae, who officiated as chairman; the Rev. Lennox, Presbyterian minister in Havelock; the Rev. L. M. Smith, minister of the local Baptist church; the Rev. MacTavish, minister of the Seymour United churches; the Rev. N. Clarke Wallace, rector of Christ Church, Campbellford; the Rev. R. C. Tait of St. John's United Church, and Captain Purdy of the Salvation Army. At the close of the program, Mr. McKenzie read a letter from the Rev. James Grier of Lindsay and late minister of the Campbellford Presbyterian church. The letter conveyed his best wishes for the success of the fowl supper and his kind regards to his many friends in Campbellford. Applause marked the approval with which the letter was received.

SMITH COUNCIL HOLDS REVISION

Several Landholders Complain About Frontage Tax on Wolsley Street.

COLLECTOR INSURED

The members of the Municipal Council of the Township of Smith met in the County Council Chamber, Peterborough, on Saturday, October 27, at the hour of 10 a.m., for general business, and at the hour of 2 p.m. as a special Court of Revision to hear appeals against a special frontage tax to be imposed on all lots on the north side of Wolsley Street between the western limit of Benson Street and the western limit of Lot No. 60, as per registered plan No. 24 for Smith Township, in payment of a concrete sidewalk recently built opposite such lots as a local improvement.

Reeve Middleton presided, all the members being present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Harry Beal's personal appeal to have the roadway near the eastern end of the Fifteenth Concession line extended easterly past the first large water-hole so as to give ingress to a building lot on Clear Lake was promised to be acceded to next spring.

S. Bebee was present to discuss with the Council his extra charge of ten cents per square foot on the vehicular part of the crossings built by him on Wolsley Street owing to an extra thickness being necessary over the contract agreement.

Moved by Coun. Mullen, and seconded by Dep.-Reeve Coons, that Mr. Bebee be paid the sum of thirty cents per square foot for the vehicular parts only on the street crossings on Wolsley Street.—Carried.

Sheep Valuator C. E. Moore sent a communication to the effect that Leonard Wheeler had had one lamb killed by dogs on or about June 16, 1928, and that he valued the same at $8.00. The necessary affidavit was enclosed.

Moved by Coun. Mann, and seconded by Coun. Mullen, that Arthur Franks be paid for thirty-three rods of wire fence at fifty-two cents per rod.—Carried.

Court of Revision.

Council met at two p.m. as a special Court of Revision. There were seven owners present representing nine lots on Wolsley Street. There were four owners absent representing four lots.

The Court of Revision, after taking their oath of office, gave details of the steps taken up to the present stage in the building of the concrete walk in question, and gave explanations when asked.

There were no appeals written or oral presented, so the special assessment roll was certified correct and signed by the clerk.

The Council resumed to carry on general business.

Moved by Coun. Fitzgerald and seconded by Coun. Mullen, that Insurance Policy No. 11402, covering the tax collector against robbery be renewed from November 15, 1928, to November 15, 1929.—Carried.

Moved by Coun. Mann and seconded by Dep.-Reeve Coons, that a grant of $10.00 be made to the Peterborough Plowmen's Association for the year, 1928.—Carried.

By-law No. 864, providing for the borrowing of $729.75 upon debentures to pay for the construction of a concrete sidewalk on the north side of Wolsley Street, in the Township of Smith, from the western limit of

SHEEP THEFTS AROUSE MADOC TWO ARRESTED

Animals Have Been Regularly Disappearing in Hungerford Township For Some Time.

THREE FOUND.

Men Said To Have Been Identified—Four Sheep Missing.

BELLEVILLE, Oct. 31—William McCaw, Madoc, and Joseph Willett, Actinolite, were arrested on Saturday afternoon by Sergt. Clarke and Constable Hammer of the Provincial Police. They appeared in police court before Magistrate Mikel charged with the theft of sheep from James Trudeau of Hungerford Township on or about October 5th last. As the charge was an indictable one, both men elected to be tried summarily. C. A. Payne who acted in their behalf asked for one week's remand which was granted. Bail was arranged in two sureties of $500.00 each for Willett but the Crown asked for $2,000.00 for McCaw. "Other charges," said Crown Attorney Donnan, "will be laid." Willet secured his bail but McCaw went to jail until the bond could be arranged.

Quiet Investigation

Echoes of the famous Beeton cattle thefts were told by the provincial officers, who made the investigation and arrest of the alleged sheep stealers. Some time ago the notice of the department was drawn to the fact, that sheep were regularly disappearing from Hungerford Township. Last week James Trudeau lost seven of his flock and made a specific charge to the police, with the result that the hunt was on in earnest. A quiet investigation disclosed the fact that suspicion pointed to Willett and McCaw. On Saturday three of the sheep were recovered. Mr. Hall, farmer on the third concession of Thurlow, purchased one from Willett and McCaw for $7.00, killed it and hung it in Graham's Cold Storage. It was also learned that Charles Simpson, Thrasher's Corners, purchased two from these men for $18.00 and placed them with his flock. The arrest was then made and it is alleged Willett and McCaw were brought before Hall and Simpson and both farmers identified the men as those having done business with, not knowing the sheep to have been stolen. Four other sheep of the seven are still missing, but it is understood the police are in possession of information as to their whereabouts. It is further alleged that James Trudeau has visited the farm of Simpson and identified one of the sheep bought by Simpson as his, but would not be positive of the other. The men who purchased the sheep acted in good faith and have materially helped the officer in their work. No charges of any kind will be laid against these men and efforts will be made to reimburse them for the sheep that were purchased. Most of the thefts alleged have taken place since the first of October, but some farmers have missed sheep before that time.

PREMIUMS ARE REDUCED

Globe Indemnity Company Reduces 1928 Premiums for Road Insurance.

COUNCIL MEETING

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HALL'S BRIDGE, Oct. 31.—Letters from C. H. Fullerton with regard to the colonization road pay lists for 1927, receipt for pay lists and vouchers re grant No. 425 for 1928, were read at the monthly meeting of the Council of the Township of Harvey, held in Hall's Bridge on Saturday, October 27. The Globe Indemnity Company endorsed the reducing of the insurance premium for 1928 to $135.50. Gordon and Elliott were in correspondence with the council with regard to the assessment of the Dickson Company at Scott's Mills, lot 15, concession 8. The government having expropriated part of this property, they desire assessment changed accordingly.

On motion of Councillors Givens and Bennet, the Reeve was given authority to have notices put up on the Depot road warning travellers on this road that they use it at their own risk.

Wesley Hall was authorized to replank the bridge at Eel's Creek.

The Township Clerk was instructed to write George S Parlour, acknowledging check for $50 to be spent in conjunction with colonization grant on the 12th concession line.

The following accounts were authorized to be paid: John Jones, $5; John Jones, $1.90; H. A. Shearer, $16.25; H. A. Shearer, $9.12; Walter Mooney, $31.80; Robert Irwin, $5.65; Thomas Guthrie, $1.50; George Irwin, $1.20; Joseph Traynor, $3.20; William Moore, $5.50; W. J. Stockdale, $29.85; William Moore, $14.63; James Hill, $4; Nat. Pearson, $8.

The next meeting is scheduled to take place on Saturday, November 24, at Hall's Bridge.

The many friends of Mr. C. E. Bray will be pleased to hear that his health is much improved after his recent illness.

Mr. and Mrs. H. White of Peterborough were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Shearer on Saturday.

Mr. Harry Platt of the sixteenth line was in the village on Sunday.

Mrs. R. T. C. Dwelly of Young's Point, who has been the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Willis, has returned to her home.

Roseneath

(Examiner Correspondence)

ROSENEATH, Oct. 31. — Rev. H. Wilding, B.A., W. R. Coyle and Chief Norman Marsden are busily engaged erecting a fence and levelling the grounds around the war memorial on the Indian Reservation at Alderville. They are to have it all completed by November 11, when special services will be held in honor of the heroes who sacrificed their lives during the Great War in the cause of freedom and righteousness.

The young people of the United Church are holding a Hallowe'en party on Wednesday evening in the League Hall. This will be the first social evening with the new officers and help is needed to encourage and make the society prove successful.

CANDIDATES READY FOR FINAL DRIVE

Smith To Invade Maryland and Hoover Will Speak Across Continent.

ON EVE OF ELECTIONS.

Governor To Brodacast From New York—Republican From California.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Both Presidential candidates are working hard preparing for their final whirlwind campaign. Governor Smith's will carry him down the Atlantic seaboard to Maryland. That of Herbert Hoover will take him across the country to his home in California.

The final words of both will be to the great silent audience of the radio. They will speak on Monday night, the eve of election day. From Palo Alta, California, Hoover will talk for fifteen minutes over a net work of 72 stations. Governor Smith will talk for an hour over a radio network from New York.

Voters male and female alike are wondering if there is any solution of this strange jig-saw puzzle with appeals criss-crossing parties and the whole thing apparently standing on its head. Governor Smith supports the principles of the McNary-Haugen farm relief which has twice been vetoed by a Republican president. And Senator McNary, one of the authors of the bill, campaigns for Hoover. Democrats assail prohibition but Senator Sheppard of Texas (who drafted the Eighteenth Amendment) and Josephus Daniels, who introduced grape juice to the United States Navy, alike campaign for Governor Smith.

And to the problem of crossing issues is added another phase of the whispering campaign. Governor Smith has been attacked because he is a Catholic. Herbert Hoover has had to defend himself because he is a Quaker. It is now left to Senator Robinson, Democratic candidate for the vice-presidency, to have to respond to a charge that he believes in lynching. He declared in Illinois last night that Republican campaigners were seeking to portray him to Negro voters of the South as opposed to anti-lynching legislation. "I am as much opposed to lynching as anyone can be," Senator Robinson protested. "I have always denounced lynchings as criminal outrages. The colored people of Arkansas know this to be a fact. The effort to make it appear that I am antagonistic to the colored people is totally without justification."

ASSISTANT MANAGER

C. A. Henderson, formerly comptroller of the Willys-Overland, Winnipeg Branch, which has jurisdiction over the three prairie Provinces, has been appointed assistant to M. B. M. Bremner, who is the Manager in charge of operations in this territory.

Mr. Henderson has had a long and successful connection with the Willys-Overland Company. Some years ago he was cashier at their branch which was then located in Regina, Sask. When this branch was moved to Winnipeg, he was appointed casnier at this point.

Throughout Western Canada he is very well-known in automotive circles.

FIVE TRIALS FOR MURDER

Big Docket Before Courts When Montreal Assizes Open.

THREE MANSLAUGHTER.

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—Five murder trials and three cases of manslaughter will be among the twenty odd cases heard by the Court of King's Bench at the November term which begins formally Friday with the empanelling of the Grand Jury.

Of the five murder indictments which will come before Mr. Justice Wilson, two are against Giuseppe alias Vincenzo Scalla, alias Galla, alias Joe Hulleti. The man is accused of shooting two compatriots to death in a brawl in a "blind pig" August 16 last. One of the victims, who was known under the name of Luigi Patrizi was later found to be the Marquis Luigi Patrizi, son of the Marquis and Marchioness De Luigi of Naples.

Ernest Messier is another man who will stand trial for murder. He is accused of shooting his sweetheart, Rose Anna Paquette, on September 29 last following a quarrel.

Louis Beaule will also appear for murder. He is charged with stabbing to death Alfred Dumbrowsky in the butcher shop of Beaule's brother on August 31 last.

The fifth capital charge trial will be that of Joseph Chabot, who is accused of mortally injuring a woman with an axe and then setting fire to her clothing.

SEIZE JEWELRY

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press). — Jewelry valued at $40,000 was seized by armed men in several hold-ups. Three women were kidnapped for several hours in one of the robberies.

LONDON STUDENT MISSING FROM CITY

Foul Play Is Suspected By Parent of Missing Youth.

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 31.—Foul play is feared to have befallen Ralph McKay, 21-year-old University of Western Ontario student, who vanished completely Thursday morning. Yesterday his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McKay, arrived from Regina to direct the search.

McKay's disappearance is an absolute mystery. In the best of health and spirits, he left comrades at the Penman factory at 1.44 Thursday morning. He was seen eating at an all-night lunch a few minutes later. Police have scoured the city, but that is the last trace of the student.

J. K. McKay, a brother, is certain his brother did not vanish of his own free will. He scoffed at any suggestion of suicide. His brother was happy in his work and in his university course.

The student entered Western University this Fall. He has been employed for some years at Penman's, and plant officials willingly made arrangements for him to continue his job and go to university. He worked eight hours every night and usually finished at 2 o'clock in the morning. Then he attended at least one lecture and sometimes two at the university.

FAMINE CONDITIONS EXPECTED IN CHINA

Rice Crop in Many Provinces is From 40 to 60 Per Cent Below Normal.

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—Famine conditions are likely to prevail during the winter in the Provinces of Jupeh, Hunan, Kwangtung and Kiangsi, according to advices from Canton and Hankow. There is a population of more than a hundred million in the provinces, and the rice crop is 40 to 60 per cent. under normal.

OPPOSITION LEADING.

Eighteen Members Elected To Government's Six in Newfoundland Election.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, Oct. 31—With fourteen districts electing sixteen candidates yet to hear from, the Opposition party, led by Sir Richard Squires, had eighteen members elected to the Government's six. Sir Richard's election in Humber district was declared to-day. Voting took place on Monday.

The Opposition party of Sir Richard Squires overthrew the government of Hon. F. C. Alderdice, in the general elections Monday, it became known when results from twenty-seven of thirty-seven districts were received.

Squires now has twenty-one out of forty seats, and nine Government supporters have been returned.

TECO CLUB HOLDS JOLLY MASQUERADE

Members and Friends Spend Evening at Chemong Pavilion.

Last night the members of the Teco Club entertained about 250 of their friends to a masquerade dance at the Chemong Park pavilion. The pavilion was decorated with corn stalks and pumpkin lanterns. Music was supplied by "Ferdy Mowry and his music," which were the hit of the evening when they appeared in costume as "farmers." A large majority appeared in costume and prizes were given for ladies' fancy dress to Miss Ethel Johnston as Laura Secord; gents' fancy to Harold Coleman as a Spanish nobleman; ladies' comic to Miss Ruth Chambers as a Bowery girl; men's comic to Walter Johnston as an Etons College boy, and a special prize was given to Mr. W. MacPherson as Pigskin Peters.

Mrs. Forler, Mr. Dixon and Mr. Butcher were the judges. There were several novelty dances. The balloon dance was won by Miss D. Clarke and Mr. Sexsmith. Horns, whistles, confetti and hats livened up the party.

STUDENT FLIER'S MACHINE CRASHES

Skull is Badly Fractured in Fall and Sight of Eye Lost.

OTTAWA, Oct. 31. — (Canadian Press.)—R. A. MacLean, a student of the Ottawa Flying Club, sufferod a triple fracture of the skull and the loss of his right eye when the Moth aeroplane in which he was completing his sixth solo flight crashed near the Lindbergh Field Aerodrome to-day. The plane was badly smashed.

MacLean was flying at a height of 700 feet, when, in executing a glide preparatory to landing, he apparently pulled the nose of the Moth too high and lost flying speed. The plane went into a spin and crashed to earth, burying its nose in a farm field.

An official court, composed of officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force, will conduct an inquiry into the crash.

MacLean's condition was reported from hospital last night as being serious.

The woman named as Neville's principal agent in the pool operations in New York was Gertrude Lawson. Neville said that she entered into a contract with him for half profits. He did not know exactly where his copy was, but he believed he could find it. As for Miss Lawson, Neville says that he does not know where she is at present.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 31 (Special to The Examiner).—No further action in the bankruptcy court will be taken here to recover losses by victims of John Neville, following his operations in Toronto.

Toronto creditors have satisfied themselves that Neville has no assets, hidden or otherwise, in this city, in spite of his statements in Chicago to the contrary.

Lieut.-Col. Newton M. Young, who acted as counsel to N. L. Martin, liquidator of the Neville estate in Toronto, said to-day:

"We have exhaustively investigated the claims of Neville that he has assets in this city, but there are no assets. Whatever there might be is comprised of stolen money, and is liable to recovery by its owners. He has no assets because he didn't make any money. If there is money here it belongs to the United States creditors, from whom it was stolen. Consequently we are not re-opening the matter before the bankruptcy court."

Gayly Clad Youth Attracts No Attention

He walked down George street last night, a jaunty youth in conventional attire, as far as his torso and head went. He wore a fall coat and a felt hat.

His legs were piebald. One was encased in a covering of black silk, with pompoms of yellow, while companion pompoms of white trimmed the black of its fellow.

Under his arm he bore a package of laundry and turned into a Celestial washing place to leave it.

No one paid any attention to him or his variegated legs. It is the Hallowe'en season.

SEEKS REIMBURSEMENT.

Farmer Wants Pay For Cattle Killed By Dogs.

COBOURG, Oct. 31. — There are many demands made upon municipal councils in this district by farmers for reimbursement for losses. Clarke Township Council was approached at its last session by a farmer, who asked the Council to reimburse him for the loss of two cattle, supposed to have been chased and killed by dogs while in a pasture field. Council decided there was no provision of loss of cattle in such a way.

DIES FROM BURNS.

Woman's Clothing Becomes Ignited While Burning Stubble On Farm.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—Mrs. John Myrs is dead from burns sustained when her clothing became ignited while she was burning stubble on her farm near Essex. The roar of a tractor which her son was operating at the time drowned her screams and her plight was not noticed till almost all her clothes were burned.

Trent River

(Examiner Correspondence)

TRENT RIVER, Oct. 31—Communion services were conducted by Rev. W. R. Archer at the close of the usual afternoon services at the United church on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith and niece, Alberta Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moore of St. Thomas were recent visitors at the homes of Messrs. George and Charles Spencer and other relatives.

Mr. George Spencer has sold the farm he recently purchased from Wildman, to Mr. Walter Lewis. Mr. Spencer is holding an auction sale of household effects this week and will afterwards leave with Mrs. Spencer and family for Toronto.

Mrs. McLaughlin left on Sunday for Toronto after spending the summer and fall months at her residence here. She was accompanied by her daughter, Nell and son, Bill of Toronto, who spent the week-end here.

The tax collector for the township has been distributing the tax bills during the past few days.

It requires 100,000,000 miles of wire to run the world's telephones. Of this wire mileage some 68,000,000 are found in North America. Germany with 10,000,000 has the second greatest mileage, and Great Britain comes third with 7,000,000. Canada with 3,500,000 is fourth.

THE Y.W.C.A. APPEAL.

The Young Women's Christian Association is once more asking the citizens of Peterborough for the $1,500 necessary to give the institution a balanced budget.

When it is known that with a $25,000 outlay to meet the Y.W.C.A. is 94 per cent. self-supporting, there is every reason to feel satisfied that the organization is efficiently and economically managed, and that the small sum needed by way of subscriptions should be readily forthcoming in view of the manifold benefits derived from the association and its activities.

The Y.W.C.A. is a community asset of major importance that means much to the women and girls of this city, and the $1,500 aimed at in the present campaign represents an investment that offers rich returns.

A failure on the part of the community to meet the call would be decidedly bad business.

SCHOOL SPIRIT.

The new assembly hall in the Collegiate Institute is already justifying its creation, making it possible to develop a school spirit among the hundreds of students that was difficult to attain when the student body was divided between two buildings.

It is a splendid feature to have the whole school come together in the assembly hall each morning, a proceeding that enables every student to come into touch with school activities, and makes it possible for the staff to interest the pupils in various phases of school life.

In the days gone by there was no such thing as a school spirit in the local Collegiate Institute; it was simply a place to study, that was all, and interest in it disappeared as soon as the 4 o'clock bell rang.

There was nothing outside to connect the pupils and the school, no hockey or football teams to enthuse over, no competition against other institutions of learning.

The new conditions are much to be preferred.

Pride in one's school and in its achievements has an inspiring effect upon the individual student, usually leading to a resolve on his part to be worthy of his school and to contribute in every possible way to its prestige.

Collegiate students of to-day have many advantages in this respect and should be all the better citizens because of them.

COMMUNITY CELEBRATIONS.

It is worthy of note that the community Hallowe'en party idea has been adopted in Victoria, B. C., by the City Council and the Chamber of Commerce, who promise the children of that progressive city a wonderful Hallowe'en if they will forego the mischief and damage formerly associated with this occasion.

The civic organizations have adopted the scheme, not only to provide a community frolic on a large scale, but to prevent the injury to property that has always been a feature of Hallowe'en.

So far in Peterborough the expense of the local celebration has been cheerfully born by The Examiner as a community contribution, and it has been a pleasure for this paper to provide the prizes and the band and other features that go to make the affair a success.

The example of Victoria where the City Council has seen the wisdom of such a celebration and has helped to finance it should not, however, be lost sight of locally.

It would undoubtedly be good business for any civic government to assist in a function that helps materially to prevent property damage and to eliminate the need of special police.

A CONTEST OF PERSONALITIES.

Ernest Hamlin Abbott, a writer in The Outlook, New York, declares that in the present campaign for the United States presidency the contest has become more and more a rivalry of personality. He writes:

Issues run across party lines, but the character, temperament, fitness of each candidate has become more and more the direct or indirect object of debate. It is becoming more and more clear that the question for debate has been not what are you voting for but whom.

To get a picture of each candidate from newspaper comment means to fit together small fragments of comment and hint into a kind of mosaic. I cannot by this means pretend to make a portrait of either that would be accepted as a true likeness by both sides, but I can try to sketch some of the features of each as they have been drawn not by cartoonists, but by editorial writers.

Naturally Alfred E. Smith comes first. He has what is called "a personality," and yet of the two he has been the less known nationally. When the campaign began the editorial news-sense, which in this case was curiosity mixed with a sense of the dramatic, made him easily the more attractive model for the portraitists. Herbert Hoover was then in the background, but since then he has been emerging. Now it is Herbert Hoover whose features are the more fully drawn.

Here then are the two candidates as friends and foes present them in the columns of the daily press:

Smith.

Smith has personal magnetism; he has more personality than either of the two preceding Democratic candidates. Indeed he is comparable in this respect to Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. He is a colorful and interesting figure.

He has been, uniformly, against odds, a vote-getter.

In the rough and tumble of politics he has preserved his integrity.

He has proved his ability as an executive to lead in procuring legislation.

He is a friend of women and children, liberal, progressive, humane.

He is an expert campaigner.

In dealing with opponents he is fearless and good-humored, in dealing with facts he is fearless and candid.

By use of simple language, well ordered, he makes his views, even on complicated questions, clear to the multitude.

Though a vigorous critic, he is essentially affirmative.

He is in control of his own political course; even party managers find him stubborn.

At the same time he keeps in friendly contact with others.

He appeals to youth—even university undergraduates.

And his worth is attested by such a friendship as Franklin Roosevelt's.

But—Governor Smith does not know the country at large, and is uniformed about some of its major problems: the Northwest, foreign affairs.

He too often acts on hearsay, and, sometimes without knowledge, speaks intolerantly and attacks his opponent unfairly.

He has been childish in his resentment of inevitable gossip, and has not maintained the dignity the people want of a President.

Personally honest, he comes of a Tammany environment and praises the Tammany organization.

He is a slick politician.

He gets applause and leads the mob, like Bryan and Roosevelt, but lacks their fervor.

In his demands on his friends (example Franklin Roosevelt) he is callous.

And he has been forced to the defensive.

Hoover.

Hoover is a "stupid, fat capon."

Personally honest, he was in the Cabinet responsible for the oil and other scandals.

He has been studiously evasive.

Perhaps he is too high and mighty, or perhaps too sensitive for the hurly-burly of politics.

He has had no political training.

He has let his managers manage him.

He has allowed prejudice full swing.

His speeches are essays.

He has become a personality in eclipse.

He is an adding machine, and essentially a Puritan, showing no sign of imaginative political leadership.

But—Mr. Hoover knows the country; he has had a national experience.

More—an international experience.

He has had extraordinary executive training, and has served on every national emergency board.

He does not bluster or boast, but does his work, effectively and quickly. (Example, his method of ending foreign monopolies in rubber and quinine.)

His fame is world-wide—witness his string of academic degrees.

He is strong, decisive—even at times withstanding his campaign managers—and is not moved by clamor.

He is humane—the world's almoner in the war.

He has been almost quixotically loyal to Coolidge the conservative, but he himself is of liberal mind, and is an original thinker.

When he speaks, he speaks to command attention.

Youth follows him. (Proof, the poll of the colleges.)

He is a good sport—takes abuse without whining, and does not return slander for slander.

Though not by profession a politician, he has proved himself adroit.

He has built up a following of strong attachment to him.

He owes no allegiance except that to the inner light he follows.

A NEW ALASKA.

Very few people in Canada gave much serious thought to what might be the industrial opportunities of Labrador until the nation woke up one morning to find that its maps had been changed overnight by a Privy Council decision. While we had for years been tracing the boundary between Quebec and Labrador by means of a wiggly line following the sinuosities of the fiords on the Atlantic shore, we found that that part of Labrador owned by Newfoundland had become a vast domain. A new Alaska had appeared on our Eastern coast with the difference that this new Alaska flew the British flag. The loss of Labrador—for Canadians consider it a loss, although Newfoundlanders felt that there had merely been reiterated judicially what they had always believed concerning the boundary lines—was a sudden shock to Canadians. Only two years ago there appeared in a Canadian magazine an article about a trip to the Grand Falls of the Hamilton River in which the writer spoke of his trip into "New Quebec." The Dominion Government had sent a geologist there thirty years ago and had even granted timber licenses at one time, but these were mere gestures, and it cannot be said that Canada or Quebec ever made any real effort to bring about industrial or mineral development in Labrador or even to settle the land. We had hardly reached the point of saturated development in our other territories and had not got around to doing more with Labrador than making contributions to Grenfell's missions.

When we lost Labrador we began to want it. It was reported that a Canadian group of capitalists wanted to buy Labrador from Newfoundland. Rumors of a "merger" between Newfoundland and Canada became so pronounced that Walter Monroe, the then Premier of Newfoundland, issued a statement in March last stating that the Government had given no consideration either to union with Canada or to the sale of Labrador. Nevertheless the Canadian Senate discussed such a union and many favorable views were expressed. The discussion rather emphasized the fact that Canada had done little with Labrador while most of it was in her possession.—Financial Post.

A Thought

ROADS.

The winding path may possess more beauty, but the straight road speeds arrival.—Vision.

Is Much Red Clover Offered From Europe

IS MUCH RED CLOVER

Generally good crops of red clover seed in Great Britain and Continental Europe have resulted in increased offerings and lower prices to importers in this country. The seed offered, wholesalers state, is of very high quality and of a type suitable for Canada. On this account these offerings have affected the local situation and prices have been brought into line by lowering quotations to $11 per bushel for No. 1 grade; $9.50 for No. 2, and $8 for No. 3.

There is some uneasiness in regard to the price offered for alsike as cheaper prices for red clover in Europe will mean that it will be still harder to sell the exportable surplus of the alsike crop produced in Canada. There has, however, been no change yet in the quotations offered for this seed as well as for alfalfa and sweet clover.

The following range of prices, f.o.b. shipping points in Ontario, is being offered:—

Alsike

No. 1, 97 p.c. purity, per bushel	$10.00
No. 2, 96 p.c. purity, per bushel	9.00
No. 3, 95 p.c. purity, per bushel	7.50
No. 4, 90 p.c. purity, per bushel	6.00

Red Clover

No. 1 grade, per bushel	$11.00
No. 2 grade, per bushel	9.50
No. 3 grade, per bushel	8.00

Alfalfa

No. 1 grade, per bushel	$14.00
No. 2 grade, per bushel	12.00
No. 3 grade, per bushel	9.00

Sweet Clover

No. 1 bright quality, from machine, per bushel	$1.80
No. 2 off color, from machine per bushel	1.25

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 31 (Canada-Press).—There was some demand in the local grain market yesterday for Manitoba wheat for export account, and sales of several loads of No. 3 Northern were made at 6½c per bushel over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. Montreal. A fair trade was done in most lines for domestic account and the market was moderately active, with sales of No. 2 feed oats at 3c per bushel over the Winnipeg November option, and American cool sweet corn sold at 12c per bushel over the Chicago December option, c.i.f. Montreal.

Owing to the further weakness in wheat at Winnipeg spot prices for cash wheat were 1c per bushel lower, with sales of car lots of Manitoba No. 6 wheat at 99c, and feed wheat at 94c.

A fair amount of business was done in Spring and Winter wheat and values were steady.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continued good and the undertone was firm.

A weaker feeling developed in standard grades of rolled oats and prices were reduced 15c per bag. This was attributed to the lower prices ruling for the raw material of late and the somewhat indifferent demand.

The undertone to the fresh egg market continued firm owing to the good demand and the small supplies available. Receipts were 3,097 cases.

The potatoe trade was moderate and firm. New Brunswick Green Mountains sold in bulk at 70c and Cobblers at 65c, while Prince Edward Island Green Mountains sold at 85c to 87c per 90 lb. bag, and Cobblers at 75c per 90 lb bag.

Imporetd choice white hand-picked beans continued firm at $4.75 per bushel.

Butter prices were advanced ¼c per lb., which was attributed to the steady increase in the demand. Receipts were 158 packages.

There was an improved demand from English importers for cheese and a more active business was done with the result that a firmer feeling developed in the market and prices ruled higher. Receipts were 8,539 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 31. —(Associated Press).—All grain went lower in price yesterday headed by wheat. Big figures on wheat crop production, south of the Equator in particular, together with a halt in export demand for wheat from North America, tended to increase pressure to sell and to weaken the market.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsteady at one cent to 1⅞ cents net decline, with corn ¼c to ½c off, oats ⅜c to ¼c down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 45 cents.

Bread and grains and food grains alike finished at nearly the day's bottom prices. Traders took special notice of unofficial but authoritative estimates that Argentina and Australia, the two chief wheat-producing countries of the southern hemisphere, would have a probable yield of 288,000,000 bushels based on present conditions, as against 244,000,000 bushels actually shipped so far this season. Emphasizing this forecast was a late report yesterday that the main wheat section of Argentina has received benefit from rains, and that Argentine crop conditions in general are good, although bumper yields in Buenos Aires province seem unlikely owing to recent dryness.

In addition to the bearish crop outlook for the approaching harvest in the southern hemisphere, revised estimates of the wheat crop in the northern hemisphere pointed to a total world crop of 298,000,000 bushels more than last year. However, the yield of other cereals in Europe, aside from wheat is smaller. Meanwhile, Kansas winter wheat seeding was reported yesterday as practically completed, with recent rains just what was needed. No export wheat sales of any consequence were traceable yesterday either in Canada or the United States.

Apparent likelihood of a heavier movement of the new corn crop was a contributing factor in weakness of the corn market. Bookings of corn to arrive here showed an increase, mostly number four yellow to be shipped at once. Only a little corn export business was said to have been put through yesterday. Oats buying lacked volume. Provisions had a downward slant, responsive to lower quotations on hogs as well as grain.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Oct. 30. — (Canadian Press).—Hogs 36,000; market closed mostly lower; shippers took 5,000; estimated holdover 10,000.

Butchers, medium, to choice 250 to 350 pounds, $8.75 to $9.15; 200 to 250 pounds, $8.75 to $9.15; 160 to 200 ponuds $8.60 to $9.15; 13 to 160 pounds, $8.15 to $9.10. Packing sows $8.00 to $8.40. Pigs, medium to choice 90 to 130 pounds, $8.00 to $8.75.

Cattle 8,000; calves 3,000; trade on all grades steady; slaughter classes, steers, good and choice 1,300 to 1,500 pounds $14.00 to $17.50; 1,150 to 1,300 pounds $14.00 to $17.50; 950 to 1,100 pounds $14.00 to $17.75; fed yearlings, good and choice, 750 to 950 pounds $13.75 to $17.25. Heifers, good and choice 850 pounds down $13.50 to $16.50; cows, good and choice $9.25 to $11.75; low cutter and cutter $5.50 to $7.25. Bulls, good and choice beef, $9.50 to $11.00; cutter to medium $6.75 to $9.50. Vealers, milk fed, good and choice $13.50 to $15.00; cull and common $8.00 to $12.50. Stocker and feeder steers, good and choice, all weights, $10.50 to $12.50.

Sheep 14,000; sheep and lambs unchanged; feeder quality plain. Lambs, good and choice, 92 pounds down $13.00 to $14.00; medium $12.00 to $13.00; cull and common, $8.00 to $12.00; ewes, medium to choice, 150 pounds down, $4.25 to $6.75. Cull and common $1.75 to $5.00. Feeder lambs, good and choice $12.25 to $13.30.

BUTTER AND EGGS

TORONTO, Oct. 31—Cooler weather and better demand has made for a stronger butter market this week, and as indicated on Monday, prices firmed up again yesterday, with jobbers reporting sales at 39½c to as much as 39½c per lb, for specially fine goods, which is an advance of from ½c to ½c per lb. over last week's prices. Improved action in the market for finest grades has also helped to advance undergrades, and graded seconds and unpasteurized firsts are quotable at fractionally higher prices than at the close on Saturday. Lower grade butter is still a little scarce. At the close of trading on Tuesday a fair amount of business had been done, and the market in general was carrying a firm undertone.

The market on all classes of fresh eggs is now quite firm, and the movement of storage eggs into consumptive channels has been accelerated during the last few days. While no immediate change is reported in prices, the market retains its firm tendencies under light receipts. Dealers are quoting a wide range of prices to country shippers for fresh-gathered eggs for delivery for the balance of the week.

The Girl Named Peony By FANNIE HURST

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

And when he stood beside Peony, they both had the strange, wild beauty of two pagans drunk with vitality.

AN August, the enormous verandas of the Hotel Oriental were like a riotous peony garden in full bloom. Girls of assorted complexions, sizes and winsomenesses paraded its length in groups, interspersed here and there with men in white trousers and blue jackets, with sleek, citified heads. A magnificent summer-resort ocean banged and boomed at the foot of the terrace, and of perfect moonlit, mid-summer nights, whole bouquets of lovely girls in sheer, colorful frocks and men in white trousers and blue jackets, moved down to the beach and gaily embarked in sailboats.

Mothers brought their daughters to the Hotel Oriental from as far West as the Rocky Mountains and as far South as Mobile Bay. Wardrobe trunks overflowed in rows in the corridors of the Hotel Oriental. Forty-eight black waiters served three table-d'hote meals a day to the guests of the Hotel Oriental. Every evening at a quarter before eight, elevator-load after elevator-load of peonies of young girls were unloaded into the lobby that was filled with the scraping sound of the orchestra and the distant clatter of dishes, as three hundred summer hotel guests plowed their way through the nine-course table-d'hote dinner.

The Hollys from Mobile, Nicholas Holly and his wife Carrie and a simply radiant young peony, named Peony, occupied a two-room suite on the top floor of the great frame, rambling building. Three wardrobe trunks, a shoe trunk and a steamer trunk had overflowed out of their rooms into the corridor. Peony was more than the apple of her parents' eyes. She was a whole orchard in full bloom. She was the fairest, loveliest thing that had ever happened to these two good people who somehow found themselves her parents. She had a body like a young tree, the sap of life making her every movement fluent and full of grace. She had the loveliest eyes that her father, most unpoetic of men, always said were purple grapes washed in moonlight.

Her mother's chief delight was to shampoo Peony's shock of thick, curling, bobbed amber hair and then fluff it into place by running her fingers through it and through it again. She would have been a spoiled darling if Peony had been spoilable.

Somehow she wasn't.

With a mother whose every design was a worldly one; with a father whose considerable fortune, amassed in cotton plantations, was at her disposal, Peony remained the uncalculating little mistress of her own soul. It was said in Mobile that Mrs. Holly would mortgage her soul to obtain a desirable match for this only child.

It was known on the local cotton exchange of which Nicholas Holly was a prominent member, that he had made the overture of inviting the most outstanding unmarried men-about-town to meet his young daughter at dinner in the fine Holly mansion in Mobile.

The Hollys were frankly out for big game for their beautiful daughter. The trip East to the magnificent Hotel Oriental, with a flock of wardrobe trunks, was in the name of conquest. Carrie Holly wanted a son-in-law worthy of her child and her child's wealth. Nicholas Holly wanted it that way, too, but chiefly because it was convenient and because it was along the lines of least resistance to want what his wife wanted.

They were an attractive, well-dressed, healthy, wealthy and not-so-very-wise family, as they dawned upon that perfect hotel of veranda groups of young girls and noisy evenings of music, bridge-whist, black bottom, and banter.

The dream of Carrie Holly's life was realized. Suitors swarmed around the flamboyant figure of Peony, like bees around a honey-pot.

Within one week after their arrival, an enormously wealthy silk-merchant of New York, a prominent young lawyer of Philadelphia and the son of the richest man in Lima, Indiana, had proposed to Peony.

Carrie was all for the silk-merchant. He was forty-five and looked it, but in an iron-gray, interesting way. He had a slightly bald spot which he covered by brushing his hair sidewise. But his silhouette was the silhouette of a man of twenty-eight.

He traveled with two cars and a valet and he had tiger-orchids sent daily to Peony by air-route from New York.

It must be admitted that Nicholas, too, was impressed. Here was a match worthy of his daughter. He joined with Carrie in visualizing the largest wedding in the history of Mobile weddings and their subsequent visits to the twenty-room Park Avenue apartment and Long Island summer home of their daughter and son-in-law.

Then this is what happened:

Peony met and fell in love with a twenty-one-year-old life-saver who earned his summer vacation by watching out for mishaps along the beach of the resort. He was a young Adonis in build, naturally light of complexion but tanned to a rich cafe-au-lait by the long days on the beach in a bathing suit. And when he stood beside Peony, they both had the strange, wild beauty of two young pagans drunk with vitality.

They met on a Tuesday. On Thursday, they declared their intentions of marriage. For five hours, Carrie Holly lay in a semi-swoon of hysteria, her hopes crashed to earth, her ambitions shattered at a blow.

An upstart of a Life-Saver! A twenty-one-year-old boy who frankly admitted that he had selected the profession of life-saving merely because it appealed to him as a job, even though he knew there was no future in such work.

Small wonder that Carrie Holly swooned and swooned again while Peony stood star-eyed and beautiful with the man of her choice.

Secretly, although he never dared to admit it, to Nicholas Holly there was something superb about this youth of his daugher's choice. Life-Saver by profession! This great, big, six-foot youth, to whom the world was an oyster that he might open at will had chosen to be a Life-Saver.

It made Nicholas Holly, whose daughter could have married a multi-millionaire silk merchant, feel suddenly and privately enormously proud of the girl named Peony.

CONFEDERATION PARK IMPROVED

Cement Walks, Flag Pole and Drinking Fountain Erected.

MEMORIAL MOVED.

Incidental to the erection of the Peterborough War Memorial, new granolithic walks have been laid in Confederation Park. Leading from the memorial due east to where the Brown memorial stood, the new walk has been swelled at one section to allow for a new drinking fountain which has been installed and made ready for use.

The Brown Memorial, always a feature of the park, has been removed to a point on the north side of the park, and now faces on McDonnel street. A new flag pole has also been erected immediately west of the War Memorial, and in all, the park has been greatly improved.

NORHAM UNITED.

(Examiner Correspondence).

NORHAM, October 31. — Norham United Church held its anniversary services on Sunday, October 28. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with flowers and vines. The pastor, Rev. D. R. Clare, conducted both services. His subject in the morning was, "The Effective Church," and in the evening, "A Glorious Church." A strong evangelistic note was struck through both services. A choir of thirty voices, with Mrs. Ivan Denike as organist, supplied excellent music. In the morning an anthem, "Sweet Hour of Prayer," was sung, with solo parts being taken by Mrs. M. Peterson and Mrs. W. Campbell. A duet by Mrs. Harry Wilson and Mrs. Douglas Knight was beautifully rendered.

The evening anthems were "Nearer My God To Thee" and "Break Forth." Solo parts were taken by Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. H. Wilson, Mr. Richard Knight, Mr. Douglas Knight, Mrs. Arkles and Miss Florence Clare. After the offertory, Mrs. Grant sang a solo very sweetly. At the evening service, the pastor was assisted by Rev. F. Howard of Warkworth, whose church had very graciously withdrawn their service on account of the anniversary service at Norham.

NORHAM UNITED.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BETHANY, Oct. 31.—Rev. W. W. Jones of Millbrook was the preacher for the anniversary services of the United church, held on Sunday, October 28. He spoke morning and evening to a large congregation, and at the afternoon session of the Sunday school, gave a short and interesting address.

Some nineteen years ago Mr. Jones spent one year as a probationer on the Bethany Methodist circuit under the superintendency of the Rev Charles Adams, since deceased. As an introduction he mentioned these facts and how he has since felt that it was one of the happiest years of his life.

The choir under the capable leadership of Alfred Driver led the service of song which so helped to make the day a success. The church session asked for a thankoffering of $300 and were more than delighted to receive $323.

It had been decided earlier in the year not to have a fowl supper as was the custom at the anniversary but it was decided to have a concert. Rev. George E. Morley, elocutionist and entertainer of Toronto was secured for Tuesday, October 30, and Miss Alma Blanchard, soloist, of Peterborough.

At a meeting held recently of the Sunday School Executive Board, they decided not to hold a Christmas tree and concert, but to have during Christmas week, a sleigh drive and supper in the church basement and a social evening of games, etc., to follow.

MILLBROOK UNITED

MILLBROOK, Oct. 31 (Examiner Correspondence). — Services in the United Church on Sunday were conducted by Rev. A. Poulter, of Bethany, who had exchanged with the pastor, Rev. W. W. Jones, who was taking charge of anniversary services on Mr. Poulter's circuit for the day.

The anthem sung by the choir at the morning worship was, "Rejoice With Jerusalem," and appropriately preceded the sermon, for which the text was taken from Luke 18, 8: "When the Son of Man cometh, shall He find faith on the earth"

Referring to this as one of the several questions asked in the New Testament, which provoke thought and meditation, but for which no answer is given, the speaker further pointed out that the text contains no definite statement as to when Christ is going to come. Dealing with the subject of "Faith" under three heading, Pat Present, and Future, the minister showed that man has always been a religious being, believing in a future life and a Supreme Being; that though God may sometimes test His children by apparently failing to keep His promises, "yet progress and well being might be seriously retarded if God always gave us our own way; 'no' and 'not now' are just as real answers to prayers as an immediate granting of the petition: He always answers in kind, or in kindness."

"New revelations and increase of knowledge are for each generation, but faith in the fundamentals remains unchanged, and religion is too big, and too vital a thing for us to fathom, much less exhaust. Faith rests on this: that God is big enough, wise enough, and powerful enough to meet any emergency of our life."

"The faith of to-day and of the future, will be one of work, and not alone of experience; we are saved for a purpose, and the problem of the church to-day is to find the individual who, when saved, gives himself out in cheerful and useful service for others. With love in the soul, faith will be kindled to active service."

Speaking on the future, Mr. Poulter said that while it has been wisely hidden from our view, grace is assured for the tasks and the opportunities of to-day, and faith that expresses itself in Christian service will beget a greater faith, and the Christion life will prove a great endeavor; a splendid enterprise; a will to serve whatever conditions may arise.

Report Presented

The feature of special interest in the service was the presenting of the report of the Young Worshippers' League, and the giving out of the awards to the members who had attended twenty-six Sundays and over, during the year.

Mr. W. Fred Fallis, superintendent of the Sunday School, read the report, which showed over sixty names on the roll, and thirty-three who had been present at morning worship at least half of the Sundays in the year. It has been the custom to close the year on Rally Sunday, but this was impossible in September this Fall, hence the record ran five Sundays over time, but from now on the last Sunday in October will be settled upon as the date for the final report of attendance.

Fifteen years is the age limit for membership, but any child may be enrolled who is old enough to be brought to church at all; only attendance at the morning service is counted. The object of the League, which has been continuously in operation in connection with the United Church here for over ten years, is to fix the habit of regular church attendance firmly in the natures of the boys and girls. Only a simple award is given as an ecouragement toward this end; while many parents send their children to Sunday school, church attendance is not in their program at all, and there are a large number of boys and girls who would never be in a church service were it not for the Young Worshippers' League, and the books given as a slight reward for their presence in the house of God at public worship.

Many Awards

Twenty-eight awards were given out last year, and this year there were thirty-three boys and girls who came when their names were called and stood before the altar, while the secretaries, Misses Wilma Fallis and Pearl Burnham, distributed the books which were in readiness. Afterward, Rev. Joseph Wilks explained his "Junior Testmament Reading Circle," which now has a membership of seventy, and is continually growing, and led in a closing prayer. The list on Sunday was:

Marshal Fallis and Elwood Fallis, 57 Sundays; the special books given to these two boys, who had a perfect record, were donated by Rev. Mr. Wilks, whose intention it is to continue this practice another year, this being the second time, in succession, that he has generously made this provision; Mary Burnham, 54 Sundays; Helen Mitchell, 53 Sundays; May Ferren, 52 Sundays; Orval Bonneg, 50 Sundays; Marian Earle, 46 Sundays; Madeline McDowell, 45 Sundays; Bryar Edmunds, 44 Sundays; Bernice Smith, 44 Sundays; Allen Earle, 43 Sundays; Esther and Gordon Might, 42 Sundays; Martha Earle, 42 Sundays; Dorothy McDowell, 40 Sundays; Lenore Lambert, 40 Sundays; David Hatherly, Ida Lunn, Mary Ball, and Audrey Garside, 35 Sundays each; Arthur Howard, 34 Sundays; Marjorie McDowell and Annie McMahon, 31 Sundays; Charlotte McMahon, Gordon Muspratt, Kathleen Smith, and Margaret Smith, 28 Sundays; Beatrice McDowell and Dorothy Smith, 27 Sundays; Marie Douglas and Ethel Rowland, 26 Sundays.

Marshal Fallis had a perfect attendance last year, and with Elwood Fallis, again headed the list when the record was made up for Sunday. No member who has not been at church on Sunday morning at least twenty-six times during the year is given any award when the record is closed for the twelve months.

LANGSNER IN EGYPT

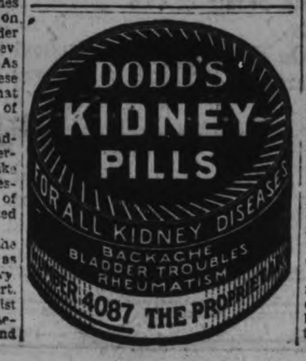
ENTERED LIFE OF CRIME BECAUSE GIRL JILTED HIM

NEW YORK, N.Y., Oct. 31 (Canadian Press).—William Taylor, handsome 20 year old Canadian, who claims that he is wanted in Toronto for murder told the police to-day, he entered in a life of iniquity and crime because "My girl in Halifax, N.S., jilted me and married another man."

Taylor told police that during the past month he has held up six or more speak-easies and card games, taking a total of $10,000 in cash and about as much more in rings, watches and other jewelry.

"What did you do with the money?" he was asked. "It all went on Broadway," he said. It developed that William found that the proceeds of a life of iniquity and crime "brought him lots of solace for his broken heart." He had plenty of friends on Broadway but none of them came to-day to bail him out or give him a lawyer.

The police arrested three other men charged with aiding Taylor and two Staten Island barbers who, the police say, served as fences for the loot, much of which was recovered.



OBITUARY

MRS. RAYCRAFT.

(Examiner Correspondence)

NORHAM, Oct. 31.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Raycraft was held from the home of her son, Mr. Walter Raycraft on Sunday afternoon.

MRS. JAMES HOSKINS.

(Examiner Correspondence).

STIRLING, Oct. 31.—The death of Mrs. Hoskins, relict of Rev. James Hoskins, of Stirling, occurred at the General Hospital, Winnipeg, on Friday, October 26th. The deceased had been in ill-health for some time, and in the early summer went West to visit her brothers and sisters. When about to return home she was taken worse and had to be removed to the hospital, where she passed away. The body was accompanied to Stirling by two sisters. On Monday afternoon the funeral service was held in St. Paul's United Church, with the Rev. E. W. Rowland in charge. Interment took place in Stirling Cemetery.

WALLACE BROWN.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

STIRLING, Oct. 31. — Wallace Brown, a resident of Henry street, who had been suffering from cancer of the throat for the last year, died on Monday morning last.

Mr. Brown was formerly a resident of Madoc township, near Eldorado, moving to Glen Ross several years ago, thence to Stirling about four years ago. Besides his widow he leaves a son and two daughters, Mrs. Alex Tanner and Mrs. Brooks, also a brother who lives in the west. The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, burial in the adjoining cemetery.

MRS. JANE MEIKLEJOHN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 31 (Examiner Staff Correspondence). — Word was received here yesterday morning of the death of Mrs. Jane Meiklejohn, Centre Street. For the past few days Mrs. Meiklejohn had been visiting in Havelock, and it was in that village that her death occurred. Less than a week ago Mrs. Meiklejohn held a sale of her household furniture with the intention of giving up housekeeping. Since that time she has been visiting friends, and it was expected that she would shortly return to town to take up residence. She is survived by one daughter, Robina, of Toronto, and three sons, David, of the homestead in Seymour East, Harry of town, and Stewart of Toronto. Her husband predeceased her several years ago.

ZION CHURCH CELEBRATES

the morning service, every inch of standing room was filled. Rev. C. D. Daniel, a recent pastor of Seymour, was the speaker at the evening service. He, too, found it difficult to find any words to adequately describe his thoughts on such a solemn and yet happy occasion. With true evangelistic fervour and the passionate desire for souls which always prompts Mr. Daniel's remarks, he launched out into a plea for help for those who are down and out, who have not the opportunities of his hearers, and quoted as his text, the words of John in Revelations, "Unto Him that loosed us from sin and made us to be kings and priests unto God our Father." Putting sin behind and overcoming all will within us through the Grace of God each one could become as a king which was symbolic of the highest in Israel.

HALLOWE'EN

Ghosts will walk, pirates forage boldly, clowns caper ridiculously and witches will cast their evil spells in Peterborough to-night, for it is Hallowe'en—but how many of them will appreciate the full significance and meaning of this night of nghts? Let us, then, look back in old files for the story of it all and find it, as written many years ago by F. M. Dela Fosse, librarian of the Peterborough Public Library.

Hallowe'en is, as we all know, the eve or vigil of All Saints' Day, which was one of the greatest feast days of the ancient church and still one of the more holy days of certain denominations. The vigil itself is coeval with the establishment of the festival of All Saints' Day or in other words, All Hallows' Day was established as a festival as long ago as 300 or 400 B.C. In the early days the Christians were accustomed to solemnize the anniversary of a martyr's death at the place of his martyrdom, but the number at last grew so large that it was found impossible to set aside a separate day for each, and the church, feeling that every martyr should be venerated, appointed a common day for all. This was the origin of All Saints' Day.

At first, only St. John the Baptist and those who had died for their faith were thus honored, but in the course of time, a regular process of canonization was established and other saints were added, so that today a mighty army of the dead is honored in the observance of All Saints' Day.

Religious Institution

We see, therefore, that originally, Hallowe'en was a purely religious institution. In the course of time, however, abuses crept in until to-day it seems almost to have lost the religious side and to be characterized by acts and ceremonies which are a mixture of classic mythology, Druidic belief and Christian superstition.

This is shown in the fact that in the British Isles and other parts of Europe, Hallowe'en is looked upon by many credulous people as the time upon which supernatural influences most prevail. The spirits of the dead are supposed to wander about, together with witches, devils and mischief-making elves and even the spirits of living persons are said to have the power to leave their bodies and join the ghostly visitants. Children born on this day are also looked upon as having the power of conversation with the spirits of the departed.

Druidical Festival

It is not hard to understand how the Roman and Druidical elements came to be incorporated in the observance of Hallowe'en. On November 1 was also the great Druidical festival to the sun, which the Druids celebrated in thanksgiving for their harvest. The Druids believed in the transmigration of souls and that on the eve of their festival, Saman, the lord of Death, called together the souls of those who had been condemned during the past twelve months to occupy the bodies of animals. On such occasions, it was believed sentences could be mitigated by means of incantations and propitiatory offerings through the priests. It was also one of the quarterly periods when the Druids lighted their bonfires in honor of Baal. This custom, it may be mentioned, was kept up in parts of the British Isles to a comparatively recent period. Wales was particularly tenacious of it and these fires were usually followed by feasting on nuts, apples and parsnips and by the celebration of games of all sorts.

If anything further were wanted, however, to prove the Druidical origin of some of the Hallowe'en observances, it can be found in the fact that in some parts of Ireland, October 31 used to be known as the vigil of Saman.

Hallowe'en is celebrated in the British Isles in a manner very different from that pursued in Canada and the United States. In the United Kingdom, there is much fun and merriment of a quiet and innocent character, and indoor games are very much in evidence, but there is nothing approaching the rowdyism which sometimes prevails on this side of the water. There is no wrenching of door bells, ringing of fire alarms, and taking of gates off their hinges. Gangs of youngsters do not parade the streets making night hideous with improvised musical instruments and kazoos. Much more might be written on the subject of Hallowe'en, but the reader must be referred to the library for further information which he will find in Chambers' Book of Days, Brand's Antiquities, Brewer's Curiosities of Popular Customs, and in the various encyclopaedias.

BETHANY EXPECTS ELECTRIC LIGHT

Names Are Being Solicited for Possible Consumers of Electricity.

(Examiner Correspondence)

BETHANY, Oct. 31.—Enthusiasm has run high in the village lately, as it is just possible that various homes are to be connected with electricity. Canvassers including R. McBride, W. L. Rowan and F. C. Dawe and others are out soliciting names of possible owners and consumers. The power is expected to come by way of Pontypool and Orono. Many of the new homes have been wired in the expectation of electricity being brought to the village. These include the Bank of Toronto, the United church and Dr. Hamilton's residence.

Cascara is Your Doctor's Choice

When physicians pronounce cascara the PERFECT laxative—why experiment with things that lash the system into action? Cascara, you know is the bark of a tree. A natural and and normal stimulus of the bowels.

The Indians, who used to chew this bark; had no word in their language that meant "constipation"!

Perfect regularity is possible today, and to all of us. We have cascara in ideal form; the very delightful-tasting candy Cascaret gives us pure cascara. It has helped at least a million people to habitual regularity. Millions of others, unfortunately, have stuck to stronger things and acquired only the laxative habit.

CASCARETS They Work While You Sleep!

Your first Cascaret will demonstrate how THOROUGH this gentle laxative is, after all. Your next surprise will be the length of time before you need another. Eventually, you'll see that cascarizing tends to make the bowels move thereafter of their own accord!

A modern drugstore must stock many laxatives, but for your own good the druggist would rather have you ask for the inexpensive little box of Cascarets than anything else.

BROKEN

A Story of Revenged Love., by Ruby M. Ayres

CHAPTER XX.

THE STORY THUS FAR:

GILES CHITTENHAM returns to London from the United States, where he has contracted a secret and unfortunate marriage, to help wind up the affairs of his younger half brother, RODNEY, who has recently killed himself for love of the notorious flirt, JULIE FARROW. In Switzerland he meets Julie Farrow, through his friend, LOMBARD, and makes love to her with the intention of spurning her in revenge for her treatment of Rodney. But, after he realizes that he really loves her, he finds out that she is a cousin of the JULIE FARROW whom his brother loved. He tells her the truth—of his mistake, and that, because of his marriage, he cannot marry her. He meets her later in London, to find that she is leading a wild gay life, and is apparently heartless One night Julie meets an older man, whose wife has recently died, named SCHOFIELD. He has just inherited a good deal of money. He decides he wants to marry Julie.

Schofield was humbly sure that he could teach Julie affection for him; she aroused all his protective sense.

In the morning, as early as he thought permissible, he rang her up. It took some time to get a reply to his message, and then it was Bim Lennox who answered.

"Julie? Oh, I'm sorry—she's not up yet! Who is it?"

"Lawrence Schofield. She told me I might ring."

"Oh, well—if you will wait a moment. May I give her a message?"

"I want her to lunch with me if she will."

"I will tell her."

It seemed an eternity till Bim returned.

"Julie will be delighted. Will you call for her at half-past one?"

"I shall be delighted also."

Schofield felt like a boy as he turned away from the telephone. Nearly fifty—nonsense! He was a young man, and in love for the first time. Like most men he believed that his latest love was also his first; he completely forgot nights in his youth when he had lain awake unable to sleep for thinking of the poor neurotic woman who had so recently given him his freedom, and the many miles he had tramped, tormented with the dread that when he proposed to her she would refuse him.

It was all over and done with; another chapter ended in the sad book of life.
